With recent increases in interest rates boosting stipends from the six per cent range to nine or 10 per cent, potential buyers are wary before they make a down payment.

"You have to consider that a three per cent increase means an extra $600 each year for a $20,000 home," said Mr. O'Neil.

"Broken down monthly, that means about $50 more which puts a lot of people out of the home-buying market."

Yet government is reluctant to finance the buyer. And why not when houses and apartments everywhere are being snapped up almost as soon as they appear on the market.

"Older people are selling their houses to move into apartments where there are no winter problems or cares," said Mr. O'Neil, reflecting on trends seen in the Quinte area the past few years.

Young people looking for independence and freedom are buying houses now, seeking to avoid the conformity and regulations of apartment-dwelling.

Noting that nearly all 136 suites in Belleville's first high rise apartment, a 14-storey tower on Sidney Street, were occupied before construction was complete, Mr. O'Neil commented:

"Everybody underneath the sun is looking for a place."

Mr. O'Neil has come a long way since leaving his Trenton teaching post 11 years ago. In 1962 he became a co-partner in Donald R. Fraser Real Estate, the name then changing to Fraser and O'Neil. Mr. Fraser has since left to take a post as director of planning and physical facilities at Loyalist College.

With 28 sales personnel, the company handily covers the area from Colborne to Napanee and Prince Edward County to Highway 7.

Three employees, including Mr. O'Neil, are qualified real estate brokers. The other two are Fred Nelles, manager of the Belleville office, and Brad Taylor, salesman in Belleville. Both are vice-presidents in the Quinte-centred firm.

Course Proposed

A former president of the Quinte Home Builders Association would like to see courses initiated to familiarize people with the multi-faceted problem of home buying.

Randy Loewen, president in 1971, suggests such a course could be planned in stages, beginning with instructions on cost and financing, followed by explanations of city regulations and eventually, construction factors and alternatives.

"Often a couple goes into a new house and sees, say, a bathroom with space in it. Their own bathroom might not have any space so immediately they take the house. But after they move in, they wish they had a split level or a second storey."

A course designed to acquaint potential home buyers with the variety and limitations of the industry would benefit everyone, including the builder, feels Mr. Loewen.

"After all, it is the major investment in most people's lives," he added.

Western Supplies Moving

Western Supplies Ltd. opens a show room in three weeks at its new 120 Adam St. location.

But while shoppers are invited to come in and look, they'll still have to go through a plumber or other contractor in order to make purchases.

Manager Bill McDonald plans to have a complete line of heating and plumbing equipment on display with knowledgeable friendly staff on hand to guide interested customers.

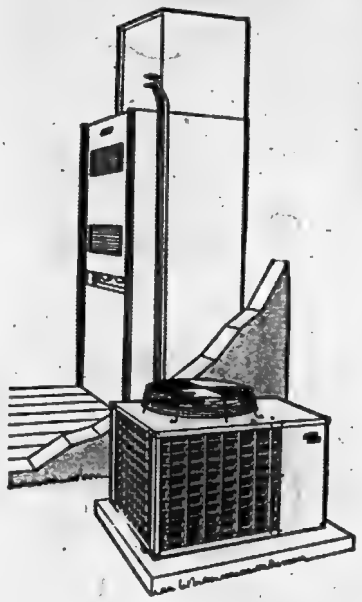
The showroom would not normally be of major concern to the WSL personnel since most of the company's business is concentrated on supplying the needs of building contractors.

But after six cramped years at 415 Dundas Street East in Belleville, WSL is elated to be able to make valuable use of the extra space.

The wholesale firm deals in a variety of home and commercial goods including bathroom fixtures, water heaters, domestic furnaces and boilers and the latest cottage rage, shower cabinets.

There is also a considerable stock of plumbing tooling and fittings available.

Originating in Edmonton — hence the name Western — WSL now has 35 branches serving builders across Canada.



Mr. McDonald came to Belleville five years ago from Brantford, one year after the company opened its local outlet. He has been with WSL for 17 years.

Realtors Assist When Moving

Consider this problem.

You are firmly entrenched in Belleville when suddenly it's announced that you have been promoted — to the company branch in Winnipeg. You've never been west of Toronto and finding a house to accomodate your family of six at short notice looks just about impossible.

There is someone with a solution. Just drip into A. E. LePage Realtors at 330 Front St., Belleville, and let he or she do the worrying for you.

LePage's is well equipped to handle this and other dilemmas. They have been in the business for more than 60 years since starting in Toronto, and recently they became affiliated with Coast to Coast Real Estate Service, a Canada-wide organization of over 100 realtors helping each other locate moving home buyers.

The advantages of such a service become clear as soon as you decide to move. Either through another LePage branch or through an affiliate realtor, your specific needs are looked into so that when you arrive at your destination, a salesman is all ready to offer you a selection of suitable homes.

An Employee Transfer Plan offers the same convenience as soon as the person involved receives his guarantee on the sale of his present home.

The broad network of offices also means homes being sold are on display throughout Canada. Thus the link - up service could prove advantageous to persons thousands of miles apart.

North Vietnamese Attacking Kontum

Nixon, Hosts Tackle Issues

MOSCOW (CP) — President Nixon and Soviet leaders, pushing toward the heralded arms curb climax at their summit talks, scheduled their third day of discussions in the Kremlin today after getting down to issues divvieting their countries.

Agreements on announced-in-advance questions are being forged on schedule. Such thornier problems as the Vietnam war and mutual reduction of forces in Europe obviously will not be solved here, inside as both countries may seek progress.

In keeping with the timetable for what Nixon has termed the most carefully planned summit ever held, the fifth in a series of U.S.-Soviet accords was ready for announcement today.

This deals with rules to prevent accidental confrontations between American and Soviet warships on the high seas. The subject, like the other past and prospective summit agreements, was carefully talked out by lower-ranking officials from both countries before Nixon arrived Monday.

On Friday, if all goes well, a two-part agreement limiting the deployment of strategic offensive and defensive nuclear weapons will be signed.

Left for last is the question of increased U.S.-Soviet trade, a thorny economic thicket unlikely to be raked clean here. There will, however, be an agreement to set up machinery for tackling the trade question in further detail, and possibly to arrange for moderately large U.S. grain sales to the Russians.

Nixon and Brezhnev concentrated Wednesday on European affairs in their summit talks, a Soviet spokesman said. He said both leaders stressed the tensions had eased in Europe.

These remarks referred to the non-aggression treaties West Germany has negotiated with the Soviet Union and Poland and the four-power agreement on the status of Berlin.

Both sides stressed these developments should form a basis for improving East-West relations. The Soviet spokesman repeated the Soviet view that a European security conference should take place this year.

Long Anticipated Assault Commences

SAIGON (AP) —North Vietnamese forces attacked Kontum City in the central highlands today, while U.S. planes bombed two power plants and a major bridge in the Hanoi-Haiphong industrial complex for the first time since the 1965-68 bombing campaign.

The South Vietnamese command said North Vietnamese sappers penetrated into the northwest part of Kontum and occupied portions of a Roman Catholic seminary, a school, the Thanh Phong orphanage and the home of the French bishop of Kontum, Msgr. Paul Seitz.

Other North Vietnamese troops attacked the air field at the northeastern edge of the city and controlled a portion of it for a time. But the Saigon command said by noon the Communists had been driven out and the field was in government hands.

First reports said two battalions of North Vietnamese troops, or several hundred men, attacked Kontum. But later reports indicated the force might be considerably larger in the renewed campaign for the present rather than a full scale assault to take the city.

The North Vietnamese also made new assaults on the northern front above Hue and on two sides of An Loc, a South Vietnam's second largest city. Heavy fighting was also reported on the southern front in the Saigon area as the North Vietnamese pushed further west ninth week.

Long before the North Vietnamese launched their offensive on March 30, U.S. officials said Kontum, a major provincial capital in the highlands, would be one of the first objectives. Quang Tri, the country's northernmost provincial capital, fell on May 1, and An Loc, another provincial capital 60 miles north of Saigon, has been under siege for seven weeks.

Field reports said five North Vietnamese tanks a mile to the Northeast of Kontum, turned their cannons on the city to cover the battalions infiltrating.

Associated Press correspond ent David J. Palmer reported from Kontum that North Vietnamese tanks, artillery and mortars bombarded the city, starting a fire in a gasoline storage area in a military compound on the northern edge of the town.

Oh God, Oh Montreal!

Policemen's Lot Not Happy One

MONTREAL (CP) — The Montreal police constables on ambulance duty in the downtown area rushed to the Montreal Forum Wednesday intending to give help to a man needing oxygen.

The oxygen was needed, but the victim was not what the two men expected to treat. Nobody had told them the patient was Sheba, a nine-year-old, 600-pound circus Eeeeee, who had fallen unconscious.

Constables Claude Daigneault and Marc Favreau arrived at the Forum with siren and flasher going. Circus manager Bill Jack led them silently to Sheba's cage.

"Quick, in there," he said.

Startled, the police officers said: "You want us to go in there with that."

Assured they were in no danger, the constables entered the cage.

Constable Favreau administered the oxygen, while Constable Daigneault stempted to give a heart massage.

With the help of trainers, the lioness began showing signs of reviving and, 45 minutes later, veterinarian Harold Soljed arrived.

Steps Out, Still Going

Nightclubs have a certain attraction for some, but one Belleville youth couldn't wait to get out of the fun atmosphere last night.

John Fernandez, 18, on a special pass from Collins Bay Penitentiary near Kingston, was in the care of a prison correctional officer when he, his father and a friend went to the Mad Mechanic nightclub in Belleville's Four Seasons Motel.

The guard later told city police Fernandez had left in search of a pack of cigarettes at approximately 10 p.m. He failed to return and as of press time, was still at large. Name of the guard has not been released.

He was serving two years, five months and 29 days for break ins and thefts.

Bomb Damages U.S. Consulate

Thirty Ships Burned In Harbor at Jakarta

JAKARTA (AP) — Sixty six persons were killed and 32 ships destroyed in a fire that swept through Jakarta's main harbor area Wednesday, police reported.

Two of the ships destroyed were owned by an American oil firm, the independent Indonesian-American Petroleum Co.

There was speculation the final death toll might be higher.

Police said frogmen recovered the bodies of 33 victims, some of them trapped inside the burning ships.

Port officials declined to speculate on how the fire started but said they found a leak in a pipe from an oil terminal near the harbor.

Losses from the fire were estimated at more than $1 million.

"Workers had noticed the leakage from the pipeline, but nothing was done about it until the tragedy," said one official.

The oil terminal was not damaged.

A police official said seconds after the fire broke out at dawn the "sea suddenly became a blazing inferno with people and boats racing to get out of range."

"But they were caught by surprise and most of them were either burned alive, drowned or trapped in their sinking ships."

RCA Has Radar To Cure Tailgating

NEW YORK (AP) — An experimental automobile radar system designed to prevent rear-end or "tailgating" collisions was announced today by RCA.

The radar, mounted on the front of a car, tracks the car ahead on the highway or in heavy traffic, recording distance apart and speed.

Eventually, RCA engineers said, the system's data processing circuits could be designed to feed signals to equipment that would automatically control the throttle and brakes.

The system therefore has the potential, RCA said, of preventing cars from running off highways into dangerous objects such as bridges.

RCA said the radar requires further testing but expects it could be mass-produced within five years at a cost to the consumer of $50 to $100 a car.

Expressway Opponents Called Reactionaries

QUEBEC (CP) — A transportation consultant says opponents of expressways are reactionaries rebelling against a North American habit of trying to get the most road for the least money.

Robert Smith, a Toronto engineer here for the annual convention of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities, said Wednesday in an interview freeways are not an alternative to rapid transit but merely an expanded component of the roads system.

Mr. Smith has conducted transportation studies for more than a dozen Ontario cities.

He agreed that expressways have split neighborhoods and disrupted communities within the city they serve.

"I'm afraid they've been very destructive in the past," he said, "and I'm afraid we're going to have to break some more eggs in the future."

Mr. Smith challenged what he says are widely held misconceptions that expressways will jam downtown areas with cars and that power groups in society benefit most from public transit.

He said downtown usage has a self-regulating mechanism by which the costs of parking and other factors tend to limit the entry of automobiles into downtown areas as these areas approach saturation.

To get to work, Mr. Smith said, many working-class people such as construction workers are almost forced to have a car and use the road system while more privileged groups make use of public transit systems which, he said, are generally subsidized by cities.

"It's the lower socio-economic groups that typically do not benefit from transit," he said, "and it's higher economic groups who are typically being subsidized by transit."

This was because the most highly-paid jobs in society were generally concentrated in downtown areas.

Wallace Makes Admission

He's Reached End of Speaking Trail

SILVER SPRING, Md. (Reuter) — Alabama Gov. George Wallace, partially paralyzed from an attempted assassination nine days ago but buoyed by an unexpectedly good showing in the Oregon Democratic presidential primary election, has admitted he had reached the end of the speaking trail—this year anyway.

"Sorry it has to end this way," he told reporters Wednesday from his hospital bed in Silver Spring, on Washington's outskirts. "There won't be any more speeches for you fellows."

Wallace, recovering from four gunshot wounds and with a bullet still lodged in his spine, met reporters for the first time since he was shot at a political rally May 15, at nearby Laurel, Md.

"I feel good," he said. But those who had travelled with him as he campaigned for the Democratic party's presidential nomination said his voice was not always as strong as normal.

He evidently exhausted himself from any public appearances before the Democratic national convention July 10, in Miami Beach, where the party will choose its presidential candidate for the November election.

His doctors have virtually ruled out any personal campaigning—even from a wheelchair should he never walk again. But he has promised to stay in the contest for the party nomination.

His wife, Cornelia, who was with him during the brief interview, and congressional allies will appear for him at campaign meetings.

Although he never was given more than an outsider's chance of ever winning the nomination in July, Wallace's fortunes took an agreeable swing in the presidential preference vote Tuesday in Oregon.

NDP Officers Go on Strike Against Leader

TORONTO (CP) — The 18-member executive of a New Democratic Party riding association in downtown Toronto has gone on strike to protest the Ontario party's treatment of its Waffle wing, the association's president said Wednesday night.

Wendy Fisher of the St. David's NDP riding association said in an interview the executive will not carry out many of its normal duties until certain demands are met by Stephen Lewis, Ontario NDP leader.

Duties being ignored, she said, include canvassing for new members, fund-raising and sending out newsletters.

The NDP provincial executive warned two weeks ago that the Waffle movement must be disolved or its members would face disciplinary action or expulsion.

Tourist Industry Said Best Potential for Area

TRENTON (Staff) — "Tourism could offer Ontario — and particularly the Highlands of Hastings — more returns faster than any other industry," commented John White, parliamentary assistant to industry and tourism minister John White Wednesday.

Addressing Highlands of Hastings Tourist Council here, Smith said "tourism is one of the best cash crops you can plant in the Highlands of Hastings." He said in 1970 there were 220,000 tourists visiting the region, spending $3.3 million.

He outlined Ontario Development Corporation incentives to the tourist industry, expansion by the province of overseas trade and travel offices and a program of briefing travel agents abroad on the benefits of Ontario.

However, the parliamentary assistant stated the future of the industry still rests largely at the local level, despite a range of incentives.

He called for a skillful marketing of available resources, urging an encouragement of travel by tourists throughout, not just through the area.

He recommended not just another but widely tourist operations in the region. "You realize, however, it's impossible to encourage this," he said.

Smith mentioned that an article in the United States about 80 farms in Ontario where vacationers may stay led to 600 requests. "Link in more strongly with this program," he advised.

He added, "when tourists arrive, you must provide unmatched standards. You must build a reputation of extras . . . you must do everything in your power to lure American and overseas visitors."

Board Cuts Some Costs

A fee schedule for out-of-county residents buying education from the Hastings board of education was adopted by trustees Tuesday night.

Fees for all five years of secondary school have dropped this year to $34 a month from $36. So has half-day attendance at a school for retarded children. Full-day attendance at a school for the retarded has dropped from $72 to $68 a month.

The department of education has picked up more of the cost this year, and the increased grant has allowed a decrease in rates, trustees were told.

Kindergarten still costs non-residents $6 a month for half-day attendance. Other rates are: grades 1 to 8, $15 a month; primary opportunity class $30 a month; junior and intermediate opportunity classes are $22.50 and senior opportunity class $18.

Non-residents of Ontario who pay no property or provincial tax, face stiffer fees if they want to send their children to school in Hastings county. Elementary school tuition is $51 a month, secondary is $114 and retarded children's schools charge $228 a month.

Air Cadets Strut Their Stuff

This team of cadets won the regional drill trophy at trials in Trenton May 14. They will be competing for the Ontario championships, to be held in Toronto next month.

"This year more than ever, I feel proud to be the commanding officer of 608 Squadron," Captain A. L. Foley told the gathering toward the end of the ceremonies.

He then announced a series of special scholarships to be awarded in addition to the trophies and recognition presented earlier in the evening.

Newly promoted cadet commander now acting WO1 Keith Watson, received the Air Cadet Lecture of Canada Flying Scholarship, and fellow cadets Flt. Sgt. Richard Scott, and Sgt. Kenneth Welch both received flying scholarships from the Belleville Yardmen Benefit Fund.

The trio will also attend an American Legion boys camp in Maryland this summer courtesy of the Army, Navy and Air Force Association.

Captain Foley also announced that Corporal Robert Turcotte will attend a senior leaders' course, and Corporal Richard Soucy a physical education and recreation course, both sponsored by the Air Cadet League of Canada.

Acting WO1 Keith Watson also received the cadet of the year trophy presented by 418 Wing, Royal Canadian Air Force Association president Edward Karlbeck.

Following general salute, squadron inspection by Lt.-Col. R. D. Nurse, CD of Air Transport Command, CFB Trenton, march past and the drill display, awards and trophies for long service, noteworthy contributions and special achievements were presented.

Air Commodore A. D. Ross (Retired) GC, CBE, CD representing the Air Cadet League of Canada, told the cadets "in the 10 years I have been coming down here, I have found it to be more enjoyable year after year.

"I want to congratulate you on your performance and steadiness," he said, "you've done a good job.

"You have a very impressive record and I hope the city of Belleville is very proud. You've made your Force Association president Edward Karlbeck.

Lt. Col. Nurse remarked he, too, was impressed with last night's showing, commenting on the future of cadets both locally and nationwide "this work is to foster training of youths and if these are examples of those who will be looking after the world, we've got nothing to worry about."

Following dismissal, static displays of past and future plans were opened to the public. Refreshments were served.

At the beginning of the ceremonies, martial music was supplied by the Army, Navy and Air Force pipe band under the leadership of Pipe Major Dougal McCamley.

Impressive List of Honors

WO II Keith Watson of 608 (Belleville) Squadron Royal Canadian Air Cadets, second from right, received an impressive list of honors and awards at the 10th annual inspection held at the Belleville Armories last night. Captain A. L. Foley, commanding officer of the squadron, left, announced WO II Watson's promotion to acting WO I and cadet commander, succeeding acting WO I Alan Rasmussen, second from left. He also received the cadet of the year trophy from 418 Wing, Royal Canadian Air Force Association president Edward Karlbeck, centre. WO I Watson also received the Air Cadet League of Canada Flying Scholarship and will join two other cadets at an American Legion boys camp in Maryland this summer. To the far right is reviewing officer at last night's inspection, Lt. Col. R. D. Nurse, CD, of Air Transport Command, CFB Trenton.

His Hobby Is A Village Asset

By THOM REYNOLDS
Special Correspondent

STIRLING — Palmer's Pond — the children of the village it's a place to skate in the winter but to the older residents it's a man's lifetime project.

Ernie Munro has taken the old swamp area that stood between Church and the CNR tracks and turned it into a pond surrounded with flowers and shrubs.

Mr. Munro purchased the land in 1936 for $5. He owned the adjoining land and was able to buy the swamp land for the cost of back taxes on it. When he first came to the village in 1927 he saw possibilities of turning the mudhole into a garden area.

He was born in Perth and moved to the village to start a box factory near the railway tracks. He was burned out in 1927 and moved to Norwood to start a new factory. He later moved back to Stirling.

For the past 10 years he has been working on his project to convert the swamp hole into a garden area. Digging the pond, using a tractor bucket, two to three feet deep was his first concern. Dirt was used from broken up sidewalks that were under construction at the time, he built walls around the edges of the pond.

The pond is fed by a seepage of water from the farm fields to the north of the village. He has built a small stream that runs any overflow of water into the town's sewer system. One last bit of work that still needs to be completed is a new dam. The old ones have broken up through the frost and cold weather.

This spring he noticed that a hole in the dam was allowing a large number of minnows to flow out of the pond. The pond has been stocked with a large number of muskrats and some bass.

For the last six years, Mr. Munro has kept ducks in the pond during the summer months. Most of the ducks are brought in during the spring by farmers.

The ducks are an important part of the pond, he said, "they keep the weeds down by working on the pond bed his pond up so that no scum forms.

"I'm more interested in the beauty than the property, the grass, trees, and shrubs than having flowers. But you have to have them to get the trees and shrubs," he said.

Mr. Munro has lived in the northern region of Ontario while in business with his box factory and has a love of trees. He always has a mixture of trees including sumacs. One of the most uncommon is the cork. Mr. Munro holds in his possession is the cork-tree willow. The tree originally came from Israel. The branches of the tree naturally grow crooked and Mr. Munro hopes to be able to make a walking stick out of a couple of branches off the three trees that he has.

The rich soil from the bottom of the pond has been spread around the grounds and has made very rich and fertile flower beds. He has planted many varieties of flowers in the beds that surround the pond. Mr. Munro has been a member of the village's horticultural society for many years and this year donated a number of rose bushes to be placed in public areas of the village.

When the sun gets too hot, or when he's too tired to work, Mr. Munro has a home-made canopy where he can rest. He has built a small covered sitting area that shows some architectural design. He started with a V-shaped construction and just built around it. "It's a good place to sit when the sun is too hot," he said.

His ideas for the project of converting the mud-hole into a garden area started really with a visit to the owner of General Motors in Oshawa, Sam McLaughlin's home. Mr. Munro visited the gardens with a busload of local horticulturists. "Mine is like his but I didn't try to emulate it and I never was able to spend a million dollars on it," he noted.

Mr. Munro has now completed his project but the pond didn't get named after him. The pond received its name from its next door neighbor,

Ernie Munro, Granddaughter Joanne

School trustees will reveal the results of their research on courses of study at a public meeting June 20.

The committees have delved into elementary school, secondary school and post-secondary courses of study and requirements, and will make recommendations for future action.

The meeting is open to the public, and people and organizations known to be interested in school curriculum will receive invitations to attend the meeting to make their views known.

I Didn't Know I'd Be In the Show

By KENNETH SMITH
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — Concorde go, two, three; one-eighty to go, seven, smoke on go, Dakota Arrow go, two three, four and five . . . threshold, threshold."

On the threshold of what? Nausea?

No — more like a dream. Seeing the Quinte area from an upside-down position in the back seat of a nemersaulting Red Arrow is not easy to adjust to.

The thought of leaving corned beef lunch from Libling's Kosher kitchen in Trenton behind in the spotless aircraft was a fear that existed first. But doggie-bags were always at the ready.

After a lengthy medical with an RAF physician and a certificate saying "fit to fly with the RAF", the old ego was feeling pretty good. Thwarting airsickness for a freshman participant is what reputedly the best aerobatic show in the world makes one feel even better.

There was only one great surprise: not knowing that going through all those seeming-breathless loops, rolls, close-turns and so-forth had to be faced.

It was easy to think that having a glimpse of flying in a Red Arrow would mean a quick circle out over Quinte Mill, but not so.

Advised beforehand by co-workers that life would be in the very balance, apprehension would be natural.

Eve Pildwar said the turbulence would do it; an accompanying aviarian reporter told of the horrors of G forces; the Royal Air Force doctor warned of injury to the ears but explained how to cope with the peril.

"Squeeze your nose, take a deep breath and let the air out," he had advised.

As the Red Arrow, tailed by eight more of them, raced for the sun and the ears began to pain, I grabbed my nose and . . . and realized it was covered by the oxygen mask. Boldly peeling off the mask the ear-saving advice was fast heeded. Mask back and gazing past team leader Squadron Leader Ian Dick, who has served in the great East-of-Suez military past at both Bahrein and Singapore and at 29 has over 1,200 hours of flying, there it was before my eyes, coming fast. The Belleville Road, the Murray Canal, Baker Island, Branch 110 Canadian Legion and all upside down.

Then, the nine converged, crossing each others' paths at a fixed point. Looking up, someone swayed . . . around and back — there's the smoke from the Point Anne cement plant, there are the miles of road construction that will be a Belleville-Trenton freeway.

Upside-down, right-side up, upside - down, right - side up as we buzzed the airfield at Trenton. Cars lined the sides of 401, trucks, too, hundreds were out along the freeway watching . . . More still lined the CFB Road" for this, the third practice show of the day, practice for Transpo 72, the international transportation exhibition in Washington D.C. that opens on the weekend, practice for shows at Trenton and St. Catharines June 10.

Since the Red Arrows moved into Trenton last Saturday, the airport has not been quite the same. There are Landrovers driving around with steering wheels on the wrong side, crimson-coloured flight suits, camouflaged support aircraft and those 10 Hawker-Siddeley Gnats for which all activity stops here — for reasons of airport safety but by welcome coincidence give thousands of people here a spectacular display of world-renowned aerobatic expertise.

Teachers Survey Authority Lands

PICTON (Staff) — Prince Edward County associate teachers have toured conservation authority properties here and will urge school trustees to consider a program of outdoor education.

William Franklin, science team leader at Queen Elizabeth school in Picton, said teachers met with representatives of the Prince Edward Region Conservation authority here and were assured the conservation areas were "wide open to the schools" and can be utilized by students.

The authority expects to provide walking trails, an access point and parking lots. Other facilities could be provided as needs dictate.

Several teachers toured the conservation areas with authority personnel and it was agreed "the tremendous versatility and capacity of the area was very evident."

In total, several thousand acres of PERCA land are available for use by county schools and are suitable for almost every outdoor activity.

Mr. Franklin noted that transportation has prevented a major problem since the outdoor education program was first discussed by teachers and members of the authority.

It appears that present transportation arrangements make it virtually impossible to take advantage of much of the potential available to us," commented the teacher.

Mr. Franklin observed that in recent weeks students have been using the Macaulay Mountain area for a spring wildflower survey and a bird-watching post.

Members of the Prince Edward County board of education will be asked to consider the question of transportation in relation to the proposed outdoor education program.

Conflict of Interest?

A letter on this page today recalls the recent allegation of conflict of interest against Mayor J. Russell Scott. Alderman Donald Soulter claimed that a storm sewer draining 37 acres of Sanctuary Development land — property in the city's north end part-owned by Mayor Scott — would drain an area of minimal present value and render it of immense potential value. Mayor Scott has said nothing in reply other than that he believed Ald. Soulter had received "poor advice" and that the situation was completely covered under section 36 of the Ontario Municipal Act.

A recent case in Thunder Bay, although not closely parallel to Mayor Scott's alleged conflict of interest, is worthy of note. It was in February when four city aldermen were unseated by a court ruling that their business dealings with the city were a contravention of the Ontario Municipal Act.

In a 15-page judgment, District Court Judge W. T. Hollinger said Aldermen Edgar Laprade, Hubert Bedard (Liberal member for Port William and a former Mayor of the city before its merger with Port Arthur to become Thunder Bay), George Loveday and Thomas Jones "are not entitled to sit or to vot- in the council . . . by reasons of contracts entered by the companies with the corporation (city)."

Judge Hollinger, while ordering new elections to fill the vacant seats, said he felt the aldermen had acted openly and in good faith. Moreover in an earlier judgment, at a January 13 court hearing, he had referred to "this stupid legislation," adding: "I don't think we have a guilty party before the court — the legislation is so poor."

With this observation in mind and while it was of no comfort to the four aldermen when they were bounced a month later, it may be that the law is ambiguous, not to say weak, and should be clarified.

Park Interlude

Every prospect — well almost — pleases in these summer days that have seemed so long in coming. The womenfolk in their bright outfits, minis and peasant dresses, look very attractive against the background of green lawns, multi-colored tulips and mystic pockets of shade.

Corby Park the other day was a milieu of almost sub-tropical green; there is little as yet in the way of flowers, but the sprinklers were busy providing life-giving moisture with the promise of growth to come.

While young mothers walked their babies a park employee clipped a hedge and another was up a tree, a rope for support. He was almost invisible, but we knew he was there from the crackle of falling branches.

A girl and her boy friend sat in a corner of the park, just inside the railing on William Street and the form of a pleasing water color of the park and the homes on Ann Street was rapidly taking shape under the deft strokes of a brush held by the young woman.

We said "almost" every prospect pleases . . . on the concrete in front of one of the park exits there were a lot of cigarette butts waiting to be swept up. The prime responsibility here is the public's, to refrain from unnecessary exhibitions of untidiness.

Answers Please

A memo to politicians on that very elusive election trail: how do you explain the grossly wasteful misuse of public monies in the service of Government, by the bureaucracy and by ministers, in defence ventures which become obsolete almost as soon as they are in service and in make-work programs at home which in many cases are of dubious worth and ultimate use? And what steps do you propose to take to eradicate this waste, so that eventually we might be able to dispense with the services of the Auditor - General whose revelations hitherto — and no matter how shocking in terms of Government extravagance — have been largely ignored?

The Trudeau Succession: Already There Is Speculation

By RICHARD JACKSON
from The Intelligencer's
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — It may sound odd but the Liberals already are in the market for a future leader.

And that is not really so strange.

Because the Liberals are a tidy, well-organized party, and always have the line of succession to the leadership if not blueprinted, then at least sketched in a preliminary way.

But there is another dimension to it.

Listen carefully and you may hear whispers, even among the Liberals — brave, bold assertions by the hopeful Conservatives — that perhaps Prime Minister Trudeau could have had the course, and that even if he goes one more term as party leader, that will be it.

So who is in line?

Three members of his cabinet.

Finance Minister John Turner of Ottawa, probably the favorite of the Ontario and Quebec MP's and backroom boys.

But Donald Jamieson, so efficient, with his vastly sprawling department so well-organized and under other persons' control that he makes it all look effortless.

So, being relaxed — or at least giving the convincing appearance of being very much at ease — he seems to have time to be himself.

Listen to him in the Commons when he is answering questions from the Opposition and the Liberal backbenchers too.

Courteous, quick, concise with nearly always satisfactory answers. If he does not know, he will find out and either see or ring the inquiring MP a note.

Like not long ago when an MP asked a question that previously had been answered. Some cabinet ministers might have cut down the MP with a sharp word. But not Don Jamieson. He knew why the MP did not know — having been absent because of family illness — and was quietly sympathetic.

To a question he could not answer briefly, Don Jamieson responded he would report fully as a Commons committee and have all his officials on hand with the information.

For five other questioners he had answers full and good enough he was thanked.

That is seven hits in seven times at bat. Not a bad average for one Commons Question Period.

Let the Liberals like him. The Conservatives, New Democrats and Social Credit regard a perfect him. And if he has detractors they have yet to speak up.

But help out one of three in line of prime ministerial succession, then does he think about it one way. Figures he can do more in Transport than in any other federal agency except perhaps Regional Economic Expansion.

That is what he prefers. But look what he is doing. Not just in his Commons and Transport job. But personally.

Since Easter he has been on a 1,200 calorie diet, and on two crisps of bacon and two slices of dry toast, that's all he gets, three to four ounces of meat with two vegetables, no dessert and he says and underscoring to shed another 20.

Why? Not for health reasons because his debtor tells him he was and is in first class physical shape.

Perhaps because, slimmed down, slimmed - almost - to the-dapper Don Jamieson packing far less weight could be a stronger, more appealing candidate up against John Turner in the leadership futurity.

Civil Servants Unruffled in Face of No-Strike Edict

By DON O'HEARN
From The Intelligencer's
Queen's Park Bureau

The Civil Service Association of Ontario hopefully is getting credit from the public for its mature attitude towards the government's no-strike legislation.

The leadership of the CSAO, the official bargaining agent for all Ontario civil servants, has really given leadership of high standard.

When it was faced with the legislation it early decided that it would not fight the loss of the right to strike.

And when it recommended this to a mass meeting of representatives from across the province it set a tone of reason.

It could easily have proposed aggressive resistance. It might even have been more popular if it had done so. But it remained cool and reasonable.

And by so doing it gave leadership not only to its own members, but to public service employees in other jurisdictions where the opposite of restraint has been the practice.

The association leadership is opposing other conditions in the legislation and it is not detracting at all from its responsible image by doing this. For it has good grounds for objection.

Essentially the only bargaining right it gives the civil service is power to negotiate on money matters and hours of work.

Specifically excluded is a long list of matters including work methods and procedures, discipline and termination of employment, job evaluation and merit systems.

Many of the laboured questions on this list now normally are open for negotiations in bargaining agreements in the private sector.

And by trying to refuse them to its Crown employees the government appears to be short-sighted.

It is true that perhaps a good case can be made for not including many of the matters in bargaining.

In the private sector, for example, some of them have led to featherbedding, and to weakening of management control.

And it has to be granted that if they are conceded now in this ball mark legislation it would be difficult, if not impossible, to ever take them back in the future.

But to grant them would not be a devastating concession. It would be something that could be lived with.

It is going further than most governments in Canada with its complete ban on strikes. Even some of its own supporters believe that the prohibition should be limited to essential services.

It has had a remarkably good relationship over the years with its employees and the CSAO.

Good faith is the essence of all good industrial relations.

It could have been wise to have granted a bit more. And here is due credit to the CSAO for objection.

LOOKING BACKWARD

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO
May 23, 1952

To see the national capital and watch the government in operation makes you proud to be a Canadian was the way Bob Langlois, son of W. L. Landois, MacDonald Ave., summed up his four day visit to Ottawa as a guest of the Rotary Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Allan Boate were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ken Stevenson, Johnstown.

Mrs. F. Elliott, Plainfield, entertained 52 graduating nurses and friends from the Belleville General Hospital.

Yesterday a stranger walked into Red Cross headquarters located in the Rigan Garage, Pinnacle St. and quietly laid $50 on the table. "I am Mr. Fred Sims of the Sims Shows now playing a year city," he said, "and I would like to make this cash contribution. "Not only this," he said, "but I shall also donate ten per cent of the receipts taken at my shows in this fine, cause."

A very enjoyable birthday party was held last evening in the Oddfellows Hall, it being the 40th anniversary of the founding of the Rebekah Lodge in Belleville. Visitors were present from Stirling, Tweed, Trenton, Madoc and Oshawa.

Nineteen Years ago the first delivery of mail by carriers commenced in this city. The first delivery was accomplished with much difficulty; letters were not addressed in streets and numbers and it was a great task looking up the many addresses in the city directory and from other sources. At eleven o'clock in the morning the letter carriers started on their route. And the last carrier finished his route at 8.30 in the evening. The carriers and some prominent citizens were grouped upon the post office steps on Bridge St. and a photograph was taken. Those in the group besides the carriers were: Mayor J. F. Wills, Wesley Bullen, H. Soeyd, William Wallace, J. W. Johnson, Postmaster Alfred Gillen, Lt.-Col. W. N. Ponton, ex-Postmaster John Taylor, John Elliott, W. N. Riggs, John A. Kerr, M. B. Morrison, H. # Alderman Soulter's Charge

Editor,
The Intelligencer,

A few weeks ago the usual tranquility of the city council chamber was shattered as Alderman Donald Soulter levelled charges of conflict of interest against Mayor J. Russell Scott. Since then — silence.

From the allegations made by Alderman Soulter it appeared he was under the impression that the mayor and a local developer were in some form of partnership and concerned together in what could turn out to be a multi-million dollar enterprise.

For his part Mayor Scott denied the allegations and seemed to feel he was above reproach and adequately protected by a section of the Municipal Act.

Nevertheless a quite serious charge has been made and denied without any public expose are whereby the electors of this city can form their own opinion as to what did go on, if anything.

This type of situation cannot and should not be allowed to exist within the ranks of our local governing body. Public faith in the conduct of the city's elected officials and the operation of the city business must be preserved. This is an election year and most of us would like to elect the candidate of our choice, without having to ponder the questions raised by Alderman Soulter's allegations.

As I see it, Alderman Soulter should now proceed either to establish his case publicly or withdraw his allegation. If he is unable to substantiate his claim the honorable thing to do is resign from council. If Alderman Soulter puts a case that the Mayor is unable to refute then the honorable thing for the Mayor to do is resign.

As a taxpayer, voter and resident of the city I object to being played for a sucker so let us not sweep this incident under the council rug hoping that by election time it will have been forgotten. The electors have a right to an answer, so gentlemen, let us have one.

Nigerian Conflict

By JOHN HARBRON
Foreign Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

The post-mortems of the tragic and brutal Nigerian civil war are beginning to appear. Remember Biafra and its dying children and the grinding circle of Nigeria's civil war?

Since then, we've read and heard of more civil wars, just as brutal, in East Pakistan, now Bangladesh, and the Sudan. Again the poignant pictures of starving and bloated children, the reports of staggering brutality of warring armies.

Post-mortems are published to reveal what really went on behind the scenes. Few post-mortems of past wars are pretty documents. The new crop about Nigeria's recent civil war are no different.

Colonel Ojukwu, the millionaire former Biafran military president, plotted a global public relations campaign to play on the world's sympathies. He allegedly prolonged the war and his people's sufferings by reducing the staff capacity into Biafra to a single vulnerable runway.

He is also alleged to have played off the willing missionaries against each other, both the residents and the newcomers who did more to help thousands of Biafrans than his own rebel administration.

On the Nigerian federal side, Britain's sordid role in supporting Nigerian federalism to the detriment of stopping British arms going to Lagos and ending the war earlier, is again spotlighted.

What the open and official British hostility to Biafra? It was because Nigeria was a testament of contentious postwar African states, emphasized the post-colonial disasters and dismal record in Africa. It had stayed united in a bloody encounter to 1966 as the largest country in the continent geographically and in terms of population.

The official Canadian attitude opposing Biafra's cause wasn't too different from the British at the start of the civil war. The Trudeau government in 1969 saw overtones of a future and separatist Quebec reflected there if it gave aid and comfort to a breakaway province in Nigeria.

After all, the constitution of the Nigerian federal state was created in part by Canadian constitutional experts, some what on the original Canadian model of 1867. As we know, this was supposed to give equal benefits before the law to our two founding races.

In Nigeria there were, and still are, three major economic and racial regions. These are the Ibos in the south-east, the Ibos in Eastern Nigeria and the Hausas in the north, Yorubas and Ijaws have their substantial Christian influence.

The Hausas are strict Moslems. Like the Ibos, they are aggressive traders and businessmen.

A few lesser emotional, economic post-mortems dealing with economics are coming. The former Biafra has bounced back surprisingly quickly. The Nigerian federal government at Lagos has been surprisingly forgiving. Many senior Ibos who quit it to join Colonel Ojukwu's former rebel state have been back in their senior posts again.

But the studies about that war remind us that no matter how a civil war heal very slowly. Some, in fact, never do.

Franking Not Protested

Ottawa Journal

We're surprised and somewhat disappointed that MPs have taken so matter-of-factly the reports that Health Minister Munro used his free mailing privileges to send out blatantly political material to thousands of his constituents. The lack of public concern at such a misuse of the mails must have left many Canadians wondering how many other MPs do the same thing.

The "franking" privileges should not have to be strictly regulated. For one thing, it is often impossible to separate the MP from the political candidate. When, for instance, does an MP's regular newsletter to his constituents become an election campaign device? Does an MP send Christmas cards as a member of the House of Commons or as a future candidate for office? Postal regulations cannot cover such situations, nor should post office officials be required to police MPs to such an extent.

We suspect that many MPs recognize the need for safeguards against misuse of mailing privileges. But here a minister is charged, in a flagrant abuse of good judgment and the matter is not so much as raised in the Commons. Guilty consciences, perhaps?

Senior Citizen Housing Survey to Be Repeated

By MARGARET HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — A second survey to determine the need for senior citizen housing in Prince Edward will be conducted probably within the next 30 days at the suggestion of county council.

Councillors generally agreed Tuesday that the initial survey conducted several months ago apparently confused many older persons.

John Burkiss, director of corporate planning and research for the Ontario Housing Corporation last night explained an earlier survey made in the county indicated a need for 21 self - contained one-bedroom apartment units.

Only one Prince Edward resident expressed interest in a proposal for hostel units which would provide a bed-sitting room with meals served in a cafeteria.

Several county councillors agreed the initial survey received poor response locally because of apparent confusion surrounding its implications.

Hallowell reeve George Vincent said some senior citizens felt that if they filled out the questionnaires mailed to them they would automatically be required to occupy senior citizen accommodations.

George Foster, reeve of Sophiasburg remarked that confusion seemed to plague the survey and observed several senior citizens had spoken with him to learn if they could become involved with income tax problems should they signify willingness to move into low-rental housing units.

Mr. Burkiss noted of the 21 persons interested in senior citizen accommodations, 12 were residents of Picton.

He said the survey questionnaire and supplementary material clearly stated that persons replying were in no way obligated to occupy a housing unit. The OHC representative said staff members from the corporation would be sent on request to explain the operation of the low-rental and hostel units to groups of senior citizens showing sufficient interest.

Mr. Burkiss added senior citizens occupying rent - geared - to - income units are "quite active," and able to cook for themselves and do housekeeping tasks.

In contrast, occupants of hostel units are usually unable to prepare meals or are not interested in cooking for themselves and would eat their meals in a cafeteria.

The charge for food for hostel residents is approximately $65 a month while the accommodation charge is about $35 a month.

Persons living in low-rental units would pay a minimum rent of $37 a month on a geared - to - income basis.

Bloomfield reeve Allan Anderson asked how the OHC expects to co-ordinate its operations with the proposed new Prince Edward County home and was told meals would be served as "a shared facility" between county home residents and hostel unit occupants.

When asked by Mr. Anderson if he would be willing to provide the county's senior citizen association concerning the available types of housing, Mr. Burkiss agreed.

Mr. Burkiss explained that the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation has indicated its refusal to finance low-rental or hostel units until a real demand for them can be proved.

Ameliasburg deputy - reeve Norman Post observed that former subsidier of social services, James Snow, had told county councillors last year that a completely integrated complex would be ideal in Prince Edward.

"From what we have learned in two trips to Toronto, this bill of goods was never for sale to begin with," declared Mr. Post.

It had been suggested earlier that a county home could be combined with senior citizen housing units and hostel units at one site.

Mr. Burkiss replied there is only one site in Ontario at Oakville where a complex exists and a county home is not involved in its operation.

He added that hostel accommodations will be built if the need for them here can be shown, but commended "our federal partners want documented proof" of sufficient interest.

Mr. Burkiss stressed that it is impossible to construct the units then hope that interested persons will come forward.

County warden Ross Conway said he felt that 60 low-rental units could be filled easily in Prince Edward and endorsed a new county-wide survey to determine the need for senior citizen housing.

Ann Landers

Reader Complains Of Matchmaking Group

Dear Ann Landers: I am 36 age to go back to shopping, years old and have never married. People have always told me I am pretty, smart and fun to be with. No one ever mentioned marriage. One day I became a little adventurous—or perhaps panicky is a better word—and sent my name (and check) to a scientific matchmaking foundation. I had received mailings from this foundation and the letterheads carried the names of a well-known doctor and two nationally known clergymen. I was sure these people would not be connected with anything shoddy but I was wrong.

I was put in touch with eight "prospects"—in seven weeks. Five were unemployed and looking for a woman to keep them. Two were overt homosexuals—one offered to be my hairdresser and private secretary in exchange for marriage. If I'd let him keep his boyfriend. Another was a religious fanatic who wanted to know immediately if I would let him burn his bibles on my back with a cigarette. The only "candidate" who seemed to have all his marbles had a severe physical handicap and told me with considerable anguish that he had met 30 women through the foundation, most of them crazy. For these leads he has already paid $200.

I am ashamed of myself for having been such a sucker. The public should be warned about these cackets. Tell the world, will you, Ann?—Seattle Chump.

Dear Seattle: I have been telling the world and I will continue to tell those who are willing to listen. Thanks for the testimonial.

Dear Ann Landers: I appreciated your boost for Recovery, Inc. For 15 years I suffered from nerves. I went to doctor after doctor, took thousands of tranquilizers, and then I read about Recovery, Inc. in an article by Dr. Walter Alvarez. I learned that a group was holding meetings four blocks from my home.

The people there weren't interested in anybody's past, only the future. They taught me not to be afraid of my feelings, how to react to nervous people who blow up, how to find the courage to face my problems instead of running away from them. I've been going to meetings for two years and I'm a changed person. I'm not afraid of anything anymore.

Recovery, Inc. is not a religious group. It is a scientific mental health program. Please tell your readers that they can find out where the meetings are being held in your town. The address is: Recovery, Inc., 116 S. Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Illinois 60603.

Dear Ann Landers: This is my husband's first year with a firm that will soon have their annual barbecue. Wives and husbands are not invited. It's strictly for employees.

We both work and have precious little time together. I respect this policy and feel that companies should promote togetherness at home instead of making trouble between husbands and wives. My husband says he is going, regardless, and we've argued about it. I told him if he goes it will be the straw that broke the camel's back. Comment, please.—Lasa

Dear L.: That camel didn't have a very strong back, lady. Although I agree that company parties that exclude mates are bummers, if that's the way his company does it, he a good sport. A wife who would give her husband an ultimatum over such a trivial matters is grossly immature.

British Info Services Offer Correction

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: You gave information about birth certificates for persons born in Northern Ireland and Eire which you say you wish is not straight.

The corrected version of your item is as follows: "For certificates from Northern Ireland since December 31, 1921 (not 1922) send to Registrar General, Fermanagh House, Ormeau Road Ormeau Avenue, Belfast.

"For certificates prior to January 1st, 1922 (not 1922) in Eire and Northern Ireland, send to the General Register Office, Custom House, Dublin." — Information Officer, British Information Services, Ottawa.

Dear Mr. Officer: Thank you for putting us straight. By the time you read this you may already have noted that we corrected one of the errors earlier in May. Let's hope we've got the whole thing right now!

Dear Doris: I just read "Will Power Needed" a letter. She positively must use her greatest gift from God: her will power. I quit smoking 10 years ago; long before lung cancer due to smoking was thought of, and I did it with a snap of my finger.

I would tell this lady she will find, if she quits smoking, the greatest thrill of her lifetime, because of having used the power which God gave each one of us. She must take it into her confidence with a silent prayer.

Tell her just to feel that she has better things to do than smoke a cigarette and she will find that each day she refuses to smoke will build up her resolve to quit.

I would be glad to hear through your column how she feels about this advice. — Just Jimmie.

SEEKS HOMES

MONTREAL (CP) — The Family Social Service Society says it needs 600 foster homes for welfare court cases ranging in age from infancy to 18. 50 per cent of which are over 11 years. By the end of 1972, it says, about 5,000 children will have been placed. The FSSS took over the responsibility for finding homes to free probation officers and court authorities for more extensive dealings with delinquency cases.

Dear Jimmy: Thank you — for W.P.N. Just taking the interest to write her about your own experience may be the push she needs.

It also added prayer and faith to the techniques in my leaflet — how could she fail? You-hoo, Will Power Needed! Let's hear from you with a success story.

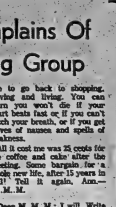
Dear Doris: My girl friend and I would both like to meet people for there seems no place in the city for girls in their early twenties to meet people.

Some of our interests are: Hers — sewing, pets; mine are: pets, painting. Volunteer groups would also be good. — Ready to Try Anything.

Dear-Ready: The ranks of unattached — both male and female — do this out, don't they? But all is not lost; not in your early twenties, anyway.



You are lucky to have a pal to try something with; for easier than when one lonely soul braves a new group. I'd suggest church, or Y. — both W. and M.; or volunteer work with a hospital or social agency.

Or a hobby like pet handling and training. You can find a canine obedience group in just about any major city in Canada.

For my money this would be the most intriguing one.

(To know all is to forgive all. Let Doris help you to understand and live happily with those you care about.)

Annual Banquet Held By Eastminster C.G.I.T.

The Eastminster CGIT annual mother and daughter banquet in the form of a potluck meal was attended by about 80 members of CGIT's, Explorers and their mothers.

President of the CGIT Lori Edey welcomed the gathering and Explorer Barbara Harper announced the CGIT motto the Johnny Appleseed grace.

The "Seascape" was the theme of the decor, and highlight of this was a large painting of a mermaid overlooking the head table. Motifs pertaining to the sea adorned the walls, while the serving table added to the table decor and included table place mats in the shape of a whale, seahorse, octopus or shark.

CGIT girls had made soap favors adorned with decor to carry out the theme of the event, while the Explorer group made creative little animals out of shells and invitetable holders decorated with shells which were presented to their mothers.

Following the dinner, Jean Kunetsky expressed thanks to the mothers, and in turn Mrs. Lois Edey expressed thanks and appreciation to the girls as well as their leaders Mrs. Dixon and Mrs. Sisson.

She also presented Mrs. Sisson with an engraved silver teapot stand and bracelet charm for her years of assistance in the CGIT, Joanne Graham presented the pin she won last year to the most enthusiastic first year girl who by her participation showed signs of leadership, to this year's winner, Linda Riley.

Three ceremonies followed: the graduation of two Explorers who were welcomed into CGIT, Sherry Niles and Deborah McLeod; the receiving of white cords by five girls who have reached the senior age of 12, Linda Riley, Lisa Irwin, Charlotte Murphy, Janet Throop and Susan Smith, and the graduation of four girls who have been with CGIT for five years, Lori Edey, Lisa Sisson, Jane Comeron and Jean Kunetsky, who each received an engraved silver coffee spoon, awarded to them from the Belleville CGIT committee.

Revival in Britain For Tapestry Weaving

LONDON (CP) — The art of tapestry weaving, begun in Britain about 400 years ago, is enjoying a revival. But today commissions and fashions differ tend to be the patrons rather than the wealthy householders of previous centuries.

Tapestry making arrived first in England through the Flemings, but local subjects and colorful town historical and allegorical scenes soon acquired a recognizable national flavor. The first tapestry firm of any size was set up by William Sheldon in 1561.

He started it to provide employment for tenants living near his manor house in Warwickshire. His manager, Richard Tilden, had learned the technique on his travels in the Low Countries and the Sheldon tapestries now are considered equal to the best Brussels ones of the same period.

In 1619 Sir Francis Crane was granted privileges by James I to set up a tapestry factory at Mortlake on the Thames and, with the help of Flemish weavers, local workers were trained. Soon Mortlake tapestries were recognized as among the finest ever produced.

But by the end of the 18th century the increased use of wallpapers and paint meant that the demand for tapestries declined. For the next 100 years the art almost disappeared.

Then came the Victorian interest in the Gothic style and the Royal Windsor Tapestry works were built with the support of members of the Royal Family. It only lasted 16 years but the products were of high quality.

Today new designs are giving a fresh appeal to tapestry. In past centuries nearly all the subjects were allegorical, religious or historical. Few featured contemporary figures, although the backgrounds behind to the century in which they were woven.

The cost of tapestry always has been high. The skilled weaver can produce only two or three square feet a week and that is faster than in the days when weavers could be done only in daylight.

The cost today is £90 to £30 a square foot, depending on the intricacy of the design. Six months to a year is needed to produce even a small tapestry.

The most important firm producing tapestry in Britain today is the Edinburgh Tapestry Co. At their Dovecot Studios the master weaver and designer is Archie Brennan who trained at the Inverness and in Europe and runs the department of tapestry at Edinburgh College of Art.

Dovecot tapestries employs 10 weavers and has a queue of orders that will take two years to fill.

There are two approaches to making tapestry. The weaver may work from a painted design or cartoon by an artist who may or may not have acquaintance of the medium but is not himself a weaver. Or he may himself also be the designer, developing while he is actually working.

Recent Dovecot commissions include a series of panels for a New York gallery, twin panels for a church in Edinburgh and a wall for Hanby House Museum in Edinburgh, featuring the faces of Sir Walter Scott, Robert Louis Stevenson and Robbie Burns.

UCW MEETINGS

FRANKFORD U.C.W. UNIT ONE

Unit one of the Frankford United Church Women held their May meeting at the home of Mrs. Walter Morrow. In the absence of Mrs. Wilcok, Mrs. Beach acted as unit leader and opened the meeting with a reading and hymn.

The business was dealt with which included arrangements for a luncheon to accomodate a library meeting to be held in Frankford; invitation to Foxboro Garden Tea and to an Eastern Star Fete on the same day.

A June meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. F. Rabel. Prayer followed by Mrs. Morrow.

Mrs. N. Scott read the scripture. Mrs. Morrow gave the meditation on the scripture.

Mrs. Brown favored the members with a solo, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Morrow.

Mrs. Osterhout gave an explanation of the words of Action as read in the scripture.

Mrs. Osterhout continued the study of Africa for the members of unit one. An excellent film was shown to depict some of the social problems in the country. Family life is broken down as a result of the work in the diamond mines. The head of the family is forced to leave his country home to work in the mines for 18 months at a time. This upset in the family life is of great concern to the church.

A discussion followed the study period.

Mrs. Morrow, Mrs. Dafoe and Mrs. Brooks served a delicious lunch.

COMMON FOLK

SINGAPORE (AP)—Spain's Princess Maria del Carmen, grand-daughter of Gen. Francisco Franco, and her husband Prince Alfonso de Borbon y Dampierre, said they enjoyed their visit to Singapore because they were spared royal treatment. "For once we were ourselves," the princess said.

Mirror of Your Mind

by JOHN CAMPBELL

Can a person trust his feelings?

YES; even though many people are afraid to trust themselves in their dealings with others. A businessman, perhaps, will believe he can count on the promises that were made to close a transaction. Yet, because he doesn't want to give the other person the impression he's a "greenhorn," the businessman will take every legal precaution to make sure the agreement is "fool-proof" enough to be sure no one makes a fool out of him.

Are daydreams a harmless 'escape'?

UP to a point. In a child, daydreams can give imagination a workout. In an adult, they can help solve knotty problems, or provide a few minutes' respite from daily routine. Don't get the idea, however, that daydreams, even indulged in moderately, are free from care and concern. Some people who take a short daydream will chastise themselves for not doing something more productive in that time.

Should a girl promise 'to wait'?

NO, a young girl who must be separated from a boy who is going off to school, the service, etc., shouldn't refuse to go out with other boys until her "baby" comes back. For if she makes the vow not to, she feels under an obligation to keep it. Her promise then, rather than affection, keeps the plighted boy-for the boy who is away, because the principal motivation of her social life.

Stanfield's Idea Attacked

Constant-dollar Tax Under Fire

OTTAWA (CP) — The Liberals responded in the Commons Wednesday to, opposition criticism of the budget by shooting at counter-proposals of Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield.

Minister of State For Mines Jamey described the constant-dollar tax system suggested last week by Mr. Stanfield as "really more than a gimmicky bit of sleight-of-hand."

E. B. Osler (L—Winnipeg South Centre) said the constant-dollar idea was woefully deluded.

The verbal assault on the Stanfield plan came just before the Liberals voted down a Conservative amendment to the government motion calling for approval of the budget. The amendment, supported by all three opposition parties, was defeated 113-71.

The rejected amendment would have expressed Commons regret for what it said was government failure to relieve unemployment, to provide incentives for Canadian investment, Canadian development or to reduce personal income taxes to stimulate the economy.

The Stanfield plan would link taxable income to inflation so personal income taxes would rise only when there was a corresponding increase in real purchasing power.

The Conservative leader said this would force the government to reduce its "piggishness" in taxes rather than relying on inflation to harvest more money for the federal treasury.

He said the current progressive income tax system boosts the tax rate according to the scale of income, without consideration for the effect of inflation on wages.

Speaking on the fourth day of six set aside for debate on the May 9 budget of Finance Minister John Turner, Mr. Mahoney said the progressive income tax was "generally regarded as our fairest tax."

To make up for lost revenues, the government would have to turn to other taxes. The government could be forced to raise the sales tax—"a less fair tax."

The government could refrain from doing anything, see deficits increase and "accept a period of fiscal stance," Mr. Mahoney said.

He said the cost to the federal treasury of the Stanfield proposal would be $315 million in the first year. The reduction in provincial revenue would amount to another $120 million.

The minister said the Conservative leader's call for higher old age pensions would add to inflation as there already was adequate consumer demand in Canada. Increased demand would push up prices, not production.

Mr. Mahoney said the government was close to the economic goals set by the Economic Council of Canada in its 1971 report. A six per cent real growth rate for three successive years to achieve full economic output, and a 3.8 per cent unemployment level were suggested by the council.

Mr. Osler said the Stanfield idea would provide more for high income taxpayers than for lower taxpayers. It would work in favor of those with offensible bargaining strength.

Lack of Interest in UN Said 'Passing Phenomenon'

MONTREAL (CP) — Kurt Waldheim, secretary-general of the United Nations, said Wednesday night that a relative lack of interest in the world body by the superpowers is "a passing phenomenon."

"The United Nations was conceived as a forum for their cooperation and has helped them effectively in a number of very critical situations over the years. I'm sure it will do so again in times of crisis."

Mr. Waldheim told a United Nations Associates of Canada banquet that "a new breed of non-political problems on a global scale demand that the UN be used more effectively than ever by its member states."

"The UN might be called an establishment of establishments and it's not surprising that the young . . . sometimes question the adequacy and effectiveness of the UN in meeting world problems."

Trudeau Denies Knowing Gervais

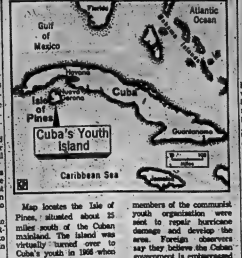
OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau has disclaimed any knowledge of Pershing Gervais, alias Paul Mason, reported to be a U.S. government informer given shelter by Canadian authorities last year after testifying against New Orleans District Attorney Jim Garrison.

The issue was raised in the Commons Wednesday by Conservative House leader Gerald Baldwin.



Mr. Baldwin said Mr. Gervais entered Canada and obtained a job as a result of a special arrangement between the Canadian government and officials of the U.S. Justice department. He called for an inquiry into the use of a minister's permit to enable Mr. Gervais to stay in the country.

Mr. Baldwin said in an interview later that Mr. Gervais has returned to New Orleans to resist an affidavit in which he testified that he delivered payoffs to Mr. Garrison in a gambling racket.

Mr. Garrison was charged with eight other people last year in connection with a pinball racket and now is free on bail.

Mr. Baldwin said Canada's role in the case appears to be an example of the government taking advantage of loopholes in immigration laws "in order to give shelter to this fellow".

Mr. Gervais is reported to have entered Canada at Montreal last July and travelled to Vancouver with his family in September.

Map locates the Isle of Pines, situated about 25 miles south of the Cuban mainland. The island was virtually turned over to Cuba's youth in 1966 when members of the communist youth organization were sent to repair hurricane damage and develop the area. Foreign observers say they believe the Cuban government is embarrassed about the way things have turned out. It is no longer on the show-place tour for visiting dignitaries.

Gervais Says He Was Paid to 'Spy'

NEW ORLEANS (AP-CP) — Pershing Gervais, a U.S. government informer in a federal case against Jim Garrison, New Orleans district attorney, was driving back to this city Wednesday from Canada, where he claimed he had been sent to spy on the Canadian government.

In an interview in Vancouver before his departure he said he had been forced to frame Garrison, and the U.S. and Canadian governments worked together to smooth his entry into Canada last July and get him a "fake" job with General Motors of Canada Ltd.

Garrison, two former police officers and six pinball operators are charged by the government with a scheme in which the operators allegedly paid Garrison to ensure he would not prosecute them. For allowing gambling on their premises.

Gervais said in the interview that he was sent to Canada to spy on the Canadian government for an oil company.

"My job was to, in effect, investigate or to spy on or to determine why it was that this oil company was not accorded the privileges in Canada by the Canadian government that other oil companies. . . ."

"Like drilling privileges?" he was asked.

"Drilling privileges, precisely, was one of them."

Gervais said the spying was done "with the connivance of the justice department."

He said it developed that he didn't have a job with the oil company after all because the oil company feared notoriety.

Auditor-general Questions Way Government Uses Tax Money

OTTAWA (CP) — Maxwell Henderson, Parliament's watch-dog of the treasury, questions whether the government is spending tax money for purposes that Parliament intended.

In his latest report to the Commons, the auditor-general cites examples of "weakening of Parliamentary control" over public expenditures.

The report, tabled Wednesday, notes that the defence department is frequently called on to provide services to the government which appear to be beyond the scope of the defence services program as stated in the Parliamentary appropriations.

Mr. Henderson reported on armed services flights for Prime Minister Trudeau to Japan and Southeast Asia in May, 1970, to Sardinia in August, to various parts of Eastern Quebec in September, and to Singapore in 1971.

He also reported that the defence department was left paying nearly $1 million of the cost in cleaning up oil pollution in Chedabucto Bay after the sinking of the tanker Arrow, and similar work in the Gulf of St. Lawrence with the oil barge Irving Whale.

A report for the fiscal year ended March 31, 1971, said millions of dollars were given to the CBC and other Crown corporations and government agencies which they could not spend before the fiscal year-end. Other millions which were due to be paid had to be held over until a new fiscal year because there were insufficient appropriations.

Such practices, Mr. Henderson's report said, weaken parliamentary control over the executive.

His 1970-71 report, which by law should have been tabled by the end of 1971, was delayed because of the growing complexity of government business and what he called the "deserved laxity" of senior men in his office.

He again complained of this, that the report was written before he and Treasury Board President C. M. Drury agreed earlier this spring to try to work out ways to overcome the difficulty.

Mr. Henderson reported that $70 million in 1970-71 appropriations would have lapsed on March 31 but the money was given to various agencies to spend in the new fiscal year. Another $48 million was run up in bills due before the end of the year which could not be paid, and the government's creditors had to wait until the new fiscal year.

As auditor-general, Mr. Henderson reports directly to the Commons and to its public accounts committee on his auditing of government books. He is one of only three or four public servants who are directly responsible to Parliament, and not to any cabinet minister.

His criticisms of wasteful expenditure ran the gamut from procurement of defence department ships and aircraft, to paying mail carriage contractors during a postal strike when there was no mail to be carried.

And skews was the case of the puppets that didn't work. The National Museum let a $77,000 contract to a firm to build an animated puppet display of the folk tale, Le Serpent au Teint Vert, in 1967. A year later it was found the puppets didn't work and a sub-contractor had no artistic or technical ability.

The museum then spent $8,600 on a feasibility study, to find the project would cost $335,000 to complete. More than $12,200 was recovered, and the case has gone to court.

Hees Offers Ford Better Idea

OTTAWA (CP) — Ford has been offered a better idea by Conservative MP George Hees.

Mr. Hees, MP for Prince Edward-Hastings, suggested in the Commons Wednesday that Ford Motor Co. could sidestep the problem of making 1973 models conform to pollution law if it were permitted to ship the 1973 models to dealers before the cars pass anti-pollution tests.

He suggested that the Canadian government make representations to the U.S. government to permit Ford to do this.

Treasury Board President C. M. Drury, acting prime minister, said it was "quite an interesting suggestion."

The situation arose because of tough U.S. anti-pollution laws that come into force with the 1973 models, which are mar-keted this fall.

Improper Ford pollution tests, which do not satisfy the standards of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, may prevent Ford from making 1973 models until after new tests are run.

Mr. Hees' proposal would mean that Ford could manufacture and distribute its 1973 models in time, but the cars could not actually be sold until the 1973 models passed the pollution tests.

Mr. Hees also expressed concern about layoffs in Canada if Ford were forced to close down its production while waiting for the test results.

Ford spokesmen have said it would not be economic for them to continue making cars in Canada for only the Canadian market, where pollution laws are softer.

Mr. Drury said both the Canadian and U.S. governments are concerned about avoiding duplication in Ford production and the two governments are holding continuing talks on trade matters.

Nader Flays Snowmobiles

WASHINGTON (CP) — Ralph Nader's Centre for Auto Safety says the snowmobile industry "bears much of the responsibility for the appalling casualty rate among snowmobilers" and has profited at the expense of the public."

Drawing on statistics from Canada and elsewhere, it proposed in a report Wednesday 18 safety standards—including a "dead man's brake" and a "panic button"—which it says should be applied to U.S. and imported snowmobiles.

Snowmobiles, imported duty-free from Canada under the Canada-U.S. auto agreement, grew from an estimated few thousand units in 1964 to more than 235,000 units worth $141 million in 1970.

The report says the industry bears much responsibility for the casualty rate "because of a series of safety shortcomings in design and because of advertising which encourages dangerous behavior."

Saying snowmobiling had also damaged the environment and caused public and private property damage, it urges U.S. government agencies to consider measures that would curtail, rather than encourage, the expansion of this activity.

The Centre for Auto Safety is a non-profit organization, one of several working in association with Nader, the consumer advocate. In an accompanying statement, Nader says the response of public officials to "the abuses of this new industry have been unbelievably at best."

The study says "manufacturer advertising has encouraged the very irresponsible behavior" and "portrayal of snowmobilers with helmets and goggles is often the exception rather than the rule."

By the end of this year, it estimates, there will be more than 1.5-million snowmobiles in the U.S. and Canada. In the 1970-71 winter there were 102 snowmobile fatalities in the U.S., compared with 62 the previous year.

Dr. W. R. Ghent in his report entitled Snowmobile Accidents in Ontario is quoted as saying that 24 of 333 operators involved in crashes he studied were under 16 years of age.

In urging more powerful lights for snowmobiles, it also quotes the Canadian Safety Council report saying that of 50 victims of collisions with other vehicles, trains, wires, fences and other fixed objects, 60 per cent met their deaths at night.

United Church Provincial Council Proposed

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Delegates to the 49th annual meeting of the London Conference of the United Church of Canada have approved, on a temporary basis, a provincial council for the church in Ontario.

A constitution for the proposed body says it will be composed of the presidents, presbyteries-elect, secretaries and one other delegate from each of Ontario's four conferences, the chairmen or secretaries of Synod-way and Ottawa presbyteries in the Montreal-Ottawa conference and the chairmen or secretaries of the Kenora-Rainy River and Superior presbyteries of the Manitoba conference.

London, Hamilton, Toronto and the Bay of Quinte are the four Ontario conferences.

The role of the council is to prepare and present briefs to the provincial government on behalf of congregations, presbyteries and conferences in the province and to study the effects of the national church's decentralization policies as they apply to Ontario.

Rev. Robert Lindsey of Windsor, Ont., conference secretary, said in an interview formation of the council "will enable us to swing into action a lot faster on all issues concerning the church in the province comes to the fore."

The executive of the Montreal-Ottawa conference approved a similar proposal last March. The Ontario presbyteries which are part of the Manitoba conference have decided to be corresponding, but not active, members.

Toronto conference already has approved the plan on a two-year trial basis and the Hamilton conference, which is meeting this week, is expected to approve the plan.

Bay of Quinte conference passed a resolution saying it is not in favor of a permanent structure but that it would co-operate in the formation of a council on a temporary basis.

The resolution approved by London conference delegates Wednesday put the conference on record as favoring co-operation with and participation in the council on a temporary basis until a better assessment of its works can be made.

In Test Chamber

Lockheed's design for proposed subsonic cruise armed decoy (SCAD) is shown mounted on pylon in an anechoic chamber at the Lockheed Missiles and Space Co. plant in Sunnyvale, Calif. The chamber, one of the largest and most sophisticated in the world, is designed to minimize undesirable signal reflections during antenna pattern tests. The remote-controlled SCAD would be launched by bombers to confuse enemy radar. (CP Photo)

CP News Roundup

Politicians Said to Blame For Rising Hospital Costs

WINNIPEG (CP) — It was a matter of "passing the buck" when the Canadian Hospital Association's annual meeting Wednesday discussed who was responsible for rising health-care costs.

Speakers and delegates bickered politely about who was responsible for the rapidly rising costs—hospital administrators, trustees, doctors, politicians, federal or provincial governments or the public.

Centre Wanted

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — A coroner's jury recommended Wednesday that a detoxification centre be established here as soon as possible.

The jury was investigating the death of Donald Lawrence, 24, of Peterborough, found hanged in a police cell March 24.

Fire Unchecked

TORONTO (CP) — High school students and area residents have been recruited to fight a 4,000-acre forest fire 48 miles south of Kirkland Lake, one of the largest of 78 burning in Northern Ontario Wednesday.

Thirty-five aircraft — three of the air or on standby and more than 1,500 men were fighting the fires Wednesday night.

Expo Closed

MONTREAL (CP) — Man and His World, financially-troubled offshoot of the Expo 67 World's Fair, has been hit by new difficulties—a strike by the city's 8,500 blue collar workers.

Opening of the permanent exhibition, a money-losing operation to the City of Montreal but a world-renowned attraction, has been postponed indefinitely from its scheduled opening June 16.

Fortier Picked

OTTAWA (CP) — Andre Fortier, a 44-year-old assistant undersecretary in the secretary of state's department, has been appointed director of the Canada Council, the prime minister's office announced Wednesday.

Mr. Fortier began work in the federal civil service in 1952, working successively in the Treasury Board as a financial officer, then as senior officer, assistant director and treasurer in the Canada Council, and most recently as assistant undersecretary for administration and finance.

Hunting Vetoed

TORONTO (CP) — The Metropolitan Toronto and Region Conservation Authority is opposed to organized fox hunting on lands it maintains. The authority's executive committee Wednesday turned down a request for a fox hunt because it might be conducted in areas where people are walking.

All agreed that rapidly increasing costs—up to 15-per cent increases each of the last three years—are a problem.

Politicians and a demanding public came under fire at the opening session by President W. A. Holland.

"Many health care costs laid on the doorstep of hospital boards and administrators are, in fact, the result of public policy fostered by greater and greater public demands," he said.

Later, Saskatchewan's health minister, Walter Smishek, criticized hospitals and the medical profession for failure to correct misdemeanors in health care, including spiraling costs.

"After all the years of talk about health costs and benefits, I would have expected noticeable improvements in the quality of health care," he said.

The main costs involved in the health system are not generated by government. The three biggest cost factors today are physician services, hospital services and diagnostic and investigative services."

One delegate from the floor said the federal government led the provinces into expensive services by sharing costs for medical and hospital services but not for preventive and home care services.

Manitoba Premier Ed Schreyer said the cost spiral was complicated by hospitals and other health agencies living with the old 'ecology' rather than hooking up with today's high technological advances.

J. L. Fry, assistant deputy minister of the federal government's health department's health programs branch, said a former president of the association had agreed with government estimates that a 10-per-cent increase in efficiency was possible in hospitals—a possible saving of $200 million a year.

All speakers agreed something must be done, with most calling for a new approach toward "total health care," with the emphasis on prevention rather than just treatment.

Mr. Fry described the federal government's recent views on this, outlining cost sharing proposals in which provinces would get a basic per-capita grant adjusted yearly. This could be applied by the provinces toward a total health care program rather than just hospitals or medical services.

Warning Issued On Adoptions

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Council on Social Development has warned sympathetic Canadian families against making hasty decisions to adopt deprived children from Bangladesh.

Reuben Baetz, council executive-director, said in a statement today some adoption of Bangladesh children seems inevitable but families should keep in mind that "adoption is a serious 'for-life' decision."

Mr. Baetz said the council agrees fully with safeguards established by the Bangladesh government to protect both the natural and adopting parents.

"Families should not feel guilty about not offering to adopt," he said.

"From the great amount of interest being shown all over Europe and North America, there likely will be no shortage of home offers."

International adoption will not be a substitute for national and local child-care programs, he said, and it is not yet clear if any Canadian homes will be accepted for placement.

As well, the federal government would provide a special "thrust fund" of about $640 million over six years to permit the development of special programs.

Busing Delayed

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — The U.S. Senate approved a controversial education measure Wednesday which would delay court-ordered busing of children to nearby neighborhoods when necessary to achieve racial integration in schools.

The measure, part of an $18.5-billion education financing bill, would delay until Jan. 1, 1974, implementation of court orders requiring busing.

Legion Head

REGINA (CP) — Winnipeg lawyer Robert G. Smellie was elected Dominion president of the Royal Canadian Legion Wednesday.

Mr. Smellie, 48, who served with the Winnipeg Rifles during the Second World War, succeeds Judge J. Redmond Roche of Montreal.

Body Recovered

OWEN SOUND (CP) — The body of Philip Boswell, 19, of Brantford son of wrestler Hooton (Bobo Brasil) Harris of Benton Harbor, Mich., was recovered Wednesday.

Mr. Boswell drowned in Gould Lake, 15 miles northwest of Owen Sound, when a canoe carrying him and another youth overturned. The other youth, 16-year-old Michael Cross of Brantford, was rescued.

Pepin Wants

QUEBEC (CP) — Marcel Pepin, president of the Confederation of National Trade Unions, demanded Wednesday that three members of the CNTU's executive resign "because of their intention to form a new labor federation outside the CNTU."

Vice-president Paul-Emile Dalpe, treasurer Jacques Dion and executive director Arcadius Daigle are leading a move by leaders of about 276 CNTU-affiliated unions to leave the federation and form a new one.

Marchand Denies Survey

OTTAWA (CP) — Regional Expansion Minister Jean Marchand vigorously denied Wednesday charges that regional development programs mean unearned grants for many companies.

New Democrat and Conservative MPs pelted the minister with questions about a Harvard student's study of the program under which companies are given grants for locating in depressed areas.

The student, David Springate of Montreal, told a Commons committee Tuesday that 11 of 18 companies studied, which received a total of $34 million in grants, did not change their investment plans because of the grant and thus received the money as a windfall.

Ed Broadbent (N D P—Oshawa-Whitby) called the conspiracy "actions" corporate cheating."

Mr. Marchand said the "base" for Dr. Springate's theories—the 18 companies—was very narrow and scientific conclusions could not be drawn from it.

Mr. Broadbent said that "it's unfortunate that the minister should attempt to smear a serious study" He called for an investigation into the matter.

Arctic Bill Can't Be Passed

OTTAWA (CP) — To the government's embarrassment, it still hasn't been able to proclaim the Arctic Waters Pollution Prevention Act, making it law.

The legislation was passed with great fanfare by Parliament two years ago. Its thinly-disguised aim was to assert Canadian sovereignty over the entire Canadian Arctic.

At the time, Humble Oil's giant supertanker Manhattan was making its second voyage through the Northwest Passage and claims that these waters were Canadian met a cold response in the United States.

Instead of a unilateral declaration of ownership, the Trudeau government decided to assert its claims through a bill aimed at preventing pollution not only in the Arctic archipelago but 100 miles seaward.

Under the legislation, a ship before proceeding would be subject to arrest and its operators subject to damages.

After major parliamentary support, however, the government discovered the biggest roadblock to enacting the legislation was not the U.S. but the high cost of insurance for ships flying ice-filled waters.

Asked about the delay in the Commons Wednesday, Northern Development Minister Jean Chretien said that if the law were to be put in force, "it would close down the port of Churchill."

As it now is, the northern Manitoba port on Hudson Bay is considered a winter terminus a year to move grain. Insurance companies are demanding too high a premium to make it profitable for ships to attempt the shipping season.

Another apparently unforeseen obstacle is the high insurance on ships used in resupplying smaller Arctic coastal communities.

One government spokesman said Arctic resupply from a military viewpoint could come to a halt as things now stand.

Mr. Chretien said Wednesday he was hopeful the problems could be overcome and that the act would be in force by this summer's shipping season.

Money to Winds

NESTLETON, Ont. (CP) — Four-year-old Yvonne Sibbald found $2,400 in the winds Wednesday.

Her father, proprietor of a gasoline station in this community 20 miles north of Oshawa, was taking the day's receipts to the bank when Yvonne threw the money out the window of the car.

A driver behind notified Mr. Sigubiredo, but not before two men in another car stopped, scooped up some of the windfall and drove away.

Only $91 and two cheques were recovered.

Workers Protest

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — About 400 day-shift workers walked off their jobs Wednesday at the Port Weller dry docks to protest what they termed a lack of safety facilities at the shipyard.

Victor Jones, 34, a worker at the shipyard and father of four, was killed Saturday when he fell 35 feet in a concrete dock when some scaffolding gave way as he was repairing a ship.

Papers Comment On Election Law

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The following are excerpts from newspaper editorials across Canada on proposed federal government legislation to ban publication of any partisan political articles in newspapers on any federal election day or on the day before voting.

The bill now is before the House of Commons.

The Ottawa Citizen (Ind.): The proposed ban on "partisanship" ... material published in newspapers on election day and the day before an election should be removed from the Elections Expenses Act. The existing ban on broadcasters should also be dropped.

The proposal constitutes censorship. That in itself justifies its removal. Moreover, the ban would simply be silly.

Saint John Telegraph-Journal and Times-Globe: It is the thin edge of the wedge and it should be rejected out of hand. The danger lies not alone in the legislation but in the precedent which it would establish. The question, ultimately, is whether this country is to have a free and responsible press operating in the public interest or a press subservient to the government of the day.

Sudbury Star: Canadians should fear, resent and utterly reject a government which seeks to turn off comment upon its handling of the nation's affairs.

Our society is complex and must be structured in many of its functions in order to afford shared privileges for the interference in publication of responsible political comment in the democratic context at the climax of a Canadian election campaign is not such an instance.

Calgary Herald: The proposed legislation should be viewed as an attempt by government to arm itself with dictatorial powers at the expense of the right of freedom of expression ... The very lack of definition as to what constitutes "partisan political character" would put a powerful censorship weapon in government hand. It would be left to decide what could or what could not be printed.

If it succeeded in limiting freedom of expression for two days, it might be emboldened later to extend its censorship powers for a longer period, or try to limit public expression in other days.

Hamilton Spectator: The public shouldn't put up with this unfair curb on what is not really so much freedom of the press as it is freedom of speech. If the government can jam such a law down Parliament's throat today, what will another majority government of the future do when it faces a disappointed electorate?

Niagara Falls Review: There is no reason why the press should be able to beat the drum right up to the polling booth. Every serious voter needs time to let his mind clear of the roar of propaganda before he casts his ballot.

Stratford Expositor: Fuzzily drafted section 90 (2) poses difficult problems of interpretation with risk of prosecution for a newspaper that fails to fathom out, on election morning, whatever it is . . . In the climate of an election campaign, in its closing hours, what kind of statement is partisan and what is not?

Prince George Citizen: It is an unnecessary imposition because the nature of the ban is hardly likely to affect the outcome of any election. . . . As it stands, the worrisome thing is to be sure is open to wide interpretation.

Moncton Times: The proposed measure is a dangerous one, for it establishes a principle of control over the press. It may be for only 48 hours, but the thin edge of the wedge will have been inserted and it is only a short step to some future government deciding control of the news, editorial and advertising column should be an everyday part of Canadian life.

"It takes money to make money. If your property is saleable we'll advertise it at our expense until we sell it."

Space Pact Great Idea -Astronaut

SUDBURY (CP) — Wednesday's announced pact between the United States and Russia to conduct a joint space mission in 1971 is a "great" idea, says the commander of the final scheduled manned Apollo mission to the moon.

Cernan and Dr. Harrison Schmitt, the first astronaut-scientist to fly on an Apollo mission, arrived here this week to explore geological features in the area. Astronauts Jim Irwin and Dave Scott, members of the backup crew, and U.S. geologists arrived with them.

Dr. Schmitt, who will be lunar module pilot for December's Apollo 17 flight, said the agreement with Russia will probably act as the incentive for mankind to "take another step into that dark frontier."

Cernan said: "It gives us an opportunity to communicate with a country which has been a great adversary, and should provide a sound basis for personal and professional trust."

Earlier in the day both had expressed their disappointment that the scheduled American manned lunar explorations are ending.

Cernan said: "We have a great deal to learn in the exploration of the moon. . . . It's sad to see Apollo 17 bringing this last baby step to a close."

Conspiracy Charge Dismissed

TORONTO (CP) — Joseph Nicholas Deleo, 18, and Frank Dominic Camisso, 19, were acquitted Wednesday night on a charge of conspiring in the shooting last July of three youths in a shopping plaza in Scarboro North York.

The two youths were also found not guilty of conspiring with Dominic Racco, 20, to assault Paul Charlebois. They had had an argument with Charlebois and some friends the night before the shooting.

Racco was sentenced in January to 10 years in penitentiary for the shooting of the three youths. Allan Hughes, 19, Daniel Gregor, 18, and Joseph Bond, 18.

Statement On Auto Said False

WINGHAM, Ont. (CP) — Ashford Elliott Hunt, a 65-year-old retired auto mechanic charged with making a false mechanical fitness statement on a car in which three men died from carbon monoxide poisoning in March, was remanded until May 31 when he appeared in court Wednesday.

The three men Clare Wayne Burnhill, 20, of Gorrie, Ont., Allan Hamilton, 18, and Douglas Archie McArthur, 22, both of Wroxeter, Ont., were found dead in a car parked on a county road eight miles east of this community, about 50 miles southeast of Owen Sound.

LOST LOOT

PERTH, Scotland (CP) — Three thieves wasted their efforts when they broke into a betting office in Perthshire. Unable to open the 336-pound safe, they lugged it into the street — when the door fell off. Inside they found only a few coins. Shopkeeper Jimmy Ward was delighted. "I've been trying to get rid of the safe for ages," he said. "Garbage collectors refused to remove it because it was too heavy."

Increased Oil Price Is Said Not Feasible

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

An increase in the price of crude oil to Ontario and United States export markets is not feasible, the Alberta government was told Wednesday after an Alberta minister suggested the increase to make up for a proposed tax on crude oil to serves in that province.

The tax would amount to $50 million to $90 million a year.

The Alberta suggestion came from Don Getty, minister of federal and intergovernmental affairs, at a question period after an oil industry brief had been presented to a committee of the legislature which is holding public hearings into the proposed tax.

But an oil company executive shot down the suggestion, saying increasing the price of crude in Ontario "would bring excessive pressure to bear on the national oil policy," which reserves the Ontario market for Alberta crude.

Alexander McIntosh, vice president of operations for Pacific Petroleums Ltd., said the result might be a breach in the so-called "Ottawa Valley line" that would see Alberta crude pushed out of Ontario by cheaper Venezuelan oil.

However, the Canadian Association of Oilwell Drilling Contractors, which represents 176 companies, said that unless the proposed tax is passed on to the consumer it will result in a further decrease of exploration expenditures in the province.

It cited a serious and marked decline in the number of rig active days during the last four years—from 34,311 in 1968 to 25,732 in 1971. During that period net cash expenditures by the industry had declined by about $70 million or 72 per cent.

J. C. Rudolph, president of Hammond Resources Ltd., said the amount of the proposed new tax "is what stunned us." He opposed any additional taxes on an industry "just beginning to break even" after 25 years in Alberta.

...In other legislatures! "

Fredericton—The New Brunswick government was assailed for failing to take a stand on the member of game wardens required to protect thousands of deer and the few Atlantic salmon...returning to the province's rivers.

Natural Resources Minister Wilfred Bishop said protection of the fisheries was a federal responsibility. He hoped to discuss enforcement of anti-poaching laws with Ottawa.

Morton Ready for One-Hitter

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cecil Morton knew he'd pitch a one-hitter Wednesday night. A fan told him so.

It was Montreal's annual Meet the Expos Night at Jarry Park and a smiling Morton related that one spectator told him:

"I can't wish that you will get a one-hitter, but I can wish that you get it."

The first batter for Philadelphia was Denny Doyle and he watched a three-pitch breeze by. The only hit off Morton was Mike Anderson's third-inning triple as the Expos posted a 4-1 triumph, edged past Philadelphia into fourth place in the National League East and dealt the Phillies their ninth loss in a row.

A spring-training holdout this season, he threw only 91 pitches and retired 21 of the last 22 batters he faced as he brought his won-lost record to 3-4.

"I've been throwing the ball well this year," said the red-haired right-hander. "I've had good velocity but I've been getting the ball high. I threw two days ago and I tried to do the things I was trying to accomplish in spring training—using my wrist to get in a groove and keep the ball low.

"I got out of the groove a bit in the sixth inning. I was getting high, but I got out of the inning. I had a good sinker that had action and I had good control."

After Anderson's triple, he scored on Doyle's sacrifice fly, tying the score. But the Expos took the lead for good in the bottom of the third on Hector Torres' home run and Bob Bailey homered an inning later.

The Expos grabbed a 3-0 lead in the bottom of the second on a run-scoring double by Ron Woods.

Torres then lofted his first homer of the season and Bailey clouted his second of the year. Montreal added another run in the bottom of the fifth on Ron Hunt's run-scoring single.

Elsewhere, Chicago Cubs downed New York Mets 5-1, Pittsburgh Pirates outslugged St. Louis Cardinals 9-7 in 14 innings, Houston Astros shaded San Diego Padres 4-3, San Francisco Giants nipped Los Angeles Dodgers 1-0 and Atlanta Braves turned back Cincinnati Reds 4-2.

After winning Rookie of the Year honors with an 18-11 record in 1970, Morton struggled through a 10-18 campaign last year.

The Cubs made it two in a row over the Mets as Jose Cardenal slugged a pair of two-run homers off rookie Buzz Capra. Billy Williams hit a solo shot and Burt Hooton, another rookie pitched a five-hitter.

The Bucs had to go 14 innings to beat the Cards after both teams scored twice in the ninth. Richie Hebner started the five-run 16th with a walk off Dennis Higgins, the fifth St. Louis pitcher, and Manny Sanguillen singled him to third. Gene Alley bounced to third baseman Joe Torre, who threw to the plate struck Hebner. Dave Cash and Al Oliver drove in the other runs with two-run singles.

Blue Loser in a Hurry

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Here comes Vida Blue. There goes Vida Blue.

Oakland's illustrious left-hander made his long-awaited debut Wednesday night, but he didn't make it very good.

Pitching one inning of relief in a brief warmup for his first start, Blue gave up two hits and two walks and took the defeat as California Angels beat the Athletics 6-5.

"He had to be nervous," said Oakland manager Dick Williams. "The first time out, he's got to have a lot of pressure on him."

Blue, a 24-game winner who claimed both the Most Valuable Player and Cy Young awards last season in the American League, was a stubborn holdout this year and didn't sign his contract until several weeks of the season had elapsed. He's slowly plodding toward his first start this weekend.

"He's going to pitch Sunday against Chicago White Sox, but he'll only throw a maximum of 80 pitches," said Williams. "If he's struggling, we'll get him out of there."

Williams wasted no time getting Blue out of the game and out of sight after his brief stint Wednesday night. He wouldn't allow reporters to talk to his young star.

Blue got the call against California while sparse crowd of a little more than 3,000 at Oakland Coliseum applauded his entrance. The score was 4-4 when the stylish southpaw came in and threw four straight balls to Art Kusyzer.

Then he fired a wild pitch, allowing Kusyzer to take second, before walking Sandy Alomar. Ken Berry and Vada Pinson followed with run-scoring singles, both solid shots.

Those two runs proved to be the winning margin, giving Dan Rose his first major-league victory. The young California pitcher entered the record books with a "eight's work that included a home run on the first pitch thrown to him in the big time. Only six others in the history of major league baseball have done it.

NFL Bosses Claim Clause Necessary

NEW YORK (AP) — National Football League general managers responded sharply Wednesday to an anti-trust suit challenging the league's compensation clause, contending that teams would be in danger of being destroyed without the measure.

"Without the rule my thinking would be changed," said Don Klosterman of Baltimore Colts. "If the New York Jets were my closest opposition, my idea would not only be to build the Colts, but attack and destroy the Jets—I'd try to take a Namath away.

"We have some good young players now, we're prepared to play in an 18,000-seat stadium and our whole community is enthused," said Bob Lustig of Buffalo Bills. "If we lost some of our players the entire enthusiasm would just burst. That's unfair to the community."

The suit was filed against the NFL club owners and commissioner Pete Rozelle on behalf of eight free agents and 21 players representatives of the NFL Players' Association, and was said to "represent the desires of a heavy majority of NFL players."

Under the compensation rule, the commissioner must determine the compensation to be given a team losing a player who plays out his option and signs with a new club if the two clubs do not agree between themselves by 1:00 when Rozelle became commissioner, 53 players have played out their option and Rozelle has determined the compensation in just two cases.

The NFL general managers denied they were refusing to deal with players who had played out their options.

Overtime Vetoed

NEW YORK (AP) — National Football League owners changed the method of counting a tie Wednesday but turned down rule proposals involving sudden death and penalties for intentionally grounding a pass.

The owners voted for a proposal in which a tie will cause an added game won and one-half game lost in determining a team's winning percentage. Under the old method, a tie was not counted in determining percentages.

The owners turned down a sudden death proposal in favor of further study. The proposal would have made it mandatory for each team to have possession of the ball at least once during an overtime period in post-season, sudden death games.

A proposal to change the penalty for intentionally grounding a pass from 10 yards and loss of down to five yards and loss of down was defeated.

Who – Me?

VANCOUVER (CP) — Percy Williams, retired Canada's greatest Olympic performer and given one of the nation's first Olympic torch awards in ceremonies in Ottawa Wednesday night, knew nothing of the award.

"Until you mentioned it, I didn't know anything about it," he said in a telephone interview.

Williams appeared only mildly interested in the award, adding only some harsh words for present-day sport:

"Today they're not looking for anything except records. In my day everyone went out because it was a sport, it was fun," he said.

Percy Williams—winner of the 100 and 200 metre gold medals at the 1928 Olympics in Amsterdam—was chosen top Canadian Olympic competitor and leading individual in the Summer Olympics.

When Williams won the 100 metres experts called the unknown school kid from Vancouver a one-in-a-million shot. Two days later he proved them wrong by winning the 200 metres.

Mrs. King was the first Canadian individual to win a gold medal in figure skating.

CAHA Shies Away from Females

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP) — Females will not be playing hockey under the auspices of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association next season, despite attempts by a 16-year-old Toronto girl to have the association change the rules to allow it.

Karen Koch, a goaltender who says she has aspirations to play in the National Hockey League but wants to participate in the Metropolitan Toronto intermediate hockey league, petitioned the CAHA to change a qualification rule that kept her from playing last season.

Her petition was discussed at the CAHA annual meeting here Wednesday and turned down.

But the meeting decided a committee to be appointed to study the CAHA structure will also look into female participation in hockey.

In an interview, CAHA president Joe Kryczka of Calgary has indicated that if any women's league or teams were interested in affiliation with the amateur hockey governing body, "we would be prepared to consider it."

Miss Koch prepared a petition with 1,500 names, explaining her predicament. She said there were women's teams in the Toronto area but she felt qualified to tend goal for a higher quality league.

But the CAHA qualification rule for eligibility rule states: "Any male person (s...)" and she could not play.

The Manitoba Amateur Hockey Association tried to introduce a resolution to have the word male deleted, but lacked the required 30 days notice of their motion and could not get a two thirds majority vote in favor of waiving the notice requirement.

The meeting was told there were women's teams and leagues operating in Manitoba and Ontario and it was suggested Miss Koch play there.

Absent All-stars Face Fines

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (AP) — Eleven National Basketball Association stars, under threat of fines or suspension by commissioner Walter J. Kennedy, who scheduled to meet their American Basketball Association rivals tonight in the second All-Star game between the leagues, at the Nassau Coliseum.

Kennedy said Tuesday that any NBA players in the nationally-televised game, beginning at 7:30 p.m. EDT would be subject to fines, the minimum of which would be the amount they received for playing in the game.

Harry Fleisher, lawyer for the Players' Association maintained that players from both leagues would be present for the game. He noted that the commissioner had attempted to halt last year's game which the NBA won 128-120, at the Houston Astrodome. There were no fines or suspensions following that game.

ABA commissioner Jack Dolph and team owners have endorsed the game, which will give some proceeds to charity and some to the players' pension fund.

The game already has lost some prestige with the withdrawal of NBA's most valuable player, Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, and the reported defections of Wilt Chamberlain and Jerry West.

Only eight of the 22 players attended a practice session Wednesday.

Sport Briefs

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia Lions of the Western Football Conference will have six quarterbacks for their 1972 spring training camp. The Lions announced Wednesday the signing of Ed Hotwig, 22, from West Texas State University. The five other quarterbacks are returnees Don Moorhead and Tom Wilkinson and rookies Don Barnes, Eric Guthrie and Rocky Long.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Philadelphia Flyers of the National Hockey League Wednesday signed centre Rick MacLeish, 22, to a three-year contract. In 42 games last year for Richmond Robins of the American Hockey League, he had 23 goals and 11 assists.

Warm Weather Helps Big Pickerel Harvest

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The department of natural resources says it has good news and bad news about angling prospects in the province this week.

First, the good news: The warm weather has prompted some of the best pickerel fishing throughout the province in many years.

Now, the bad news: The warm weather had made it impossible to reach many of the lakes and rivers because a restricted fire zone has forced closure of many roads in northeastern Ontario.

Carl Monk of the department's sports fisheries branch said in an interview that the Kawartha are one of the best areas for pickerel with the hot spot being Goose Bay of Stoney Lake, north of Lindsay.

Other good bets were the Pigeon River near Bobcaygeon, Lake Nipissing, the French River and the Gowganda area, southwest of Kirkland Lake.

"In the hot weather, pickerel and other fish tend to be a bit lazy," said Mr. Monk. "It means you have to work a little harder but the best bet still is to plow troll with minnows.

"One of the best catches last week was at the government dock right in the city of North Bay on the shore of Lake Nipissing.

"A local woman fishing for perch with a minnow landed a 12-pound pickerel.

"Lake trout were hitting well in Lake Temagami north of North Bay but were slower in other lakes.

Several 13- to 15-pound rainbow trout were caught in rivers in Manitoulin Island, especially the Bluejay.

Soviets Protest Loss to Scots

BARCELONA, Spain (CP) — Glasgow Rangers defeated Moscow Dynamo 3-2 Wednesday night to take the European Cup Cup Winners soccer title for the first time in their history.

Following the match, Dynamo lodged an official protest with the Union of European Football Associations, alleging its players were terrified by "completely drunk" Scottish fans. The game was attended by about 25,000 Scots.

The fans battled with club-wielding Spanish police at the end of the match. Droves of police charged onto the field, clubbing spectators in a bid to clear the pitch.

Dynamo coach Konstantin Beskov told reporters that "the cause of our dissatisfaction is entirely due to the Scottish fans attending the match."

He said before the match one of his players was hit by a bottle as he came onto the field.

The Scottish fans hurled sent bottles and beer bottles at the police. A police sergeant was felled for at least five Glasgow supporters were injured. There was no arrests.

Scots a Cinch

GLASGOW (CP) — A 7½to-1 underdog by Leeds United star Peter Lorimer gave Scotland a 1-0 victory over Wales Wednesday night and left it needing only a point from its remaining match to clinch the 1972 British international soccer championship.

Lorimer's only four points from its two matches so far, are fantastic at least by years of the 1930s and need only to draw its final game against England when hens learn to win the championship.

England and Northern Ireland, each with two points from two games, cannot overhaul Scotland.

Frazier Takes On 'Bleeder'

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Slugger Ron Stander and champion Joe Frazier clash here tonight in the first championship fight in Nebraska since 1905.

Frazier is rated a 10-to-1 favorite to retain his heavyweight title in the scheduled 15-round bout which is expected to draw a capacity crowd of 10,000 to Omaha's Civic Auditorium.

Frazier's fourth title defense also will be witnessed by a U.S. television audience beginning at 10 p.m. EDT on a 15-station network.

Stander, the newest challenger from cross-river Council Bluffs, Iowa, said: "I am going to be in there to the finish."

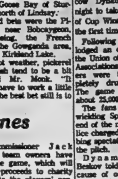
Frazier will carry a 28-6 pro record into the bout and has put all but four of his victims away by knockouts.

Stander is 23-1-1, but has met only Manuel Ramos among the name fighters.



The challenger also has the reputation of being a "bleeder." He has had 69 stitches in his pro career, although he has knocked out 15 opponents.

The chief benefactor from the bout will be the Yancey Durham Jr., Sickle Cell Anemia Foundation.

Frazier is donating half of his share of the proceeds to the foundation. Durham, 17, whose four-year-old son has the disease, is giving all his share.

Frazier is guaranteed $150,000 from television and 40 per cent of the live gate after Mayor Stander's share is 20 per cent of the gate and half of the foreign television money.

Holoway Fires Mead No-Hitter

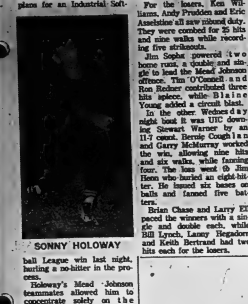
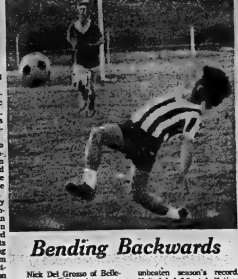
Sonny Holoway threw a wrench into Canadian Tire's plans for an Industrial Softball League win last night, hurling a no-hitter in the process.

Holoway's Mead - Johnson teammates allowed him to concentrate solely on the masterpiece by providing him with nine runs in the first inning and eventually piling up a 26-0 margin.



A fourth inning error permitted the only Canadian Tire base runner of the game as Holoway exhibited flawless control, while setting down 18 batters on strikes.

For the losers, Ken Williams, Andy Prudden and Eric Assebtion all saw rikned duty. They were combed for 25 hits and nine walks while recording five strikeouts.



Jim Sopha powered two home runs, a double and single to lead the Mead Johnson offence. Tim O'Connell and Ron Redner contributed three hits apiece, while Blaine Young added a circuit blast.

In the other Wednesday night bout it was UIC downing Stewart Warner by an 11-7 count. Bernie Coughlan and Garry McMurray worked the win, allowing nine hits and six walks, while fanning four. The loss went to Jim Hess who hurled an eight-hitter. He issued six bases on balls and fanned five batters.

Brian Chase and Larry Ell paced the winners with a single and double each, while Bill Lynch, Lanny Hegadorn and Keith Bertrand had two hits each for the losers.

Bending Backwards

Nick Del Grosso of Belleville United bends over backwards after taking a shot in Wednesday's Bay of Quinte Soccer bout at Zwick's Island. The speedy outside right helped United to a 4-0 win over Quinte transport to maintain their unbeaten season's record. United led 2-0 at half time before Del Grosso set up teammate Chris Johnson for his second goal of the game and scored himself to ensure the win. Mario Colicvich scored the other United goal.

Latta Very Human

PAUL KNUTSON

If it holds true that "to err is human," Latta proved to be real human beings in their 9-3 South Hastings baseball loss to Shannonville last night.

Latta committed eight fielding errors in the conslst, costing them their second straight loss of the season. The miscues sabotaged the pitching efforts of John Hill who barred a five - hitter. Glen and Bill Barberstock split the Shannonville mound duties, giving up only three hits.

The Barberstock brothers whiffed 11 and walked two, while Hill recorded five strikeouts and gave up two walks.

Elaine Loft and Bill Barberstock had a homer and single each for the winners, while Keith Dickey's homer and a double by Mike Munckw were tops for Latta.

No report was submitted from a Melrose - Reserve game.

Knutson New Skip

Paul Knutson has taken over duties as skip of the Quinte Curling Club. The Belleville dentist was elected president of the club for the 1972-73 season, taking over from Dave Brown.

Also elected at the meeting was vice-president Bob Holston and directors: Orl Kruger, Bruce Parsons, Nev Burroughs, Glenn Watson, Ken Candler, Eric Deacon, Doug McLean and Fred Smith.

Squirts Split Gem

Mead Johnson squirts rode the no - hit pitching of Tim Soule and Andy Rossi to a 23-8 OASA exhibition win over Stirling Wednesday.

Soule and Rossi worked three innings each for the Belleville softball all - stars with a walk by Soule giving Stirling their only baserunner. The pair helped their own cause, offensively, with Soule rapping a pair of homers and Rossi adding a homer and two singles.

In a bone league squirt encounter, the Kenmore Bobcats clawed Team Number Six by a whopping 27-1 count. Jeff Heggie connected for three doubles to pace the Bobcats while Dave McKinney added three singles.

Grill Gals Retain Record

Cory Grill won the battle of the Women's Softball unbeatens by taking a 12 - 7 decision from Belleville Yardmen's Benefit Fund Wednesday.

The winners rode the four-hit pitching of Sandra Claus to their second win in as many games, while BYBF lost their first game in two starts this season.

The winning hurler yielded three walks and set seven batters down on strikes. Sue Morton took the loss, giving up 14 hits and two walks while striking out a pair.

Verna Hill keyed the Cory attack with a homer, triple and two singles. Sandra Claus added two doubles and a single, while Jo-Anne Green, Beth Palmer and Carol Merrill had two hits each.

Sue Morton aided her own cause with a double and two singles, while Donna Preston and Sheila Ray had two hits each.

In a battle between the two new league entries Bob Blain-Red Barn hung an 18-7 loss on Belleville Broadloom.

Terry Hounslow had two homers and a single for Bob Blain - Red Barn with Lillian Reid adding a round tripper. Norma Fuller and Marianne Sills homered in a losing cause.

Stable Opens Well

Winnemaker and Bolly Stables showed that they could hang up with the North Shore Softball League pace by edging Bayview Orchards 4 - 3 Wednesday in the league opener.

A three - run rally in the fourth and a single fifth-frame clincher gave the win to Winnemaker's. Gary Eardley fired seven - hit ball for the winners, walking two and nipping seven on strikes.

For Bayview it was Jim Ball going the route. He allowed only five hits and two walks while recording five strikeouts.

Pete Moran paced the winners with two hits, helped by single safeties from Jack Crozier, Lyle Johnson and Bob Morris. For Bayview it was Steve Dontaine and George Daniels with two hits each.

In the second game of the doubleheader, the Junior Farmers bounced Consecon 11-2. Clarke Alexander fired five-hit ball to record the win, whiffing 18 out including a single base on balls. Lorne Hotchford helped the winners with the only two - hit effort of the contest.

Wills Paid $100,000 on Bench

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Maury Wills, who at age 33 signed his first $100,000 contract this year with Los Angeles Dodgers, says he's embarrassed to accept a paycheque.

"I'm a $100,000 player who's being used as a reserve base runner and pinch hitter," Wills said. "I've been in pro baseball for 22 years and always felt I've earned every cent I've made.

"I just can't understand how I can go from major league shortstop of the year last season to nothing. I'm not over the hill yet, but I guess they've given up on me."

Wills was benched in favor of Bill Russell, 23, at shortstop 26 games ago after getting only seven hits in his first 60 at-bats.

Wills, who set a major league record with 104 stolen bases in 1962 ,said sitting on the bench is "tough, really tough."

CFL Blacks Get Poor Off-season Jobs

OTTAWA (CP) — While players and black players have sharply differing views as to why the blacks seldom advance to coaching positions in the Canadian Football League, two faculty members of the University of Western Ontario have found.

The majority of white players suppose that too few blacks are qualified to step into coaching jobs, the two researchers report in a study published in a Canadian civil-rights periodical, The Black.

Black players, they add, believe that the league is influenced by U.S. practices and is not ready to make such appointments.

Promotion off the field, they say, seems to be "one of the major areas of discrimination in the CFL."

The researchers also state that the promises of off-season jobs made to black players by CFL recruiters are empty in comparison to the actual jobs arranged for white players.

"One black player, a university graduate and an authentic All-American was offered a job washing cars.

"In another situation, a black player, a league all-star, was offered a job pumping gas while a white player with comparable academic background and an only average player, was given a job as a representative for an oil company at twice the pay of the black player."

The report adds that an examination of team records suggests that a quota system may exist in the CFL. Few teams have more than six black players on their odd-season rosters, it states. Most teams have only four or five.

Bantams Over Heads

The bantam all-stars were not only out of their age group, but they were a little out of their class as they absorbed an 18-3 loss in the A and B. Esso midgets in Belleville Minor Lacrosse action Wednesday.

Roger Chapman led the red with six goals, while Rod Mallory counted four and David Drake three for the winners. Richardson scored a pair for the bantams.

In another midget encounter, three goals by Rick Barbeau sparked the Auto Dealers to a 6-0 win over the Seacadets.

Four goals by Laurie Wilson helped the Y's Men peewees to a 5-5 split with the T-Birds. Steve Vincent scored the other goal for the Y's Men while Doug Rainboth (2), Alan Hallett, John Bongeman and Guy Sneath scored for the T-Birds.

The other peewee game saw the Police handcuff the Belly Queen 6-1. Gerry Healey had two goals for the winners with singles going to Danny Duffy and Peter Charlebois.

A review of the past season and a financial statement were presented at the meeting, while plans got under way for the annual TMHA walkathon.

Bombs Kill 3 at U.S. Army Compound

HEIDELBERG, West Germany (AP) — Bombs went off Wednesday night in two cars parked inside the U.S. Army's European command headquarters compound, killing three American soldiers and injuring five other persons.

It was the second bomb attack on an army compound in West Germany in the last two weeks. An American lieutenant-colonel was killed and 18 persons were injured May 11 by three bombs that shattered the officers' club of a headquarters building in Frankfurt.

An army spokesman said the blasts Wednesday in cars parked some 150 yards apart blew a hole in a wall of a data processing building at the Heidelberg compound and shattered glass in a movie theatre and officers' club at Heidelberg's Campbell Barracks. The post is headquarters for the European command's 190,000 men spread out across the country.

The three dead were in the vicinity of the data processing building when the first bomb detonated. Three military personnel and two civilians were treated for lacerations.

The second blast went off 10 seconds later in a car parked as a large lot facing the officers' club and theatre.

Reports from the scene said U.S. military police seized three Germans in connection with the blasts.

Walker's Get New Look

Over the past several weeks, downtown Belleville's Front Street has undergone many a change . . . some good, and others not quite as inviting as one might want — a fire, for instance.

For the past several weeks workmen have been hustling and bustling around Walker's Department Store, preparing for a gala opening which will mark completion of a $150,000 renovation project initiated in April.

Douglas Reynolds of Toronto, district manager for the chain, says even more space will be opened up for selling. One of these areas is the basement which will now house the children's and shoe departments as well as customer services.

"We're completely remodelling, from top to bottom," Mr. Reynolds said during a tour of the Front Street store.

Extra departments are being planned to give additional service. The youthful man will get a chance to select his clothes from the Young Men's Shop; anyone with a sweet tooth can tackle the tempting toffees at the new candy department and for the especially budget - minded, a sports and lingerie department catering to less expensive items is being opened.

While these latter are budget departments, Walker's is not attempting to go discount.

"We're still going to maintain our good quality merchandise," said the Toronto executive. "There are enough discounters around."

Remodelling and extension is also under way on the second fashion floor and the cosmetics department.

Some weeks ago, the store went exterior in its facelifting program. A modern, dark wood motif bearing the Walker's symbol was installed, adding a brightness to the street.

The face of this large department store has experienced several changes over the years. Previous to its purchase by the Walker company, the building housed the Canadian Department Stores Ltd.

When that company, a branch of the T. Eaton Company, took over the Front Street building in the early 1930s, it required extensive renovations. It had previously housed the Ritchie Company, at that time one of the oldest business firms in Belleville.

Mr. Reynolds says his company has great faith in the future of the downtown business district. This remodelling has not only allowed the store to improve facilities, extend merchandise lines and open new departments, but several additional staff members have been hired.

"We feel the money will be well spent," he said.

Road Report Presented

PICTON (Staff) — A program to reduce the number of gable posts on curves and shallow fills has been completed in Prince Edward following a recommendation from the ministry of transportation and communications.

It was done with the reduction in mowing costs, painting costs and the costs of reflective material and replacement is "in line with the reduction in subsidy for maintenance."

In a report to the chairman of Prince Edward County council's road committee, county engineer Donald Clarke pointed out cold patching of the mix and double seals and gravel patching of primed roads has been carried out continously.

Primed roads have been bladed over to keep them reasonably smooth for traffic and in shape for priming.

Rough and broken areas on county road 14 have been scarified, graveled and bladed in preparation for priming. Approximately 2,000 feet of

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

Friday, May 26

Aries (March 21-April 19): Get an early start, wrap up the week's routines neatly, as you will not have much chance to go back and change anything.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Catch up with your local neighborhood news. Improve your communication, enrich your home life with interesting added.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Get much routine done as coolly as possible, keep your personal affairs under control. Romantic matters are in order; decide what you will need.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): To others you may appear moody; to yourself it seems you are right. Bring in all who will help progress toward worthy goals.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): A smile costs nothing, can make quite a difference in what happens today. Find time for extra rest, then return to old routine tomorrow.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): There's nothing to stop you from growing wiser now, although you may be mentally lazy. Be ready for tomorrow.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Clear the decks and take a break as soon as you can. Paperwork and correspondence need review and selection. Get rid of useless materials.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Consider your appearance, approach; if you are not completely satisfied with both, do something to improve them.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Thinking about yesterday might give you an idea of what to do tomorrow. Keep your own counsel; some discretion is advised a bit now.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Get to the cause of anything that has gone wrong lately, do what you can to set matters right. Bring in all who will help with the problem.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Everybody is willing to be pleasant, but not to do a great deal of work. Do your share of responsibility, finish what you started.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Finish projects as you settle the work of the week to keep—you have something different about little chance to change anything

To Your Good Health

Hepatitis Blamed For Falling Hair

By G. C. THORSTEEN, MD

Dear Dr. Thorsteen: I have been having problems with my hair for over a month now. I comb it and a bunch comes out on the comb.

My doctor told me it was related to the condition I am in—that the hepatitis caused my hair to fall out.

I am 37. Have you any suggestions?—Mrs. J. H.

I don't for a moment doubt that the hepatitis caused your problem of growth. A hair grows for about three years, then comes out. The hair shaft falls out. Presently, a new hair shaft grows in. The average number of hairs on a human head is 25 to 75 shafts a day. So a few hairs on the comb or brush don't mean baldness is around the corner.

However, there are other factors that play a role. In women, it is pregnancy that accounts for the loss of hair is greater. In some cases there can be increased hair loss with pregnancy, although this usually balances out afterward. Sometimes these sometimes causes it.

And it is well known that ill ness, particularly if it is accompanied by fever, can cause increased hair loss. So can extreme malnutrition; also thyroid deficiency.

In your case, we can just about take it for granted that the hepatitis and some of the dirty work, but you are at an age at which some thinning of pretty much expectable, too.

There isn't much as so many people seem to think, none vitamin you can take, or any curative diet, or anything you can rub on your scalp.

Best advice for you, I am sure, is to be patient. At least some new hair shafts will appear and, while you can't expect to regain a head of hair such as you had when you were a girl, you should regain some that you have lost. Not all that much is gone from your comb is permanently lost.

Also be gentle when shampooing, combing or brushing, to avoid pulling out or breaking hair shafts. Vigorous brushing may be all right for the young ones, but in your case you want to avoid anything that increases the loss.

Dear Dr. Thorsteen: To the lady who wrote about itching after a hippie's visit:

We run a motel. My husband rented to four hippies one night. After that, every time we went in the room, something would get on you, but you couldn't see it.

I called our termite control people, and they put a "bomb" in the room. We kept the room, but for four days, No. 9 was bugs now, but never again do we rent to hippies.—M. R.

I guess I can see why the hippies want to protest against some things—but why revolt against soap and hygiene, too?

Dear Thorsteen: Is it correct to put water in a five-month-old baby's ears while giving it his a bath?—F. S.

No! If he has no ear problem. The water will drain out when he sits up. But if he has an ear infection or other ear trouble, try to keep water out.

Trade Prospects Said Not Good

TORONTO (CP) — Canada's prospects in world trade are not good, says a report by the Ontario Economic Council.

The 90-page report made public Wednesday predicts that the 1970s "will not be characterized by explosive growth but rather by a fundamental restructuring of the economy."

From a study of the economic and social changes that took place in Ontario from 1959 to 1970, the council predicts trends for the 1970s.

It blames the emergence of trading blocs, such as the European Common Market, for a "significant multi-national component" in Canada's bleak world trade prospects.

It says the case for further expansion of world trade is being increasingly questioned on the grounds that this strategy leads to further development of a relatively few giant corporations."

Benefits to nations in which these multi-national corporations operate "are allegedly limited", as they restrict the power of the state to control its own economic destiny.

The report warns that vast government spending isn't the answer to employment problems caused by forced changes in the economic system. Secondary industry, particularly manufacturing, would have to become more competitive.

It said that on a national level, Canada is relatively undeveloped, dependent on the production of staple products.

But the national economic picture does not apply to Ontario which has "completely outgrown all the other provinces in its development as an urban, industrial society."

Door-to-door Sellers Confer

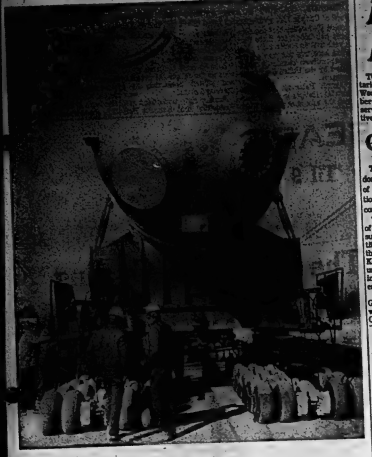
MONTREAL (CP) — A sales conference was told today that government regulation and self-policing is needed to improve consumer confidence in door-to-door selling.



Virginia Knauer, special assistant on consumer affairs to U.S. President Nixon, praised the industry for showing a greater sense of social responsibility in recent years.

But the industry "must ... be prepared for continuing change in the next few years in the consumer's approach to seeking regulation of the market place," she told the International Congress of Direct-Selling companies.

Mrs. Knauer said consumers are growing more dependent on state, rather than federal, consumer protection legislation.

Provinces Asked Not to Cut Welfare as Allowances Rise

OTTAWA (CP) — Provincial governments have been asked not to penalize welfare recipients for getting higher federal family allowances, Health Minister John Munro said Wednesday.

He told the Commons health committee he believes the provinces will not lower welfare payments to families who will get higher federal family allowances when the planned new family allowance program comes into effect.

New Democrat Grace MacInnis (Vancouver Kingsway) said she is concerned the British Columbia government would lower its welfare payments to families getting higher family allowances.

Conservative MPs, however, concentrated their concern on the upper-income families who would lose all or part of their family allowances under the new plan.

"Robin Hood did it a lot easier," commented P. B. Rynard (Simcoe North). He also called the ...ewed new program "no big deal."

Howe (Wellington-Grey-Dufferin-Waterloo) proposed measures to assist upper-income families. He said one of his constituents, who had four children and income of $10,300 a year, had asked for a higher cut-off point for benefits.

Under the plan, the amount of benefits declines as family income rises. For a one-child family, maximum benefits are paid if income is $4,500 or less, and the payments decline by 33 cents a month for each additional $100 of income. For each other child, the income level for maximum payments rises $500.

If Mr. Howe's constituent's children were all under 12, the family would still get $2.46 a month for each child. The family would not be cut off from benefits until its income reached $11,000.

Mr. Howe suggested that the cutoff level be $12,000. He also said income taxes should be deducted from a family's income and the remainder used in deciding whether that family gets any payments.

Mr. Munro replied that such measures would cost additional money and would have to come through taxes, from the very families Mr. Howe wanted to get more payments for.

Puerto Rican Student Loses Deportation Case

OTTAWA (CP) — The immigration appeal board has decided an appeal by Humberto Pagan Hernandez, a Puerto Rican student charged with the shooting of a police officer last year in San Jose.

Pagan fled the U.S. possession while free on bail after he was charged with the murder of Commander Juan Mercado during a university riot in March, 1971.

The 21-year-old member of the Puerto Rican Independentista movement entered Canada under an assumed name and was ordered deported for that reason.

Pagan's lawyer, Clayin Ruby of Toronto, said in a telephone interview Wednesday he may appeal the ruling to the Federal Court of Canada.

Pagan's appeal against the deportation order was based on his claim that he would face unusual punishment or hardship in Puerto Rico and, because of his association with the independence movement, could not receive a fair trial there.

The appeal board decision, issued Wednesday nearly two months after the conclusion of the hearing, said there was no evidence that the government of Puero Rico, or its parent government in Washington, specifically published independence advocates for their political beliefs.

Move Made to Widen Field For Civil Service Bargaining

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario government took steps Wednesday to broaden the number of items which the civil service can negotiate in collective bargaining.

Charles McNaughton, chairman of the cabinet's management board, introduced in a legislature committee amendments to a bill which provides for collective bargaining.

His main amendment eliminates the power of the cabinet to determine under the Public Service Act what matters would be subject to bargaining in a collective agreement.

Because the bill affects 32,000 civil servants and prohibits their right to strike, the Civil Service Association of Ontario had sought to end limitations on items that could be discussed in formulating a collective agreement.

George Gemmell, president of the CSAO, said in an interview that although he "didn't stand up and cheer" he was "happier" with the amendments.

But it also set out exclusive rights of the employer such as principles and standards governing promotion, demotion, transfers, layoffs, discipline and termination of employment.

Mr. MacNaughton said this amendment ensured employees would not be at a disadvantage "in any question of interpretation" referred to an arbitrator.

The government wanted to be responsible to the legislature on items such as promotion, job classification, work complement and work methods rather than refer them to an arbitrator who is not answerable to the legislature, he said.

The committee let stand the section of the bill that prohibits civil servants from striking but Harold Bowen, general manager of the CSAO, warned "if the issue is strong enough there will be a strike."

He accused the government of taking away "rights from a segment of the population especially when those rights have been won by the rest of the population."

Competition for Community Colleges Not Desired

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario does not want a "proliferation" of some types of private educational institutions, a government committee was told Wednesday.

"We've built a large system of community colleges and I suppose we feel the less competition the better as far as they're concerned" George Kerr, minister of colleges and universities, told the committee investigating his department's estimates.

He was replying to Dr. George McIlveen (PC—Oshawa) who told him of a student in Oshawa who got a $1,000 student loan to attend a private Toronto radio college and spent $700 of the loan on GO Transit between Oshawa and Toronto.

Dr. McIlveen pointed out that GO Transit was half-fare for students in universities and community colleges but not for the two-old radio college students.

"Why wouldn't this boy be treated the same as any other community college student or any university student?" Dr. McIlveen asked.

Mr. Kerr said that students in private schools are not eligible for GO half-fare because "we don't want to seem to be subsidizing private institutions in this province."

Sharp Sees Change in Rhodesia

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp says that as a result of the British Pearce Commission study of Rhodesia, "the situation in that country will not be the same again, but I hesitate to predict what will happen."

Mr. Sharp told reporters he hoped the white minority Ian Smith regime in Rhodesia will realize that some progress must be made toward majority rule. In the meantime, Canada would continue to refuse recognition of the white government.

The Pearce Commission was established last year to seek the views of the people of Rhodesia on the proposed terms of a settlement agreed to by the British and Rhodesian governments. The Commission now has reported that the proposals are not acceptable to the Rhodesian people.

Winter Shipping Creates Problem

CHICAGO (AP) — Mixed feelings were expressed Wednesday at the first public hearings of the Winter Navigation Board, a committee studying the economic and environmental impact of extending the shipping season on the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence seaway.

Industrial shippers expressed a favorable reaction; utility companies seemed wary, and ecologists were concerned.

The season varies according to weather conditions but normally opens about April 1 and runs eight to 8½ months. Extension could be for several weeks based on ice-breaking.

However, ice-breaking creates a problem: When the cleared waterway refreezes, ice jams are formed. These reduce or close off the current in rivers and interfere with turbine intakes of hydroelectric plants.

A representative of Edison Sault Electric Co. of Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., told the hearing that such jams last winter caused power losses.

A spokesman for Ontario Hydro said the utility "would benefit from an extended crossLake navigation season, although it is felt that the benefits may not be commensurate with the shipping risks involved."

A representative of the New York State Power Authority said it would "vigorously oppose ice-breaking measures in Lake Erie that would adversely affect ice control in the Niagara River."

He said river-channel enlargements were supplemented in 1959 by a series of six ice booms, which hold ice as it forms and prevents breakups.

"Since the addition of the ice booms, a stable ice cover forms each winter in the international section of the St. Lawrence River and thereby limits generation of additional ice," he said. "A navigation season extended into the winter months assumes the existence of an open-water track through the ice cover.

"This poses two major problems: It probably will destroy the structural integrity of the ice cover, and it also will provide an expanse of open water in which additional ice will be generated."

Increase Studied

OTTAWA (CP) — The government is studying recently-approved telephone rate increases worth an estimated $47 million a year for Bell Canada Ltd., but so far has no plans to rescind the rates, Communications Minister Robert Stanbury told the Commons Wednesday. He said he has no authority to rescind the rate increases and that no one has made the necessary request for a review by the government that could lead to such action.

Mail Delayed

OTTAWA (CP) — Delivery of surface mail from Europe is being delayed because of the longshoremen's strike in Montreal and Quebec City. The post office said Wednesday that most of the mail is parcels arriving from Britain, France, Germany and the Netherlands. A lesser amount of outgoing mail for Britain, Poland and Cuba is also being delayed.

Nigeria Aided

OTTAWA (CP) — A $5-million interest-free loan to Nigeria was announced Wednesday by the Canadian International Development Agency. The loan will be used to establish a line of credit, allowing Nigeria to purchase Canadian goods and services without depleting its foreign exchange reserves.

Thief Killed

BANGKOK (Reuter) — Police in Thailand's northern province of Phrae shot and killed a man as he tried to collect ransom money for two elephants he had stolen. Police sources said Wednesday that Prasit Chamdai, 29, demanded the equivalent of $900 to return the elephants. He turned up to collect the money and police shot him as he resisted arrest.

Art Recovered

MESTRE, Italy (AP) — Police recovered a priceless Renaissance work of Florentine painter Sandro Botticelli Tuesday, six days after it was stolen. The work, a 14th-century polyptych of 10 paintings shows the Madonna and saints, was undamaged, police said. They seized it while four persons were transferring it from one car to another near this lagoon town. The four ran away.

More Planes

WASHINGTON (AP) — With the United States stepping up the air war over North Vietnam, the Pentagon disclosed Wednesday that additional B-52 bombers are being sent to Indochina. A Pentagon spokesman also broadened somewhat the targets available to U.S. pilots, saying that "any targets" supporting the North's war effort will be subject to attack.

RESIDENTS ACT

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — About 2,000 residents of a suburban shanty town went on a club-swinging rampage and destroyed 20 shacks used for prostitution. Residents said they could not let their children out because of bad language, fights and occasional shots in the area.

Ford Denies Union Charge

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — A day by Steve Harris, president of Local 200 of the United Auto Workers union, "has utterly no basis in fact."

Mr. Harris had said that Mr. Paterson had given the plant's failure to meet emission standards established by the United States government.

Joseph Paterson, Ford's industrial relations manager here, said the allegations made Tues-

Another Ford spokesman said Wednesday that Kenneth Hallworth, the company's vice-president in charge of industrial relations, will consult with Denis McDermott, the UAW's Canadian regional director, to discuss reports of possible Canadian layoffs by the company.

There have been reports that the company may be forced to shut down its Canadian plants temporarily while the parent Ford Motor Co. in the United States recuns emission certifications tests of its 1973 cars for the U.S. government.

Nuclear Arms Pact Clears Late Hurdle

Treaty Limits Missile Sites

MOSCOW (CP) — President Nixon and Soviet leaders reached agreement today on the critical summit issue of limiting strategic nuclear arms.

A two-part settlement of the thorny arms curb question, the subject of 2½ years of negotiation, is to be signed tonight.

Resolution of last-minute differences on highly technical aspects of the accord prompted Nixon to postpone for an hour an evening dinner at the U.S. ambassador's residence where the visiting American will entertain the Soviet hierarchy.

Word of a strategic arms limitation agreement came after a day of on-again, off-again reports of the prospects for a Friday settlement.

One part of the agreement, limiting defensive anti-ballistic missile sites in each country, takes the form of a treaty subject to ratification by the U.S. Senate and was agreed upon first.

Under the terms of a companion executive agreement, which will take effect when the legislative action, deployment of offensive nuclear missiles will be frozen at the present level as far as the United States is concerned. The Russians will be allowed to catch up with the U.S. lead in launching platforms.

The second permits both countries to replace existing offensive missiles, whether placed on land or aboard ships at sea, with more sophisticated weapons as technological advances permit.

Advisers to President Nixon and Kremlin leader Leonid Brezhnev met throughout the day to iron out the final technical details and present their chiefs with the grand prize they sought during their summit talks.

Then the president and the top three Kremlin leaders, Brezhnev, President Nikolai Podgorny and Premier Alexei Kosygin, met soon after 3 p.m.

White House press secretary Ronald Ziegler, who was pessimistic earlier today about the prospects for an immediate accord, said:

"We expect to sign it today. It's pretty well wrapped up."

Nixon and Brezhnev did not meet in the morning, working separately in their offices, but their advisers were given urgent instructions to go into hard negotiating session so that the treaty could be signed on schedule.

Ziegler also said he did not expect any substantive agreements on trade today. Other sources said prospects for substantial sale of U.S. grain to the Soviets looked brighter, and the critical problem of arranging credit was moving toward resolution.

However, snags were said to persist in talks between State Secretary William Rogers and Premier Alexei Kosygin on broader questions of trade and commercial relations.

What Makes It Tick?

Randy MacDonald and Kevin Willerton, grade 2 students, are intrigued at a demonstration given by Heather McGeown, a grade 6 pupil at Prince of Wales School and participant in the school's science fair Friday. The projects prepared by groups from two grade 6 classes stemmed from a trip to the Toronto Science Centre, where they investigated the principles they wanted to demonstrate, then returned to the school to set them up.

All Could Have Been Done By Mail

MOSCOW (AP) — "It all could have been done by mail," said a Western diplomat stationed in Moscow as he surveyed the first five Soviet - American agreements signed during President Nixon's Kremlin summit.

"Once of them required a presidential visit," the diplomat added.

Big Bomb Kills Two

BELFAST (CP) — At least two persons were believed killed when a huge bomb went off in a market place near the city centre of Belfast, the Northern Ireland capital.

The bomb was hidden in an automobile outside a car showroom. The area was crowded with people and no warning was given.

There appeared to be many casualties and ambulances worked in relays taking people to hospital.

Bomb Damages Plane at Jamaica

KINGSTON, Jamaica (Reuter) — An explosive device, planted aboard a Cubana Boeing 727, blew a hole in the fuselage and forced it to make an emergency landing Thursday at Montego Bay while on a flight to Madrid.

None of the 16-man crew or the 48 passengers was injured in the blast. The passengers later left on another flight for the United States.

Was Bremer in Ottawa?

Man with sunglasses (fourth from right, and partly hidden) bears striking resemblance to Arthur H. Bremer, the man charged in the United States with the shooting of Presidential candidate George Wallace. This picture shows part of the crowd on Parliament Hill in Ottawa April 14 as U.S. President Richard Nixon was addressing members of the Canadian Parliament in the Commons chamber. The Toronto Star says that Bremer "stalked President Nixon during his Ottawa visit and that the RCMP and FBI are investigating this aspect of the case. ## Oil Industry Strikes Out In Bid to Block New Tax

EDMONTON (CP) — Indications are that the petroleum industry has struck out in attempts to block the Alberta government's plan to pump another $30 million to $50 million in revenue out of the industry.

During three days of public hearings before a committee of the legislature, the industry claimed the proposal to tax crude oil reserves would cripple the oil industry and hobble the provincial economy.

But even before the hearings ended Thursday, government spokesmen said the objections had a familiar ring.

Back in 1951, said Don Getty, minister of federal and inter-governmental affairs, the industry claimed increased royalties would shake investor confidence, reduce exploration and cause unemployment.

Bill Dickie, minister of mines and minerals, said the same objections were raised to a royalty increase in 1962.

The same arguments are being used today in an automatic kind of reaction," Mr. Getty said.

Mr. Dickie said the next stage in the government-industry confrontation is an assessment and evaluation of the hearings, with a final government decision due July 30.

France Plans to Defy Anti-test Sentiments

PARIS (Reuter) — France is defying vigorous protests of South Pacific countries in going ahead with a new series of nuclear tests "designed to perfect her thermonuclear arsenal.

The latest series, beginning in June, is aimed at solving the problems of miniaturizing nuclear warheads and improving rocket guidance systems. Two or three nuclear blasts are expected.

But even some French service chiefs, as well as opposition parties here, are questioning whether such controversial testing in the atmosphere should continue.

Chile, Japan, Australia, Peru and New Zealand have said they may convene a conference of Pacific Basin nations to demonstrate concern.

Like China—but unlike the Soviet Union, the United States and Britain—France is not a signatory to the International treaty which bans nuclear testing in the atmosphere.

Regional Aid Is Questioned

MEDICINE HAT, Alta. (CP) — The federal industrial incentive program for slow growth areas would be reassessed by a Conservative government, Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield said Thursday night.

He supported in principle the incentive program administered by the department of regional economic expansion, "but it is apparent that the DREE program has had little success despite the large amount of money the government has spent on it."

Labor Election Tests British Strike Control

LONDON (CP) — With the deadline for the receipt of union-member votes on Britain's protracted railway dispute now set for Saturday night, a new test for the institution established by the country's Conservative government is nearing another milestone in its already-eventful life.

More than 200,000 employees of the publicly-owned British Railways are being asked to vote on whether to accept the idea of further protest action following recent pay offers by the management.

An order providing for the ballot was one of the more spectacular initial acts of the National Industrial Relations Court, which has begun to make a serious impact on Britain's tense labor-relations scene only in the last month.

The impression given by Opposition representatives is that the new court is part of a vast Conservative plot to bring the country's unions firmly to heel.

Prime Minister Heath—on the other hand, insists that the Industrial Relations Court and other aspects of Conservative policy on unions in strike-weary Britain is part of a general effort to find new ways of reaching sensible settlements in the country's chronic wage disputes.

Motorcyclists Raid Hotel

TORONTO (CP) — A motorcycle gang attacked patrons of a west-end hotel Thursday night, injuring at least seven persons and wrecking two beverage rooms.

The fight apparently was the result of a fight in the hotel earlier in the week in which two members of the Paradise Riders motorcycle Club were injured.

Two persons were admitted to hospital with severe head injuries and five others were treated for cuts and bruises and released.

A witness said about 30 motorcyclists, many with the name Paradise Riders on their jackets, parked their bikes across the street from the Parkdale Hotel. About 19 persons went into the women's beer hall in the rear of the hotel and the others entered the men's beverage room.

They began hitting everything and everyone in sight with chains, baseball bats, steel pipes, crowbars and wooden sticks, the witness said.

"My feet are killing me!"

Anti-strike Law May Be Changed

QUEBEC (CP) — Contract negotiations between the Quebec government and unions representing public service workers resumed Thursday with the government side agreeing to study possible changes in legislation which ended an 11 day public service strike in April.

Jean Cournoyer, labor and civil service minister, said he would consider three possible changes in legislation threatening imposition of a contract settlement on some 310,000 public service workers if no negotiated settlement is reached by June 1.

Mr. Cournoyer said he would consider:

—Postponing the June 30 deadline for imposition of a settlement.

—Deleting any reference in the legislation to such a deadline.

New U.S. Missiles Halt Tank Attack

SAIGON (CP) — U.S. forces firing electronically guided missiles newly introduced in Vietnam broke up a tank assault on Kontum City in the central highlands today. A dozen tanks were reported destroyed.

On the northern front, South Vietnamese marines beat back the fourth assault this week on the northernmost defence line at My Chanh, north of Hue. The Saigon command claimed 192 North Vietnamese troops were killed and said South Vietnamese losses were seven killed and 34 wounded.

Other rangers on the eastern flank of the My Chanh line were reported battling for a third day.

Meanwhile, 12 miles southwest of Hue, South Vietnamese infantrymen reoccupied Fire Base Checkmate, and field reports said 31 North Vietnamese were killed.

In the air war against North Vietnam, American planes pounded the Haiphong area Thursday for the third day in a campaign to isolate the major port from the rest of the country.

Pilots reported destroying one span each of the Haiphong and Kien An highway bridges about six miles north of the city.

They also attacked the Ben Thuy power plant near Vinh, 145 miles north of the demilitarized zone. It was the fifth power plant attacked since the Nixon administration broadened the air war to include industrial targets.

Heavy fighting continued in Kontum for the second day, and field reports said the North Vietnamese were trying to capture their second provincial capital. The country's northernmost provincial capital, Quang Tri, fell May 1. Kontum is 265 miles north of Saigon.

A number of North Vietnamese troops were reported still in the northeastern and southeastern sections of the city, but South Vietnamese forces were reported to have them contained and under attack.

Field reports said the North Vietnamese also held two small hamlets a short distance in the northeast and south of Kontum.

Synopsis: Southern Ontario appears headed for another weekend of sunny warm weather. The gusty easterly winds which cooled temperatures slightly Thursday will become southwesterly Saturday enabling the return of the warmer weather of earlier in the week.

Theft Loss Set at $5,000

City police have estimated theft loss at National Grocers Co. Ltd. warehouse on Emily Street this week at approximately $5,000.

Although a spokesman for the company says this estimate is "too high," an executive figure of the goods stolen in what has been termed "a professional" break-in, has not been released.

Workers Wednesday morning discovered a large quantity of cigarettes and watches stolen from the warehouse.

The first, for five days, ended with a wound and the second, for five more days, ended with a case of malaria.

The inspection will begin at 2 p.m. with officers falling in and colors marched on. The exercise is open to the public.

Commanding officer for the inspection will be cadet Major J. E. Nolan and his second-in-command will be cadet Captain S. F. Bone.

The two platoon commanders for the day will be cadet Lieutenants D. E. Welch and K. R. Stewart.

The main body of the day's events will be the demonstrations of cadet skills.

The precision drill squad will be first on the parade square under the command of cadet Master Warrant Officer D. R. MacDonald followed by a weapons display directed by cadet Lieutenant K. R. Stewart.

A piece of spectacular in the display will be the scorpion relay rescue team, lowering a casualty from the upper floor of the armouries to the parade square. Cadet Corporal R. G. Ryan will conduct.

After the inspecting officer's remarks, Commanding officer Major A. W. Cunningham will announce awards, followed by dismissal.

Kitty Wells Sings Here

Mrs. John Wright, the former Muriel Deason, is a grandmother, but unlike most grandmothers, she spends a great deal of her time travelling across North America and visiting other countries.

Better known in country and western music circles as Kitty Wells, this proponent of the heartbreak ballad — "It's a Sin Side of Town, They're Stepp'in' All Over My Heart, I Gave My Wedding Dress Away and Paying for That Backstreet Affair, to mention a few . . . will appear in Belleville tonight at Centennial Secondary School at 8:30 p.m.

Here is a career that stridles several decades. In fact, billed as the "Queen of 'em All," she is credited with the establishment of the female star in the country and western music world.

Voted the number one country music artist every year from 1953 to 1963, Kitty Wells has appeared on most major television programs, quite often with her husband, Johnny Wright, a performer in his own right.

She began playing the guitar near the age of 14 and started singing at a tender age there that. Music wasn't always the foremost passion for the singing granny. While she and her husband were employed at various manufacturing companies in Nashville, Tennessee, music was only a sideline.

In the late 1930s, they got their first break with a radio show in Nashville. In 1940 they signed a local contract and moved to radio in North Carolina.

In 1948 they moved to Shreveport, Louisiana, to work on the legendary Louisiana Hayride, eventually returning to Nashville where they joined the Grand Ole Opry in 1952 . . . the year that marked her rise in the industry.

Appearing with her at Centennial Secondary School will be her husband Johnny and son Bobby Wright, a former star of the Mickie's Navy TV series, writer-singer Bill Phillips and a full back-up crew.

Budget Amount Not Enough?

TRENTON (Staff) — Doubt is mounting here whether the new municipal office-parking garage complex can be completed for the $200,000 amount set aside for the project in the 1972 capital budget.

Although the capital budget is finalized, architect Tony Leising of Leising Associates has told councillors formally or informally, the prospect of getting a price tag near $200,000 is unlikely.

Full specifications for the project were made available to contractors yesterday following a committee of the whole decision Monday to call tenders.

The base price being talked of here is about $250,000 but estimates range higher, to about the same amount as Trenton's participation in the earlier aborted condominium scheme organized by Mayor-realer David K. Linden.

"I may have my doubts (about the price) . . ." Mayor Dorothea McDonald said today, "but we will just have to wait for the tenders." First date for receipt of tenders is June 19.

Jury Recommends Safety Measures

BRIGHTON (Staff) — A five-man inquest jury inquiring Thursday into a dual fatality last winter made three general recommendations.

— the safety of crossings should be insured in winter by proper salting or sanding of the crossing surface, and through the removal of obstructions to visibility.

— the Canadian Transport Commission should give consideration to the reduction of the speed at which trains are permitted to run through level crossings.

The inquest into the death of William James Richardson who at 37 was killed February 24 when his car was struck by a train at a Barnum Beach Road crossing, lasted just under three hours in court chambers here. Mrs. Phyllis Ann Hill, 36, of RR4, Trenton, passenger in the Richardson vehicle, also died in the crash but the nature of her death was not directly object of the inquest yesterday.

The jury accepted post mortem findings that Richardson died of hemorrhage and shock at the time of impact.

Toxicology analysis, the inquest was told, indicated Richardson had consumed roughly the equivalent alcohol content of one ounce of rye whiskey in 50 milligrams percent alcohol, considerably less than is disapproved by law.

The couple had been going to a bowling match when the mishap occurred at the crossing midway between Trenton and Brighton.

Northumberland - Durham crown attorney Geoffrey Bonnycastle fixed as an exhibit a green bowling bag found in the Richardson automobile and containing a sparkling wine and ginger ale. A bottle of rye was found elsewhere in the vehicle.

Vincent Hill of Trenton, who had fired the deceased's car earlier in the evening of the crash, said Richardson and he had a drink from the whisky bottle when Richardson came to pick up his car, Hill said the deceased was in a hurry because he had to get ready to go out bowling.

Hill submitted as an exhibit was a stereo cassette tape of country music by the Richardson car. Fired into the player was a tape cassette indicating that music had been playing in the car as the couple drove to Brighton and Belleville daylight.

Provincial police driver Arnold Welch of Belleville said he saw the car approach the crossing at a speed "that made the driver could stop . . . he was going too fast." He said: "the car wasn't slowing down . . . I became alarmed and began blowing my horn and into sharp bursts and applied the emergency brakes."

A train passenger told the jury the whistling awoke her while she was in the train's passenger section. Welch said he heard the car collision three him out of his seat.

Murray township clerk C. Kenneth Rose testified the township had cleared obstructions from the bushes from the area around the crossing prior to the mishap. He said the Canadian Transport Commission had determined the crossing in question was safe without automatic signals, adding correspondence confirms of the fact. He said, however in a letter alone, the township had made no moves to try to secure installation of automatic signals.

Expert Visits Sandbanks

PICTON (Staff) — Dr. Walter Tovell, associate director of the Royal Ontario Museum has made his first visit to the Sandbanks as part of a study conducted there by the Lake Ontario Cement Company Ltd.

Dr. Tovell reportedly is a stated by Harold Hindmarsh of Prince Edward to revisit the 16 acre park property at the provincial government to the LOCL.

A report is expected from Dr. Tovell to Leo Bernier minister of natural resources by June 30.

Mr. Bernier told a delegation of Prince Edward county councillors who visited his office in Toronto concerning the Sandbanks controversy, that he intended to view the situation on the ground operations personally.

Dr. Tovell was here is expected to take place before June 30.

The quarry operation carried out at the Sandbanks by the LOCL have been protested by tourists, conservationists and ecologists.

Controlled quarrying, however, has been endorsed strongly by county council, the Prince Picton, labor groups and the Quinte's Isle Tourist Association.

Marmora Park Project Looks to the Future

By HARRY MULBALL
Staff Reporter

MARMORA — The famed sweats of Stratford, Ont., may be a fairly far cry from here.

In a way, they've played a part in producing here what some day may be one of the Quinte area's most graceful tourist attractions.

Slowly, but surely, a park project is being evolved in this community of 1,400, which will dramatically alter its waterfrontage along the Crowe River, into a recreation area of picnic grounds, historic sites, trailer and camping grounds.

"Of its kind it would be second to none in the county," says village clerk and former reeve William Shannon.

Marmora Park — a 39-acre tract along the Crowe's east bank — once was mainly swamp and brush, surrendered to the mosquitos.

That was before Mr. Shannon, then reeve, took a trip in the late 1960s to visit his son, attending school at Stratford.

Watching the swans swim in the greenbelted Avon River he felt to musing on the potential of creating a park project in his home community.

Such an undertaking has more than esthetic value. This town is also the site of Bathurst Steel's iron - ore producing Marmoraton Mining Co., employer of 600 and an economic staple of the area. But some day — as with all mineral - resource operations, the site will be exhausted, a fact of economic life oldtimers have faced since Marmoraton opened in the early 1950s.

"Seeing the swans and the beautiful shoreline at Stratford," recalls Mr. Shannon, "I got thinking, although it seemed only a dream, that some day the (mine) industry might be depleted here and a similar project would encourage tourism as one alternative."

Day dreaming came swiftly to reality back in Marmora when the privately - owned waterfront was found available for purchase. Even though swampy, "people were willing to buy it because the big boom in waterfrontage demand was starting."

The owner co-operatively agreed to sell to the village at a "reasonable rate" when assured there would be no profiteering. The project got provincial government approval and a consultant was retained and drew a development blueprint. It was ready by mid 1970.

Since then work has been paced as it won't stretch local budgets — about $4,000 annually, matched by the province.

A costly starting problem was bypassed when a landfill from various village public works projects was transported and levelled along the swamp tract by agreeable contractors.

The "very long-term" project, has much ground-work, and its serviced trailer park some at the north end will be in operation "maybe not this year, but next," says Mr. Shannon.

The historic sites sector at its core will include what is believed Ontario's first ironore smelter.

Besides tourism, there's another consideration: It would be a place for villagers to enjoy, owned by them for all time, and in public hands — its waterway would remain accessible "and clean," says Mr. Shannon.

One other thing: "The motion have gone from the swamp," the clerk adds.

Vaccination Urged for Pets

Out and dog owners are being urged to take advantage of upcoming rabies vaccination clinics — prompted by an increase in rabies in Hastings and Prince Edward counties.

A busy schedule of clinics — to start at the north end of Hastings June 5 — was announced today by Dr. J. F. McCorquodale, federal subdistrict veterinarian in Belleville.

"Due to the incidence of rabies in the area, we hope that all householders with dogs and cats will bring their animals in for vaccination," said Dr. McCorquodale.

During the past year, incidents involving rabid animals have been on the increase throughout the area — with foxes blamed as the major carrier of the disease. A number of people have been forced to undergo a 14-day program of anti-rabies vaccination as a result of either being attacked by, or handling rabid animals.

Dr. McCorquodale is hopeful of strong public response to the clinics. In Northumberland County, which also includes his district, a vaccination program was launched last October. Yet incidents of rabies, real or suspected, still are being received from Northumberland.

One reason likely is that not all pet owners' attended the clinics, he says.

The busy vaccination program also is being launched near the time of year when Dr. McCorquodale's office expects to receive a steady stream of nuisance calls.

Summer vacations put more youngsters in the way of small wild animals. Often, they attempt to handle such creatures as chipmunks and often get bitten, says the veterinarian.

The Hastings clinics end in Belleville June 27 and immediately after will start Prince Edward County, dates of which will be announced later.

Local veterinarians will reinforce federal staff for the clinics.

The Hastings clinic schedule, to be published in local weekly newspapers, with dates, areas, clinic location and times is:

June 3, Green's Corners, Hungerford township garage, 10 a.m.-12; Maynooth, Monteagle twp. garage, 2-4 p.m.; June 6, McArthur Mills, community centre, 10 a.m. - 12; Fort Stewart, Carlow community centre, 2-4 p.m.; June 7, Bird's Creek, Herschel twp. garage, 10 a.m. -12; Bancroft municipal building, 1:30 - 4 p.m.; June 8, Coe Hill, Wollaston twp. hall, 10 a.m.-12; St. Ola, Limerick community centre, 2-4 p.m.; June 9, Queensboro, W1 hall, 10 a.m.-12; Millbridge, Tudor twp. hall, 2-4 p.m.; June 12, Madoc twp. hall, 9-11 a.m.; Marmora, fire hall, 1:30-4 p.m.; June 13, Actinolite Elzevir twp. hall, 9-11 a.m.; Madoc, arena, 1:30-4 p.m.; June 14, Marlbank, Turcotte garage 9-11 a.m., Tweed fire, 2-4 p.m.; June 15 Ivanhoe Huntington twp. hall 9-11 a.m.; Starling, theatre, 1-4 p.m.; June 16, Harold, Rawdon twp. hall, 9-11 a.m.; Frankford, arena, 1-4 p.m.; June 19, Plainfield, Orange hall, 9-11 a.m.; Thomasburg, IOOF Hall, 1-4 p.m.; June 20, Ameliasburg Tyendinaga twp. garage, 9-11 a.m.; Deseronto, fire hall, 1-4 p.m.; June 21, Foxboro, Ontario Hall, 9-11 a.m.; Wallbridge, Sidney equipment garage, 2-4 p.m.; June 22, Shannonville, Virginia garage 9-11 a.m.; Consecon, Thurlow twp. garage, 1-4 p.m. June 23, Tyendinaga centre, Community centre, 9-11 a.m.; CFB Trenton, curling rink, 1-4 p.m.; June 26, Belleville, east-end fireball, 9 a.m. -12, 1-5 p.m.; June 27, west-end fireball 1-5 p.m. - 6-8:30 p.m.

Tourist Gold in Mine

MARMORA TOWNSHIP — If there's no gold in the tumbledown mineshaft here, three miles east of Marmora, it's finally producing paydirt for a group of students this summer.

It's part of a project on which tourists someday will reap benefits.

The site, on Highway 7 near the Moira River, is the long-abandoned Ackerman mine — an offspring of the Eldorado gold rush fep of the 1870s. Plans for developing the site as a picnic area — with the old minesite as a historic centrepiece — have been laid down by the Moira River Conservation authority.

The authority now is in the process of completing acquisition of a four-acre land parcel to complete its holdings, which will total about 39 acres, J. H. McLeod, authority secretary-treasurer reports.

This summer, initial clearance around the site will be done by high school and university students under the Ontario government's SWEEP (Students Working in Environmental Enhancement Program) project.

Development will depend on funds available.

As Mr. McLeod emphasizes: "Our financial resourceil do not expand as fast as our acreage of land."

He estimates it may take about four years to complete the project, which will include tables, fireplaces and the unusual picnic fayredinaga twp. garage, 9-11 a.m.; Deseronto, fire hall, 1-4 p.m.; June 21, Foxboro, Ontario Hall, 9-11 a.m.; Wallbridge, Sidney equipment garage, 2-4 p.m.; June 22, Shannonville, Virginia garage 9-11 a.m.; Consecon, Thurlow twp. garage, 1-4 p.m. June 23, Tyendinaga centre, Community centre, 9-11 a.m.; CFB Trenton, curling rink, 1-4 p.m.; June 26, Belleville, east-end fireball, 9 a.m. -12, 1-5 p.m.; June 27, west-end fireball 1-5 p.m. - 6-8:30 p.m.

Ottawa Scene

For all its pretensions of concern for the status of women, notably the recent Royal Commission, the Canadian government and by association the people of Canada may be one of the most backward in the western world in affording women full rights in our latter-day society.

In this connection we often think of the almost totally male-oriented CBC. Britain has had women announcers for 20 years or more and, unlike the CBC, is not afraid to show them. Likewise in New Zealand. Oh sure the CBC has one or two women reporters who appear now and again, but the news readers are all men.

Then in recent days there was the case of the lady member — and a lawyer at that — of a Canadian delegation, being refused admittance to Ottawa's Rideau Club where the delegation lunched with American counterparts to a discussion on environment and the law of the sea.

Jane Cashey, 25, a graduate of the University of Saskatchewan and government lawyer, was barred by a doorman because women are not permitted in the main dining room until after 4 p.m. Miss Caskey and another woman delegate (who was arriving just as she decided to leave) repaired to a nearby hotel to lunch. In fairness to the club, the manager said he was unaware there were women guests. If there were to be women at a luncheon it was customary to hold it in the dining room where women were permitted.

In any event the Rideau Club is in the doghouse and members of a body called the Women's Resource Group of Ottawa have been demonstrating their ire. They want government functions banned from the club and we agree this should be the case when women are included in such groups. Meanwhile the women do have their own facilities at the club, but can use them only at set hours in the manner of many country clubs. It is all part of the continuing state of apartheid that governs much of the menwomen situation in Canada today. It could well be described as anachronistic.

Priests Speak Up

Two extraordinary statements have come out of embattled Ulster in recent days. The first: 'We love our brother Protestants in Derry and we want to live in peace with them — Rev. Martin Rooney of Londonderry in the course of a meeting calling for an end to IRA violence.

In the highly charged sectarian atmosphere of Northern Ireland this has to be possibly the most amazing statement to emerge from the current turmoil. Yet, to those who know the country and can view life there in its proper perspective, goodwill and friendship between Protestants and Catholics is not uncommon. The violence emanates almost exclusively from the sterile atmosphere of the working-class ghettos, accompanying overcrowding and poverty, and from the historical rivalries that go back hundreds of years.

The other statement, by the Rev. Hugh O'Neill, that "this is the end of the road for the IRA (meaning the terrorists had lost the support of the people) we shall believe only if it turns out that way. As of now, there is no evidence of widespread Catholic opposition to the IRA; at the same time the trend evident in these events could be the thin edge of the wedge and a prelude to IRA decline.

Weekend Visitor

An interesting visitor to the city this weekend is Lt. Col. Lord Tweedsmuir. He is here for ceremonies in connection with the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment which he commanded during the last war. Lord Tweedsmuir is a son of the late Governor-General who was also a celebrated novelist of his day, writing under the family name of John Buchan. Among his many works was the thriller, The Thirty-Nine Steps.

Election Expenses Act 12 Years in the Making

By FARMER TISSINGTON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

While it won't please everybody, the government's proposed new Election Expenses Act is clearly a big step forward in coming to grips with a complex problem. What puzzled most observers here is why the government waited for so long — practically until the eve of a general election—before making any move to modernize the rules of the game.

The Barbeau committee on election expenses did a very thorough job, including visits to other countries to examine the systems in vogue there. Their report was made public in the fall of 1966. The report was then turned over to a significant extent to committees for further detailed examination and a great deal of unanimity was achieved when the committee tabled its report in June.

Government House leader Allan MacEachen has said publicly that he would be happy to see the proposed legislation given high priority in the Commons, as soon as the House has dealt with the old age and veterans' pension legislation. Presumably, Mr. MacEachen is suggesting that if the bill was debated early and passed quickly, it could still become law in time for the coming election, providing that is held in the fall or next spring. But there is not too much hope that this will happen. If it does not, it will mean that 13 to 13 years will have elapsed between the time the subject was initially tackled and the election campaign when the new rules would apply.

The present Canada Elections Act already includes rules regarding the filing of candidates' election expenses but these have been largely meaningless. The requirement is that a winning candidate must file a statement of how much money he spent on his campaign before he can take his seat in the Commons. Many defeated candidates failed to file such statements and there has always been a good deal of skepticism about the nice round figures produced by many winners.

Under the proposed act, the political party itself will be responsible under the law for the first time for filing its file complete, audited statements of their expenditures. And every candidate is now provided with a built-in incentive to ensure that all his opposing candidates abide by the new regulations, particularly those putting a ceiling on advertising expenditures.

I am a little puzzled why the government chose to put the ceiling on advertising expenditures only, instead of a limit on any expenditures based on so many dollars per eligible voter in the riding, and allow the candidate to spend this proportion in any way they see fit. But the proposed balloon limit of 15 cents a elimination in campaign spending in recent years has been very largely the result of spending chiefly for television campaigning. They feel that by compelling this major expense they largely control total spending.

Some disappointment has been expressed that the law will not require disclosure of individual donations but the government has opted for the Barbeau recommendation that disclosure must be made on the basis of categories only, of individuals, private and public corporations, trade unions, etc., and not by individual name of person or corporation. It is felt that full individual disclosure would tend to dry up sources of campaign funds and thus defeat the purpose of the ballot.

In total, it's a good effort to make elections fairer and give serious but less affluent men and women a better break in relation to the wealthier candidates and parties.

Vacation Time and the Environment

By DON O'HEARN
From The Intelligencer's Queen's Park Bureau

The holiday weekend marked the opening of the season on camping, hitchhiking, boating, cottaging and littering.

Flourishing months are predicted ahead for all, particularly the last.

Although a year ago there was much optimistic and brave talk about litter control, the talk is still talk, and even at that more subdued.

There is to be no litter control this summer.

The surging crusade of a year ago which saw discussion of the banning of non-returnable bottles, deposits on tin cans and fines for littering, has mellowed down to practicality.

Although last fall the government, with George Kerr, the then minister of the environment, as its spokesman, promised litter regulations within a short time; the regulations have never arrived.

From all the indications they won't be arriving, for a long time at least.

What has happened is that when it got down to practicalities, the government found there is an element, the human element, interposed between the problem and effective solution when it came to the question of litter.

At the root of every solution that was proposed or thought of, the deciding factor would be public co-operation. The suggestion of a deposit on cans would still have required the public to return the cans. If non-returnable bottles were banned there still would be returnable bottles, and the public would have to return them.

Even a program of penalties for littering would really work only if the public co-operated. That a litter-wedded public would not give enough co-operation had to be a first assumption. This was backed up by experience in other jurisdictions, notably British Columbia, which had tried control measures.

So here in Ontario we are still "studying" the problem. Some educational effort is to be started this summer but any control measures as such are to be delayed.

Really it is doubtful when we may see these. It is notable that at this year's session even opposition spokesmen are much more restrained in their cry for litter control than they were a year ago.

Spending Ceilings Issue

Kingston Whig - Standard

The newly-elected president of the Waterloo district of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers Federation, William Blackman, was appropriately militant after his election, matching the mood of some members who are upset because of spending ceilings imposed on school boards by the government.

Because of the ceilings and because of diminishing numbers of students, necessitating the closing of some classrooms, some teachers are inconsiderably concerned about their jobs and their own future in the education field.

In this regard, however, they are in no different plight than thousands of others whose jobs are dependent on economic trends, and who, because of the high rate of unemployment, are forced to accept their lot without undue complaint. If they don't like what they have, there are others who would be glad to fill their shoes on the job.

That this situation exists in the classrooms across the province is not the fault of the teachers. But to suggest, as Mr. Blackburn did, that the province should protect every of prospective teachers into teacher colleges is hardly the answer.

It is only a few years ago that this province was desperate for teachers and encouraging young people to consider entering the profession and few of those who did failed to graduate and find jobs.

Speaking strictly from the standpoint of what is best for education today, the current oversupply should work to its advantage. Only the best candidates should survive under these conditions and the quality of teachers going from the colleges to the schools should be high.

The trouble with the situation of a few years ago was that some who made it really did not belong in the profession.

In The United States: Shadow of the Gunman

By BOB CURRIE

WASHINGTON (CP) — An attempted assassination, the bombing of the Pentagon and weekend anti-war violence have returned to the American political scene many of the elements of anguish and fear that haunted the 1968 presidential campaign.

Until only recently, many Americans had believed the dark days of treachery and violent dissent had passed, that the political process had finally evolved to a higher level, above the bitter, divisive past.

The Vietnam war that had so convulsed the political debate four years ago seemed to be diminishing. Although President Nixon hadn't fulfilled his promise of "a plan" that would end the war, American forces were coming home, casualties were down dramatically from the record-high of 1968.

The spectre of violence that in 1968 had claimed a second Kennedy—Senator Robert, assassinated as he campaigned in California—and resulted in bloody riots at the Democratic national convention in Chicago and elsewhere, had largely abated. Anti-war movements had pretty well disbanded and campuses were quiet.

In general, the tense atmosphere that had kept President Lyndon Johnson virtually a prisoner in the White House—his public appearances confined almost exclusively to military bases—seemed a thing of the past.

Then, in response to the invasion of South Vietnam, Nixon took the action that before him had judged too dangerous —the mining of North Vietnam's sea ports to keep out Soviet and Chinese war supplies, and increased bombing of the North.

It gave many Americans the jitters, and the anti-war movement was once again on the march.

A week later Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama, campaigning for the Democratic presidential nomination, was shot and wounded by a would-be assassin as he mingled with the crowds at a shopping plaza rally in normally tranquil Laurel, Md.

The re-creation of the 1968 scene seemed almost complete when a bomb ripped through a fourth-floor section of the Pentagon, the defence department headquarters in nearby Virginia, and an anti-war group claimed responsibility. There were no injuries but damage has been estimated at more than $75,000.

By the weekend, anti-war demonstrations had flared up on the march here and elsewhere. Police arrested 1,700 in "people's blockade" attempt to snarl traffic at the Pentagon.

That, on the theory that violence begets violence, many political observers look askance at the months remaining before the November presidential election.

Of particular concern, said one, is the threat to individual candidates, is the occasion of the Democratic national convention in Miami, Fla., in July.

Opposition to what many demonstrators considered a two-ply stand on the war contributed much to the Chicago riots. The same ingredient could be present in Miami four years later.

In addition, the stormy shaping of Wallace, a right winger with a segregationist background, will give him and his followers a substantial voice at the convention.

The combination of an unusually strong right-wing contingent and the newly-antagonized anti-war groups, many observers feel, could prove to be an explosive mixture.

Today In History

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

May 26, 1972 . . .

The main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway was opened for public traffic 85 years ago today — in 1887 — 10 months after the last spike was driven. Trains had been running from Montreal to Vancouver for a year, but passengers now could ride all the way on the 1,904.5 miles of CPR track. The energetic builders of the line at once started organizing a steamship line across the Pacific, and in that year, a 6,000-pound contract to deliver British mail across the trans-Canadian route was quicker than shipping via the Suez canal.

1946—The German Army began its drive on Stalingrad.

1913—The first woman magistrate in Britain was appointed.

1885—Chief Poundmaker and other Indian leaders of the Second Red Rebellion were arrested.

1805—Napoleon was crowned king of Italy.

Warning from Minister

Montreal La Presse: Federal Environment Minister Jack Davis did not mince words in saying to what extent he feels Montreal is lagging in the field of treating sewage and industrial wastes. Indeed, Montreal treats only 10 per cent of its sewage, which is insignificant when compared with Toronto which treats 100 per cent and Vancouver which treats 80 per cent. . . .

The minister emphasized the character of the problem in Montreal: pollution in the St. Lawrence, the Great Lakes pollute it much more. . . . So that water in the river may become clean again, Ontario, cannot act without the United States. Montreal without Ottawa, Toronto and the Provinces were a Wardhaugh, H. Bunkard and C. Charlton; the Leafs' stars were M. Litchford, Hibbard and Day. The umpire was Harry Pringle.

Central Mortgage and Housing has undertaken to help municipalities wishing to purify their waters to defray the cost of treatment plants by one-third. Everything indicates, too, that a municipality wanting to take up the federal offer can count also on provincial government aid. How does it happen then that we have to deplore Quebec's laziness?

Without making excuses for the delay, let us note that the principal pollution in the river makes it much less noticeable than drinking it. In enclosed lakes or rivers, however, it is the case in Ontario. Toronto has done more than Montreal, but it had to or be suffocated. By using the river with its powerful current, Montreal is less threatened and hence its delay.

However, the lethargy seems to be coming to an end. The regional government is spending $30 million . . . to treat sewage now thrown directly into the St. Lawrence. The project is to be completed in 1981. It is a long time, but we can no doubt ask nature to wait nine more years since it has endured human pollution since the beginning of the world.

Maltreated: 20 Cents A Day

OTTAWA (CP) — An expensively-bound, 728-page minor footnote to the history of the Second World War was issued by the government Thursday.

It is the official report of the war claims commission, which allotted payments to Canadian citizens physically maltreated by enemy authorities or whose property in foreign lands was damaged or confiscated because of the war.

Behind the dry official prose, which tells how persons will ever read, are the stories of hundreds of Canadians who suffered at the hands of Japanese and German authorities.

Canadians who were maltreated in prisoner-of-war camps might today manage a wry smile at the way in which their sufferings were converted into dollars and cents.

Where maltreatment occurred, the formula provided:

"A. For the total period of imprisonment, a general award of 20 cents per day;

"B. In addition, for the following aggravating incidents, if established.

"1. For the first four months of enforced shacking, $60.

"2. For forced participation in a hunger-march of early 1945, 25 cents per day of the duration of the march, with an additional $50 for the preceding period of unusual and unjustifiable duration . . .

"C. A special individual award for any unusually-serious maltreatment established by an individual claimant, in such sum as the proper tribunal might consider just and equitable . . .

The report noted that awards for maltreatment of prisoners of war in European camps averaged $3 cents a day, with the total ranging generally from $200 to $450, with a few up to $600. No figures were given for prisoners of the Japanese, although one of the commission's rules was:

"The treatment accorded by the Japanese to their military and civilian internees was so barbarous and inhuman as to warrant a universal per diem award without the necessity of establishing specific maltreatment in individual cases."

My boys in (your town) are mighty tidy.

Like most people, my boys look forward to the chance for a good spring clean-up. So when the snow melts they're all out in their parking lots, getting rid of the winter's litter.

They insist that their stores look neat and clean, inside and out, not only because this is good for business but because they know it's the way I like it.

My boys and I are doing what we can to prevent litter. Are you trying to make your part of Canada a cleaner, more pleasant place in which to live?

Suggestions in Seeking A Job

Dear Ann Landers: I work in the personnel office of a small company and am writing in the hope that you will print my letter before graduation. I have some advice for individuals who will be looking for employment. It is amazing how many people come in here ill prepared. Here are, some suggestions which might make the difference between getting the job and not getting it.

1. Bring something to write with, preferably a pen. If your handwriting is poor, print.

2. Answer all questions to the best of your ability. The firm, no matter how large or small, asks questions for a reason.

3. Have your social security number with you.

4. Be able to list the schools you've attended and the dates of attendance.

5. Be prepared to trace your employment record, including beginning dates and quitting dates, names of employers, location, positions held and salary.

6. Be prepared to list at least three references, besides employers, who will give character references. Know their addresses and telephone numbers.

I have been in a position to observe the results of poor preparation and disappointment because people couldn't meet the requirements listed above. The candidate who has to go home and come back with facts and figures is going to lose out to one who has the information at his fingertips. I've observed, too, Ann, that the person who is prepared has an air of confidence that makes a good first impression.—Gatherwithe

Dear Gatherwithe: What an appropriate signature! And now I'd like to add a suggestion of my own.

I'm aware that many capable, bright young people wear their hair long, have beards and dress non-establishment. I am also aware that there is a law forbidding discrimination against a job candidate because he has long hair and a beard. But if an employer doesn't like your looks, the chances of being hired are sharply reduced. So if you really want the job, don't apply for it with a chip on your shoulder the size of a gangplank.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm upset and can't think straight. Just say "go" or "don't go."

A good friend phoned last night to say she and her fiancé had just finished addressing the invitations to her wedding. They had recalculated somehow and were six invitations short. She asked if I would feel hurt if I didn't receive an engraved invitation, a note instead.

I said, "Of course not." Now my mother tells me I am crazy, that I should not go to the wedding because it is plain that my friend considers me less important than the other guests. What do you say? I really want to go. Ann—Sun Bea

Dear Bea: I say go. The bride is obviously in a spot and she is counting on her closest friends to understand. Don't let her down.

Confidential to Miserable, Unhappy and Insignificant: Try to be pleasant and uncomplaining. Thirteen is a horrible age for a girl who has a sister 16. I promise that life will be brighter when you are 18 and she is 19.

Mirror of Your Mind
by JOHN CONWELL

Can a happy wife succeed in business?

YES, despite the popular fallacy that only a woman—married or single—who is driven by unhappiness and frustration can succeed in a career. Yet many a woman who is both happily married and successful in a career has been able to achieve it all." She has succeeded because she has been able to realize her potential without being encumbered by the necessity to compensate for frustration in either her marriage or career.

Do parents know what punishment is?

ALL too well, as any child can tell who felt physical punishment or the mental lectures of withheld love and privileges. Quite often, however, parents do not know what a reward is. A mother, for instance, who feels she can't trust her tiny daughter to play with stance, who feels she can't trust her tiny daughter to play with her young friends, may keep the child by her side constantly. But, the little girl may prefer being with her mother rather than learn to adjust to other companionships.

Can a 'faux pas' be laughed off?

WELL, it is certainly worth a try, especially if everyone who is aware of the "boo-boo" is sympathetic toward the one who made it. But the laughter must come from genuine humor, not with some sneering remark. Sympathy toward the one who committed the faux pas will change to resentment if the offender attempts to the faux pas will change to resentment if the offender attempts to the faux pas which he noticed the faux pas, or if he tries to give the impression that it never really happened at all.

Food Prices Investigation Turned Down

OTTAWA (CP) — The Liberal majority in the Commons turned down Tuesday a proposal for a special investigation into the soaring cost of groceries.

Grace MacInnis (NDP—Vancouver-Kingsway) proposed the investigation by a special Commons committee of an increase by almost 7¼ per cent in grocery prices during the year to April and the fact that supermarket profits have been rising simultaneously.

She cited profit advances during the first quarter of this year by 40 per cent for Safeway, nearly 50 per cent for the owners of Loblaws and 300 per cent for Dominion Stores.

New Skills Taught to Illiterate

By DORIS CLARK

"Do you think I am fit only to die?" The man, an illiterate peasant of 50, was answering a Unesco official who had asked him why he wanted to enrol in a world-selected adult literacy class. Many of Iran's 30 million people are still illiterate.

The applicant had been brought up in a way of life in which illiteracy, and ancestral methods of farming, were taken for granted. But his world is being transformed. The hinterland of Khuzistan is being made into a centre of farming enterprises using advanced methods and machines.

The farmers will have to master new techniques — no easy matter for men who cannot read, write or do sums; who do not understand mechanical diagrams showing how equipment operates.

So adult farmers in Iran and their wives are being made literate through training in new skills — part of an Experimental World Literacy Programme at present over-all development in the Third World through basic education for adults. — Panorama, magazine of the International Labour Office.

Dear Doris: About the matter of going to bed, for house guests. Could you please discuss this in your column, both from the point of view of the guest (I) and the hostess? Who should initiate the idea and how is it done gracefully.

And would you try and write about it soon, as I am to have guests shortly, then take quite an extended trip with my husband, visiting friends and relatives along the way.

We are so pleased with your column. — A Loyal Reader.

Dear Reader: The host and hostess call the shots. Most time to serve dinner or arrive since we have a late meal. Or, "John you really must be tired after such a long journey today. Your bed is all ready and I'd suggest that you take advantage of it. We've had a good talk, and we'll be able to spend a delightful time together tomorrow."

Or, "Breakfast always has to be a fun, around here, because of Bill and our schoolage girls getting out on time. Is it o.k. with you if we all turn in just as soon as we have listened to the 11 o'clock news?"

Far better to make the situation clear than to depend on uncertain h nting to put across the idea. Guests like to know where they are at, and unless they are close friends they may be slow to suggest turning in themselves.

However, if, as a guest, you find yourself in a state of complete fatigue, there is no reason why you should not ask if it would interfere with anybody's fun if you were to quietly slip off to bed.

Dear Doris: I seek music and words of "The Wasted Cruse" to the lovely who was asking for it.

It is something to know that in this era of plenty and plenty wasted that some people are trying to teach children to eat crusts. Crusts are, after all, a great benefit to teeth since they involve a little chewing. — Musical Crusts.

Dear Crusts: Thank you for doing another reader a favor.

I couldn't agree more that we who live in a land of plenty are guilty of a tremendous amount of waste. We need to learn more and more about both what is good for us to eat and what we ought to be valuing more highly in other areas of living — and not just the material things, either.

(Putting it down on paper helps — in a letter to Doris, who is a Canadian journalist with a master's degree in social work.)

The Experts Say

One May Eat Well On A Vegetarian Diet

By JEAN SHARP
CP Women's Editor

TORONTO (CP) — You can eat as well on a fashionably health food or vegetarian diet as you can on a normal diet, if you try.

What you need to do is learn such diets with a bit of skepticism toward extravagant claims for the powers of any food and to choose your foods with a care for their calorie and nutritional values.

Aileen Buckmen and Beverley Rejchert of the Milk Foundation of Canada say the surest way to make any diet complete is to eat as great a variety of foods as possible. When you start to cut out or down food groups, you must make up the gaps in food values they leave.

Mrs. Buckmen say: "I don't think we need be concerned about a youngster who goes on a lacto-ovo-vegetarian diet. That includes eggs and dairy products and gives them their animal protein.

"You have to have a little more knowledge what nutrient values if you're going to be on a vegetarian diet. If you eat the broadest type of vegetarian diet, you can do well. If you take a wide variety, make sure you don't limit it to one kind of vegetable protein."

Mrs. Reichert says: "If you take out meat, four glasses of milk will give you enough protein to make up for the five ounces of cheese, or five eggs. If yogurt is made from whole milk, it will have the same nutrient value as milk. If it includes dried milk, it will have a higher concentration.

"If you cut out meat, you are cutting out about 25 per cent of the iron you need. You would get about half that iron in five eggs, but we wouldn't recommend eating five eggs a day.

"However, if you're also on whole-grain cereals, you'll get much of the iron back from them.

"If you leave out milk and dairy products, you're leaving out calcium, and there is no other satisfactory way to get calcium in the diet."

If you leave all animal products out of your diet, you can make up the calories and the proteins you need from mixed grains, from leg umes (peas and beans), from nuts and seeds and a variety of fruits and vegetables. Soya bean protein is almost complete. It is not as easy or as simple to do as it is with animal products.

Mrs. Buckman says: "That's when it becomes difficult to get enough protein and almost impossible to get enough B12."

BGH Emergency Experiment Is Working

By IAN ROBERTSON
Staff Reporter

Over the past six years, Belleville General Hospital has more than doubled its emergency care services.

This is nothing new. In fact, emergency care across the country has become more a part of hospital life than ever before.

John Q. Public has found it much easier to drop in to the local hospital than face a line-up at his personal doctor's office. There are well-qualified statistics to illustrate this increase, and Belleville fits the share.

Between 1965 and 1971, records of Belleville General's emergency wards show a rise from 16,175 patients to a high of 35,493.

Doctors in the city who absent regular shifts at the hospital, found it increasingly difficult to respond to emergency call-outs while still serving the 9-5 patients during office hours. "A call at 3 a.m. was often the rule rather than the exception.

Public opinion, both vocal and as expressed in the news and editorial columns of this newspaper led the medical profession to seek a solution to the problem.

Since Belleville does not have a teaching hospital, for doctors, an outlet that supplies interns to care for part of the workload in larger hospitals, another system had to be examined.

In October of 1971, through the hospital board of governors, the medical staff at BGH announced a new program whereby doctors not directly connected to the hospital would be hired to work on shifts from 11 p.m. to 8 a.m. daily. During the morning, Belleville's regular doctors would continue their regular hospital service.

If it were adopted, this plan would provide the much-needed 24-hour coverage which had been absent in the past. Formerly, one nurse was on duty at nights, with a local doctor on standby calls.

The hospital endorsed the scheme and advertisements for the special staff were published.

In late April, eight doctors — seven from Kingston General Hospital — were hired to man the wards. Operating on a four-month trial basis, the program came into effect at the first of this month.

While the EGH resident doctors provide late evening, weekend and graveyard shifts, a Belleville doctor not connected to the hospital is on duty during the afternoon.

It's ideally preferable to have doctors available when an emergency comes in," said hospital executive director Philip Rickard, during a tour of the facilities at BGH.

"Regardless of how well the doctor-on-call system operates there's always some delay in the attending physician seeing the patient. The hospital is blamed for the situation," he said, making direct reference to a recent letter published in The Intelligencer.

The letter to the editor had complained of inadequate emergency service.

As is the case with many a fledgling operation, time will have to show its effectiveness. But Dr. June Bergman of Belleville says patients and staff are even now realizing the benefits.

"The doctor has a little more time to give than the GP," the lady surgeon on-coordinator said during a relatively quiet period in one of her afternoon shifts.

"A lot of investigative work can be done by the time the family doctor arrives."

Marilyn McFee, head nurse of the emergency care ward, agrees that the situation has improved now that we have a doctor at all times. The patient doesn't have to wait as long for treatment."

Up until May 1, patients registered at the ward and were then given a brief examination by attending nurses. Either the family doctor or a physician present at the hospital was then called in.

It is now up to the medical casualty officer to examine incoming patients and determine the extent of injuries or ailment.

Although the family doctor can still be called in, a patient in need of immediate care, or one without a personal physician, has the services of the emergency doctor close at hand.

Rattling Bridge To Be Repaired

Sometimes, solving a problem can have rattling effects, loud enough even to rouse city hall — as Canadian National Railways discovered.

City council this week learned the findings of officials sent to investigate noise caused by traffic on the CN's Sidney St. bridge decking.

What happened, a memo from city engineer Wilbur Purcell always seems to say, this:

Metal plates on the bridge surface deteriorated. Since the bridge would be in service for a while longer, CN thought it necessary to replace them immediately with timbers. The timbers duly arrived — but not a special screw to hold them in place. Drift pins were used as temporary substitutes. But three pulled free, setting the timbers rattling. To make matters worse, screws are expected shortly — and will be immediately used.

Concludes the memo: "In the meantime, it is not possible to fasten the timbers so they will not rattle."

Music to Run By?

Canada's recording industry has produced four LP's — sales of which will help fund the nation's amateur athletics. The project, which included personalities like David Birkenshaw (rear) Elaine Tanner and Ian Tyson, goes before the public next week — Olympic Week — with school students offering the records for sale. Proceeds will be split between local student athletic activities and Canada's diverse Olympic efforts. To ensure maximum financial benefits, industry said the artists who cut discs, waived royalties and copyrights.

$14,850 Grant for Camp

An Opportunities for Youth grant will send more than 200 boys to summer camp on the Crowe River near Marmora this year.

Two Loyalist College students, David Raby and John Dereszier, have received $14,850 from the federal government to operate their boys' camp from July 1 to Sept. 1.

They are now inviting boys, aged 13 to 14, to submit applications for the camp. They will take 30 children at a time, for five to seven days of camping in tents at the site on the shores of Marmora. Campers will be asked to supply their own sleeping bags or blankets, plates and silverware.

The two students are also seeking donations from service clubs to help with expenses. The Opportunities for Youth grant includes $450 for expenses, such as transportation and food, but it won't begin to cover the cost of boarding the boys at the camp for the summer, the students say. They applied for more than $2,000 for expenses, but this amount was whittled back, as was part of the grant for salaries.

The project will employ 10 students, seven of them from Loyalist. Five will begin working on the campsite June 1.

Boys who might not otherwise be able to attend a summer camp, are asked to apply now by contacting Dave Raby at 107 Chatham St., Belleville, or John Dereszier, 17 Leonard St., Trenton.

and five more will join the staff July 1.

Boys who might not otherwise be able to attend a summer camp, are asked to apply now by contacting Dave Raby at 107 Chatham St., Belleville, or John Dereszier, 17 Leonard St., Trenton.

Birth Control Group Plans Fall Service

Hastings and Prince Edward counties' fledgling Family Planning Association will have a full-time public service ready for operation by September.

It is a telephone referral service for inquiries on family planning and birth control.

With the co-operation of Loyalist College, a training program for volunteers will be set up this summer to instruct about seven people to man telephones. That will be extended in the fall to an intensive course at the college's Belleville campus about 10 weeks. The association hopes to recruit 20 volunteers to assist with its referral program.

The local Family Planning Association, assisted by a grant from the parent organization, will hire part - time secretarial help to take over its office by August 1. The office will be located in the United Community Services building.

This will prove a great help during the summer months, when vacationers from out of town need treatment.

Miss McFee says the medical residents are being well received by regular staff on the hospital. "Most of them have more experience than some new general practitioners," she noted.

Dr. Bergman explained most resident doctors serve a five-day week at the hospital, working on an on - call basis.

Those serving at Belleville General are doing so on their holiday time and weekends off.

It's a lucrative arrangement.

Each emergency doctor receives $14 an hour, for a total of more than $180 per afternoon or evening shift.

With a weekly payroll bill of $1,980, the new system must provide service for enough patients to warrant its extension in September.

The bills for emergency service are paid by the Ontario Hospital Insurance Plan (OHIP), or compensation boards. Based on a certain number of patients, the hospital collects from OHIP. From this amount, they must meet both salaries and operational costs.

If the patient count is lower than a level which provides for the $14 per hour fee, the hospital will underwrite the loss.

While emergency care has been "very light" during the past month, Mr. Rickard says the hospital needs at least three to four months of operation on which to form a basis of opinion.

"Over a long-term period, we would need to balance the cost," he said. "Otherwise, we wouldn't consider it too practical an arrangement."

The hospital executive director said with patients becoming increasingly dependent on hospital service, there were only two alternatives open to the medical staff.

One was file so - called "assembly-line" clinic or establish emergency department.

Both Mr. Rickard and Dr. Bergman said several hospitals across Canada have adopted similar programs, and are finding them extremely successful.

"It's another of the many facets of care we are providing," Mr. Rickard observed.

Plaza Planned

NAPANEE — A shopping plaza on this town's western outskirts is being planned by a Toronto developer.

Although full details on the project are yet to be announced, a spokesman for More Developments Ltd. said a construction start is planned within the next three months, and will be opened late this year or early 1973.

Negotiations are still underway with prospective store operators.

It is estimated that the centre — on an eight-acre site, 200 feet north of Highway 2 — will have parking space for 400 cars and 90,000 square feet of sales area.

Burning Permits Cancelled

TWEED (Special) — All burning permits in the Tweed forest area have been cancelled as of May 26. None will be issued until a break in the present dry weather, now general throughout the district.

The ministry of natural resources at Tweed announced the cancellation because of "tinder dry" conditions in the forest.

The growing season is two weeks behind the usual, and grass and trees are still semi-dormant and dry over much of the northern portion of the district.

There small fires are now burning in Clarendon, Dungannon and Dacre townships, all under control so far.

Student Involvement Key To Experimental Programs

By LENNY WILLIAMSON
Staff Reporter

Hastings county's first excursion into new modes of education was officially outlined to its board of education Tuesday night.

Pilot projects at Moira Secondary School in work experience and diversified education were approved by the board earlier in the school year with the appointment of former guidance department head, Robert Henderson, as vice - principal with responsibility for the projects.

"The old traditional patterns of education are not meeting the needs of all our students," Mr. Henderson told the board.

Moira has taken two approaches to the problem. One involves blending school and practical experience in the working world on jobs related to the students' secondary school program. The other involves simultaneous educational experience at levels, so far at Moira and Loyalist College.

The diversified education program is designed for students who have a few credits to pick up at high school, but want to get started on post-secondary education at the same time.

"To date, most of the work done has been of an exploratory nature," said Mr. Henderson.

Eight students will combine high school and Loyalist College courses next year, he said, as the result of successful preliminary programs this year.

Several local businesses and industries have lent their support to the work experience program and the Quinte Labor Council has promised to promote it.

But before innovative programs can be launched in a particular school, the staff and administration must be flexible, sympathetic and cooperative, Mr. Henderson warned.

As a preliminary to the Moira administrator's presentation, trustees were warned to a student-made audio-visual production of its student volunteer program.

About 200 students participated this year in volunteer work with elementary school children and with the retarded at Y programs, and in the schools. Moira's coordinator of student volunteers said.

Al Bender, a grade 13 student, has directed the volunteer program for two years, and has provided students to assist with reading and geography classes at Bayview and Hillcrest schools, with swimming at the Y for retarded children and adults, with various athletic programs.

"The William R. Kirk children couldn't have had a swimming program without Moira's volunteers," said trustee Mrs. Jean Hutchison.

BCI and Quinte also provide student volunteers, to assist with classes at feeder elementary schools.

Moira's volunteers also teach after - school interest groups in elementary schools, canvass for the United Appeal and conduct community surveys.

"This proves that if you give youth the opportunity and the challenge, the majority will respond," said board chairman Donald Williams.

But one trustee noted a vital ingredient for a successful volunteer program among high school students.

"Moira's program was successful because it was student run, not teacher - run," said James Clarke.

Summer Recreation Programs Organized

PICTON (Staff) — Summer recreation for youth will be emphasized in Prince Edward this summer with a wide variety of programs including five supervised playgrounds in Picton.

Patricia Evans, program supervisor with the Picton recreation and parks committee said activities on the playgrounds this summer will be opened at Delhi Athletic Field, Rotary Park, Benson Park, Picton fairgrounds, and Queen Elizabeth park.

Each play area will be supervised by two leaders, among the leaders employed this year are Janice Brust, Joanne Brust, Cathy Graham, Debbie Roth, Deana Cory, Margaret Silver, Margaret Cooper, Susan Crewe, Diane Hobson and Brenda Mitchell.

This summer for the first time a day camp will be sponsored for youngsters who will be learned to leave each morning to a Bloomfield site and brought home later in the day.

Overnight camping will be organized during the latter part of each week.

Three summer camps, each one two weeks long, will be conducted, the first beginning July 10 through July 21.

The second camp will begin July 24 through August 4 and the final one will open August 7 through August 18.

This program is jointly sponsored by the Youth and Recreation Branch and the Picton recreation and parks committee.

A swimming program at Waupoos will be held again this summer under the instruction of Wendy Carman, Elizabeth Carman, Kathy King and Paul Beattie. Two courses will be conducted, the first running from July 10 to August 1 and the second from August 3 to August 24.

The new Youth Activities Program will open in Picton this summer with headquarters at Queen Elizabeth public school and Picton fairgrounds.

This program planned for youngsters 12 and over is described as "a drop-in activity centre "where participants can organize or initiate any project they wish. Leader for this new venture will be Elizabeth Bell.

The Hallowell - Bloomfield recreation committee will sponsor a playground this summer at Pinecrest School, Bloomfield. Playground leaders will be Carol McNeil and Randy Walraven.

Horticulturalist To Be Honored

CHERRY VALLEY (Staff) — Philip Dodds, president of the Ontario Horticultural Association will participate in convocation exercises at the University of Guelph on May 29 and May 30.

He will present two scholarships inaugurated this year by the OHA to graduates in horticulture.

Mr. Dodds, a resident of Cherry Valley near Picton, also will become the first person to be honored by the presentation of a "recognition tree" which will become part of a large new arboretum at the university.

A Custer-Blue Spruce has been chosen for this tribute by members of the Oshawa Horticultural Society in appreciation of Mr. Dodd's service as president of 45,000 member organization.

The tree will be marked by a plaque honoring Mr. Dodds, who has been active in the promotion of tree planting and in encouraging the planting of trees as memorials to mark special occasions.

Retarded to Use Limerick School

Limerick Central School will be used next year for trainable retarded children and its use will be discussed by Limerick School.

Pupils from Coe Hill and Gilmour, now attending Limerick school, will return to schools in their home communities in September, trustees on the Hastings county board of education decided last night.

The arrangement will be temporary, and is expected to last for one year, until a permanent place can be found for the retarded children in the northern area.

The retarded from the area now attend Tory Hill School in Haliburton County, to be closed this June.

When the need for accommodation for the retarded first became evident, the Hastings-Prince Edward separate school board offered space in its Bancroft School. A letter expressing the public school board's appreciation for the offer will go out to the separate school trustees decided.

NHL Governors Want Russia to Change Date

NEW YORK (CP) — The idea of assembling a dream Canadian hockey team, made up of the best players in the National Hockey League, to play the Russian national squad in an eight-game, two-country series, has taken a step nearer to realization.

The NHL governors Thursday appointed their chairman, William Wirtz of Chicago Black Hawks, to meet with Hockey Canada officials and work out a host of details, some of which had threatened to reduce the power of the Canadian squad.

The NHLs owners came up with a radical proposal—that the dates of the Canada-Russia clashes be changed, if the Russians are willing—so that the pro players would be able to go into training at about the usual time in September. Some top players had expressed reservations about rendering their already-brief summer respite from competition.

CLARENCE CAMPBELL

The NHL proposed that the four games in Russia be played first, on the dates originally proposed. The two games in Canada would take place in October or November—whenever the Russians could send their team—and the NHL schedule would be adjusted so that none of the Canadian pros need miss a game with his own team.

The Canadian games—in Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver—had been tentatively scheduled by Russian and Canadian amateur officials for Sept. 1-8, which would have required the opening of a Canadian hockey camp in mid-August at the latest.

"This is not an unequivocal approval to go ahead," said NHL president Clarence Campbell, briefing reporters at the end of the closed meeting of the league governors. "A lot of things have to be sorted out."

"Nobody in the NHL wants the Sept. 1-8 dates which have been proposed," said Campbell at another point. "But if it proves impossible to change the dates, we may have to accept them."

He noted that the co-operation of the NHL Players Association is important.

"A factor that makes this Canada-Russia proposition attractive is the proposal that a portion or proportion of the gate receipts be allocated to the players' pension fund."

Alan Eagleson of Toronto, executive director of the Players Association, is on record as an enthusiastic booster of the series, which he sees as having a money-making potential "of multi millions" through ticket sales, advertising and television rights. He has praised the proposal that Canada's proceeds go to the player pension fund, and has indicated this would reduce the demands the players plan to make on the owners at the next round of negotiations.

Campbell said the duty of Wirtz would be to participate with Hockey Canada in such details as appointing managers and coaches, radio-TV arrangements, pricing of tickets, and provision of good training facilities.

He said the governors wish to know:

—Whether the individual pro players are prepared to participate in the Russia series for a consideration not in excess of the regular training camp fees and allowances." These are $500 a player for the training period, including 16 exhibition games.

—What player contributions will be required from which teams—"It is clear that not all NHL clubs will be represented on the proposed team."

"This is a big breakthrough in terms of international competition—a first step toward an eventual series between the Stanley Cup champions and the Russian or European championships. We would be prepared to entertain such a competition the following year—but we don't know how the Russians feel."

Alberta Bolts CAHA

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP) — "It's time we either put our money where our mouth is, or shut up," Wayne Wylie, president of the Alberta Amateur Hockey Association, said Thursday.

The AAHA, which for years had tried for changes in the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association's pro-am agreement with the National Hockey League, split from the CAHA at the annual meeting Thursday.

The CAHA approved a one-year extension in the existing five-year pact with the NHL, taking it to 1973 with amendments that will bring the association more money.

Key in the extension will be an extra $70,000 the NHL will contribute to the CAHA development fund over the $427,000 paid last year, along with a new system of draft payments.

But the increase, the pro-am agreement in general and failure to get a definite commitment from the CAHA to hike development fund payments hailed in lieu of "more money for the product received," resulted in the Alberta resignation.

Harvie said:

"We do not believe in the principle of having an amateur organization dictate and dictated to in any way by a professional organization.

He suggested participants could have paid 50 cents a year to the CAHA to make up the money that comes from the NHL and an "amount—somewhere between $15-30,000—should be paid for players drafted." And if the branches require the money, $1 per participant is a pretty reasonable registration fee."

In the new pro am agreement, each of the first 22 draft choices will bring the CAHA $3,000. For each one that signs a professional hockey contract, the association gets an additional $7,000.

The CAHA receives $2,000 each for the next 22 draft choices and an additional $3,000 for each one that turns professional.

Remaining draft choices bring the association $2,000 each and another $2,000 if they turn pro.

In the previous season, the NHL paid $3,000 for each draft choice, $3,000 if a player played 25 or more games in the NHL. Only 11 played more than 25 games in the league last season.

WHA Woos Dozen Leafs

SARNIA, Ont. (CP) — Paul Henderson of Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League said Thursday that as many as 12 Leafs may jump to the new World Hockey Association next season.

Henderson said that in addition to goalie Bernie Parent and defenceman Brad Selwood, Leafs Ricky Ley, who have already signed with WHA clubs, Leaf centres Norm Ullman, Dave Keon, Jim Harrison and defenceman Brian Glennie, Mike Pelyk as well as Henderson himself were seriously considering the move.

Even Umps Change Minds

In the third inning of game between Atlanta and Cincinnati here Wednesday, Braves Mike Lum singled. Then, he was trapped between first and second, elected to go for second and was ruled safe by Ump Shag Crawford as Reds Dave Concepcion took throw from catcher John Bench. Then, bottom, Crawford changed his mind and ruled Lum overslid the bag and called him out. Braves won, 4-2. (AP Photo)

Gibson Breaks Two Streaks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bob Gibson has won 207 major league games. Marty Pattin 44 and Skip Lockwood, but they all have one thing in common—each ended up his first 1972 victory Thursday.

"I didn't figure I was going to go all season without winning," said Gibson, 1-5, after scattering seven hits as St. Louis Cardinals stopped Pittsburgh Pirates' nine-game winning streak 4-2.

Pattin, 1-5, who allowed only four hits, struck out nine and was aided by a triple play in pitching Boston Red Sox over Baltimore Orioles 2-1 said:

"That takes the pressure off."

Lockwood, 1-4, who hurled a six-hitter and outdueled Detroit's Mickey Lolich as Milwaukee Brewers blanked the Tigers 2-0, said:

"They popped up on good pitches and had."

WIN WITH WILLIE

In Thursday's only other games, New York Mets edged Chicago Cubs 3-2 on Willie Mays' 10th-inning single, New York Yankees shaded Cleveland Indians 2-0, Minnesota Twins nipped Texas Rangers 6-5 and Kansas City Royals beat California Angels 4-2.

Gibson's fast ball was a good form and he struck out 7 Pirates—getting Richie Hebner three times although the Pittsburgh third baseman homered in the sixth. By then, Gibson had a 3-1 lead with Ted Simmons belting his first home run of the season and Lou Brock scoring twice—the first on Matty Alou's single and in the third on a run-play grounder.

Pattin fell behind the Orioles 1-0 in the second inning when Don Baylor connected for a home run. But the Red Sox tied it quickly in the third on Tommy Harper's double and Luis Aparicio's single off Pat Dobson. Aparicio then came around with the winning run on a stolen base, flying ball and Ellie Hendricks passed ball.

A triple play took Pattin out of trouble in the fourth inning. With runners at first and second, Hendricks lined to first baseman Duane Josephson, who stepped on the bag for the second out and threw to shortstop Aparicio to nail Terry Crowley trying to get back to second.

run of the season into the upper left field stands at Tiger Stadium.

"It was a high fast ball on the first pitch," said Lolich. "He just looked like he was looking for it.

"This would have been my 150th victory in the big leagues and I wanted to win it at home. I just pushed too hard . . . But I can't get shook off the six walks Don Baylor scored they didn't hurt me."

Mays' game-winning two-out single broke the Mets' two-game losing streak and was the 41-year-old star's third decisive hit since returning to New York two weeks ago.

Fritz Peterson, who lost his first six starts, made it two triumphs in a row by blanking Cleveland on seven hits as the Yankees won for the eighth time in their last 11 games.

AOCO Didn't Wait

Post Office and CNR staged last - losing Industrial Softball rallies Thursday, but AOCO didn't bother getting things off until the last minute. AOCO buried Constellation 23-2, while Post Office was slapping the Independents 8-4 and CNR squeezed past The Intelligencer 7-6.

Ron McCoy and Grant Collet hurled the optical workers to their lop-sided win, giving up just four hits, while walking six and getting seven batters on strikes.

Hollis and Maracle hurled for the losers allowing 15 hits and five walks. They struck out four batters.

Doug McKay paced the winners with three doubles and a single, while Paul Nobles was good for two single and a double. Maracle had two singles for the losers.

Ron Marcicott's two - out double in the top of the seventh plated the winning Post Office marker in their 5-4 decision over the Independents.

The win went to Jim McKay, on a five hitter. He issued two bases on balls while striking out five batters. Wally Hull and Neil Goyer were tabbed the Independents, giving up nine hits and two walks while fanning two.

Gord "Soup" Campbell led the winners with a double and single, while Harry Reid and Marriott added doubles. Hull and Paul Trumpour had two hits each for the losers.

Mark Sheridan found himself out of a last - inning jam, striking out the final two Intell batters with the winning runs on base. A single trailmen tally in the top of the seventh had given them a 7-6 lead in the contest.

Sheridan threw eight - hit ball for CNR, striking out seven and allowing three walks. For the losers, it was Gerry Gennaro allowing 11 hits and one walk. He fanned four batters.

Milt Bell cracked two singles and a double for CNR with Homer Thomas and Barry Tamlin getting two hits each. Eric Emerson had two singles and a double for the Intell with Harold Redgrave adding a pair of safeties.

Loses No-Hitter

Sonny Holoway has a bitter pill to swallow today.

The Mead Johnson pitcher tossed a 20-6 Industrial Softball no-hitter at Canadian Tire Wednesday, only to see his performance washed out by a successful protest by the losers.

Mead Johnson was guilty of playing Cliff Hineman, an ineligible player because he has appeared in a Commercial softball league lineup this year.

That means Canadian Tire will be awarded a 9-0 forfeit win. The Tiremen only had one base-runner against Holoway, by virtue of a Mead Johnson error.

Easy Does It

David Thompson of Trenton High School carries his relaxed style of running all the way to the tape in winning the junior 800-metres in the Central Ontario Secondary School Athletics track and field championships held in Trenton Thursday. Thompson added a record - setting performance in the 400-metres to his win in the metric half-mile to help Trenton win the team championship over 48 other schools from across central Ontario.

"Many teams in the other districts don't start practising until a few weeks before the meets. That works with sprinters, but you can't win distance races without training, and I think that's why Bay of Quinte was so successful in that area," noted Trenton boys' track coach Dave Howe.

The dominance was most evident in senior events where Quinte runners swept all three distance events. Napanee's Tom Dandiva took the 880-metre title in 4:28.3 besting Gerrard Farrell of Quinte in a repeat of their duel of the previous week at the area championships.

Farrell rebounded with an outstanding performance in the open 3,000-metres, winning the event in 9:04.4, while Trenton junior Bart Bourassa was third in the event.

The open 3,000-metre steeplechase title went to Centennial's Jim Thompson. It was the first year of regular COSSA competition in that event.

Perhaps the single best performance by a local distance runner came in the midget 2,000 where Trenton's Mike Taylor came through with a record - setting 6:44.7 effort. His time would have been good enough to earn fifth place in the open event.

Bayside boys came through with top performances in the midget section with Bob Berry winning the 200-metres in 24.5 and placing second in the 100. His teammate, Mark Filip, raced to a 54.5 win in the 400 and added a third place finish in the metric half-mile.

Russ Simonds of BCI swept both the midget shot and discus, setting a new record of over 49 feet in the shot put.

Moira's Anne Sisson was the individual star of the midget girls' section winning the 200-metre in a record - setting time of 29.6 to go with her 100-metre win. She was just a half-second off the record-setting pace in the 400 metres, finishing second in that event, and pulled her team from a 10-yard deficit to win the 4x100 relay in a record - equalling time of 53.3 seconds.

BCI girls showed well in that section with Maida LeBaron turning in a record - setting performance in the 80-metre hurdles, while Barbara Gra-

Trenton and Bayside Share More Than Roof

By ERIC EMERSON
Sports Staff

Trenton and Bayside high schools showed that they have more in common than living under the same roof at the Central Ontario Secondary School Athletics track and field championships Thursday.

The two local secondary schools, both of which are using the Trenton facilities until construction can be completed on the new Bayside building, captured the team championships in their respective divisions.

For Trenton, the defending COSSA champions, it marked the third time in 16 years that they have topped the central Ontario district's "AA" series. It was a different story for Bayside, however, capturing the "A" team title in their first year of existence.

The monopoly held by Trenton's male tracksters continued in full force as they collected 254 of their school's 316 points. McLaughlin of Oshawa was second in the over-all standings with 200 points. It marked the eighth time in 10 years that the Trenton boys have topped the COSSA point totals.

Bayside managed 58 points to emerge as tops among schools with less than 800 students. Second spot in the "A" section went to Oshawa Collegiate with 50 points.

Pickering emerged as the top school in girls' track and field with a total of 82 points.

A total of 22 boys from the Bay of Quinte district qualified for the all-Ontario meet to be held next Friday and Saturday in Toronto. There is no OFSAA competition in girls' track.

The meet also awarded events for local athletes proved to be tough distance events (1500 metres and over), where Quinte - area athletes captured five of six events.

Quinte's Reid Touched Once

Jamie Hunter hurled a two - hit Commercial Softball League victory last night, but still couldn't monopolize the pitching spotlight as Quinte Hearing Aid Reid came up with a one-hit effort of his own.

Hunter helped check the Elks Juniors 4-0 in the second Devolin Motors to their initial win of the season, while Reid was hurling for Hutchison's 8-1 decision over Globe Hotel.

The Devolin Motors hurler came up with a virtually flawless pitching effort against the Juniors, with back-to-back singles by Steve Campbell and John Remane accounting for the only Elks baserunners. Romano was later picked off by catcher Marv Sleeny to stymie the losers' only scoring threat of the game.

Slim Pickings From Orchards

There was slim pickings from Bayview Orchards Thursday night as the defending North Shore League pennant - holders blew a two-hit pitching of Don Bonter to a 4-0 win over Belleville.

Bonter recorded 10 strikeouts, issuing three walks, en route to his two-hit win. Rick Goulah took the loss despite a four-hit pitching effort.

Stacey provided much of Devolin's offensive fireworks as well, slamming a two-run homer in the 257-marker in the left centre in the fourth to shatter a scoreless pitching duel between Scott Reid came and Reid, his triple.

The former Trent Valley all-star lost a bid for his second homer of the game when centre fielder Glenn Carleton pulled in his fifth - inning drive a few feet from the fence.

Hunter recorded seven strikeouts and didn't walk a batter en route to the victory, while Hill yielded six hits and three walks, recording a single strikeout.

Stacey's homer and single were tops for the winners with Bruce Simonds adding a triple and singles coming from Mike Cook, Pat Talmadge and Doug Olsen.

Reid's hopes for a no-hitter were ruined early in the game when the second batter that he faced, Ted Wadsworth, cracked a double. From that point the Quinte righthander was unmatchable, throwing no-hit ball for the final six innings.

Globe's only run came in the third inning on a walk and an error. It tied the contest at 1-1 following a long homer to left by Quinte's Rory Parsons.

The game remained deadlocked until the sixth frame when the winners exploded for seven runs. Reid helped spark the rally with a triple that chased across two runners.

The Quinte righthander whipped third strikes past 13 batters, while issuing only one walk. Earl Foster went the distance for the losers, giving up nine hits and a walk, while striking out six.

Captain Craig Tries Encore

Captain Craig showed that he could beat the odds last week, now he has to prove that he can repeat his opening Quinte Exhibition Raceway performance against a stellar feature field.

The four - year - old bay gelding returned $25.70 for last Saturday's win, but will undoubtedly command more betting respect in the second meet of the season.

In last week's opening feature, driver Trevor Atkinson pulled the big bay past the favored I. N. Warm to win down the stretch. The brother of R. Yankee Warm will be back for another crack at a feature win, along with Jim Cochrane's Mary Sing, third place finisher in last week's feature.

Frazier Batters Unranked Challenger

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Heavyweight champion Joe Frazier proved Thursday night he deserved the nickname "Butcher" just as much as battered and vanquished challenger Ron Stander.

Undeaten Frazier retained his world title by stopping a game but bloodied Stander in a bout that will go down the record books as a fifth-round knockout.

After an even first round, Frazier battered the 27-year-old unranked Stander, who was dubbed the "Bluffs Butcher," with a savage body attack and turned his face into a bloody mask.

"He was surely a game puncher," offered the unscarred Frazier after his fourth successful title defense. The victory boosted his pro record to 29-0, including 25 knockout victories.

Stander, a local favorite from nearby, Council Bluffs, Iowa, came out aggressively and slugged with the champion on even terms in the opening round.

Referee Zach Clayton of Philadelphia, who sanctioned the doctor who stopped the fight, and the two judges called the first round for both thereafter. Frazier's speed told.

The champion began to score heavily to the body in the second round, bloodied Stander in the third and then rested him a couple of times in a slugfest fourth round.

"Those cuts were getting deeper and deeper, there was no doubt about stopping it," said ringer doctor Jack Lewis of Omaha. "There was no objection from the Stander corner."

Afterwards Lewis used 17 stitches to close four wounds on Stander's face and the challenger also suffered a broken nose.

"I am sorry I let a lot of people down," said the weeping Stander afterwards. His right eye was puffed shut.

"I did my best, but Frazier is the greatest," said Stander, who now is 23-2-1 in his pro career. It was the first time he was stopped by a knockout.

Frazier, 28, paid high praise to his beaten foe, who had been a 10-1 underdog.

"His strength surprised me," said Frazier, who seemed to work up only a slight sweat.

"He was a very tough opponent. I thought he was stronger than George (Chuvalo) or Oscar (Bonavena)."

A crowd of 9,843 turned out for the first title fight in Nebraska's 105-year history and often urged Stander on with chants of "Go Big Ron."

The gross gate was $242,978. Frazier was to receive 40 per cent of the live gate after taxes and Stander 20 per cent. The champion received a $150,000 guarantee from TVS which telecast the bout on a 150-station network.

Frazier said his future plans are very indefinite, although it has been reported he has signed for a bout in September.

Both Frazier and manager-trainer Yancey Durham skirted the issue of a rematch against former champion Muhammad Ali.

"The first guy that comes up with a $3.5 million offer will get a fight," said Durham referring to a possible rematch.

"I'm going on vacation, and I mean it," emphasized Frazier.

Plate Entry Destroyed

TORONTO (CP) — Hail to Wonder, a Queen's Plate eligible, was destroyed Thursday following an accident in a paddock at Woodbine racetrack.

Hail to Wonder, of Marvin Kaiser's Wonder Tables of Montreal, was the odds-on favorite in the early betting Thursday in a 1 1-16-mile test for Plate eligibles, but he never got a chance. As the horses were being saddled in the paddock before the fifth race, Hail to Wonder reared up on its hind legs as his girth strap was being tightened. The three-year-old gelding flipped backward, striking its head on the grass. With legs thrashing, it appeared paralyzed from the neck up as its head never left the grass.

A veterinarian gave the horse a tranquilizer, but almost two hours later when the horse was in the same position, a lethal drug was later injected into Hail to Wonder to destroy him.

NBA All-Stars Defy Fines for Absentees

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (AP) — "The National Basketball Association Players' Association has decided that if anyone is suspended or fined, all the players will quit," said Bob Lanier of Detroit Pistons.

"That's probably true," said Dave DeBusschere of New York Knicks, "but I don't know that for a complete fact.

"But that would be the logical thing to say. If they suspend one of us, they might as well suspend all of us."

They made their comments Thursday night after the NBA All-Stars, playing under the threat of fines or suspensions from commissioner Walter J. Kennedy, had overcome a 19-point deficit and edged the American Basketball Association's best players 106-104.

Kennedy had warned the NBA players they would be subject to fines, the minimum of which would be the amount they received for playing in the game. For beating the ABA for the second year in a row, the NBA players earned a total of $32,000, or $3,000 a player.

The ABA All-Stars, whose owners and commissioner Jack Dolph had endorsed the game, split a total of $17,000.

"I wasn't really bothered by the threat, but apparently some players were," said Lanier, voted the game's Most Valuable Player after sparking the NBA's comeback with 15 points and seven rebounds.

Of the original group picked to represent the NBA, there were three defections—Milwaukee's Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, the league's Most Valuable Player and leading scorer each of the last two seasons; and all-star guards Jerry West of Los Angeles Lakers and Walt Frazier of the Knicks.

Jonas Quarterback For CFL All-Stars

CALGARY (CP) — Don Jonas of Winnipeg Blue Bombers will be the starting quarterback when the Canadian Football League All-Stars put their perfect record on the line against Calgary Stampeders here June 28.

The all-star lineup was announced today.

The Stampeders play host to the all-stars because of their 14-11 Grey Cup win last year over Toronto Argonauts.

In previous all-star games, organized by the CFL Players Association, the defending Grey Cup champions lost 29-14 when represented by Ottawa Rough Riders in 1970 and 30-13 last year with Montreal Alouettes taking the loss.

Jonas, named the most outstanding player in the CFL last season, guided Winnipeg to the Western Football Conference playoffs for the first time since 1966.

Named alternate quarterback was Joe Thiesmann of Toronto, who completed 148 of 273 passes on a regular basis last year. He fired 17 touchdown passes to help Toronto take first place in the Eastern Football Conference for the first time since 1960.

Running backs are Leon McQuay of Toronto, rookie sensation last year, George Reed of Saskatchewan Roughriders and Jim Evenson of British Columbia Lions.

McQuay led the east in rushing with 977 yards on 138 carries, which included five touchdowns. Evenson was the top rusher in the West with 1,237 yards on 260 carries, well ahead of Reed's 1,146 yards on 218 tries.

Elder Felled By Tumor

BIG SPRING, Tex. (AP) — Boxer Jimmy Elder, 24, died Thursday in hospital after a long bout with a malignant brain tumor. In 1970 he won the national Amateur Athletic Union heavyweight championship. As a professional fighter, his record was 12-1-1 in a two year career. He fought his last professional bout May 26 last year and underwent surgery at a New York hospital last November.

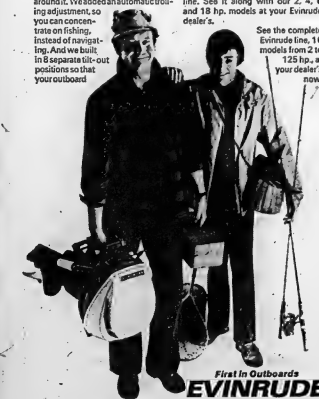
In their world, we're No.1



Among fishermen, no other outboard outsells ours. Maybe that's because no other fishing outboard outperforms ours.

Take our 9.9S. We made it whisper quiet because you'd rather hear the sound of the outdoors than the outboard. We gave it a stylish, low silhouette so you can fish over it, not around it. We added an automatic tilt-and-lock adjustment, so you can concentrate on fishing, instead of navigating. And we built in 8 separate tilt-out positions so that you can trim it to your transom height.

If you take your fishing seriously, you'll appreciate what we've put into the 9.9S. And with speeds up to 20 mph., you'll get a lot of fun out of it too!

The Evinrude 9.9S is just one of the outboards in the world's No. 1 fishing line. See it along with our 2, 4, 6 and 18 hp. models at your Evinrude dealer's.

Liberal Complains Bill Favors Rich

OTTAWA (CP) — Liberal election promises of Prime Minister Trudeau in the 1968 campaign, has been debated for three days. It will come under debate again sometime next week.

Today, the Commons turns to a Conservative motion criticizing government spending practices. It will be concerned mainly with alleged misspending as reported this week by Auditor-General Maxwell Henderson.

Airport Thefts A Problem

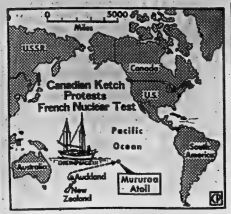
OTTAWA (CP) — The government needs "considerably more co-operation" from airlines in dealing with airport security, particularly measures against theft, says Transport Minister Don Jamieson.

The transport minister told the Commons transport committee that most reports of stolen goods in airports concern private property of airlines.

"There is a necessity for them to take greater security measures," he said.

The minister was appearing before the committee on the transport department estimates which total $467 million this year.



In other comments, Mr. Jamieson:

—Defended the choice of Pickering Township as site of the second Toronto International Airport against criticism from Conservative and New Democrat MPs.

—Suggested there will be a rapid transit system in the Quebec City-Windsor, Ont., corridor within 10 to 20 years.

—Doubted that Canada could impose an anti-pollution levy on oil tankers passing through Canadian waters along the West Coast from Alaska to Cherry Point, Wash.

On the Toronto airport, Mr. Jamieson told John Gilbert (NDP—Broadview) that he believes the decision on the airport site is better left to the government than a judicial inquiry. The government was responsible to the elected representatives of the people while a judicial inquiry was not.

Greenpeace Voyage

The Greenpeace Three, which left Auckland, New Zealand, April 28, on a 2,- 200 mile voyage to stage a protest against a planned French nuclear test, is reported to be nearing the site, at Mururoa Atoll in the South Pacific. The 35-foot ketch, owned and skippered by David McTaggart, 34, of Vancouver, has a crew of four, including Ben Metcalfe of Vancouver and Nigel Ingram, 25, of Devon, England, a former officer in the Royal Navy. The ketch is flying the tattered green and yellow banner that flew from the mast-head of the two earlier Greenpeace missions which protested the U.S. nuclear test on Amchitka Island, in the Aleutians, last November. The French hydrogen bomb test is scheduled for June.

Fisheries Parley Starts Sessions

WASHINGTON (CP) — Faced with steadily dwindling supplies of once-abundant sea life in the North Atlantic, Canada and 14 other fishing nations opened discussions about conservation here Thursday and got a warning from the United States that drastic action will be needed.

James Lynn, U.S. under-secretary of commerce, was roundly applauded after he delivered an unusually-outspoken opening address to the 22nd annual meeting of the International Commission for Northwest Atlantic Fisheries, in which he hinted at a possible U.S. withdrawal from the commission.

"There must be hard decisions and they must be made now," Lynn said.

Noting that nine species of North Atlantic fish are on the ICNAF quota, because their existence in commercial quantities is threatened, he said that scientists have been warning for years that there are too many fishing vessels with too much modern gear in the North Atlantic.

Lynn said some New England fishing groups have recommended U.S. withdrawal from ICNAF because of frustration with its decisions, and he added that the U.S. government has the suggestion "under advisement."

He rejected any sort of piecemeal approach which, by setting conservation standards for one species of fish, "will merely divert resources to some other species."

Ontario Ends Loans to Foreign Firms

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario has suspended the granting of performance loans to foreign-owned companies with branches in the province, John White, minister of industry and tourism revealed Thursday.

He told the legislature during debate on legislation which will restructure the Ontario Development Corp. that the decision was made during a Wednesday cabinet meeting. The decision reverses five-year-old government policy.

A performance loan, formerly known as a forgiveable loan, allows a company to write off as much as 50 per cent of the loan if it meets government conditions after the loan is granted.

Mr. White said in an interview later that about half of the $33 million in performance loans granted by the Ontario Development Corp. since its inception have gone to foreign-controlled companies, but most in the last six months went to Canadian firms.

The ODC is a Crown corporation which grants government loans to companies to stimulate jobs and economic growth.

He emphasized in the interview that the step taken by the cabinet is not meant to indicate that the government is "anti-foreign investment."

"But it's a little troublesome to me personally to take Canadian taxpayers' money and give it to a foreign-controlled company," Mr. White said.

He said instructions already had gone out to government agents here and abroad to make it clear that ODC development loans would no longer be available to foreign-controlled companies.

Under the new legislation, which received second reading in the legislature Thursday, the ODC board would be increased to 13 from nine persons and field operators would be given power to grant loans rather than have the applications first given approval by the cabinet.

Inquest Rules Revised

TORONTO (CP) — A new Coroner's Act, which Solicitor-General John Yaremko termed "a bill of rights for witnesses and jurors" at inquests, was introduced Thursday in the Ontario legislature.

The bill follows closely recommendations made last year by the Ontario Law Reform Commission after a review of the coroner system.

The bill would prevent witnesses and others appearing at an inquest to engage counsel to examine or cross-examine on their behalf.

If an inquest was ordered into a death in which criminal charges had arisen, the accused would not be compelled to testify.

Another provision of the new act would prescribe the types of verdicts that can be returned by juries. Jurors would be permitted to make findings only of fact and not draw conclusions relating to criminal or civil liability.

A coroner's council would be established to maintain performance standards and hear complaints about the conduct of coroners. The bill also provides for a code of ethics for coroners.

Educational TV Branch 's Under Fire

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario legislature's public accounts committee was asked Thursday to investigate spending practices of the government's educational television branch after being told the president of a Toronto film company was asked to pay-date an invoice.

The request, made by James Bullbrook (L—Sarnia), will be dealt with at the next meeting of the committee Thursday.

Mr. Bullbrook also said the branch wasted most of a $30,000 contract awarded Tony Lorch for filming.

He said that in 1968-69, Mr. Lorch was awarded a contract for 181 production days but the branch only used him for 27 days, meaning a loss of $25,410.

Allow Drug Substitution

TORONTO (CP) — A bill to allow druggists to substitute less-costly equivalent drugs for those prescribed by doctors was introduced in the Ontario legislature Thursday.

At the same time, Health Minister Richard Potter said regulations are being drawn up which will require the use of "child-resistant" containers by pharmacists.

Indy Director Controls Chaos

As safety director of the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, he is lord of the 500½-acre manor which once a year turns mad-house when an estimated 300,000 auto racing buffs swarm in for the 500.

The 58-year-old official is in charge of rescuing drivers from wrecked machines, drying out drunks, running out girls peddling sex, and creating order out of chaos as thousands of people gather for the U.S. Auto Club classic and the pre-race festivities.

Quinn, at the job for 27 years, is assisted by a group of top aids he calls "the dirty dozen." 2,600 yellow-shirted officers known as the safety patrol, and a fire emergency unit.

That's inside the track.

Surrounding it tonight and Saturday will be 250 city policemen, 300 state troopers, 75 speedway policemen and 100 deputy sheriffs.

His chief concern when the race starts at noon EST Saturday will be the drivers' safety.

On hand will be 18 wreckers, 16 ambulances, a fire rescue squad, a hydraulic lift to remove wrecked cars quickly from the 2½-mile oval and two helicopters to transport any badly-injured driver to a nearby hospital in a hurry.

Although he's not a fatalist, he worries about the tremendous speeds that may exceed 200 miles an hour on the straightaways. But he won't speculate whether the caution flag will be waved more this year than ever before.

Wins Two

ham equalled the high jump record of five feet.

David Thompson of Trenton was the junior boys standout clipping off a new record of 58.6 in the 400 metres and adding a win in the 800. Albert College's Gary Mackaway won the long jump with a leap of 20 feet, 10 inches and added a second in the 200 metres.

Bayside's Carla Pavlica set a new mark of 8.8 in the junior girls 60-metre dash and added a second place finish in the 100. Regyna Armenas of Quinte won the high jump and placed second in the javelin.

Dennis Bowman of Trenton topped the senior boys' section, qualifying for OFSAA in three events. Bowman won the long jump, triple jump and 400-metre hurdles. He also ran a strong third leg in helping Trenton equal the 880 relay record of 44.9 seconds. Teammate Duncan Armstrong won the 200 metre and managed a second in the 100.

Picton's Nancy Rolston took second in both the 60 and 100-metre sprints, turning the same time as the winner in both events.

Sea Cadets Have Tough Luck

The Sea Cadets ran into some rough waters Thursday, dropping a 6-0 Belleville Minor Lacrosse verdict to the Sea Luck juveniles.

Wade Grier and Garth Penn paced the winners with two goals each, while Frank Goyer and Gerald Whitney sank single tallies.

Henry Proves Triple Threat

If Warkworth players were asked to sum up their Bay of Quinte soccer plight Thursday night it would be something like "Oh, Henry!"

Henry Somervild of the Whitley Travellers counted three times to lead his team to a 4-0 decision over Warkworth. Somerveld and Horsley counted in the first half for Whitleys with Henry adding two more tallies in the final period.

Whitleys are scheduled to meet Picton at 2:30 p.m. this Sunday in an exhibition game at Trenton's Centennial Park in another Thursday night bout, the Bata Braves continued their surprising early season performance by bolding Belleville Parsons to a 2 - 2 tie.

Zoltan Csaszar and Nick Toulgous scored for the Braves who are undefeated after three games. Last year at this time, Bata was carrying an 0-3 record and were 0-13 in scoring.

Housing Explained to Senior Citizens

MADOC (Special) — A team of research analysts from the Ontario Housing Corporation were the feature attraction at last Wednesday afternoon's regular meeting of the Madoc and District Senior Citizens' Club in the United Church Basement. There were over 90 in attendance.

After the usual opening exercises, Ed Driscoll, village councillor, spoke. Mr. Driscoll expressed regrets and extended greetings to the group from Charles T. Rollins, MPP Hastings, who was unable to attend the meeting. Mr. Rollins had arranged for the speakers present.

Mr. Driscoll informed the group that Council has made a resolution requesting that the possibilities of senior citizen housing in Madoc be looked into. Mr. Driscoll then introduced Miss Olive Asher, village clerk-treasurer, who has spent 11 years in community-related work, Miss Asher, he says, introduced the guest speaker, Kathy Gaetz, one of the assistant Regional Development Officers for the Corporation's Eastern Ontario Region and Research Branch both from Toronto.

Miss Kinnear gave a detailed description of senior citizen housing and how it is established in a municipality. She said the housing is specifically designed for elderly residents, both single and as a couple, low to no stairs to climb, hand rails in the bathrooms, low rental, privacy, recreational facilities and ready access to amenities.

The research analyst explained that the OHC decides whether or not to recommend senior citizen housing in a municipality. The municipality must guarantee 5 per cent of the cost of the project, provide a suitable site and is calculated on a sliding scale. It includes all services (heat, hydro, and water) except the telephone.

A stove and refrigerator are supplied with each unit, but each occupant is required to furnish his or her own furniture.

The apartments are subsidized by the government, with the federal government paying 50 per cent, the province 25% per cent and the municipality paying the remaining 7½ per-cent of the costs. The taxes on the building are paid by the Ontario Housing Corporation.

The apartments are self-contained and completely private. Every resident is free to have his or her own visitors — the units are entirely their own homes. There is one main entrance and exit to the building, which is usually out-of-sight, to avoid the necessity of stair-climbing. Parking space is provided. Among the many advantages of the building is the fact that there is no involvement in the snow-shovelling for the residents.

Although this is generally a year's residency classification for eligibility to reside in a unit, this is enforced at the whims of the municipality. Residents of neighbouring communities, for example, Madoc and Huntingdon Township, would be eligible to occupy a unit, depending upon their council's approval to split the operating costs.

Questionnaires and pamphlets explaining the Ontario Housing were distributed to those present and everyone was urged to give careful consideration to the questionnaires and submit one as soon as possible. They were assured that their replies would not put them under any obligation whatsoever. The OHC will have an idea whether Ontario Housing would be advisable in the municipality. Two major factors to consider were: how much money would you save and how much would it help you personally by living in Ontario Housing.

A question was raised as to the eligibility of homeowners occupying a unit. Mrs. Kinnear said homeowners are eligible, although he or she are not allowed to maintain their ownership while renting Ontario Housing. She said that if they wish to sell their home and rent Ontario Housing, their income from this would be considered in calculating the rent. However, the resident may own a small cottage or acreage at the discretion of the municipality.

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

SATURDAY, MAY 26

Aries (March 21-April 19): Quick adjustments are the order of the day. Care while interviewing protects your public image in the simplest expedient may look awkward.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): There's an extra thing on almost any deal you are likely to encounter at this confusing day. Your patience is appreciated and brings further rewards.

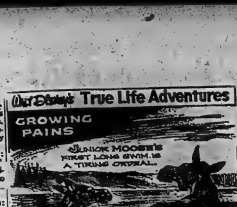
Gemini (May 21-June 20): There's no point in getting into moods when others don't agree or won't cooperate. Do what you can without waiting for recriminations.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Be a peacemaker or face a long-standing annoyance to an abrupt end—if you're not right. No middle path exists at the moment.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): There are too many conflicting claims on your attention—make up your mind wht you will do, let everybody know in simple terms.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Promises should be postponed till you have more information. Explain what you are doing so associates aren't confused by your decisions.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Practicality has to prevail now, as there is no time for disputes. Assume nothing about why people do what they do, learn by watching.



Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Speculative schemes fail now. Your intensity generates appeal, but too far even sake. Do no more than necessary . . . time being.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Circumstances lead you to face and resolve some dilemma you have been evading. You are lucky enough to find a corrective solution later in the day.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Get away from it all as much as ever way is handiest, actual travel or symbolic detachment to an impersonal mood. Attend to your responsibilities.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): State clearly what you want and how you plan to get it. People need to participate in events involving their interests.

Pisces (Feb. 19-march 20): The closer others are to you the more impractical their suggestions seem. Decide what you want to do and go ahead with a minimum of discussion.

To Your Good Health

Cream Substitute Saturated Fat

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I enjoy using a cream substitute in my coffee—about five cups a day. After reading the long list of ingredients on the carton, I wonder how safe this product is for daily use?—Mrs. D.M.

Dear Doctor: Along with others I am a victim of high cholesterol, so have been using a cream substitute, but I have heard it is just as harmful as cream. Would you clear up this matter?—Mrs. A.M.

The answer's not the same for these two letters.

Cream substitutes usually contain a vegetable oil which is the most fattenless is coconut oil. This, unlike most vegetable oils, is a saturated type of fat.

Thus for those with a cholesterol problem, a cream substitute would not be advisable, any more than real cream would be. That's the answer for Mrs. A.M.

Otherwise, however, cream substitutes certainly are not harmful. They are convenient, tasty, less expensive than cream—but they contribute about the same number of calories as cream. Only reason for Mrs. D.M. or others without a cholesterol problem to avoid the cream substitutes would be on account of the calories if they have a weight problem.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have been bothered with a numbness in my right arm and hand. I don't know what it means. It comes at times, at night, and it is so numb it actually hurts.—M.C.

Also, if I am writing, driving the car, or doing any activity that requires my hand to be in one position, this occurs.

It does not happen all the time, but some days it is almost constant. I am 58. What could cause this condition?—M.C.

Saying what could cause your trouble and what is causing it are not the same thing. But one possibility, if the trouble is confined mostly to the hand, is a condition called carpal tunnel syndrome, resulting from pressure on nerves where they pass through the wrist. Another possibility of pressure on nerves much farther up—in the neck, in fact, where the nerves emerge from the spine. Either one of the spine, injury, or some defect in the spine are possible causes of this.

Better check with your doctor to find out which is doing the mischief—or perhaps with an orthopedist. Knowing what could cause the pain is a far cry from finding out what actually is causing it, and then getting it corrected.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would you comment on a recent report that the body is literally left-handed?—M.B.

It can cause chimaerism, remarkable and sometimes far too much nervous tension for a child. But people still do it. I wonder why they never stop to think how they'd react if someone by chance had given the "wrong hand" for everything.

Careless Camper Blamed for Fire

KIRKLAND LAKE (CP) — The department of natural resources suspects that a careless camper was responsible for a forest fire that has destroyed thousands of cords of merchantable spruce and jackpine about 60 miles southwest of here.

The fire has burned more than 4,500 acres since Tuesday but has not threatened any settlements.

Ed Markus, district forester for the department's Gordbear district, said during a brother Thursday:

"There hasn't been any light ning and there are no logging companies working in the area. I guess you can figure who started it."

Mr. Markus said he planned to "throw everything we've got" at the fire today. That would be more than 200 men and as many as two water-bombing aircraft.

"I think we can get it before the wind comes up," he said. "At least, I hope we can before it gets any further. There are few natural barriers to stop it."

By late Thursday, the fire, identifiable more than 30 miles away as a giant pillar of black smoke, had run into several dead ends—mainly lakes and wide logging roads.

However, no area where the fire was is hottest, jumping through jackpine and ripping up the bark of birch, presented few natural obstacles.

Hospitals Changing

WINNIPEG (CP) — The traditional hospital, which directs care toward the acutely-ill patient, is dying out and new roles are being taken on by the emerging, community-centred hospitals, says Stephen Moretz of Phoenix, Ariz., president of the American Hospital Association.

In an address to the Canadian Hospital Association annual meeting Thursday, Mr. Moretz said hospitals have gradually been forced into newer roles during the last few years. For example, hospital emergency units have had to change from trauma and serious-accident wards into a place where mothers could bring colicky babies and where "sore throats are as common as broken arms and heart attacks."

Equally important have been changes in outpatient departments, where salaried hospital staff now see patients on much the same basis as doctors see their patients.

"The increasing dependence of doctors on the hospital's diagnostic and treatment facilities" also had led to increased use of hospital services for other than acutely ill persons.

Tinder Dry Forests Ring Alarm Bells

Quinte Alert Given

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Events have linked to make this weekend a time of peak hazard in Quinte district forests.

With sunny weather expected to draw an urban migration into district camping country, local ministry of resources officials issued an urgent appeal for public caution against causing forest fires.

The warm weekend comes at a perilous time for the department's undermanned district forestry protection service. It's part of a prolonged dry spell that has parched local bush country.

Meantime, forestry service personnel has been halved by the men drafted as reinforcements to fight the forest fire emergency in Northern Ontario.

"We're spread pretty thin and the fire hazard is extreme in the district," said Donald White, forest protection services officer at Tweed.

"About 80 per cent of our fires are caused by people — a lot of them from campfires — and we expect this will be a fairly big weekend for campers."

Campers could ease the threat if they used portable stoves instead of open fires, he added.

In an attempt to partially offset the manpower shortage, local fire wardens — residents who volunteer for service in their own townships — are on a round - the - clock alert in strategic areas, being paid to stand by their phones in case of emergency.

Two aircraft, equipped for waterbombing, also are on standby duty for the rest of the weekend.

The fire hazard Friday caused cancellation of all burning permits in the Tweed forestry district — an "unusual" step, but one which will be in effect until a weather change dampens down the tinder-dry bushland, said the officer.

"But the long-range forecast doesn't look very good to us right now," he added.

Potential Not Realized

FLIN FLON, Man. (CP) — Churchill should be developed as a transportation and communications centre for the north, Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield told an audience of more than 300 in this northern Manitoba mining community Friday night.

Mr. Stanfield, who had arrived from a tour of Saskatchewan and Alberta centres, said he had found much concern on his tour that the full potential of the Hudson Bay port be utilized.

"What is needed is an adequate development plan for the entire west and north."

Roberta Munro Changing Army Dress

Twenty Five Girls in Ranks Of Local Cadet Corps

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

Army cadets are ripping the seams out of their pants and sewing them into skirts!

Something new has been added.

Though not yet officially recognized, 25 girls have entered the ranks of the Hastings - Prince Edward Army Cadet Corps, and things may never be the same again.

No uniforms are available for the girls, and no authority is extended to regiments to enter into this kind of co-educational programming, but the Belleville group is pushing on.

Vance Glendinning, instructional officer for the corps told The Intelligencer, there is legislation in the offing that one day will give recognition to the girls.

For the moment, the corps will receive no grant assistance for the girls, and the corps will have to — somehow — absorb the cost.

The interest in the idea has been incredible, said Mr. Glendinning. "We have 25 girls now and expect from the initial reaction that there will be at least 50 next year."

The girls will wear the standard battle dress blouse, the same as worn by the boys, and will modify the pants into skirts.

For inspection purposes this Sunday in the Armory at 2 p.m., the girls will wear civilian dress. All the girls have not yet had a chance to make the alterations to the uniform.

The Belleville group is probably the only corps in at least the province that is offering the program. Trenton air cadets are thinking of following the Belleville lead.

The girls will participate in all the aspects of cadet life with emphasis on the citizenship side.

"It is not likely they will be given too much instruction in the use of weapons," says the corps spokesman.

They will go on all the outings and drill in the same fashion as the boys.

Water Planes Arrive

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

With at least 133 fires roaring through the tinder-dry forests of Northern Ontario, the province Friday borrowed water-bombing aircraft from Manitoba and British Columbia.

The aircraft will join more than 30 aircraft, including one borrowed earlier from Quebec, and more than 1,500 men battling a new wave of blazes set off by lightning.

In the legislature, Natural Resources Minister Leo Bernier called the situation "very serious," and said if it gets any worse Ontario will need more equipment from other provinces.

The weather offered the fire-fighters little hope of a respite. The forecast for the already sun-baked province calls for two to three days of hot dry weather, with some shower activity in the northwest.

Lightning activity did the most damage in the Geraldton area, which had 25 fires.

"We had an awful lightning storm Thursday and now we're getting the fires," said John Goodman, environmental protection supervisor for the Geraldton district.

"Our pilots are reporting more fires every time they come in. I don't know how many there are altogether, but I think it's more than 20."

"We've got more than 300 men fighting them, but we can't get working on all of them because most of them can only be reached by air."

Late Friday, 18 fires in Ontario were not yet under control and 17 were being held. Six fires burning through worthless scrub timber were being watched but the overtaxed fire-fighters did not attempt to tackle them.

The largest fire in the province is in Rose Township, about 35 miles southwest of Kirkland Lake.

Ed Markus, district forester for Swastika, expressed optimism about the Rose fire for the first time since it started Tuesday.

"I think we've got a chance to get it now," he said.

Fifty more men have been added to the contingent fighting the blaze, which is ripping through rolling country treed with spruce and jackpine. There now are 250 men in the area.

Another large fire, about 970 acres in size, is in the Swastika district, about 40 miles east of Dane Township.

Another is burning over 1,000 acres in Quetico Park near the United States border, and a 200-acre fire is burning west of Armstrong, about 185 miles north of Thunder Bay.

Ottawa to Buy Grain Hoppers

WINNIPEG (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau announced a railway-car buying program Friday night that will help eastern industrial workers as well as western grain growers.

He said about 1,500 people at a $100-a-couple Liberal party dinner the government has authorized the spending of $43 million to buy 2,000 new railway hopper cars, to speed transport of grain from farms to port terminals.

The first of the hopper cars is to go into use late in the summer, and all would be in service by the end of the calendar year. About 1,300 cars recently have been leased from the United States for use in Canada.

A government source said plants in Trenton, N.S., Sorel, Que. and Hamilton, Ont. are expected to make the hopper cars.

Humphrey said he is particularly pleased with what he understands to be the agreement to freeze the level of anti-ballistic missiles.

Muskie, chairman of the subcommittee on arms control, also said he welcomed the agreement.

Senator George McGovern of South Dakota, a Democratic presidential aspirant, who has said he will drastically reduce defence department spending if elected, said in Palo Alto, Calif., he is pleased with the SALT accord.

However, he added: "I have to admit a certain inner anxiety about the way so-called great powers can preoccupy themselves, with arms accords and joint space efforts at a time such as those things are . . . while at the same time pretending that the killing now going on in Vietnam is happening on some other planet a million from anything that's being discussed in Moscow at this moment."

Degree Schools Given Warning

TORONTO (CP) — Premier William Davis received the first honorary degree granted by Ryerson Polytechnical Institute Friday, and then warned that university administrators and faculties no longer hold exclusive rights to post-secondary education.

He was addressing the institute's convocation exercises during which the first degrees in its 34-year-history were presented. Nine degrees were presented and one was returned.

Mr. Davis's government last year passed legislation enabling Ryerson to award degrees.

The premier warned that universities must co-operate with institutions such as Ryerson and the community colleges of applied arts and technology.

Many universities have felt the Davis government is downgrading their importance and have been disgruntled since the Wright report on post-secondary education was published and university tuition fees were increased in this year's budget.

Mr. Davis said higher education remains most important but it must be balanced with a realistic view of other government responsibilities and the needs of other individuals.

If universities are to be truly effective, he said, "They cannot operate in complete isolation."

The government was not seeking uniformity of a single structure, but a creative flexibility "in the interest of young people."

Degrees were granted in three subjects areas: Business, geodetic sciences, and interior design.

One of the interior design graduates, Rosemary Phillips, returned her degree, saying it means "practically nothing" in terms of content of the education and the ability of the individual." She criticized the method of teaching the interior-design course.

Irish Gunman Shoots Doctor

BELFAST (Reuter) A gunman shot a British Army doctor early today as he was treating a soldier injured in a bomb blast in this Northern Ireland capital, an army spokesman said.

The spokesman said the doctor was not in the stomach as he attended the soldier, who was suffering from concussion.

The gunman shot the doctor fired a total of seven shots and the doctor died in the fire, the spokesman said. The army said it left him.

The body of a man with gunshot wounds was later found and it was thought that he may have been involved in the incident.

Protestant tempers are close to boiling point following six bombings in Ulster Friday. One blast mowed down a lunchtime crowd in the heart of Belfast. A 67-year-old housewife died and 41 persons were injured, nine of them seriously, when a bomb exploded outside an automobile showroom.

Presidential Nominees Agree With Arms Limitation Accord

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States-Soviet arms-limitation agreement has been scorned by congressional conservatives but praised for the most part by both liberals and moderates.

The agreement banning the development of new weapons but permitting the refinement of existing systems may be the heart of the security of the United States," said Senator Henry Jackson of Washington.

Jackson, a Democratic presidential contender, said the pact will leave the United States with a 4-to-1 missile advantage. Representative John Ashbrook of Ohio, a Republican challenger to President Nixon, said the agreement announced Friday in Moscow, will "doom the United States to a decade of danger."

Conservatives fear the Soviets will use the improvements-in-existing-systems clause to build up a formidable missile-firing submarine force and refine their anti-ballistic program to the extent their "dial 'firepower will be several times that of the United States.

The accord was welcomed, however, by Senators Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota and Edmund Muskie of Maine, both of Jackson, seeking the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination.

Humphrey, campaigning in San Francisco for the California June 6 Democratic primary, said he can't help commending Nixon for the pact, although he is the man Humphrey is trying to knock out of office.

Missile Sites Limited to Two By Pact

MOSCOW (AP) — Here in brief are the provisions of the U.S.-Soviet strategic arms limitations agreements signed Friday:

The first part, a treaty of unlimited duration requiring U.S. Senate confirmation, allows each country to have two defensive missile sites with no more than 100 anti-ballistic missile launchers at each one.

The United States can have a site near Washington, D.C., and the one already under construction at Grand Forks, N.D. The Soviet sites will be the current site near Moscow and another to be built at least 780 miles from the Soviet capital.

The defensive pact also places limits on radar installations, which are essential for ABM operations.

The second accord, a five-year executive agreement not subject to U.S. Senate confirmation, freezes the number of land-based inter-continental ballistic missile launchers at July 1, 1972, levels. As the numbers now stand, this would be 1,054 for the United States and 1,618 for the Soviet Union. Modernization of land-silo missile systems is permitted.

The accord also limits the number of missile-firing submarines and the number of submarine-launched ballistic missiles. The United States is allowed to have 44 such submarines with 710 missiles. The Soviet Union may have 62 submarines with 950 sub-based missiles.

A Joint commission will be created to oversee inspection which will be by satellite, and serve as a forum for discussion of any differences.

The agreement does not apply to the number of offensive warheads or long-range bombers each country has. The United States has about 5,700 strategic warheads compared with 2,500 for the Soviet Union. The U.S. has 530 long-range bombers compared with 190 for Russia.

Society Seeks Government Help

By IAN ROBERTSON
Staff Reporter

Faced with a $300,000 loss in 1971, the Ontario Humane Society will halt all control and prosecution proceedings by 1973, unless the provincial government sees fit to extend further funds to it.

Dr. H. D. Scollard, president of the provincial society, revealed the present status of the OHS to The Intelligencer at its annual conference being held at the Four Seasons Hotel this weekend.

Of the $300,000 loss, only $8,000 has been recovered.

Dr. Scollard said the society spends approximately $120,000 annually on animal control and prosecution. Until this year, they had received only $28,000 from the provincial government.

This year, the society's finance committee met with senior provincial government ministers, including Premier William Davis, to discuss the future role of the society in the province.

The figure was increased to $52,000. However, society officials say this is still not enough.

Faced with an increasing workload, court costs which, by law, the society cannot recover by civil action, plus a $48,000 expenditure for rabies clinics and quarantine facilities this past year, the society is waging an all-out campaign to solicit further funds from the province.

Further meetings are scheduled and a complete list of financial statements have been prepared for the government auditors, said Dr. Scollard.

The society president said cruelty investigations would continue until the end of 1972. "We can carry out our present standards of work and still just about break even," he added.

"The government will have to decide how much law enforcement they want done," he related to animals. We'll carry it out if we're refunded a case, but we'll have no other option in 1973," unless the government reviews its financial support.

Provincial general manager Tom Hughes explained the society officers are duly appointed law officers, with the power to arrest, condemn and seize, in connection with the care and treatment of animals.

He explained they do not have the power to close a place down, but once ill-cared for animals are condemned or seized, the owners of any condemned buildings, must comply with a written order before they can use them again.

If more are found on the property, without the owner having followed the order, these animals can also be seized, regardless of their condition . . . for their own good.

If necessary, officers file cases through regular public prosecution channels and they are dealt with through the courts.

Mr. Hughes said the officer must issue a written order before removing animals. This order can immediately call for removal of beasts, or can order a time limit for improved living conditions.

A November case, reported in The Intelligencer, involved a raid by Society officers at a zoo in Brockville. When officers visited the zoo, they found a lioness bleeding from her ears and conditions generally unfavorable.

The subsequent raid, in November, found the lioness notably improved and she was left to the care of her owner after careful examination by veterinary doctors from the University of Guelph.

If the Ontario Humane Society cannot continue with its legal functions, says Hughes, the protection of animals will rest with municipal or provincial police.

In his annual report to more than 50 visiting delegates and approximately 50 society members, Dr. Scollard said overwork and low pay were considered by an increase in salary for key personnel.

At the same time, however, several staff members were laid off, due to pinched finances.

"It's really tragic. Those people don't get paid a great deal and they put in such dreadful hours," he said during an interview which followed the annual general meeting.

In his 1971 annual report, Dr. Scollard stated the 1972 board of directors would have to decide whether or not to opt out of law enforcement work unless satisfactorily assisted by the government.

Dr. Scollard made the following statement in his annual published report for 1972: "The amount of humane work coming under law enforcement which the government desires to be carried out, is in direct proportion to the amount of financial support they decide to give the society.

"They can no longer hide behind the Ontario Humane Society, for we have no more reserves to cover up their decisions."

The society receives, in addition to the provincial grant, funds from local municipalities who employ local society officers as animal control wardens and use their facilities for pounds. In addition, those carrying members pay a basic $5 annual fee.

Most of the remainder is made up in donations from private individuals, corporations, or any of the 25,000 society members across the province.

In order to attract further members, the society has instigated a program of involvement for its members. At a recent meeting at the Avondaugh Rest Shelter of the Quinte Branch, members were asked to join the executive in organizing fund-raising drives.

To foster further communication with members and the general public, the society's offset tabloid publication . . . Animals Voice . . . is again being published. Reports of various activities, trends and allied problems facing the OHS, are recorded in newspaper style.

OSD Building Continues

Construction of more classrooms and an up-to-date clinic is scheduled to begin in April 1973 at the Ontario School for the Deaf.

Meanwhile, work continues on the new infirmary building set to open in September, and renovations to the intermediate boys' dormitory.

While plans are still at the drawing stage for the new building, eight classrooms will be provided on the ground floor of the two-story structure, to be attached to the south end of the junior school.

A clinic housing a supervising audiologist and a speech therapist, a psychologist, a social worker, two audiological technicians, seven home visit teachers and two stenographic workers will occupy the upper floor.

At present, six reusable classrooms and several rooms in the junior school are being used to handle the overflow.

The clinic, which was inaugurated in 1958 with the aid of only one audiologist, now serves pre-school children in eastern and central Ontario, in addition to providing resource services to school boards throughout the region.

The 24-bed infirmary is also completed. A government spokesman said initial consideration in the architectural structure scheduled to replace Gibson Hospital, is being carried out at a cost of $297,500.

Plans to replace the intermediate boys' dorm, built in 1934 are temporarily on hold, according to OSD Superintendent Joseph Demeza.

"We're renovating the old one at the moment, but it's not pushing," he said.

Two large unused areas, each of which accommodated 28 boys, are being modernized in the four-bed units, containing individual drawers, desks and lockers.

Dr. Demeza added that the entire concept of this "last old building" was being changed, with two floors converted to create a communal space within the living area.

Industrial Security

Author Adds Book to Library

Book on Security Breaks New Ground

By LENNY WILLIAMSON
Staff Reporter

From London Bobby to textbook author may seem like a leaky leap, but David Fraser has bridged the gap easily.

The Loyalist College teacher has put his lifetime experience in police and security work between the covers of a book — the first of its kind in Canada.

"My purpose was to relate the principles of industrial security in a simple way to acquaint readers with the disadvantage of Canadian publishing houses and authors.

But an American publisher heard of the book, liked it, decided it could be marketed in the United States as well as in Canada, and Mr. Paine was launched as an author.

He brings a broad background in protection to his new book, including 7½ years on the Metropolitan Police in London, England, a stint with the armed forces in Cairo and service as a security officer with the Canadian Pacific Railway.

The principles of either public or private police forces are the same: prevention of crime and detection once committed, said Mr. Paine. But the detailed procedures for industrial security were developed by military forces.

And the security industry is "bursting out" in this province, he says.

"It is one of the most lucrative fields opening up for young people," said Mr. Paine. "A first class constable in Toronto now earns $12,200 a year and other forces are becoming comparable."

And the opportunities are there are women as well as men. The jobs are available with industrial or commercial security forces than with municipal departments, although police forces in small and rural areas are beginning to hire women officers.

"There are more people in company present at industrial security forces in Ontario now than in regular police forces," said Mr. Paine.

New areas are opening up, including high-rise security, occupancy housing units, including highrises and municipal housing. Housing are just beginning, with the Ontario Housing Corporation the first to actively seek such protection.

Loyalist's day-school course in security management is a two-year preparation for employment in security work. The college also offers night school courses for serving police and security officers.

"Girls do better than boys in this program," commentated Mr. Paine.

His Loyalist College course outline was the nucleus of Basic Principles of Industrial Security.

"The outline lent itself easily to conversion into a book that would satisfy the requirements of the security industry and academic institutions."

Jammed Lanes an Emergency Hazard

As seen in this photograph, cars are parked along routes bearing a sign which reads, "No Parking: Reserved for Ambulance Parking and Emergency Vehicles." At a meeting Friday, the hospital board of directors agreed in principal, to installation of paid parking by the fall, in an attempt to alleviate the problem of packed lanes and lots at the hospital.

BGH to Charge for Parking

By IAN ROBERTSON
Staff Reporter

Not only will Belleville General Hospital be taking great strides toward alleviating its parking problem, but they'll be making money at it as well.

Although the hospital board of governors did not arrive at a set decision at their regular monthly meeting Friday, they did agree in principle, to install paid parking when construction is complete.

Of the six parking areas, which provide a total of 250 spaces, 150 would be made available on a pay - as - you - park basis. Visitors would be asked to pay 25 cents an hour, or a daily $1.50 maximum. Employees would be asked for $5 a month as deducted from payrolls, and doctors would be asked for $10 a month.

This scheme would bring in revenue of approximately $58,000 a year, hospital administrators estimate. Costs, including the hiring of two full-time security-parking guards, would be met from these funds.

Several other alternatives were discussed.

Executive director Phillip Richard said one parking firm has expressed interest in construction of a multi - level parking garage. He told the board of governors the firm, Auto-mated Car Park Controls, would construct the garage, operate it for approximately 20 years, and then turn it over to the hospital. Mr. Rickard also said a private party has indicated similar interest.

Another proposal, which has been the subject of public debate, is the location of parking facilities in city parkland south of the CPR tracks and the hospital.

For this type of facility, an overhead walkway would be required for motorists to pass to and from the parking lot and the hospital.

However, this proposal met with firm objections from Mayor J. Russell Scott, a member of the board. He went on record as firmly opposed to use of what he termed "the finest parkland there is" for parking space.

Dr. Scott also said permission from the railroad would have to be obtained before crosswalks could be constructed.

Monsignor J. P. Sullivan, chairman of the board of governors, stepped in at this point and recommended city council turn down the suggestion, for use of the parkland, "wipe it off the slate and stop talking about it."

Hastings County clerk Carl Bateman expressed serious interest in the parking garage suggestion. He said after the millions of dollars spent on improving in esthetic value of the hospital, rows on rows of cars "would detract from it."

For months now, prospective parkers have been required to circle the lots like so many flies above a pudding, in an attempt to find a spot to park their cars. While this has not existed at all times, daytime parking was a recognized thorn in the side of motorists, hospital staff and city officials alike.

During recent disaster plan exercises, Emergency Measures Organization (EMO) chief Col. Angus Duffy drew attention to the difficulty ambulances had in manoeuvring through cars parked beside no-parking signs in special emergency lanes.

Throughout the day, numerous calls can be heard broadcast over the hospital public address system, requesting that cars be moved, that they are blocking lanes.

Recent construction work, which is proceeding rapidly, has also contributed to the parking confusion at the hospital.

Due to the widening of Dundas Street, Mr. Rickard felt that purchase or rental of land owned by Joel H. Maxer Jewellery Ltd. (Avon Jewellers building) to the east of the hospital, would be difficult.

He said Mr. Maxer would be losing much of his northern parking space and would probably develop his additional land for his own workers.

Also being given consideration is a proposal to approach the hospital and request they take over the road system within the hospital grounds . . . both for snow removal requirements and for the establishment of a number of tow-away zones.

Mrs. J. E. Marsh related a story, which if widespread, could mean people are using hospital parking facilities as an answer to the downtown parking problem.

She told the board one woman visitor leaves her car in the parking lot while visiting her husband, and then takes a city bus downtown to do some shopping or visit friends.

The board anticipates the pay - as - you - park scheme will be initiated by September of this year. The exact method will be considered by the planning and property committee.

Horse Shipments Protested

The Ontario Humane Society has called upon the London, England - based International Society for the Protection of Animals, in its bid to halt Canadian export of live horses for human consumption in Europe, more than 60 voting delegates to the OHS annual convention learned Friday.

The society, provincial general manager Tom Hughes says, has already approached the federal government on two occasions with its requests. However, after several months of negotiating with the Hon. Bud Olsen, minister of agriculture, the society was informed that final decision on the shipments rests with the department of transport.

Mr. Hughes, speaking at the annual convention's two - day meeting at the Four Seasons hotel here, said that to date, six ships loaded with a total of almost 1,000 Canadian horses, had been shipped from Montreal.

Mr. Hughes said the slaughter of horses for food is "a big trade in Europe." Commenting on the shipments for this particular market, he stated that is the only thing that makes it economical."

Two of these vessels, carrying 400 horses, are due to arrive in Europe shortly. They left the Quebec port within the last two weeks.

Agents of the ISPA will meet the ships at the docks and will accompany the horses to the slaughterhouses . . . one in France, the other in Belgium.

During the trip, photos will be taken and reports compiled. As soon as these are delivered into the hands of Ontario Humane Society officials, they will be presented to the federal department of transport.

Although the provincial society's general manager said Canadian government veterinarians accompany these horses, 64 died on one voyage. "They do a wonderful job, but it isn't enough," he said.

Society president Dr. N. D. Collard said the OHS has asked the Hon. Donald Jamieson, minister of transport, to intervene on the horse shipping situation, but to date, nothing has been done to half the shipments.

Mr. Hughes said a letter received by the OHS from the agriculture minister had indicated no winter shipments would be allowed. A second letter gave assurances that all shipments would be stopped.

If the department of transport does not halt these shipments, says Hughes, the society is prepared to take the problem to the federal government as a whole.

Bravery and Service Noted

Wards of CAS Fewer This Year

The number of children in the care of the Family and Children's Services of Hastings County has declined by 19 from the number at the same date last year.

Director Bruce Kerr told the board of directors at their monthly meeting Thursday that there are indications the intake of children is returning to normal after an unusually high in 1971.

Thirty - two children were admitted to care from Jan. 1 to April 30, 1972. At the end of April the total number in care was 156.

The 1972 budget of $515,529 has been approved by the provincial government, treasurer Kerr further reported.

A committee comprised of Douglas Kinney of Trenton, Alderman Donald M. Soutter and George Thompson will meet with local staff association representatives to discuss salary schedules for 1973.

Building Boom

The prediction of another record year for house construction in Belleville is borne out not only by figures released in recent days but also by our observations as we travel around the city.

College Street in the vicinity of Prince of Wales Drive, just up from the Cannifton Road bridge, is a case in point. Here the development of attractive new apartment buildings is typical of the current boom and it is a reflection both of increasing population and of general prosperity.

In recent days also the progress has been opened up of a substantial residential development in the city's east end. It envisages housing for some 4,000 citizens but the area would have to undergo a zoning change before any such development could take place. The plan is currently before city council.

In the rural parts too, in both Hastings and Prince Edward counties, there is evidence of new construction indicating a desire for country living. Ameliasburg township is one municipality where new homes are in evidence. We have seen them even in relatively remote side roads and there was one gem of a place in a setting of green fields and farmland, on a country road we had not travelled before and which, as it turned out, led to Ameliasburg itself. As we noted recently, all roads seem to lead to Ameliasburg!

There is no crowding in this development. The locations seem to betoken a desire for privacy without necessarily cutting adrift from the rest of the world completely; yet we often wonder about the problems faced in winter in the more isolated spots. And speaking of winter, we trust the Government is taking note of the Ralph Nader findings on snowmobiles which, if not brought under proper restrictions, threaten to ruin such privacy and environmental integrity as now exist.

From Many Lands

We were speaking of our weekend at parks in the area and there are few places where Canada's growing cosmopolitanism may be sensed so keenly. There were two groups of visitors near us at Adolphustown. One was from India — we noted this park minutes away from the Glenora Ferry seems to be a favorite for the growing number of new citizens from that country — and the other was a group of ten. All the men were dark and swarthy and, we surmised, hailed from one of the lands of the Mediterranean.

The speech of the youngsters in both groups was that of their new homes while the parents in each group conversed both in English and in their native languages. The Indians were having trouble with their new barbecue stove and one of the men went over to help them. He borrowed "something sharp." Later one of the European kids visited the Indians to ask the time and was told 3.5 p.m. "Three-five . . . I mean five after three," she called over to the others.

The group from India stayed only long enough to eat, one of the men saying to his companions, "I like it here best." The memory of his observation drifted away in the summer haze. There were five of them, two couples and a young woman and a baby or two, the men darkly handsome and the women bright in summer clothing of both east and west, rich dark hair plaided as well as brushed western style, their faces serene and reflecting the classic beauty of many of the women of their country.

Then they were gone. Meanwhile the European family mixed bouts of voluble conversation at their picnic table with communing to the breeze. One of the girls — she was perhaps 17 or 18 — detached herself from the group for a while to relax under a tree and away from the hot sun. The afternoon wore on and the others were still on the beach when most of the afternoon's park visitors had left.

In Ottawa ?

Arthur Bremer, the man accused of shooting Governor George Wallace, may have been in Ottawa during the visit of President Nixon. There is even a picture taken by the U.S. Secret Service of a man standing in a group of people and he closely resembles Bremer. How was this man, who had given up the two jobs he held — as a busboy and an assistant school janitor — able to afford his $130 plus apartment in Milwaukee, a car, and the travels that took him from Wallace rallies in Michigan to Maryland and possibly up to Ottawa for the Nixon visit?

Opposition Leader Exposes Turner's Non-Answer

Stanfield at His Low-Key Best on Budget Theme

By RICHARD JACKSON
from The Intelligencer's
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Out of Finance Minister John Turner's first Budget has come something of a revelation.

Of Mr. Turner himself.

The new person, of Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield.

For the Budget has brought an answer to the question about Mr. Stanfield that has been puzzling so many for so long.

The question: why is he so low key, so reluctant to anger, so hesitant to attack?

The Budget's answer: because when the times be low key and basic issue, he prefers to build it carefully, calculating the timing to reach the peak of impact when it can do the most good.

It happened this way. . . .

For 98 minutes Budget night, Mr. Turner talked of what he was doing, the long-delayed and still stingy help for pensioners and veterans and the inevitable hour's election eve change of attitude towards business, now in the government's re-opened eyes, worthy of tax incentive encouragement to create jobs.

. . . But in all those 98 minutes not one, except a slight word of what he deliberately was not doing.

And that was to fail by calculated inaction to forestall a tax increase of three percent of personal and seven percent of corporation income tax next January 1.

Since last October, the cut retroactive to the previous July 1, these figures had been reduced by those percentages, for 18 months which expire the end of this year.

The government made plenty of noise and fuss at the hours that were coming when the taxes were cut, but remained silent before and after. The Budget, when it deliberately decided to increase those same taxes.

For three days after the Budget, nothing was said, nothing happened, perhaps nobody noticed or remembered.

Then they did.

Why had Mr. Turner not mentioned it, Mr. Stanfield asked the Finance Minister three sittings later in the Commons.

Mr. Turner said he had "gone on the assumption that Parliament was aware" the 18-month period of the tax cuts would expire December 31.

But if Parliament was "aware"—and had not forgotten like the vast majority of taxpayers—why the silence?

Then John Turner came right out with it.

Yes, it had been a deliberate decision — not the understanding of it in his Budget because he had not been dealing with anything "affecting personal income tax" — and anyway, he figured that by the years end, the economy would be running in high enough gear that taxpayers could afford the increase.

Who was he kidding?

Not Mr. Stanfield.

But the Opposition Leader refused to get excited.

All he did was get over the point that the Finance Minister in his Budget guy have told the truth and nothing but the truth but not exactly the whole truth.

At a press conference Mr. Stanfield told leading Opposition men: had Turner practised "decent," had his cabinet been "less than honest," and was he "covering up until after the election decision — but the government" no less about these years tax increases?

But Robert Stanfield would not bite. Refused to question John Turner's motives. Refused to denounce him.

The most he would say that "in the long run," John Turner would find it might have been "wise and appropriate" to disclose the "forgotten" tax increases.

Then came, Robert Stanfield was asked quietly when the press conference ended, had he been accused him "moderate," so "reasonable," in his response, and said "he did not "measure" John Turner?

He did not wish to fire off all my ammunition on this issue at one time," he explained. "I plan to use this budget in Parliament" as we go along, to keep reminding people of it, building up the issue carefully-as-we can have full impact of an escalating attack when we need it most."

But could he not have opened with an all-out attack and kept it going, even mounting?

He was not sure.

But at the other "safer, slower" way, he was.

Bridges, Censorship and Women in Government

By DON O'HEARN
From The Queen's Park Bureau of The Intelligencer

Changing times.

The ministry of transportation, with the help of the army, is making it a Bailey bridge.

Already a new permanent bridge is being designed. And probably construction will start on it in a matter of months.

Not so long ago, under the prevailing political methods, 10 to 12 years could have been figured for construction of this bridge.

At the next provincial election the intention to go ahead would have been announced and perhaps the design would have been released to the press.

The following election contracts would have been let.

And then in the next election the bridge would have been opened.

Such is there is the Ontario censor board.

Not so long ago the board's annual report was hot reading.

In the glamor days of Hollywood there was avid public interest in the comments on sexy pictures, the number that had been turned down, the number of cuts that had been made, etc.

Then she said:

Censorship has changed.

Except perhaps those groups who demand more family-type films.

And such groups must be small. For, as the report notes, these films aren't going over at the box office.

Then still is a day of challenge.

Elizabeth M. Neville has been named the New director of the Ontario women's bureau at the ministry of labor.

In her initial statement, Miss Neville said the bureau "has been expanding to meet the new challenges created by the increasing number of women who are entering the work force."

Then she said:

"It is a particularly challenging time to be appointed to the directorship.

"The women's bureau will take an active role in responding to the increasing awareness, on the part of women and employers, that more full-time steps must be taken to improve the status of women workers. It is important that the contribution of women workers to the economy be fully recognized."

And only a few years ago a women's bureau was something in which to keep underwear!

Bell Rates Up Again

Editor,
The Intelligencer,

That weak and vacillating body, the Canadian Transport Commission, has finally capitulated and agreed to pay the latest ransom demand from the bandits of Bell Canada.

This corporate giant—has, annually, three increases in the telephone rate since 1969—the once-a-year average is not to be sneezed at if you can get away with it and apparently they can.

The new increase will bring in about $7.3 million. R. C. Scrivener, president of the Bell company has the temerity to suggest the amount is "clearly inequitable". What, a nerve.

Last year saw Bell's profit up from $133,262,000 in 1970 to $147,290,000 in 1971 — not bad going in anybody's estimation. Of course the increase will apply to subscribers in Ontario and Quebec — the two most populated provinces.

It was nice to note that the Commission was concerned about the possible consequences of the new increase on the poor — not concerned enough or courageous enough to refuse. Bell, apparently, never even gave the poor any consideration at all.

Telephones have now become a way of life in this country, not a luxury but an important part of the home, especially in the outback and rural areas. Isolated from the nearby neighborliness of the bigger communities.

The thousands of Bell employees, many of whom are vastly underpaid by today's standards don't appear likely to benefit by this latest windfall. If there were to be raises in pay for the people who toil daily for Bell this new blow might be less painful.

As it is the new increases will raise the subscribers bill by five percent per month — completely unnecessary raise. And, there is absolutely nothing we can do about it being the sheep we are. However, if five per cent of subscribers cancelled their telephones-I'm willing to wager Mr. Scrivener would soon change his attitude and dear old Bell would find other ways to raise the funds. In the meantime, as the public is putting such an disproportionate amount of money into Bell's function it should be taking its operation over once and for all.

She Had A Choice

Letter in The Globe and Mail

My 18-year-old granddaughter graduates from Leaside High School, Grade 13, at the end of May.

She has decided against entering university, preferring to find a full-time, worthwhile post in the city.

Yesterday she left home at 8 a.m., fresh as paint in navy suit and white blouse, determined to land a job. At 3:30 she came back home with a choice of two posts, one of which she has accepted.

Doesn't this prove that if the will is there, so are the jobs?

An Intractable Problem

By HAROLD MORRISON

LONDON (CP) — The Ulster crisis is worsening. That conclusion is reported to be running through the minds of British officials who had hoped the government's initiative might have bloodshed and perhaps restore some form of relationship between the two opposing communities in Northern Ireland.

Gradually that hope is turning into despair. One official close to Ulster Affairs Minister William Whitelaw says the harder he tries the more the Irish problem seems to defy solution.

Every major approach has been explored: Suspension of the Stormont parliament and dismantling of its administration, gradual release of Roman Catholic extremists from internment, bare concessio and to reduce unemployment and idleness and numerous speeches and visits by Whitelaw arguing that the majority of Ulstermen want peace.

Yet the attacks and killings by the two Irish Republican Army factions go on. Some of the assassinations show signs of increased brutality. The savagery of schoolchildren with gunfire, the killing of a Catholic youth said to be believed to be the British Army in Germany, underlying this to increase and ugliness in factory bomb plants.

The Catholic and Protestant communities are as far apart as ever. When Whitelaw accepted the suspension of the Irish regime, he pursued a so called "peace" policy which some of his critics described as appeasement of the IRA. But Whitelaw insisted that the majority of Ulstermen wanted peace and that the majority of Catholics would respond to sympathy and by attention, thereby separating them from IRA die-hards.

Indeed, for a short period it appeared that Whitelaw was on the right trail. The waves of bombings and killings seemed to subside but British hopes were shortlived. Now the new action of Protestants appears to be harboring. Men temporarily barricaded streets, booted youths picketing stores at British troops and threats of mass action against the Catholics.

Whitelaw says he is determined not to be provoked. He intends to follow a course which he believes to be right and will not over-react. Protestants want him to order British troops to invade the IRA strongholds in the Londonderry, Creggan and Bogside areas. Some of them are furious that he refuses to agree.

Aware of rising temperature on both sides, Whitelaw nevertheless likely will ask Parliament that somehow his policies may outline the attacks of the IRA. But among some of his associates, there is a feeling that there isn't much more he can do. They suggest it may take another year, a few months or even a few years to tear down a wall of animosity that has withstood centuries of change.

Salmon Fishing

Quebec Le Soleil: Salmon fishing has become another subject of dispute between Canada and Denmark following a dispute over exploitation of certain islands around Greenland. . . . This controversy between our country's right to fish and to salmon fishing in the North Atlantic.

Canada recently modified the limits of its territorial fishing. In 1970 it signed an agreement with four countries, including Denmark. In short, Denish boats . . . will no longer be able to fish in Canadian international waters.

The question of salmon is international waters remains.

Eleven countries have signed agreements to reduce their schools of salmon, and Germany discreted. It has been estimated that last year Denmark took as much salmon from the Atlantic as all the other countries who fish it.

Fishermen and ecologists are herding their heads to support the preservation of the Atlantic salmon. They are urging Denmark to sign an agreement with the United States to reserve the salmon take by half by 1976. . . .

But what will Canada decided about the salmon?

It forbids the commercial fishing of salmon by watters of New Brunswick, Newfoundland and Labrador. It cannot do much, however, to control those who fish salmon beyond waters. It is hoped to convince Denmark not to fish the Labrador coast. Canada since it will harm salmon reserves of Canadian waters.

Copenhagen does not see it this way. It believes that there is no danger in increasing the number of salmon . . . The fishermen of Danish waters will return to Canadian waters. It believes that the forbearance of the Labrador agreement will amply suffice to protect the species. Therefore, it will not reply to Canada a calls to end fishing for the salmon. . . .

Fish is quite a popular food in Europe . . . . In all of Europe, including Russia, there are more than 700 million people. Among the 28 European countries, Russia consumes only five million people. Thus, it handles and sells a lot of fish. What is left, it consumes. Commercial fishing on Canadian coasts means a lot to the Danes. Ottawa will have to be extremely persuasive to bring the Danes around to a common point of view on salmon fishing.

Tourism

Kingston Whig-Standard

The importance of tourism promotion and the role of individual municipalities such as Kingston cannot be over-emphasized. Tourism is the second largest industry in Canada and it is estimated that tourists bring Eastern Ontario close to $200 million annually. It is also depletion of our natural resources.

Development of the tourist industry means a great deal to the economy of the province and this, of course, affects each resident of Ontario, each community. During the last 10 years, for example, the number of tourists entering Canada more than 24 hours in the province increased by 74 per cent; tourism revenue increased by 110 per cent.

The gates of Fort Henry are open once again, hearalding another tourist season in Kingston. Through the years Fort Henry has become this city's most famous tourist attraction as an important which complements Kingston's other features. Officials predict that about 185,000 people will visit Fort Henry before it closes on Sept. 15.

What Brand of Hope Is Missing?

by The Rev. Gordon C. Smyth

"I thought I had everything. Why have I nothing?" Many people are in this bind. The author of the Book of Job had his leading character put it this way. "Has not man a hard service upon earth?" It appeared so. There Job sat, afflicted by disease, bereft of family and fortune — reduced to cursing the day of his birth.

But Job really had a priceless possession. This was integrity. In all his troubles he fought to keep an awareness of his environment. He kept fighting to somehow relate his experience to nature and to nature's God. At length he was able to recognize in the beauty and harmony of the world, it was enough for him to know that the dark mystery enclosed and, in part, disclosed a bright and shining miracle.

We can learn much from the Book of Job. We can learn more from the Gospel. Jesus seemed to have nothing. He appeared to the world an itinerant teacher and healer. But it was a small world in which he moved for a three-year ministry. Caesar in Rome never heard of him. Those who he was put to death, it was like a common executioner. But countless millions of men and women have found in his teachings and attitude in him.

The story of "the rich young ruler" is significant. Something about Jesus attracted him and prompted him to ask, "what do I still lack?" The question, as well as its answer, is for us. Many who experience such soul - searching have the benefits of an affluent society, are by no means up in years, and have no dark stain on their conscience. However, they feel keenly that something basic is missing in their lives.

They talk as if there were no hope. The best within us is going to produce nuclear catastrophe. Technology is making monsters of us. Information means that our talents and energies are not wanted. The rumor has reached us that God has died. There has taken its toll of loved ones. This is the talk.

What brand of hope is missing in your life? I mentioned some brands earlier. They include the worst sufferings of our generation are of an emotional, psychological and spiritual nature. They are responsible for many that have big such a hard service on earth. So, take Jesus at his word. "Go," as the Master urges, and then, "come, follow me."

Maybe you should "go" with your doubt to a clergyman. Maybe you should "go" join or form a fellowship of those who know what loneliness is like. Maybe you should "go" and clear up some family misunderstanding which is poisoning your mind. Maybe you should "go," having regarded college as a preparation to serve in those parts of the world which have scarcely heard words like "technology" and "automation". Maybe you should "go" to the Gospels and find that God never wearies of mankind. Then, "come," as the Lord of the Sabbath, "follow me."

Years ago, C. S. Lewis outlined Christ's well-reasoned theological answers to the perennial question of why a loving God allows his creatures to hurt and to be hurt. They were likely in the air about. But in 1961 his beloved wife died, after suffering from cancer. "Letters to Malcolm" refer to the terrible days of his wife's illness, the anxiety which gripped his soul, making it hard for C. S. Lewis to pray.

"Anxieties are afflictions not sins," he writes. "Like all afflictions, they are, if we can so take them, our share in the Passion of Christ." Is himself learned to accept them that way. In one of his final "Letters to Malcolm," he muses that "most of the good that has been done to me in the life has involved suffering." In saying this, he was more than saying that hope deferred need not be hope unfulfilled.

Many Pastors Adding First Aid to Skills

NEW YORK (AP) — Being a "Jack-of-many-trades" is recognized among pastors as a necessity in their profession. Some of them, just now, are boning up on still another skill-first aid.

The new training program, the first of its kind as a part of theological education, has been initiated at the School of Theology at Claremont, Calif.

It gives seminarians the same instruction given ambulance drivers in the state and will qualify them as Red Cross public unit operators, able to render first aid as well as counseling to victims of accidents and disasters.

"This is a human responsibility for one's neighbor as profound as any other if one extends his sense of the gospel into the events of daily life," says Rev. F. Thomas Trotter, dean of the seminary.

Ministers traditionally have been expected to be versatile in many fields-as church administrators, financial planners, evangelicalists, public speakers, worship leaders, counselors, marriage advisers, guides in time of family troubles or death.

The Claremont school is interdenominational, with the to the United Methodist Church, the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ), the United Church of Christ and the Episcopal (Anglican) Church.

The idea for the new program has been after the earthquake and fire storms in Southern California last year. Many seminaries and pastors sought to help and found first-aid skills would have been useful.

Givings In U.S. Higher

NEW YORK (CP) — Church members in the United States each contribute about $9 more annually than their Canadian counterparts, a U.S. church publication indicates.

Figures in the 1972 Yearbook of American Churches, compiled by the National Council of Churches, showed that the per capita total contributed by church members in the U.S., in 1971 was $88.12. The Canadian figure is $80.10.

The yearbook says that contributions reported by 45 U.S. denominations with a total membership of 42,941,762 total $3,926,852,386. Among eight Canadian communions with a total membership of 1,779,417, a total of $110,408,335 was contributed.

Constant H. Jacquet, researcher and editor of the yearbook, and the publication contains more information than ever on Canadian churches.

In all, 56 Canadian bodies have supplied directories this year. Of these a total of 29 Canadian churches supplied membership statistics compared with 10 last year. These 29 have a membership of 12,560,720. Largest is the Roman Catholic Church with 8,726,200 members. The next two largest Canadian churches are the Anglican Church of Canada with 1,125,170 and the United Church of Canada with 1,033,533.

The yearbook shows that growth of U.S. church membership, which soared in the 1950s and slowed in the 1960s, now has come to a virtual standstill.

"We're in a period of stagnation," said Jacquet. "There are spotty gains and losses, but over-all, it amounts to a standstill."

Ex-comic Lectures

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Ex-comic Alan Young, who used to talk with TV's Mr. Ed the horse, now lectures to church audiences about his Christian Science faith.

"I don't feel any great change in career," said Young, 52, who left show business five years ago to give full time to his religion. He was in San Francisco recently on part of a speaking tour that will last until June and take him all over the Western and plains states.

"As an entertainer, you're doing your highest idea of joy," Young explained. "Well, I've got my highest idea of joy now. Only I have a much better products and director." Young, who was born in England and moved to Vancouver, B.C., with his family as a child, got his big break in 1945 as a radio replacement for Eddie Cantor. He appeared in several movies but was best known as straight man for Mr. Ed the talking horse on television from 1960 to 1966.

"I had planned to quit Ed for church work in 1965," Young recalled, "but they talked me into staying another year.

"I got other offers for a few years, but not any more. I have no desire to go back now because this is it. This is the big time."

Young's family converted to Christian Science while he was a teen-ager, and he credits his faith with curing him of asthma and keeping his health excellent. He says he hasn't visited a doctor in 20 years.

"It's great," Young said of lecturing after being an actor. "You have to be ready because you can't go into your dance, you know—but I'm ready."

WESLEYAN METHODIST W.M.S.

The May meeting of the Belleville Wesleyan Women's Missionary Society met in the church with Mrs. Helen Spearman leading in some lively singing and Mrs. Eileen Blakely at the piano.

Mrs. Hazel Blakely led in the devotions and pointed out that: "while aspiration is related to ambition, it is on a higher level which includes humanity". She pointed out that "as was the Master, so should the servant be" and God has a plan for each one.

The prayer was led by Mrs. Erma Martin. President Nellie Greenwood chaired the business session, in which she read the efficiency standard for the W.M.S. and pointed out a few weak areas that need attention. Mention was made of the coming engagement of Miss Bertha Major, R.N. from Sierra Leone, West Africa as speaker in the morning church service of June 11. An offering was received for Silver Lake Camp Centre.

Mrs. Joyce LeRoy, in the absence of the pastor, conducted the annual election of officers in which the following executive was elected: vice-chairman Mrs. Hazel Kerr, secretary, Mrs. Hazel Blakely; treasurer, Mrs. Helen Spearman, and Young Missionary Worker's Bank Director, Mrs. Nora Elliott.

Mrs. LeRoy closed the service with prayer and all enjoyed the baby shower for Mrs. Linda Jewell.

Refreshments were served by the social committee."

"PRECIOUS PAPERS"

Machines if destroyed may be quickly replaced. Wild animals were millions of years in the making. Destruction of life is irreversible."—Royal Bank Monthly Letter.

"Look how technology is a threat not only to wildlife but people as well," vehemently declared a young wife and mother who dropped in for coffee. "As much as I would hate to give up the "fridge" and all other modern home electrical appliances, still there never seems time left over to do the creative things I wish to do. I think of my mother, who had none of these things, yet had time to spare for leisurely gathering of a sewing circle, or making handicrafts . . . It's frustrating!

"Perhaps," she concluded, "it is as Ann Landers-bergh wrote: 'The curtain of machination has come down between the mind and hand.'"

And thus came to mind the Belleville-born author Farley Mowat, whose writing has dealt almost entirely with "tension between man and environment", phenomenon of civilized man. A world famous writer whose papers, as you may know, have been secured by McMaster University for an undisclosed sum of money to add to the "remarkable collection of Canadian works already housed in Mills Memorial Library" where such papers become available to all of Canada as well as the university community.

Considered so valuable, they are being immediately microfilmed for other Canadian Universities, are journals and logs of many tugs from the Nova Scotia coast.

Also included in the papers are 64 pages of the notebook of Canada made by Mr. Mowat which have never been used and include interviews with Eskimos and Indians plus wild life records. ("A triumph of the machine will bring sober pronouncements on a doomed world in which technology runs wild," observed Mr. M. Smith in a former interview concerning the tapes.)

University Librarian Will-iam B. Ready expressing his complete satisfaction at securing the Mowat archives said and we quote:

"Farley Mowat is the final considerable non - fiction writer that Canada has yet produced. His more than 20 books have received a remarkable welcome during the years of their appearance and their continual reprinting testifies to their persistent popularity. More and more, they are being used in the schools, so that most Canadian children have become aware of his writing and, therefore, of Canada and its traditions, culture and challenge long before they have reached high school.

"His books on the north, his animal stories and sympathy and empathy of the native peoples are manifest in nearly every page he writes."

Mr. Mowat's books on the Canadian Eskimo have become best sellers in nearly 40 countries, and said to be as popular in Russia as in Canada. Among the most popular of his books are The Dog of the Willows, The People of the Deer River. Other well - known titles are Desperate People, The Serpent's Coil, Ordeal by Ice, The Dog Who Wouldn't Be, and The Boat Who Wouldn't Float.

"He is a meticulous craftsman," concludes Mr. Ready "and the bulk of his research papers shown in this average, I should guess, four times the amount of writing that eventually appears in the final book version.

Perhaps a little explanation may not be amiss, for Belleville friends of the late Miss Helen Keller recall that she was Farley Mowat's first teacher and when he was five years of age, told her: "I'm going to be a writer when I grow up."

Mirror of Your Mind

by JOHN CONWELL

Should a husband shop for food?

OF COURSE, especially when a wife has an outside job, too. Besides, these days of inflation can be less wearing on her nerves if her husband does the food shopping. When he spends a bigger chunk out of the weekly budget for fewer groceries than she used to bring home, she can use her conscience—if it bothers her about sending him on the errand—by saying: "If I had the time to shop, I could do better."

Will kids listen to an ex-addict?

MAYBE, although home authorities wonder if it is enough for children to listen to the experiences of ex-drug addicts. Many who kick the habit, will often tell how "rotten society has treated" them. They rarely mention the fact that their life was probably saved by enforced rehabilitation. Children might be more impressed if they could be induced to realize how wonderful it is not to begin to take drugs at all.

Must mistakes come in bunches?

NO; a person can make only one mistake, minor or major, and that could be the end of it. Unfortunately, human frailty enters the picture. The individual broods about his mistake ("How could I have been so stupid?"), and then "the roof caves in." He makes one boo-boo after another, tension and anxiety-over his first mistake, of course, interfere with his ability to function properly, and he just "gets himself up" for a flood of losers.

Parents Are Placed In Difficult Position

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I are in a difficult spot. Our son writes that "they" are coming to visit. "They" means our son and his girlfriend who have been living together for the past year without the benefit of clergy. We have been trying to keep the lines of communication open but we can't go along with the pre-marital sex philosophy to the extent of permitting it under our roofs. How shall we respond to our son's letter?—Impasse

Dear Impasse: Tell your son you are happy that he and his girl are coming to visit but you'd like to know what he has in mind regarding sleeping arrangements. Make your wishes clear in this regard.

I have no unmarried children but I can tell you that there would be no shacking up of single people in our house, regardless of what the couple did elsewhere. He pleasant when you write and offer to put the girl up with friends or relatives nearby, or in a hotel, but let your son know you expect the young lady to have meals with you, etc.

Dear Ann Landers: Both my parents passed away last year. I was left with a business to run, the family house and two younger brothers to care for. I am only 22, but more mature than most guys my age.

Three months ago I married a girl, 19. I told her I would have to spend several evenings working and that I had the responsibility of my brothers, aged 15 and 16. She didn't have any complaints before we got married but now she's singing a different tune. She wants me to sell the business, move to the east and let my kid brothers manage on their own.

I've tried to make her understand that I wouldn't feel right about it. She says she is more of a housekeeper than a wife—that she didn't expect so much lumpy and so much cooking. I re-

Milton Influence Working for Blind

By DORIS CLARK

Have you ever heard of the John Milton Society for the Blind? I hadn't, until I leafed over the pages of the April issue of CCB Outlook (Canadian Council of the Blind magazine).

A remarkable organization! Started up away back in 1928 with the purpose of getting Christian literature to blind people. They publish three periodicals, for various ages and stages, as well as hymn books, Christmas carols, and devotional books in braille.

But then there are the people who don't read braille — and they haven't been forgotten. They listen to John Milton "Talking Books", which are actually records you play on a phonograph. There is a quarterly magazine published this way, as well as a New Testament.

And that's not all. Some people can read if the print is large enough, so in January 1969 the John Milton Society started a monthly magazine set in 24-point type—a big bit!

Nor have they forgotten the blind children overseas. Financial help goes to some 30 schools and homes for blind children in Africa, India, Southeast Asia, and the Orient.

All these publications are free to the visually handicapped people who ask for them; and they are religiously oriented as well as socially relevant. Further details on request.

Deer Doris: Ah eat the origin of the word "toast". I have a version from my four volumes Universal Dictionary of the English Language, published in 1850.

One of the three definitions found there, for the word toast is "bread dried and scorched by the fire, or such bread dipped in melted butter or in some liquor; a piece of bread put into a beverage."

A plausible explanation, don't you think?—W. L. McB.

Dear W. L. McB.: Indeed I do. Thank you for adding to our word knowledge.

Dear Doris: I am with you and the parents whose son (or daughter) named their boy Kelly. This is definitely a boy's name, although the Kelly in both of the attached songs you requested are the surname of the person referred to, while this is being used as a first name, for the boy.

Times sure must have changed, as we have also Leslie, Billie (spelled with an ie) and now Kelly. Away back we had and still have Frances, and Francis, for the boy.

I'm sending the words of "Has Anybody Here Seen Kelly?" — Just Leaving a Friend.

Dear Just: If I gave it a little thought I could come up, with a dozen other names which could belong to either a boy or girl.

But your point is well taken about the Kelly in both songs being a surname. I hadn't thought of that before. One of them is Timothy, and the other one is Michael Kelly. So we haven't really proved anything have we? I just hope "Proud Grandparents" don't let it get them down.

If parents want to name a son or daughter a particular name, isn't it their business?

P.S. My grateful thanks to all the readers who wrote in with the words of the song, which I am passing on.

Man Has Made Travesty of Value

WATERLOO, Ont. (CP) — Modern man has made a travesty of his values, an official of the United Church of Canada said Friday.

Rev. Harold W Vaughan of Toronto, secretary of the division of the ministry for personnel and education in the national office of the church, said the use of our material possessions is a reflection of our values.

Dr. Vaughan told delegates to the annual meeting of the church's Hamilton conference that people's faith is expressing itself more and more in materialistic terms.

"For example, ' $345,000 was paid for a few litres of rare wine at a New York auction. $1.6 million went through the coin-operated machines at Woodbine in one day, in the competition for entertainment one league offered Bobby Hull the equivalent of $2 million for his living body on the ice."

Not Ready Yet

TORONTO (CP) — There may be a time when the government hires one manager for both Ontario Place and the Canadian National Exhibition on the Toronto waterfront but the suggestion is "premature now", John White, minister of industry and tourism, told the legislature Friday. He told Pat Reid (L—Rainy River) that this has been discussed with CNE officials. Both jobs pay about $55,000 a year.

No Bikes Allowed

TORONTO (CP) — There are no plans to allow cyclists to use major highways, Gordon Carton, minister of transportation and communications, told Bernard Newman (L—Windsor Walkerville) in the Ontario legislature Friday. Mr. Newman had suggested some highways be opened to cyclists because of the current bicycling boom.

Faribault Dies

MONTREAL (CP) — Marcel Faribault, lawyer, author and a constitutional expert who once taught Prime Minister Trudeau, died of a heart attack a his Montreal home Friday. He was 63.

The Montreal native, after a successful legal and business career, entered political life in the 1960, first as a adviser to the late Quebec premier Daniel Johnson, and, in 1963, as an unsuccessful Progressive Conservative candidate in the federal general election.

High Rates Under Study

TORONTO (CP) — Eric Winkler, Ontario consumer and commercial relations minister, said Friday the government may consider action on the higher mortgage rates imposed on older homes.

He asked delegates to the annual meeting of the Ontario section of the Trust Companies Association of Canada whether higher interest rates, shorter mortgage terms and lower mortgages in relation to the total cost of an older home do not place "an unjustifiable heavy burden on a group of people who may be least able to afford it."

There is no government policy in this field at present but one might be forthcoming, he said.

Aid to Tanzania

DAR ES SALAAM (Reuter) — Canada is to help Tanzania build a power transmission line from the Indian Ocean to the lower slopes of Mount Kilimanjaro under a $3-million loan agreement signed here today.

Canada will supply engineers and equipment for the project, to link a hydroelectric plant near Tanga, 130 miles north of here, with a generating station near Moshi, 100 miles inland to the northeast.

Under a separate agreement, Canada will provide a $2-million commodity credit to help build houses for Tanzanian aid experts working in Tanzania.

MPs Debate Controls

OTTAWA (CP) — Liberals traded jabs with opposition MPs Friday about what Conservatives say is the declining control of Parliament over government spending.

Lincoln McGrath (PC—St. John's East) said in Commons debate that House rule changes, introduced by the Liberals in 1968, have made examination of government spending "virtually ineffective and at best a frustrating exercise."

Norman Cafik (L—Ontario), defending government spending, said that he cabinet cannot be blamed for "the stupidity of people in this House who now complain that we are doing what they authorized us to do." They were debating a Conservative motion which accused the government of eroding parliamentary control over federal spending and affirmed the principle that Parliament should control expenditures of public funds.

It was a routine opposition-day motion which, under House rules, did not come to a vote.

Treasury Board President C. M. Drury reiterated that the government is prepared to do all it can to ensure that the auditor-general can properly carry out his functions as watchdog on federal spending.

Conservative House Leader Gerald Baldwin charged the government with failing to provide the current auditor-general, Maxwell Henderson, with the staff and equipment he needs to do his job.

Mr. McGrath said that rules changes were supposed to give Commons committees added influence in "diminishing government spending estimates.

But these rules required the estimates to be reported back to the House by May 31 in the fiscal year. This, in effect, meant that they were passed by May 31 no matter how much effort was into examining the items estimates, he said.

Mr. McGrath also said the rules allow Liberal whips to "move in roving squads to bolster their majority on committees as the case may be."

These roving MPs know little about what the committees are doing and are there solely to ensure a government majority and to thwart the efforts of the opposition, he said.

The Conservative MP suggested that the opposition should be parcelled in call any three departments for careful examination of estimates without any time-limits. Senior public servants and cabinet ministers would treat opposition MPs with greater respect.

Mr. Cafik said it is not within the rights of the auditor general to comment on whether Parliament should have approved certain government expenses. "If it did make a mistake the reflection on Parliament should come from parliamentarians themselves."

He said it is not the function of the auditor general or anyone else to guide MPs through the estimates, saying, "Gentlemen, you ought to know what you are doing before you vote."

Douglas Rowland (NDP—Seek kirk) lashed the government for failing to act on the recommendations of the auditor general and the public accounts committee since at improving use of public funds.

The government could not be forgiven for ignoring the opportunity to cut waste.

Robert Coates (PC—Cumberland-Colchester North) flailed the government for spending $243 million the Brea d'Or hydrofoil project and then scrapping the programs. He said the defence department should be examined for "gross incompetence."

Barry Mather (NDP—Surrey-White Rock) was critical of the "inefficiency, sloth and wastefulness present in some government departments."

Michael Forrestall (PC—Dartmouth-Halifax East) - said the government pays little attention to reports of the auditor-general.

Productivity Said Linked To Society

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Productivity and profits are necessary for the creation of new jobs, the arrest of inflation and successful competition in foreign markets, a General Motors official said Friday.

F. W. Walker, vice-president of General Motors and general-manager of GM's Diesel Division, London, told the Canadian Institute of Management, London branch, that many people believe productivity is linked only to manufacturing and labor.

"In reality it must be linked to every manufacturing, banking, clergy, education, business, lawyers, jurists, farmers and government," he said.

"Labor and management must see productivity improvements as our common concern and both of us must review our attitudes towards how it is to be accomplished."

New Course

SUDBURY (CP) — The Sudbury board of education approved a course in drama for night school students Friday.

Any daytime student may take the course and for the first time it will represent a credit toward a secondary school diploma.

Bobby Unser in Driver's Seat for 56th Indianapolis 500

By MIKE HARRES

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Thirty-two other race drivers were ready to begin their chase of polesitter Bobby Unser in the 56th Indianapolis 500-mile race set to begin today at noon EST.

Unser, 37, the oldest of the famed driving brothers, set the other drivers at the Speedway on their seats this month when he speeds at one time thought impossible on the old Indianapolis Motor Speedway track.

His four-lap, 10-mile qualifying run around the 2½-mile oval was at a record average of 195.940 miles an hour. His fastest lap, 196.678 m.p.h. was more than 17 miles an hour faster than Peter Revson's 1971 pole record.

The others didn't slouch in the speed area, either, with the field averaging 188.655 m.p.h., an increase of more than 12 m.p.h. over last year's 33 cars.

With clear skies and high temperatures forecast for the race today throughout the day, it was expected that there would be a lot slower in the grueling race, but records were expected to fall, nevertheless.

Revson, in one of two Team McLaren entries in the starting field, was in the middle of the first row, while Mark Donohue was set to start on the outside of the front three.

These are the same three who started in front in the 1971 race, but at that time Revson was on the pole, Donohue in the middle and Unser on the outside.

Revson hit 192.862 m.p.h. in qualifying, while Donohue, in a Roger Penske-McLaren, hit 191.601. Their combined average of almost 192 m.p.h. brought talk of rules changes to cut the speeds next year.

Wider treadless tires and wide, high-mounted wings are generally given credit for the breakthrough in speeds, and Frank Delloy, chief technical inspector of the United States Auto Club, said the USAC rules committee will study these items at a meeting in the near future.

As many as 300 000 spectators were expected to be on hand for the 1ndy classic again this year, although Speedway officials never announce official attendance figures.

The Speedway, owned by Anton (Tony) Hulman, has 225,000 permanent seats and officials say 100,000 more can be accommodated in the infield.

The payoff for the race is expected to exceed $1 million for the third straight year. Al Unser, who has won the race the last two years and is going for an unprecedented third straight, took home the winner's share of $236,654 last year, a bit more than the 1970 purse.

Other former winners in the starting field were three-time champ A. J. Foyt and 1969 winner Mario Andretti.

The younger Unser faces a gigantic task, starting the race from the 18th position. Driving for Parnelli Jones, the 1963 Indy winner, he set the current 500-mile record average of 157.735 mph in a 1967 qualifying race.

Everyone was expecting the higher speeds and the soaring temperatures to take their toll on the hard-pressed engines and equipment.

Donohue said: "I expect the attrition rate on engines to be awful."

Upwards of 50 engines were destroyed during practice and time trials, seven by 30th starter Gordon Johncock and five by Donohue, both in McLarens.

Did Brewers Test Product?

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Who's on third? Doug Griffin or Tim Foli? Or both? Or neither? Griffin, Foli and Ellis Valentine, the Montreal Expos' rookie outfielder, are the subjects of a baseball guessing game in the National League East.

Manager Gene Mauch of the Expos has been juggling his infield since the season opened, trying to find the right combination. Foli, a shortstop, has been shifted to third base, Griffin has been benched and Valentine has been platooned in right field.

Mauch's problem is that Foli, Griffin and Valentine are all hitting .300 or better. Foli is batting .333, Griffin .316 and Valentine .300.

Foli, who batted .230 last season, has been hitting the ball consistently since the start of the season. He has 15 runs batted in, 10 runs scored and 14 hits in 42 at-bats.

Griffin, who batted .250 last season, has been platooned with Foli at third base. He has 10 RBIs, 11 runs scored and 12 hits in 38 at-bats.

Valentine, who batted .300 in the Florida State League last season, has been platooned with Ron Fairly in right field. He has 10 RBIs, 11 runs scored and 15 hits in 50 at-bats.

Mauch has been platooning Valentine with Fairly, a veteran who batted .300 last season, and Foli with Griffin, a veteran who batted .250 last season

Vulcans Forfeit Gate

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP) — The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association dealt with two indefinite suspensions handed out this year and struck a budget for next season in the closing session of their annual meeting Friday.

The CAHA officials set suspensions handed out to coach Ab Cava and manager Moe Ivelleg of Thunder Bay Vulcans at one year each.

The two were suspended after the team left the ice at the 1:35 mark of the first period in the sixth game of the Centennial Cup junior playoff series with Guelph CMC's.

In addition, the CAHA recommended Thunder Bay's share of revenues from the series be forfeited to the association to cover any legal liabilities that might arise.

The budget for the 1972-73 season puts revenues at $197,000 and expenses at $151,000. In 1971-72, the CAHA had a revenue of $131,999 and expenses of $151,000.

An extra $21,000 was added to the budget for a development service program.

Gordon Juckes, CAHA executive-director, said the association hopes to persuade the federal government to match the spending on the program "dollar for dollar."

The aim of the scheme is to help branches organize clinics for referees and coaches.

Friday's session also resulted in an agreement with the three major junior hockey leagues in Canada, calling for their complete support of association rules and operation.

The pact provides for a major Western Canada league and the tee. The Quebec league, the Western Canada league and the Ontario Hockey Association's major junior league will each have two members on the committee.

The leagues agreed to enter a single round-robin Memorial Cup series to decide the national major Junior A championship.

Applications from teams seeking to invite European hockey clubs to this country or go to Europe themselves were processed at the closing session.

The CAHA gave the OHA Senior A Series permission to invite teams from Czechoslovakia, Russia and Sweden to play in a six-team tournament in Ontario sometime around Christmas.

Barrie (Ont.) Flyers and a representative from British Columbia were chosen to take part in a tournament in Sweden at Christmas. Alternates are St. Boniface Mohawks and Grand Falls, Nfld., Cataracts.

The CAHA also approved an invitation to Moscow Selects to play six games in Canada Dec. 19-30 and invitations were sought from teams wanting to meet the Russians.

A West German team will be permitted to play a number of games in Ontario Nov. 3-10 as a part of German Week observances in Toronto.

The Kamloops, B.C., Calgary-Banff-Trail Bantams, East Ottawa Voyageurs, the Ontario Minor Hockey Association bantam division, and the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association were permitted to invite overseas teams to Canada.

Still in Running

Jim Elder, a member of Canada's gold medal equestrian team in the 1968 Olympic Games, is still in contention for a place in the four - rider team that will represent Canada in the Olympic Games in Munich this summer. The team, increased by one since 1968, will be selected after a series of trials. Elder is shown on his mount, The Immigrant. (CP Photo)

Nicklaus Honing Game for U.S. Open

ATLANTA (AP) — Jack Nicklaus, honing his game for the U.S. Open, equalled the course record with an eight-under-par 64 Friday and a one-shot lead at the midway point of the $130,000 Atlanta Gold Classic.

"It was an incredible round," said Homero Blancas.

"It was an experience," agreed Lou Graham.

Blancas and Graham, deadlocked in fourth place three shots behind Nicklaus, played in the same threesome with Nicklaus. Blancas had a 68 and Graham a 69.

"Our threesome shot 15-under par for ball," said Graham. "Nobody could hold honors. If you shot a par, you were last off the tee on the next hole."

Nicklaus, winner of $154,000 this year, tapped in birdie putts of 12 feet on the third and eighth holes. He turns in a rather routine 34. However, he conquered the back nine at the hilly, 6,983-yard, par 72 Atlanta Country Club course with a sizzling 30.

"I just played considerably better all around," said Nicklaus, who has a 70 in the opening round for a 18-under 134 total.

Nicklaus has tucked away the first leg of the modern grand slam of golf, winning the Masters in April. He's aiming for the other three — the PGA, the U.S. and British Opens and the PGA.

His closest pursuer was Bob Lunn, the 1968 Atlanta champion who had to settle for a 32 longest slump. Lunn had a 68 Friday and recorded an eagle two on the 467-yard 13th hole when he sank a pitching wedge shot from a bunker 115 yards from the pin.

George Knudson shot his second straight 71 and was the only Canadian to survive the halfway cut of 146.

Winnipeg's Wilf Homenuik countered his second successive 75 for a 146 total, one stroke better than Ken Fulton of Montreal who had a 76 Friday.

South African Gary Player, making his first appearance in the U.S. since the Masters, carved out a 65 and stood alone in third place at 136.

Dave Stockton, who started the day at 77, also equaled the course record with a 66. Lee Trevino, who had a first day 74, rallied to a 68, but was well back at 145.

Kermit Zarley stood alone in sixth place at 138 after firing a 70. Tom Weiskopf and Dave Hill were deadlocked at 139.

Brundage Rigidity on Way Out

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP) — The Association of International Sports Federations agreed unanimously Friday to seek a liberalization of the amateur rules in the Olympic Movement.

The decision, taken behind closed doors at the association's annual meeting, was seen as an important step away from the rigid interpretation of Olympic amateurism long imposed by Avery Brundage, International Olympic Committee (IOC) president.

Brundage, 84, is retiring after the 1972 Summer Olympics in Munich.

The association of sports federations, governing 21 Olympic sports and 13 others, unanimously approved a report by its chairman, Thomas Keller of Switzerland, president of the International Rowing Federation.

Keller said conditions in the world of sports had completely changed since the IOC adopted the game's governing body. He often has been criticized by the international sports federations for seeking to maintain a rigid Olympic amateur code which, many of them felt, discriminated against sportsmen of limited means.

Daley Newest Jet

WINNIPEG (CP) — Joe Daley, a native of Weyburn, Friday became the second National Hockey League player to sign with Winnipeg Jets of the new World Hockey Association.

The signing of Daley was announced by Jets owner Ben Hatskin who announced the signing of goaltender Ernie Wakely on Thursday.

Daley, 29, played last year with Detroit Red Wings and previously with Pittsburgh Penguins.

OTTAWA (CP) — Only a tax hitch needs to be straightened out before Wayne Carleton signs a contract with Ottawa Nationals of the World Hockey Association, the club said Friday.

Ottawa owner Bruce Michel said he hopes to announce the signing of Carleton and several other players next week.

Carleton has played for Toronto Maple Leafs, Boston Bruins and California Golden Seals in the National Hockey League.

Hawley Adds 6 Wins To Total Title Bid

TORONTO (CP) — Sandy Hawley, three-time Canadian riding champion, is gunning for his second North American title.

The 25-year-old jockey rode six winners Friday at Woodbine racetrack to bring his total for the present meet to 25. He has 12 victories in 49 winners in other Ontario centres this year and 25 more in Florida.

"It's really hard to believe," said Hawley after he rode his eighth winner in King Sadair, in the eighth. "It didn't start out this way at the first of the season, but everything is falling into place now."

"I really want the North American title again and if I can keep going like this, I have a chance."

In 1970, Hawley won the North American riding title with 403 winners, 343 of them in Ontario. He was the Canadian champion in 1969, his first full year as a jockey, with 236 winners and he won again last year with 237.

Friday was the third time he rode six winners in a day, and it was the second time in one day he rode seven winners at Woodbine.

Waples Adds Two

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Ron Waples drove to two victories Friday night at Garden City Raceway to take over second place in the drivers' roster.

A crowd of 4,859 watched Waples direct Fanzy Gander to a win in the first, and repeat the performance with Bold Blaze in the fourth.

It was the sixth victory for Bold Blaze in 18 starts this season. Waples is part-owner of the five-year-old trotter, with Joe Panaro of Kitchener.

The win increased Bold Blaze's 1972 earnings to $3,810 and increased Waples's record to eight wins in 24 races.

Expects Poor Refs

TORONTO (CP) — The National Hockey League's referee-chief says he fears the Canada-Russia hockey tournament this fall will be marred by poor officiating and he hopes to avoid such a situation.

Tentative plans for the Canada-Russia series in September call for use of United States and European officials but Ian (Scotty) Morrison said in an interview he hopes the argument can be persuaded to use his NHL referees and Russian officials.

"I've told Mr. Campbell (NHL president Clarence Campbell) that if I knew any American officials who are capable of handling these games, I would have them on my staff.

"As I understand it, an agreement has been made to play under international rules. They are not much different from NHL rules. The difference would be mainly in application. Give our guys a few days of work at a referee's clinic and there would be no problem.

"That's now how it is going to be done, as I understand it. Officials are to be picked from the U.S. who have no experience at this level of hockey.

"When the teams switch back to Russian ice, the referees can be picked from anywhere in Europe except Russia. More confusion.

The proposed eight-game series, with four games in Canada and four in Russia, pits the Russian national team against a squad of Canadian-born NHL professionals.

Vic Saw Red

Vic Rossetani got so upset at his tag team opponents at Friday night's Memorial Arena wrestling card he saw red.

Unfortunately, the red he saw was blood, or a reasonable facsimile thereof, and he and fellow good guy Angelo Mosca were unable to continue as the featured bout was awarded to the villainous twosome of Eric the Red and Beautiful Bruce Swayze.

Some of the 900 paid spectators became so incensed at the treatment Rossetani received they stripped off their shirts and prepared to defend their heroes.

One was overheard to yell "I've taken four years of high school wrestling — I can handle him" (Beautiful Bruce, that is).

In preliminary action, Golden Apollo and Little Bear wrestled to a draw, the Beast and the Wild Man took a tag team decision from Ron Doner and Steve Boulanx, and in midget bouts Bo Bo Johnson joined Little Crusher and Cowboy Bob Lang beat the Bruiser.

Wrestling action returns next Friday night.

Long Way Up

Cowboy Bob Lang sets villian Little Bruiser up for some rough - house tactics on the ropes during Friday night's second professional wrestling card of the season at the Memorial Arena. Lang got in his licks and went on to win the one-fall "midget" match.

Food Fit for A Captain

A steward serves a meal to Capt. John Jones, master of the 9,000-ton freighter Sakumo Lagoon, and his guests, Catherine Jones and John Jarvis, while the ship is tied up in Montreal harbor. In a city noted for specialty cuisine, few establishments can offer a daily menu of the scope available to the crew of a freighter.

Stratford Festival Ready To Go

STRATFORD, Ont. (CP) — "What's in a name?"

William Shakespeare, who wrote that question almost 400 years ago, might well be glad that Tom Patterson was born in a place named Stratford, the Ontario namesake of Shakespeare's own home town in England.

Twenty years ago, Mr. Patterson, a journalist, decided he wanted to do something to enhance the cultural life of his home town, and "in a city with the name of Stratford, what's more natural than thinking of Shakespeare?"

Out of that thinking was to come the Stratford Shakespearean Festival, soon to begin its 20th season as one of the world's major showcases of Shakespeare's works.

"If I had been born in Paris (a southern Ontario community about 40 miles southeast of Stratford), maybe I'd have thought of the Folies-Bergere," muses Mr. Patterson.

Since the first opening on July 13, 1953, the Stratford Festival has presented all but two of Shakespeare's plays. But from the start it has not limited itself to being only a Shakespearean showcase.

In addition to Richard III and All's Well That Ends Well, that first season included 16 afternoon concerts. In subsequent years, the festival became more and more diversified, to include plays from every period of theatrical history, opera and ballet, concerts by such diverse musicians as Count Basie, Ravi Shankar and The Procol Harum, seminars and art exhibits and an international film festival.

From six weeks in 1953, the festival has expanded to a record 23 weeks this season, including eight weeks of student performances, plus nine weeks on tour.

The first season drew 68,087 spectators to 42 performances. In 1971, 357,608 attended 299 dramatic performances while another 14,673 took in 17 musical events.

Could journalist Tom Patterson have foreseen all this when he first sought the advice of the late Sir Tyrone Guthrie on how to go about organizing a Shakespearean Festival in a city of 19,500?

"Crazily enough, yes. I didn't know enough about the theatre to stop and think that such a thing was impossible."

Now, he says, he thinks the festival is ready to "take another jump ahead."

He foresaw television shows being produced that would "use all the talents that are collected here in one place."

Tom Patterson will be one of the 2,258 people on hand the night of June 5 to fill the Festival Theatre to capacity for the season's opening production of As You Like It. Guy Rennie Rolland Michener will be another. In addition, there will be drama critics from more than 100 Canadian and United States newspapers, magazines, and radio and television stations.

The following night, Alfred de Musset's Lorenzaccio will open, and the night after that the season's second Shakespearean entry, King Lear.

Oliver Goldsmith's She Stoops to Conquer opens July 25 to round out the Festival Theatre repertory program. The Avon Theatre season opens June 28 with Bertolt Brecht and Kurt Weill's The Threepenny Opera, followed Aug. 4 by the Theatre du Nouveau Monde of Montreal's production of Roch Carrier's La Guerre, Yes Sir!

Four Canadian works will be produced at the Third Stage Theatre, now in its second year of operation. These will include Gabriel Charpentier's chamber opera Orpheus, opening July 11; Betty Jane Wylie's play Mark, July 19; a new musical adaptation of the children's classic Pinocchio, Aug. 2, and Patria II: Requiems for the Party Girl, an opera by R. Murray Schafer, Aug. 23.

Tony Van Bridge, one of the festival's company of more than 50 actors, will present his one-man show, G.K.C., Aug. 27 in the Festival Theatre, while the July 16-Aug. 20 series of Sunday concerts will offer such artists as guitarist Alexandre Lagoya, soprano Roberta Peters and pianist Van Cliburn.

The festival concludes Oct. 21.

Spare Ribs Based on History

TORONTO (CP) — Almost every Canadian school child knows about the building of the Canadian Pacific Railway and the explorations of explorer David Thompson.

But quick now, what woman sat on the cow-catcher of the first CPR train all the way from Calgary to the West Coast and who accompanied Thompson on his travels?

The answers to the questions are provided in a new production by playwright Lynda Lockhart which opens Monday for two weeks in the St. Lawrence Centre.

The show, Spare Rib, is an anthology of Canadian women and consists of songs and sketches.

Miss Lockhart says Spare Rib is firmly based on Canadian history.

The production recalls that when the CPR was built, the wife of Sir John A. Macdonald, Canada's first prime minister, insisted on sitting on the cow-catcher of the first train.

Also says the when Thompson was exploring for the source of the Columbia River he was accompanied by his wife, Charlotte, and their three children—the latter all under the age of three.

Recalling further in an interview how Sir John A.'s wife sat on the train's cow-catcher—that ancient part of their romance is a misnomer snowplow and said to have been used to clear the tracks of slow cattle—she added:

"Some high official, Donald Smith or someone, had to sit with her, and was petrified."

Her other attempts at showbiz ventures were successful, she says. They were the two Hart Hatch revues, which played in Toronto in 1958-59 and in London in 1962-63.

Miss Lockhart went to go to the British Museum in search of historical data about Canada. And from that came Spare Rib.

"Kids just absolutely hate Canadian history," she says. "How, why do they? It's so fascinating. What do they do to the kids?"

Mrs. Lockhart has five children, and she considers that a factor in her theatrical profession.

"I used to plan shows while I was pregnant and then do them after I'd had the baby."

She invested $3,000 of her own money to launch Spare Rib, she said. "Some people buy mink coats, and this show is my present to myself."

Some more of the exhibits of information:

"Did you know that while King Louis of France was pouring money and goods into Louisbourg (N.S.) the women were busy selling everything that could be moved to the New Englanders?

"And those Acadians. What we did to them. We're an extraordinary group of people.

"In Quebec, women had to fight against the Indians and the New Englanders more than the men did. People were killed and they must have been killed brutally, awfully."

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

SUNDAY, MAY 28

Aries (March 21-April 19): This Sunday, you need to reflect seriously on your career problems, and come to some conclusion of what you want to do about it.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Seek every sort of diversion or assembly which helps relieve tensions, restores harmony in the family and home life.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Be sociable and bring people together. Make the rounds, talk to those you have neglected lately. Some of what you hear may be very serious.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Do what your family and community expect of you. Then find what suits you best and do that. Reward yourself for a difficult week.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): You'll find others with as much "go" as you have. Share creative ideas with them; it's your turn to get together a lively Sunday.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You have a lot to do—try not to be critical of minor discrepancies. Accept a favor, if only to free someone from feeling obligated.

Libra (Sept.-23-Oct. 22): Be easy on yourself, with some fun and relaxation. Find time for reflection, then when you see how well off you are — celebrate.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): An outside opinion can be surprisingly helpful, particularly if it comes spontaneously. Be serene as it comes to you.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Bring your loved one along for a break from routines. Among the thoughts of the day are ideas worthy of further development.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Now is an excellent time for calm assertion of your dignity. Participate in community affairs, be on the move during this interesting day.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): There's no harm in talking with those who have disagreed with you, although their views don't change much. Try to lessen any differences.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Although you try to make this a restful Sunday, you must think about money, as there is a chance of securing some advantage.

SUNDAY MAY 28

Aries (March 21-April 19): This week starts slowly. Good humor and willingness to see the romantic side of life determines your progress. Invest some time in a hobby.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Expect to see a story. Family matters need agreement on plans. Starting early gives you the upper workday, a chance to learn something interesting.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Regular work habits again produce well, according to the effort you make. Keep in touch with friends. Some friend has an answer.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): In this superficially quiet day, be prepared to react quickly. Be co-operative, involve others in whatever work is in progress.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Romance, sentimental considerations interest you more than supposed to. Find a creative balance. Do a little of everything.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Everybody around you has a tendency to overdo something today particularly if they don't act in a group. Gather family and friends to share fun.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Use imagination and charm to make life more interesting to others. Nobody has much energy at the moment, except perhaps to quibble tonight.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Now is the time to side-step trouble. What you want and need has to be distinctly stated, without dragging in side issues.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You are in better spirits than you've been lately. Friendly, strenuous or speculative projects will collide. Throwing entertainment is favored.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Move promptly to finish unfinished business, either alone or with a team. Any break you can manage should be used for rest.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Unsentimental considerations distract you from routines this slow day. Make this day short to get extra rest.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): There's almost nothing you can get anybody to do as you would like it to be done, so do it yourself. Others will then be helpful.

To Your Good Health

Snuff Involves Hazards to Nose

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am a girl, 15, and use snuff three times a day, every day. It is the powdered, menthalated type that can be found in a lot of boutiques, and comes in various flavors.

I read in an encyclopedia that snuff damages the mucous membrane in your nose. Is that all it can do to you? What are the long-term effects of using snuff?

It's practically a habit with me now. I don't want it to get much worse because it takes the place of cigarettes.—D.B.

Well, this is a switch as far as teenage habits are concerned, although I've had letters from older folks, who, having used a lot about smoking, have switched to snuff.

I don't know how positive I can be in answering you, except to say that habitual use of snuff can be harmful, on the basis of such studies as have been made.

For example, cancer of the nasal sinus has been reported in African tribes using certain types; cancer of the mouth in others. It is thought that these are less likely with the commercially prepared snuff of the kind used today.

However, the membranes of the nose can be affected. The tiny hair-like structures called cilia can be thrown out of commission, with the membranes undergoing atrophy (shrinkage). This can develop into atrophic rhinitis, which can be a miserable state involving foul odor, loss of sense of smell, and unpleasant crusting.

Exactly how big a risk these possibilities are, I am not prepared to say, but I personally feel that if the use of snuff continues to increase, sooner or later we'll have more precise answers. Wish I had the answers for you now, but I don't.

However, citing risks of snuff doesn't mean that cigarette smoking is necessarily the alternative. How about talking to chewing gum or something?

Someday maybe some brilliant psychologist may have to out why the human race spends so much of its time trying to find more some bad habit—hoping for a bad habit without—any risks.

Aren't people funny?

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have never seen anything in your column about fungus on the lungs. Is it serious? Would you be concerned if you were over 40 and had it? What foods should you eat or not eat?—Mrs. M.E.O.

I've written at various times about histoplasmosis, which is a fungus that attacks the lungs, and is quite commonplace in more common than used to be realized—in some of the river valleys of the mid-continent.

If I had it and was suffering no pain or discomfort, I wouldn't worry about it; if the fungus began spreading, then I would, because it can become a very serious disease. In the majority of cases, patients think they've had a mild flu, and don't realize what they really had unless tests happen to be made.

Youth to Study Summer Projects

OTTAWA (CP) — The latest batch of Opportunities for Youth grants includes two worth more than $9,000 each to record activities of others receiving Opportunities for Youth grants.

Announced Friday, the list contains grants worth $2,555,385 for 177 projects. It brings to 2,845 the number of projects approved, involving grants of $29,389,316 in public funds.

A project called Summer 72 will provide 15 with $8,635 to collect and compile "text and photographs for a book about interesting Opportunities for Youth projects across Canada. The grant has been made to a group in Oakville.

Another along the same line provides six youths in Montreal with $8,236 to produce "television documentaries . . . on certain Opportunities for Youth projects selected from across Canada." It is to provide information on the progress of projects and will be shown on community television stations.

Unwanted Export

MONTREAL (CP) — The rapid growth to 1980 of the U.S. labor force is a matter of keen concern to Canadians, Labor Minister Martin O'Connell said Friday.

Any failure of the U.S. economy to generate enough new jobs, Mr. O'Connell said, likely will result in political pressure for employment-stimulating measures.

"These might include protective measures which could result in their unemployment being exported elsewhere—primarily to Canada," he said.

Others in the latest list includes a six-person group in Waterloo, Ont., which gets $8,000 for a study of disobedience among young Mennonites.

Another project, submitted by a 30-member Toronto group, will be given $46,340 to set up offices in Sudbury, Sarnia, Windsor, Niagara Falls, St. Catharines, London, Peterborough and Ottawa to help with compensation problems suffered by workers. The 30 will act "as advisers to workmen and as contacts with the Workmen's Compensation Board."

Lawyer Disbarred

TORONTO (CP) — Ross Mackay, a lawyer who defended the last two men hanged in Canada, was disbarred by the Law Society of Upper Canada Friday.

The society's secretary, Kenneth Jarvis, said Mackay had not filed a required accountant's report of his records, had not maintained his records properly and did not reply to the society's letters regarding complaints against him.

Grass Burned

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Customs agents Thursday burned three tons of marijuana seized earlier in the week from a shrimp boat which arrived from Jamaica. Pollution control authorities didn't like it a bit and told the agents Friday they should have obtained a permit for the "grass" fire. The marijuana had an estimated retail value of $1.5 million.

Union Head Says Government Inefficient

TORONTO (CP) — Spokesmen for the Canadian Union of Public Employees in Ontario claimed before 500 delegates at CUPE's provincial division convention Friday that the year-round work is being laid in Ontario for legislation to prevent strikes by public employees.

The CUPE convention vowed to fight any form of compulsory arbitration to deal with collective bargaining disputes and several delegates called for a general strike if there is any attempt to impose compulsory arbitration.

The division represents about 50,000 public employees.

Brian Martin, executive secretary of the Ontario division, said the province may experience events similar to those on the Quebec labor scene.

"We face a well-organized onslaught of adverse publicity manufactured by governments at all levels. What has happened in Quebec can happen in Ontario. The public is being conditioned for government action against all organized workers."

He said the public is being convinced that all public employees perform essential services and that when they strike they are blackmailing a helpless citizenry.

"What isn't being told, and th public should be told, is the type of management we face." He said inefficiency in management ranks and wasteful spending policies are ignored, add rising government costs are attributed to public employees.

"I must question any government which dictates economy for municipalities, boards and hospitals, when governments themselves are guilty of mismanagement of public funds."

Canada Rates 'Backward' In Family Planning

WINNIPEG (CP) — Governments should put more emphasis on contraception and less on abortion, two doctors told the final sessions of he Canadian Hospital Association annual meeting Friday.

"Canada now ranks among the most backward nations in family planning and will soon have one of the highest abortion rates," said Dr. C. C. Mercy, pathologist at the Winnipeg General Hospital.

"The grass which those responsible have of the problem is such that the federal department of health and welfare made a grant of a whole $350,000 for family planning in the last fiscal year when abortions cost over $20 million."

Dr. Walter Hannah, an obstetrician at the Women's College Hospital, Toronto, also said that responsible family planning programs are the "only realistic answer" to the social problems illustrated by demands for abortions on demand.

Condominiums Said Questioned

TORONTO (CP) — The provincial government spends public funds on misleading advertisements about MPL public housing loans, Liberal Leader Robert Nixon told the Ontario legislature Friday.

Mr. Nixon said full-page newspaper advertisements indicate plans for single-family dwelling units when in many cases local planning authorities will not permit them.

Revenue Minister Allan Grossman said he had not seen the advertisements concerning single-family dwellings.

Mr. Nixon said the advertisements "have a tendency to stimulate public expectation when the plans of the government are not clear."

Mr. Grossman told Mr. Nixon that OHC is running advertisements to show that controversium ownership "is very advantageous" and invites readers to seek more information from the government.

Vernon Singer (L—Toronto Downsview) said there have been "sad experiences" with condominium homes.

Local councils are questioning the "efficiency and integrity" of the condominium system, he said.

Their comments added force to statements by John Connors, president of the Catholic Hospital Association of Canada, who said Roman Catholic hospitals in Canada would "close their doors and go up for sale" if governments pass legislation forcing them to perform abortions.

Mr. Connors, administrator of Winnipeg's Misericordia Hospital, said in an interview Friday his association has not changed its position on abortion and is unlikely to do so. The stand against abortions was supported earlier this week at the Catholic Hospital Association's meeting.

Dr. Merry, an outspoken critic of abortions, said delegates that pictures he had intended to show "had been censored." Association officials had decided not to allow him to use slides to illustrate his address to the 1,200 delegates.

"I can well understand that those in the audience who have been in part responsible for the 20,850 abortions (performed in Canada during 1971) do not wish to be confronted with their handiwork," he said.

"Neither do they wish that those who are not entirely familiar with what they have done should be informed of that."

Dr. Merry said the slides would have shown abortion "in the destruction of human life." He dismissed arguments in favor of abortion as "illogical" and "indecrous."

Abortions are a form of legalized killing," he said. Those who carry them out tend to become blase and hardened.

Abortion are attempts "to solve our social and economic problems by killing," he said. It is possible to kill an unborn human, why is it not acceptable to kill other unwanted humans, such as the incurably ill or the senile elderly, he asked.

U.S. Deficit Up

The 1972 United States trade deficit widened over the 12 billion mark last month, as the value of imports exceeded exports by the second highest amount on record, the commerce department in Washington said Friday. For January through April the deficit was $2.2 billion. For April alone the value of imports exceeded exports by $623.4 million, a figure topped only by last October's $671.4 million.

Mankind's Aspirations Need Help

TORONTO (CP) — The privileged minority of mankind must make revolutionary changes in its attitudes and values to help others satisfy both non-material and material needs and aspirations, says Maurice F. Strong, secretary-general of the United Nations conference on the human environment.

Mr. Strong, who received an honorary doctor of laws degree during the University of Toronto convocation Friday, told graduating students that satisfying the higher needs and aspirations of people is as important as fulfilling their economic requirements.

"It is surely in his search for beauty, for truth, for moral and spiritual growth that man achieves his highest levels of expression and fulfilment; that he becomes most distinctively human," Mr. Strong said.

"At the same time we must help to foster more and better economic growth in the less developed regions where poverty itself is the greatest enemy, the greatest destroyer of human life and human dignity."

Mr. Strong said priorities of the wealthy nations must be changed. He criticized the "vast amounts spent on the weapons of total destruction . . . on creating and satisfying new and often quite extraneous consumer demands when poverty and misery continue to afflict the majority of the human family."

Editors Say Ban Is Wrong

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP) — Managing editors of daily newspapers from Victoria to Halifax have told Prime Minister Trudeau the federal government's plan for a 48-hour ban on partisan political comment is "completely unacceptable."

At the annual Canadian Managing Editors Conference here Friday, they voted a unanimous resolution branding the move "an infringement on freedom of the press and the public's right to full information."

They said a bill to interpret the law, now before the Commons, would limit newspaper coverage of federal elections and byelections in an unprecedented way.

Their resolution of protest also went to Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield and every member of Parliament.

At the closing dinner of their conference Friday night, the editors heard Premier Richard Hatfield of New Brunswick appeal in Canadian elsewhere to help this province solve its economic problems.

He said many federal policies were against New Brunswick interests, from anti-inflation programs, the all shipment tax to pay for Medicare schemes and the ban on commercial salmon fishing.

U.S., Russia Want No Confrontations

European Security Parley to Be Held

MOSCOW (AP) — President Nixon and Communist party chief Leonid Brezhnev signed a joint statement of long-range principles today agreeing to avoid military confrontations and envisaging eventual total world disarmament.

For the near future, Nixon and the Soviet leader agreed to a companion communique to hold a European security conference — long a goal of the Soviet regime — quite soon.

The conference will aim first at providing for an East-West cut back in military forces in Central Europe, notably those in East and West Germany.

Nixon climaxed his seven days of summit talks at the Kremlin by inviting the three top Soviet leaders-Brezhnev, President Nikolai Podgorny and Premier Alexei Kosygin to visit the United States "at a mutually convenient time."

The communique said the Soviet trio accepted the bid but Henry Kissinger, the president's assistant for national security affairs, said the return summit would not take place until after the U.S. election in November.

The communique recited the opposing views of American and Soviet negotiators in Moscow.

However, Kissinger said the war was the subject of "long, sometimes difficult and detailed discussions" which left in doubt the vital question of whether the two governments understand each other on the issue and will co-operate to seek peace.

As for the prospects, "only the future can say, and I wouldn't want to speculate," Kissinger said.

The communique also dealt with Middle East tensions and said the United States and the Soviet Union "declare their readiness to play their part in bringing about a peaceful settlement."

At the two summit documents, the statement of principles signed by Nixon and Brezhnev at a televised Kremlin ceremony on the 8th, were sweeping.

Kissinger cautioned, however, that it represented "an aspiration and attitude" and that either side can ignore it at will.

The presidential adviser added that Nixon assumes the Soviet leaders take the document seriously or they wouldn't have signed it.

The first basic principle affirmed by Nixon and Brezhnev was that the two governments "will proceed from the common determination that in the nuclear age there is no alternative to conducting their mutual relations on the basis of peaceful coexistence."

Differences in ideology and social systems, the document said, "are not obstacles to the mutual development of normal relations based on the principles of sovereignty, equality, non-interference in internal affairs and mutual advantage."

The second principle said the two countries "attach major importance to preventing the development of situations capable of causing a dangerous exacerbation of their relations."

Nixon and Brezhnev agreed "they will do their utmost to avoid military confrontations and to prevent the outbreak of nuclear war."

Doubtless the most visionary basic principle set forth was numbered six and said:

"The U.S.A. and the U.S.S.R. regard as the ultimate objective of their efforts the achievement of general and complete disarmament and the establishment of an effective system of international security in accordance with the purposes and principles of the United Nations."

Death at 77
Duke Comes Home At Last

LONDON (CP) — The long exile of the Duke of Windsor ends Wednesday when his body is flown home for burial on the grounds of Windsor Castle.

The former King Edward VIII, who gave up the throne on Dec. 11, 1936, to marry a twice-divorced American, died an hour before dawn Sunday at his home in Paris. He was 77, and his wife was at his side.

The duke and duchess had no children.

The duke had been in failing health for months, and there were reports he had cancer of the throat. When his niece, The Queen, visited him at his home 10 days before he died, he was unable to rise from his chair.

The duke long ago arranged with his brother and successor, the late King George VI, that he would be buried at Frogmore, the effigy-encrusted mausoleum half a mile from Windsor Castle. Queen Victoria and her consort, Prince Albert, are buried there, and so is one of the duke's brothers, the Duke of Kent, who was killed in the Second World War.

The Queen ordered a week of royal mourning until June 5, the day of the funeral. She arranged for the body to be flown back to Britain in an RAF transport.

The duke will lie in state in St. George's Chapel, at Windsor Castle, on Friday and Saturday. Thousands are expected to file past to pay their last respects.

The duke, sensitive to royal protocol and the scandal his marriage caused in his homeland, asked for a private funeral. So only about 100 persons, including the Royal Family, cabinet ministers and members of other royal families, are expected to attend the simple funeral next Monday.

The Brigade of Guards will mount guard of honor around the coffin. The duke was the brigade's colonel-in-chief when he was king.

The duchess, now 75, will accompany the duke's body on his last journey home. The Queen invited the duchess to stay at Buckingham Palace for the first time.

These arrangements were not enough for some Britons who felt the former king should be honored by lying in state in Westminster Hall, where England's monarchs are traditionally laid out for public mourning.

A palace spokesman said: "All the funeral arrangements are at the request of the Duke of Windsor himself. He planned the entire service at some time in the 1960s.

Nostalgia Grips Newsmen

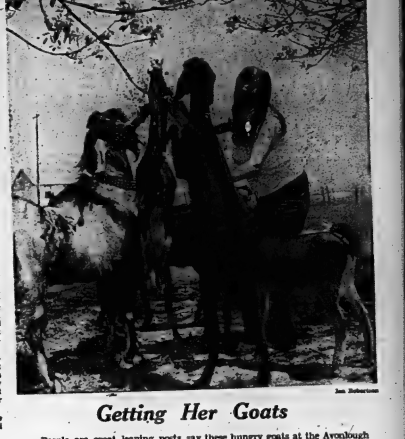
LONDON (CP) — A man of his time and a man much ahead of his time.

That's the way Britain's national press sums up the turbulence, tranquility and waste of the swinging prince of the 1920s whose death Sunday in Paris opened a gusher of published reflections. He was 77.

Sir Colin Coote, writing in The Daily Telegraph, says it is easy to speak of "a wasted life." But he suggests the British public should "let history remember the vivid, lively, human prince charming rather than the weary, wayward, wandering ghost."



It was as Prince of Wales and heir to the throne that the duke is best remembered by the elderly and the middle-aged.

There were many reports of his lovers and travels but also of his ability to reach the common people, to walk among the unemployed and to sympathize with them openly, much to the fury of the British bureaucracy.

The Prince of Wales was very much a man of his times in spite of an upbringing that appeared to insulate him from many of the influences that were formative of his contemporaries," says The Times.

But it maintains that his decision to renounce the throne, while hardly, was not wrong "at the time it was made. . . .

Other newspapers question what the monarchy might have been like had he remained on the throne. The consensus is that it might have become modern, with the reigning sovereign frequently mingling among the people.

Getting Her Goats

People are great leaning posts say these hungry goats at the Avonlough Road shelter of the Ontario Humane Society. Saturday, they were climbing all over Brenda O'Colin of Belleville, as she helped them gain lofty heights and tasty rewards from trees in the pen-like section behind Quinte Branch shelters. The local society held an open house and reception for visitors and guests who attended the provincial society's two-day annual conference here.

Nixon Speaks To Russia

'Me Satan Worshipper'

MOSCOW (AP) — President Nixon had a final summit talk today with Communist party chief Leonid Brezhnev after telling the Soviet people he seeks a world free from fear.

Nixon made a live television address, broadcast both in the Soviet Union and the United States Sunday night, as he and Soviet leaders were within hours of winding up their historic Kremlin summit meeting.

Since he is the first U.S. president to visit Moscow, he was on the first to address the Soviet people by television "over their capital. However, Nixon made a similar telecast in 1959 when he visited Moscow as vice-president.

The president spoke of having reached with Soviet leaders "a far-reaching set of agreements that can lead to a better life for both of our peoples, and to a better chance for peace in the world."

Through all of history, the president said, "the world's people have struggled to be free from fear—whether fear of the economic, or fear of hunger, or fear of their own rulers, or fear of their neighbors in other countries."

Noting that people repeatedly have overcome one fear "Nixon said to fall prey to another," he said:

Primary Schools Stay Open To June 30

By LENNY WILLIAMSON
Staff Reporter

There will be no head start on holidays this year for Hastings county's elementary school pupils.

They still go on to the last official school day, June 30, before dismissal for the summer.

The ministry of education this year for the first time, allows county boards to set their own date for closing classes. Boards in surrounding counties have already set early closing dates: Frontenac on June 28, Leeds and Grenville a week early on June 23, Prontenac-Lennox and Addington separate school board on June 28, Carleton and Prince Edward June 27. Teachers must work until the June 30 year-end.

But, "there has to be some rationale" for early closing says Hastings county's director of education Eric Runacres, and so far the committee of principals examining early closing "hasn't got an answer".

Secondary schools have always ended classes early, to hold examinations followed by promotion meetings and report card preparation. Last day of school will be June 8 this year, with exams beginning June 9 and continuing for about a week. This leaves about two more weeks for staff meetings to evaluate students and to prepare next year's programs.

IRA Bomb Kills Six In Catholic District

BELFAST (CP) — An IRA bomb exploded accidentally in a Roman Catholic district of Belfast Sunday, killing six persons and wounding 18.

The casualty toll was expected to heighten Catholic pressure on the Irish Republican Army to halt its campaign of violence in Northern Ireland.

The bomb blast killed three IRA men, all on the army's wanted list. They included Edward McDonald, a 27-year-old bomb expert, and Martin England, a company commander of the IRA's Provisional wing.

The army said the 100-pound bomb exploded as the IRA squad was carrying it to a car. It splattered pieces of bodies across the street and destroyed several houses, burying sleeping families under the rubble.

Four other big bombs exploded in other sectors of Belfast Sunday. Three of them, estimated by the army to total more than 150 pounds of gelignite, wrecked large shopping areas in the downtown area.

Other bombs blew up a garage in a village 40 miles north of Belfast and severely damaged the town hall at Kilrea, 30 miles east of Londonderry.

North Vietnamese Ambush Relief Force

SAIGON (CP) — North Vietnamese forces lying in ambush south of Tan Loc today dealt a South Vietnamese relief column its second major setback in four days, killing or wounding 100 or more government soldiers with a heavy barrage.

Field reports said North Vietnamese gunners poured more than 1,000 rounds of rockets and artillery and mortar shells at South Vietnamese forces trying to move up Highway 13 north of Saigon.

The column was hit about 3½ miles south of Tan Loc, in the same spot where North Vietnamese forces using recoilless rifles and rockets destroyed 23 of 42 South Vietnamese armored personnel carriers and killed 42 government troops and wounded 150 in an ambush last Friday.

A South Vietnamese fire base three miles farther south above the highway was hit by 200 rounds of shells, blowing up an ammunition depot, the reports said.

At Loc, 60 miles north of Saigon, has been under siege since April 7, a week after the North Vietnamese launched their offensive across South Vietnam. The relief column has been stalled for the last 10 days by North Vietnamese troops who have established heavily entrenched on the western side of Highway 13.

In the central highlands, North Vietnamese troops, entrenched in parts of Kontum, put up stiff resistance today as street fighting raged for the fifth successive day.

The city is a prime objective in the current North Vietnamese offensive in the south. Hanoi is said to have massed 20,000 troops in the area and Communist forces are reported to be sneaking into the town every night.

Main North Vietnamese resistance was in the south and southeastern areas of Kontum, but helicopter pilots had also spotted big artillery guns in the northern suburbs.

U.S. Air Force planes swooped over Kontum parachuting food and ammunition to government troops.

U.S. B-52s dropped 1,000 tons of bombs around Kontum today in an attempt to keep the North Vietnamese from reinforcing their positions in three sections of the provincial capital.

Quinte Branch Spends $20,000 Over Budget

The Quinte branch of the Ontario Humane Society ranks second highest among outlets faced with deficit in their 1971 operations, the society's financial budget reports.

Figures published in an annual financial statement of the society, released at its annual provincial conference held at the Four Seasons here this weekend, show the Belleville outlet's costs were $20,072 higher than income during last year's operations. The highest figure recorded was that of the York County branch, near Toronto, with $30,422.

In all cases, expenditures for shelter employee salaries and wages, accounted to approximately half their expenditures, while vehicle, administration, repairs, maintenance and supply expenses took a large chunk.

More than 60 voting delegates learned the provincial society is in a bad financial position. The executive has advised the provincial government they will no longer be able to continue Society's role against cruelty to animals, unless further grants are received.

The financial statement shows an operating loss across the province in excess of $200,000 for 1971. The society's re-elected president, Dr. R. D. Scollard has stated unless the province can see fit to increase grants for 1972, the OHS will be reduced to a pound and shelter operation.

Until this year, the province made a grant of $20,000 annually. This figure was raised to $50,000 after society representations. Premier William Davis and other government officials earlier this year.

Most outstanding examples of increased spending shown by the financial statement, compares the following increases from 1970 to 1971: Shelter employees' wages rose more than $100,000 (from $282,830) although several society employees were laid off, shelter operating costs rose more than $70,000 ($80,749 to $146,195), fund - raising campaign costs jumped almost $30,000 ($34,118 to $71,555), office expenses climbed $2,000 ($33,771 to $60,888), public relations cost $9,000 (from $21,279 to $10,214) and under the heading "miscellaneous expenses," the society spent $30,000 more than in 1970 ($14,- 80 to $44,394).

Although the society experienced an increase in revenue from grants and contracts ($220,445 total), voluntary contributions (from the society's recent fund-raising campaigns ($49,914 total), legacies and letter revenue ($152,478), for a total increase of almost $120,- 000, it was not enough to cover expenses, which rose algost $320,000.

One source of revenue not pursued to any extent in 1971, was fund-raising drives by individual branches. In 1970, branches raised more than $15,000 while in 1971 they brought in less than 10 per cent of that figure.

Dr. Scollard said further meetings with provincial government officers are planned. The society's financial records are already in their hands.

"We can carry out our present standards of service but still just about break even this year," he said, "and this government will have to decide how much law enforcement they want done as related to animals."

He said the society spends approximately $120,000 annually on "animal control and prosecution."

The report of Tom Hughes, provincial society general manager, lists a total of 2,206 cruelty complaint investigations made during 1971. 1,614 animals seized under the Ontario SPCA Act, and a total of 35 charges laid under the Criminal Code of Canada.

Of these, 31 convictions were obtained, eight cases are pending.

Schools Stay Open

Secondary School report cards may go out before the end of year. The ministry of education used to insist that report cards could not be sent out before June 30, but this has been left to the discretion of individual schools this year.

Although Hastings county's elementary school system will have to stay in school until the end of June, they will be dismissed early each day of the final week, at about 2 p.m.

The final decision awaits the report of the committee investigating the matter, and the approval of the board of education.

Because the department has backed off, we have decided 'what would you do as a school staff?' Mr. Hamilton!" says Mr. Runacres. "Let's come up with a decision that is reasonable, understandable and worthwhile."

Although they have not yet ready to announce a decision, trustees of the Bayside and Prince Edward separate school board indicated at their last meeting that they would wait until the public board decided on a closing date, and probably set theirs to coincide.

Elementary school teachers and pupils have seldom had to remain in school until June 30 in the past. When the date fell on a weekend or early in the week, the department of education usually excused schools officially on the preceding Friday.

Newsmakers

Canadian Air Force Lt. David Lockyer, recipient of the Ontario Humane Society's medal and citation for bravery, at the annual conference held here this weekend, was half - way home to Kingston when his bride of one week insisted he return to Belleville to visit the Quinte home, Avenlough Road shelter. Lockyer had left in haste with this puppy. It's theirs now. "I knew I'd have to turn back," he said.

Society Urges Rabies Crackdown

Because the Ontario Humane Society spent $40,000 in 1971 for rabies clinics and quarantine control conditions . . . especially during the York County epidemic near Toronto . . . this problem is of major concern.

Dr. Harry Rowsell, a director of the OHS and executive secretary of the Canadian Council on Animal Care, claims an extensive anti-rabies indoctrination program in Ontario, would virtually wipe out this problem.

Such a system, he says, proved successful in Japan, the first part of 1971 of their intensified vaccination program. Japan has had almost no complete rabies visit.

Although not considered a disease of importance in Canada during the 1940s, Dr. Rowsell claims "today we have an endemic situation." Society president Dr. N. D. Scollard agrees: "It is just starting to become a real problem and everybody is trying to pass the buck." he said in an interview following the society's annual two - day conference held at the Four Seasons Hotel here this weekend.

A Toronto veterinarian and director of Riverdale Zoo, Dr. Scollard says the department of agriculture is interested in control of rabies in animals, while the medical officers of health in the province, are concerned with the infection of the human population.

He claims the notable increase in rabies in Ontario is proving "a danger of our staff."

At the same time, Dr. Rowsell urges owners of cat's to get over-react. There are too many cases of vaccination being given when the data is not broken."

He says the World Council on Health "is now beginning to recommend not inoculating" unless the skin has already been punctured. The virus Rabies does not usually enter the blood stream unless the skin is broken, or a person handling a rabies - carrier does so with a previously opened wound. The virus is transmitted by way of saliva of an infected carrier.

City Tax Rate Decided Today

Lower city taxes in 1972? It's a possibility. But Belleville ratepayers will know for certain today.

Late this afternoon city council is scheduled to begin final discussions on the controversial approved by the city's tax rate for four years.

There's another possibility. When council manages to hold the line, or even trim the mill rate, many residential taxpayers may not be immediately feel the benefit.

The provincial government's residential tax rebate system this year has been abolished in favor of an income tax credit scheme. In 1971 this equalled $80.60 for most Belleville homeowners. Without the rebate, homeowners will have to pay the full tax bill — and wait until next year to benefit from income tax credits.

Early last month Mayor Russell Scott pledged a hold-the-line approach with bigger allocations needed for police, fire and transportation services as his goal during budget discussions.

There are some financial reasons for optimism over the new mill rate.

City Manager J. R. Reynolds' annual report noted a healthy surplus from 1971. There - unutilized expenditures would show surpluses. He covers at about $380,000, City had calculated.

This equals about three mills.

The public school budget set by Hastings County board of education showed a decrease of two mills in the levy proposed for Belleville.

These factors may give council an edge at the start. But the assessment tax rate of $1.7 mills residential, 56.4 mills commercial and the total budget debate later today gets off and running against the provincial government for a new year.

All Trent Now Open

TRENTON (Staff) — The lower Trent Canal System opened to river - traffic today, two weeks behind schedule.

Ministry of Transport authorities, in charge, have announced the southerly portion of the system opening north from Trenton would not open on schedule because of excessively high water levels due to a late spring runoff. Authorities also cited construction as another reason for putting off the opening.

A new section of the canal was put off again for the same reason, a department spokesman say conditions have now improved substantially and the Trent System will be open for its entire course.

Pants Pilfered

FRANKFORD (Staff) — James A. Thompson of Trenton, was reported to have a casualty while camping at Frankford Park this weekend.

Tweedsmuir Meets Girl Cadets

Lord Tweedsmuir, OBE, CD (wearing beret) stops to chat with girl cadets during his inspection of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment during their annual parade at Belleville Armories Sunday. Following the inspection, the British peer told the 89 cadets on parade "you have the cut of silk about you." He was commanding officer of the regiment on two occasions during the Second World War. He flew to Canada Saturday especially to visit his old regiment.

Riders Raise $1,000 Plus

PICTON (Staff) — A tenmile horse - a - thon sponsored last Saturday by members of the Prince Edward Hack and Hunt Club has raised more than $1,000 in pledges.

Funds earned by this event will be divided equally between the Canadian Cancer Society and the English riding club.

The horse - a - thon, led by Picton reeve Albert Pirath, drew approximately 40 participants who joined for a three-hour ride in the vicinity of Yerexville and the Fry Road.

At the end of the trail, riders enjoyed a barbecue in a roadside field on Main Street East.

Music for the evening was provided by Picton newsman Jack Evans who played a medley of sing-a long tunes on his ukulele.

Mr. Evans was an honorary rider in the county's first horse-a-thon, finishing second to last in the timed event.

Prizes for riders earning the highest amounts of pledge monies were won by Jane Mulholland, Picton, Debbie Vanbecke RR 8, Picton and Margaret Hayhock, Picton.

Each of these participants turned in pledge sheets for more than $100 and received prizes of nylon stable halters, a bridle rack and a rubber feed tub. Picton reeve Albert Pirath won a dandy brush as the oldest rider in the group.

Virginia Mitchell, four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Mitchell, RR 8 Picton, won the prize for youngest rider, astride her pony Red Deer.

The small equestrienne, who completed the 10-mile ride accompanied by her mother, received a hand-tooled leather child's purse donated by the Circle V Tack Shop, Picton.

Other awards in the horse-a-thon were donated by Master Feeds, Picton and the Frontier Shop, Belleville.

Food for the barbeque following the ride was donated by local grocers who supported the event.

The Prince Edward Hack and Hunt Club will use its share of the horse-a-thon's proceeds to purchase lumber needed for the construction of cavaletti bars and jumps.

Peer Rejoins Regiment For Reunion, Inspection

It's not every day that a Canadian cadet regiment can claim the honor of being inspected by a member of the British House of Lords.

A son of Canada's former Governor - General, Lord Tweedsmuir, OBE, CD, flew directly from his Scottish home Saturday, to attend a meeting and dinner of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment Officers' Association.

The officers have been inviting the British peer, commanding officer of the Hasty-Pees on two occasions during World War II, to annual inspections for several years.

His last visit to Belleville, took place during Drooping of the Colors ceremonies May 17, 1964. On that occasion, Lt.-Governor W. E. Rowe presented new colors to the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment. Lord Tweedsmuir took the salute during march-past.

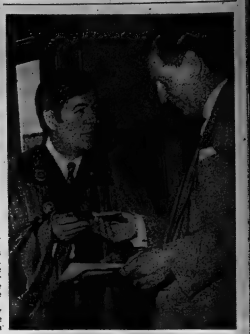
Invited to inspect the cadets Sunday, Lord Tweedsmuir first attended a brief ceremony at city hall. Introduced to several aldermen and visitors, the visiting peer was presented with a key to the city and honorary Belleville citizenship papers.

"I always' feel like I'm coming home, when I come to Belleville," he told Mayor J. Russell Scott, as he signed the city registry book in council chambers.

Starting at 2 pm... cadets and officers of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment marched on the flags. Following this, Lord Tweedsmuir inspected the 89 cadets on parade, 17 of which are members of the regiment's female squad.

During his brief address to the cadets, officers and large gathering of visitors, Lord Tweedsmuir extended greetings he received in a telegram from Field Marshal Bernard 'Monty' Montgomery. "He sends his best wishes and recalls the fighting force of the Hasty Pees. It's a very honorable badge to wear," he said, recalling such battle honors as Northwest Canada, 1885, Ypres, 1917, Sicily, 1943, Assoro, Italy, and Northwest Europe in 1945.

"The defense of liberty is an unending, ceaseless fight. The Hasty Pees, and we're all Hasty Pees, made their record in the world because of the spirit we had, and the training.



"I am very impressed by the demonstrations I have seen here today," he said, "a very, very fine performance.

"You've got the cut of silk about you."

One of the regimental non-commissioned officers recalled a recent incident in Britain in which Lord Tweedsmuir gallantly defended the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment.

"The papers showed a picture of him, dressed in the uniform of a Lt.-Col. of this regiment, standing over a man who had insulted the r e g i m e n t , caption stated him as defending the regiment and taking exception to references to him as a colonial," the officer recalled.

Lord Tweedsmuir returned to Britain Sunday.

Peer Honored

Lord Tweedsmuir, OBE, CD, received a gold key to the city, and honorary Belleville citizenship papers from Mayor J. R—l c— brief ceremonies held at city hall Sunday. Lord Tweedsmuir, a wartime commanding officer of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, was in Belleville to attend the annual Officers' association meeting and dinner Saturday, and inspect the regiment's cadets at their Sunday parade at the Belleville

Exotic Animals Concern Society

The Ontario Humane Society, at its annual conference at the Four Seasons Hotel here this past weekend, passed a resolution seeking federal and provincial government controls on importation and care of exotic animals.

Dr. N. D. Scollard, re-elected president of the provincial organization which acts as a watchdog for humane treatment of animals in Ontario, said in an interview following the conference, the society has approached both the federal department of agriculture and provincial ministers in an effort to have a system of registration and licensing established.

"In a broad sense, there is no regulation or restriction on foreign animals. We want to see a set of minimum standards of housing and care, licensing and inspection of premises established."

A veterinarian and director of, Toronto's Riverdale Zoo, Dr. Pimlott says controls would prevent such animals being housed as tourist attractions at roadside garages, in private homes, or in small zoos or parks unless their owners could satisfy inspectors that proper handling and care was available. At the same time, they would meet special requirements enacted for shippers bringing animals into Canada from foreign countries.

Monkies, baby alligators, parrots and tortoises are just a few of the foreign animals which suffer a high mortality rate in the hands of people he refers to as "casual owners. Most of these animals are virtually abandoned," when they are either turned over to society shelters or impounded by inspectors, he told The Intelligencer.

This statement was brought home during a tour of the Quinte shelter on Avonlough Road. In his efforts to make the shelter a recognized provincial society showplace, Superintendent Harry Brown has several abandoned monkeys in his care, as well as more domestic animals such as goats, a donkey, sheep, horses, peacocks, doves, plus domestic and wild ducks, all housed in a park-like compound at the rear of the shelter.

They Got Help

A letter or memo to this newspaper takes issue with a statement in a recent letter from D. M. Cole that "I think they (the Russians) have come out on top with no help from any one. . ."

The letter is unsigned and for that reason we cannot publish it as such. However it does present detailed and valid evidence of large amounts of international aid afforded the Soviet Union since the revolution in 1917 and without which it would not be in the relatively strong economic and military position it enjoys today.

The memo lists such aid as locomotives and repair facilities from Sweden, Estonia (not then in the Communist orbit), Germany and Britain as well as credit from a United States firm. Aid for the electrical industry, according to the memo, included a $26 million shipment of equipment in 1928 from International General Electric and as late as 1943 the Russians had an office at the firm's headquarters in Schenectady, N.Y. In 1927 an Italian company built an ammonia plant and Swedish and U.S. companies constructed other chemical factories.

Similarly in the field of mining, agriculture and the manufacture of such items as sewing machines, watches, and typewriters, as well as imports, the Soviets were dependent for both know-how and equipment from overseas concerns. In 1928, for example, the memo says 20,000 tractors were imported chiefly from United States along with other farm machinery.

Today of course the Soviets are virtually self-supporting in this regard and their technology ranks with the best, but even at that it is due in part to German skill acquired after the last war not to mention the acquisition of nuclear secrets through espionage and the handling over of secrets by westerners who defected or were spies for the Soviets.

There was also the little matter of lend-lease by the United States during the last war and President Nixon is reported during his current visit to be discussing outstanding payments still due from Russia.

Ceylon's New Status

Ceylon has become a socialist republic but has elected to remain within the British commonwealth. Under the name of Sri Lanka it will be something of a strange bed partner, but then we have come to accept that phenomenon in the Commonwealth which is nothing if not resilient and adaptable to change.

An example of Ceylon's new capacity for involving itself with all sides of the political spectrum — and more recently with the Communist world — is afforded by an item from a Colombo newspaper which has come to our attention. Under a huge headline "Navy To Get A Destroyer — With Compliments of Russia," the report notes that "Ceylon will soon be the proud possessor of an internationally-accepted warship of the 'Frigate' class which will be equipped with the latest device to track alien vessels entering our territorial waters."

With what seems like tongue-in-cheek candor, the writer adds: "This is the 'gift' that has been offered to the Ceylon government by the Commander-in-Chief of the Soviet Pacific Fleet, Admiral Nikolai Ivanovitch, who was in the Island for a brief 'courtesy' visit."

Ceylon also has its finger in the Ceylonese pie as witness this concluding reference: "Meanwhile, the Chinese Government, too, has offered aid to help build our Armed Forces. The new generation from the major powers in the Indian Ocean are believed to be the result of the power-struggle currently on with each power vying with the other for friendly connection with countries in the proximity of this strategic stretch of ocean."

Times are indeed changing, when we observe these trends — the transformation of Ceylon into a socialist-oriented authoritarian country and its establishment of strategic defence links with the Communist world. It will be interesting to see how Ceylon now develops in relation to its new status and political orientation to both east and west.

Canada - U. S. Trade

The Christian Science Monitor

Canada has dropped the other shoe with the Trudeau government's new proposal for restricting foreign takeovers of Canadian companies. And the shoe has turned out to be a soft-soled moccasin.

For American government and business interests, concerned about the United States' $33 billion investment in Canadian plants, businesses, loans and bond issues, the impact is nil. The legislation puts no expansion limits on firms already operating in Canada. Nor does it bar foreign funds from flowing in to set up entirely new businesses.

The Trudeau government has clearly taken the absolute minimum steps necessary to make a show of meeting the demands of Canadian economic nationalists. It proposes merely that foreign buyers of companies worth more than $250,000, or earning more than $3 million a year, must demonstrate that the takeover "will result in significant benefit to Canada."

That restriction hardly meets the demands of the opposition Conservative and New Democratic Parties for controls over foreign firms now in fact in Canada, or for a bigger slice of Canadian participation in the ownership of such companies.

The crux of the matter, of course, is Canada's economic dependence on the United States. That subordinate role is resented by many Canadians, who, though not necessarily hostile to the United States, deeply dislike the thought that their political independence as a nation has no parallel in their economic life.

Yet did Mr. Trudeau really have any alternative? American dollar investments in his country provide the jobs and the commercial activity that allow Canadians to enjoy a standard of living parallel to that of their neighbors to the south. To jeopardize those investments by harsh prescription would be to jeopardize that standard of living. The political question that posed is whether the Canadian people are willing to trade off material affluence for the satisfaction of standing on their own two feet economically.

Prime Minister Trudeau has chosen a prudent — some would say timid — middle approach. It remains for the Canadian Parliament at Ottawa to debate the degree to which his proposal reflects the economic realism of the Canadian people versus their emotional desires.

Quite possibly the legislation could be toughened up by Parliament to some degree, such as limiting the amount of foreign control of key sectors. Investors, but there are definite limits as to how far such control can go before the point of diminishing returns is reached. It may be that the legislators at Ottawa will be realistic.

Former Quebec MPs Controversial Book

A Critical Study of Medical Services in Canada

By FARMER TISSINGTON
From The Intelligencer's
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Stewart Graffrey is an intense, 43-year-old, bilingual lawyer from Knowlton, Que., a village that lives from the practice of law. His chief preoccupations have been as a sort of minor-league Ralph Nader, as a Conservative member of Parliament for 10 years for the riding of Brome-Missisquoi, and as an author.

Mr. Graffrey was defeated in the 1968 election but was not content to retire to his law practice. For the past four years he has kept politically active as president of eight Eastern Township constituencies for his party and as chairman of the party's policy group on consumer protection.

A year ago he was again nominated as the candidate in his home riding and will contest the election.

His first major venture into the non-populist consumer protection field came a few years ago when he followed in the footsteps of Mr. Nader as a critic of the auto-makers for their apparent lack of concern over safety.

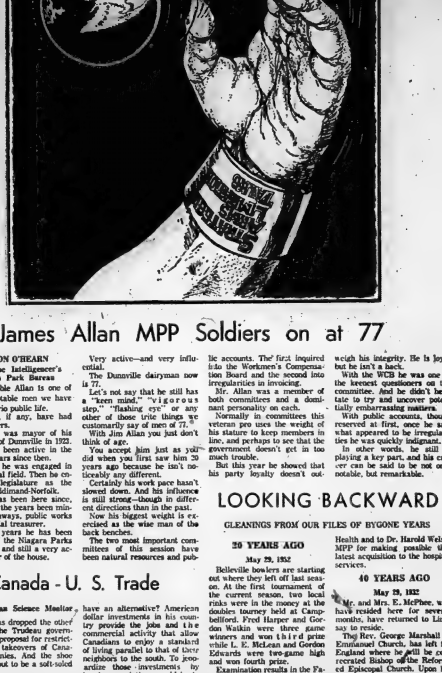
His part of his research he made a study of highway accidents and of the emergency services provided by hospitals for accident victims.

This has now resulted in the publication of a book called The Senseless Sacrifice: A Black Paper on Medicine. The book deals with the entire scope of medical services in Canada, examines doctors, hospitals, emergency services, medical schools, research, drugs, food additives and preventive medicine.

It has already aroused a fair amount of controversy and some mixed reviews. It is written in an easy, readable style and many chapters open with a recounting of some actual incident. Mr. Graffrey came across during his research.

A major impression is that no finds little good to say about medical and hospital services in Canada. If Mr. Graffrey is to be believed, the progress in medical science, the millions spent on medical and hospital services, buildings and equipment, the advent of prepaid medical care schemes are all sent up suckers.

He says, for example: "The debt of contemporary medical services is likening into a nightmare. Too many people who desperately need care are not getting it. Too many people who should be living are dead."



Mr. Graffrey insists his book is not meant as an attack on the Canadian medical profession and yet many of his statements can hardly be interpreted as anything else.

He is critical of the fact doctors are so highly paid and claims they are still being rewarded in relation to the fiscas of their patients. The longer the illness lasts, the more the doctor makes.

At the time Mr. Graffrey's book is published a pipefitter in the Ottawa area is making around $18,000 a year. Doctors are certainly highly paid but anyone who has had to summon a plumber or an electrician in the past few years is well aware many other people in much less demanding jobs and professions are also rewarded handsomely.

Mr. Graffrey's book may exaggerate the situation in a good many cases and medical and hospital people will dispute many of his claims. But there is certainly great room for improvement in the field and the book should alert many Canadians to the problems and to their possible solutions.

On this score, at least, it represents a worthwhile contribution to the discussion of a vital topic.

James Allan MPP Soldiers on at 77

By DON O'HEARN
From The Intelligencer's
Queen's Park Bureau

James Noble Allan is one of the most notable men we have had in Ontario public life.

Few men, if any, have had longer careers.

Mr. Allan was mayor of his home town of Dunnville in 1923. And he has been active in the nearly 50 years since then.

Until 1961 he was engaged in the municipal field. Then he entered the legislature as the MPP for Haldimand-Norfolk.

And he has been here since, having over the years been minister of highways, public works and provincial treasurer.

In recent years he has been chairman of the Niagara Parks Commission and still a very active member of the house.

Very active—and very influential.

The Dunnville dairyman now is 77.

Let's not say that he still has a "keen mind," "vigorous step," "flashing eye" or any other of those trite things we customarily say of men of 77.

With Jim Allan you just don't think of age.

You accept him just as you'd did when you first saw him 20 years ago because he isn't noticeably any different.

Certainly his work pace hasn't slowed down. And his influence is still strong—though in different directions than in the past.

Now his biggest weight is exercised as the wise man of the back benches.

The two most important committees of this session have been natural resources and public accounts. The first inquired into the Workmen's Compensation Board and the second into irregularities in invoicing.

Mr. Allan was a member of both committees and a dominant personality on each.

Normally in committees this veteran pro uses the weight of his stature to keep members in line, and perhaps to see that the government doesn't get in too much trouble.

But this year he showed that his party loyalty doesn't outweigh his integrity. He is loyal but he isn't a nut.

With the WCB he was one of the keenest questioners on the committee. And he didn't hesitate to try and uncover potentially embarrassing matters.

With public accounts, though reserved at first, once he saw what appeared to be irregularities he was quickly indignant.

In other words, he isn't just playing a key part, and his career can be said to be not only notable, but remarkable.

Nixon's Election Hurdle

By JOHN D. HARBRON
Foreign Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

Richard Nixon must count one more rabbit out of the hat to perpetuate what has been a very untypical Republican administration. He has to get himself elected again in November.

If he does, he will be hard put to match the sensational moves he has made during his first presidency. All of them — the visit to China; Soviet Russia; his North Vietnamese sea blockade, the devaluation of the dollar last summer — have violated rib-rocked Republican beliefs on foreign policy, foreign wars and economics.

His Peking talks of last winter will stand as the most spectacular. Nixon, by encouraging an invitation from Chou En-lai to visit China, breached the widest ideological gap of this postwar world, the U.S.-China enmity. This has been much deeper than the traditional ideological struggle between Moscow and Washington.

During his Moscow trip, Nixon and Leonid Brezhnev talked wide and a good deal of mutual understanding because they have the common problems of two vast industrial nations. Their joint space research programs linking U.S. and Soviet technology will do much to reduce the very large duplicate costs both nations spend in space.

Pollutants spewing into air and waters of both countries have no ideological barriers. State-run factories and huge private conglomerates offer identical pollution threats to the environment.

Nixon went to Peking from a party with a strong, anti-Communist record. But he went as more than that. This was the man who, as junior politician and vice-president in the late President Eisenhower, took part, personally, in formulating administration anti-Communism.

During the 1968 election campaign, Nixon reminded voters that Republicans stop Asian wars. Democrats start them. He recalled that the Eisenhower administration ended the Korean War to an end in 1953.

His own pledge to de-escalate the U.S. involvement in Vietnam has been well kept. But the North Vietnamese ports blockade was an escalation of that war which former Democratic President Lyndon Johnson would have encouraged.

Nevertheless the blockade has taken place without seriously upsetting the Soviet Union or imposing the now successful Moscow visit.

And finally in economic policy, Nixon violated that most sacrosanct article of Republicanism — the belief that whatever happened, the U.S. dollar would always remain firm.

Dollar devaluation was like recognizing Peking — the deepest sacrilege.

Today In History

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

May 29, 1972 . . .

The last of the Roman emperors, Constantine Palaeologus, died 519 years ago today in battle defending the capture of Constantinople by the Turks. The city had been defended by 7,000 men and 13 warships against a force totaling 11 months by 250,000 men and 300 galleys. Constantinople fell when 50 Turks entered the city through a gate which had been opened in a raid and then forgotten. Constantine, who was also killed at once, the populace panicked and fled. Few men were able to storm the walls.

1529—The International Olympic Committee voted International Olympic Games for the Olympic Games since it was a representative of sports in all China.

1858—Gen. Charles de Gaulle, founder of the Fourth new French government on condition that he have full power to avert civil war and reform the French constitution.

1943—Attu Island was captured by United States forces from the Japanese.

1867—The emperor Maximilian landed in Mexico.

1838—King Charles II was born.

Politics And Unions

Montreal Gazette

What do labor leaders hope to achieve by escalating violence? Are they still trying to wreak the regime? Failing that, hoping to provoke counter-action from authority so severe that public sympathy will be swung to their favor? That's the classic tactic of revolution. Are they so misguided to believe it will work here? How wrong they are.

The government has never been so strongly supported as so many Quebecers as it is now. There is no public sympathy for those who place bombs, who riot in the streets, who blockade public services, close newspapers and occupy radio stations. There was perhaps a public tolerance of those workers driven off their jobs by the unions' goons. That tolerance, however, is being quickly dissipated by the excesses of violence that are lately deliberately pursued.

It should be remembered that the great majority of organized workers in Quebec have remained on their jobs. Most of the outrages are being perpetrated by men on the fringes of the labor movement. There is a strong tendency to represent what the labor's main grievance is, their manipulation in what is, and has been from the outset, a crudely contrived bid for political supremacy on the part of their leaders.

Grow Own Food Call

Watertown Times

The House of Representatives has joined with the Senate in approving a resolution urging all Americans to plant vegetable gardens this summer to help fight high food prices.

This gardening appeal will recall for many of us, middle-aged and beyond, the Victory Gardens of World War II, a government plea to plant home gardens as a way to help.

Those who hitherto talked in terms of petunias and marigolds became concerned with planting everything from onions and beets through tomatoes and potatoes.

Vacant lots and back yards were dug up. Even apartment dwellers, with no land of their own, planted gardens in plot gardens on property in outlying sections adjacent to cities as village allotments.

There were over 2,000 Victory Gardens in Watertown alone. That number soared to nearly 4,000 in 1943.

Victory gardens continued even after the war, except that they were known as Peace Gardens. Specials were made to those who were not farmers to produce all the food possible.

Now, in 1972, the joint House-Senate resolution urges a new American family, where practical, "to plant a vegetable garden for the purposes of fighting inflation, saving money, getting exercise, and having the fun and pleasure of family vegetable growing."

Zoologist Calls for Ban on Bounties

By IAN ROBERTSON
Staff Reporter

If Ontario is going to properly regulate control of wolves in the province, says Dr. Douglas Pimlott, noted zoologist and Canadian wolf expert from the University of Toronto, the province will have to pass a new bill officially removing the wolf bounty act.

Earlier this year, the province did not include funds for wolf bounties in its annual budget. Several counties announced they would continue paying on their own.

Dr. Pimlott told delegates to the two-day annual Ontario Humane Society conference held at the Four Seasons Hotel here, the original announcement "tended to lull us into a sense of apathy, but the bill should be repealed.

"The wolf bounty is a separate act. There are strong pressures not to repeal the act. This is one of the times strong pressures for the introduction of a bill should be started." he urged the more than 60 voting delegates and approximately 50 society members present.

He also claims that the $75,000 Ontario spent on wolf bounties last year, was so much "money down the drain."

Through extensive studies, especially in Algonquin Park, the University of Toronto lecturing professor says he and other researchers found the timber wolf would not procreate beyond a certain number of wolves in a given area. When department of lands and forests rangers were killing wolves in large numbers in the park, the wolves simply added to their numbers accordingly.

When the killing was stopped, at the request of researchers, the size of the packs remained constant, but the number of pups born each year dropped.

One of the originators of the first Algonquin Park wolf howls in 1963, he claims controls of individual animals causing problems would be a better solution than retention of wolf bounties. However, this brings about another problem, he says.

The provincial government does not sanction use of poison to destroy wolves, as other provinces across the country have done in past years, and he urged the society to lobby against establishment of any such "backlash programs."

Dr. Pimlott says while the timber wolf, found in more northern regions has built-in genetic controls, in no way has been found of effectively controlling brush wolves, or coyotes as they are more commonly known.

"Coyotes adapt to people, and even in the U.S., intensified poisoning proved ineffective," he told conference delegates.

If claims they is more wolf in Canadian coyotes than their American counterparts, but numbers haven't reached proportions north of the border, that they have in the States.

Brush wolves, or coyotes, notes the zoologist, are not as strongly pack oriented as the 60-85-pound timber wolf. Because of this, they can "do a more effective job" living off rabbits and smaller game.

The timber wolf will hunt in packs, pulling down caribou, deer, or other large animals in the winter, and to a great extent, on beaver in the summer.

As to the wolf and man coexistence, Dr. Pimlott says he never fails to be surprised at what he terms "the irrational response" to these animals. Drawing a little from history, he told direct competition existed between man and wolf from prehistoric times. In 15th and 16th century Britain, entire forests were put to the torch in an effort to destroy the packs.

"Real fears built up when man entered the urban areas. Man lived in his town house, and listened to this wild beast howling in the dark forest."

Several incidents of wolves being run down by snowmobilers, led to heavy provincewide pressures that resulted in amendments to the snowmobile act. It is now illegal to run down wolves, deer or bear from the back of one of these machines.

"The really important things for wolf control have been taken care of."

He urged organization members to contact government officials, calling for the new bill. "The government needs this kind of pressure because they are getting enough the other way," he stated.

Returned as secretary was Mrs. Alice Black of Toronto, and returned as treasurer was Lou Nason, also of Toronto.

This was the first time in the history of the Quinte branch that they have played host to the annual convention, which is usually held in Southern Ontario. Location of next year's conference has not been announced.

A Lot of Time on Telephone

TORONTO (CP) — In her low-rental senior citizen's apartment on the fringe of downtown Toronto, Pat Barrett spends a lot of time on the telephone.

A 79-year-old widow, she acts as a trouble-shooter for Donald Macdonald, minister of energy, mines and resources, in his Toronto-Rosedale constituency, helping residents grapple with their problems.

On Saturdays and Wednesday evenings Mrs. Barrett can be found at a service centre opened by Mr. Macdonald in the Cabbagetown district. At other times, her telephone rings.

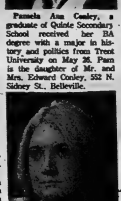
She jokes about taking revenge on a priest and a Salvation Army officer who keep referring their problems to her. But she obviously enjoys her job.

"The men who are elected can't do everything," she says. "They are very busy men. People like myself can look after many of the problems ourselves."

Mrs. Barrett became familiar with the workings of government agencies when she spent 25 years convincing the pension authorities that her late husband's physical and mental disabilities were caused by war service.

Meanwhile, she worked in stores and a factory and ran bingo games to support her seven daughters.

Since her husband's death 14 years ago, she has become involved in social work through church and community associations.



"I'm just plain interested in other people and their problems," she says. "I love this work."

She would like to see a central trouble-shooting office in the city, set up by all three levels of government. But she does not blame governments for everything.

"You've got to be modern. I'm modern. Like, I wear pantsuits."

Pamela Ann Conley, a graduate of Quinte Secondary School received her BA degree with a major in history and politics from Trent University on May 26. Pam is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Conley, 352 N. Sidney St., Belleville.

Janice Gillespie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Gillespie received her honors BA degree in history at convocation exercises held May 25 at McMaster University, Hamilton.

University Women's Club Hears Interesting Speaker

Belleville and District University Women's Club annual meeting took the form of a potluck dinner — held in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church May 18.

Mrs. Ruth M. Bell, the guest speaker, was introduced by Mrs. Donna Jefferson.

Mrs. Bell is chairman of the Committee on International Relations which is the liaison between the national (CFUW) and the International (IFUW) University Women's Clubs.

IFUW is a non-governmental organization with representation at the UN both in New York and Geneva.

Mrs. Bell noted that IFUW has a membership of 222,000 members in 56 countries.

Its purpose is to promote fellowship and personal understanding on the individual level.

She outlined the structure of IFUW and particularly that of the committee on International Relations (CIR) which has a president, 4 vice-presidents, a treasurer, and various committees.

The committees undertake studies aimed at improving the status of women — such done in Canada was on the Brain Drain — another was Special Problems in Africa to better the lot of native African women academically.

Mrs. Bell outlined what IFUW can do for Canadian Women:

—publishes articles to keep the membership up to date on current world affairs and the undertakings of the various affiliates;

— promotes fellowship among members travelling in foreign countries;

— broadens the outlook of its members;

—further the status of women in many walks of life;

—provides relief on an international basis, (Canada supports over 30 women and refugee students in Hong Kong).

For later programs, Mrs. Bell had many worthwhile suggestions;

—do a study of resolutions;

—do a study on pollution;

—pairing of the club with a sister club in any South American;

—form a CFUW—IFUW study group;

—consider possible seminars both Canadian and non-Canadian for IFWW executive;

—consider next year's theme The Meaning and Measurement of Human Progress;

—consider attending national and international meetings in one thing the club could do for IFWW.

Not only was Mrs. Bell a charming and witty speaker, she shared many of her personal experiences of both staying the hospitality of members in such places as Finland, Austria, and Japan and of providing hospitality for some interesting foreign guests in her own home in Ottawa.

After Miss Muriel Gibson, the outgoing president had turned the chair over to the incoming president Mrs. Betty McFarlane and the new business was attended to Mrs. Bell shared with the group her slides of a recent visit to the Inca country in Peru.

Mrs. Pugh thanked the speaker and presented her with a small token of appreciation on behalf of the Club.

Folder on Job Upgrading

TORONTO (CP) — Information about jobs, courses, baby sitters and the people who can help to get them has been compiled in a folder for the use of low-income women, especially immigrants, with little schooling.

Called 14 Ways to Train For a Better Job, the folder has been put out by the women's bureau of the Ontario department of labor.

Career counsellor Maria Wacyk says it is "geared to new Canadian women and women with low academic backgrounds who really can't afford to take a long training."

"There are many of them who work in low-paying jobs. They're exploited, they're the last hired and the first fired.

"We hope the information in the folder might provide a little bit of incentive for them to take training to upgrade their skills."

The folder compiles information most often asked for. It describes courses such as restricted nursing assistant, visiting homemaker, nursery aide, furniture and fur and food industry jobs and beauty careers.

It indicates how long a training course would take, where it is available, how much pay the jobs offer and who can help candidates get the training. It tells readers how to find out about day care in their area.

Miss Wacyk says about 4,000 folders already have been distributed through ethnic organizations and publications, through school boards and women's groups.

Trendy Ideas For Fall Styles Shown

NEW YORK (AP) — "We are doing this entire line without the wrap jacket," was the word at the Anne Klein fall fashion showing Thursday.

However, Miss Klein, who went a long way toward bringing the sportswear look superstar status, showed most of the trendy ideas for this fall—as well as salable ones for last year.

From last year, she shows:

—The blazer: in dark velvet over plaid skirts.

—The gaucho-pants: in leather with matching jackets.

—The battle jacket: with tied waist, in suede.

—Slacks with waist lines at the hip: in heather herringbone and leather.

—The layered look: shirts, sweater vest, scarf, jacket. The love wool skirt and shirt look.

Ideas which are strong for fall 1972 are:

—The wrap coat: in grey wool or bright red.

—The monotone theme: important in this collection, in red-brown pants outfits, and done best for evening in whites. The whites included white leather pants, sweater and fluffy coat, or white sweater dresses and cardigans.

—Plaids: skirts and larger blanket plaid coats.

—Raglan-sleeved jackets.

—The topper: smooth-looking in caramel wool, with flap pockets.

—Dolman sleeved dress, in white ribbed wool.

Miss Klein also does a skirt with low V-shaped waist in suede, paired with matte jersey hooded tops.

Woman May Be Candidate For Lt. Gov.

OTTAWA (CP) — New Democrat MP Andy Mather says women should not be ruled out as candidates for lieutenant-governor or even for Governor-General.

"The Queen is a good example of not underestimating the power and ability of a woman," the member for Surrey-White Rock said following a meeting of the Commons miscellaneous estimates committee Tuesday.

Inside the committee he had asked D. C. McKinnon, controller of Government House, whether consideration has been given to having women serve as lieutenant-governors.

Mr. Mather said "there are many Canadian women who could do an excellent job as lieutenant-governor, or for that matter as Governor-General."

Ann Landers

Strange Little Habits Harmless

Dear Ann Landers: I have been married less than three months and I must know if my husband is crazy or if I am the one.

When he goes to bed at night he always lines up his shoes so the heels are together and toes point out to form a V. When he takes his leather belt through the loops on his trousers, he always finishes one loop, then one over his left kidney. Before he tosses his socks in the hamper he ties them together. I've also had a dozen times sent to be insulted he does it "unconsciously."

I'm beginning to think something is mentally wrong with him. Can you explain these strange little habits? No amount of "reasoning"—such as, "you skipped one of the belt loops, dear," makes any difference. Thanks for any help, Ann.—Spoiled In Spokane

Dear Spook: He is not trying to annoy you. These are simply little harmless neurotic compulsions that have probably been with him for years. Be thankful his compulsions are harmless. Less fortunate women are married to compulsive drinkers, gamblers and skirt chasers.

Dear Ann Landers: Yesterday I attended a tea. I loaded my plate with creamed chicken, shoestring potatoes and a piece of pecan pie. Later when I returned to the sweet table for a piece of lemon meringue tart, I caught a blistering glance from an overweight lady who was nibbling on a soda cracker. If looks could kill I'd have died right there.

What so many fat people don't understand is that they are both for all than skinny people. I bet the every day of my life to put on a few ounces. What a disappointment to step on the scale after stuffing myself all week and discover I've lost half a pound!

I will ground feeling overfed painfully aware of my bony neck, angular arms and flat behind. How I envy the voluptuous, curvy women with round hips and provocative figures. They look healthy, fulfilled, well fed and well loved. Sign me—Skin And Bones

Dear Bones: Thanks for writing. I feel better already.

Dear Ann Landers: It's plain that you haven't worked with the public quite a while. Your reply to "Utica Grige" made that clear, You said, "A competent employee is interested in moving merchandise. He is not interested in staying with a customer who is buying, or even looking."

Let me fill you in on a few facts. I am a waitress in a restaurant in a large department store. I work anywhere from five to 11 hours a day and I attend school, too. Waitresses are the lowest paid workers there are. I can tell you from experience that nothing is more unnerving after standing on your feet for ten hours than to have some jerk come in at closing time and ask, "Are you still serving?" It's the dirtiest trick in the book.

Stop shaking your head, Ann. The rocks are falling out.—Griped In Scranton

Dear Griped: Better rocks than nothing—which seems to be your problem. Waitresses work hard—very hard—and the hours are often grueling. But if I had no special skills and couldn't make as much money as possible, I'd be a waitress. Granted, the salary isn't great, but an energetic waitress who is competent, cheerful, and gives first-class service when people come in at closing time, will clean up in tips. And THAT'S the name of the game, Honey.

After A Few Bouts You Keep Your Cool

By DORIS CLARK

One marriage counsellor suggests that every young couple set aside 20 minutes every day for fighting. He is not talking about the physical kind of a fight, but rather those tongue lashings which get things off one's chest.

The interesting part about this kind of talk is that gradually each learns to listen to the other, to take expressions of feeling coolly and to make the necessary corrections.

After a while, the hurt is left out of these sessions. They become discussions, frank discussions in which each respects the ideas of the other and wants to make it right, whatever it is.

This shows maturity. In quarelling all you are interested in is winning. In discussion you are interested in the other person's point of view, and thus you come to work things out and to understand each other.

Dear Doris: Is a widow being remarried entitled to be called a bride?

How much different and in what regard is the wedding of a widow and a widower from a first wedding? Soon To Re.

Dear Soon To Be: According to the dictionaries, a bride is a woman about to be married, or just married. No reference to her previous marital status — or whether she is a widow.

The second wedding is not as elaborate, not as many guests, just one attendant apiece.

But you can certainly have your friends at both ceremony and reception. For answers to your other questions, send 20 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope and ask for my leaflet "The Second Wedding".

Dear Doris: Is it true that if a woman leaves her husband and takes the children with her, she can't get any help for their support?

I moved us all in with my father and sister and in exchange for keeping house for us all I get a roof over our heads. But I need money to pay for things like clothes, medicine, bus fares for school. — All Patches.

Dear All Patches: If you moved out for good and sufficient reason—infidelity, cruelty, failure to support — you can get a judgment against your husband through the courts. They are his children too.

Your family agency and legal aid resources will guide you in going about this property.

QMSA Members Attend 13th Annual Convention Of Ontario Association

Twelve medical secretaries of the QMSA branch attended the 13th annual convention of the Ontario Medical Secretaries Association at the Skyline Hotel, held recently in Toronto.

Following greetings from the Association president, members began the first morning session with an OHIP-QMSA workshop.

First speaker at the meeting was Dr. N. F. Geregly, Victoria Hospital, London, whose topic was "Heart surgery — from dreams to reality and further dreams". Dr. Geregly noted that this was known of heart disease until this century, and soon more precise methods of diagnosing heart disorders will become available. In the last 30 years, the study of implantation of vital organs in animals taught many new aspects in medicine. Man factors have yet to be resolved before implantation can be done. The public shows little awareness of organ - donor recipients problems. He explained that out of 171 cardiac implantations, 27 have survived more than one year.

Dr. R. Hasselbeck, Princess Margaret Hospital, Toronto spoke on "A philosophy of cancer management" and advised the gathering that most para medical personnel are ill informed on the cancer management of patients. Most cancer cases are related to genetic background of the patient foot hereditary. Statistics show that one of every 17 women will develop breast cancer. The objectives of cancer treatment are prevention, cure, control the disease and to prolong survival. In relating to the various types of cancer Dr. Hasselbeck noted that cancer of the cervix was found in patients from 20 to 25 years for which pap smear testing is strongly recommended. Lung cancer (primarily from cigarette smoking) kills 20-30,000 people each year. Other methods of cure, control, symptoms and investigations were discussed.

The next morning to start the day's activities, a colored film entitled "It is" by the Windsor Police Department (film commentary by Sammy Davis Jr.) explained the drug scene of today and dealt with the alcoholism problems. The film showed the problems encountered by the users of LSD, hashish and other drugs — an alarming but realistic situation.

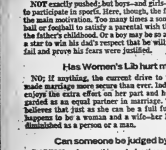
Dr. Ann Keyl, Wolsen's College Hospital, Toronto spoke on a similar topic. "Current problems of young people" and dealt with the drug relief and the seemingly uninterested adults when trying to "communicate" with these young people of today.

Next to speak was Dr. W. R. Ghent of Kingston whose topic was "Paper Work Practice". He dealt with the broad field of Emergency Medical Services and the problems of EMS which he considered a community responsibility. Dr. Ghent suggested that each and every Canadian should receive first aid training to fill the gap between emergency treatment and the arrival of trained help. EMS involves the emergency room physician who has specialized in five - support disciplines. Emergency department nursing personnel on - the - job - training is not sufficient and it is evident there is an ever-increasing need for sure medical personnel.

Dr. A. T. Wachna, Windsor, spoke on the "Psychology of Women" and explained that the picture of psychology in women is constantly changing. The speaker felt that men deal with facts whereas women deal with values.

Prior to the luncheon which was provided by the Ontario Health Insurance Commission, greetings were given by S. W. Martin. Presentation of the coveted PSI shield was made by Dr. W. B. Silver and was won this year by the Leeds-Grenville-Medical Secretaries Association (QMSA took this honor last year).

Dr. Tom Cote, Brockville, is the final speaker spoke on "Keys the gift of sight ailment" which through colored slides showed various problems of the eyes and the problems encountered in every day living.



The regular monthly meeting of the local association was held at Education Hall with Diana Maxwell presiding. Plans to attend the annual June dinner in Kingston at the Pine Ledge Inn were discussed; also plans for the forthcoming potluck dinner were completed. As there was no guest speaker at this time, members dispersed to the local bowling alley for a night of recreation.

There are no meetings in July or August, but a dinner meeting will be held in Trenton, September 13.

Should boys be pushed into sports?

NOT exactly pushed; but boys—and girls—should be encouraged to participate in sports. Here, though, the fun of sports should be the main motivation. Too many times a son is urged to play baseball or football to satisfy a parental wish that went unfulfilled in the father's youth. Or a boy may be so ambitious to perform like a star to win his dad's respect that he will not play at all lest he fail and prove his fears were justified.

Has Women's Lib hurt marriage?

NO: If anything, the current drive to "liberate" women has made marriage more secure than ever. Indeed, the "new woman" enjoys the extra effort on her part and her husband's to be regarded as an equal partner in marriage. The modern wife also believes that just as she can be a full functioning person—what happens to be a woman and a wife—her husband need not feel diminished as a person or a man.

Can someone be judged by his looks?

RARELY and even then only by those who are professionally trained and experienced. Even if someone looks exactly like the "brat who ate the canary," he can fool an observer. Many people who pride themselves on being able to judge others can be fooled by an individual's demeanor. If that person has an extremely convincing nature, for instance, he may think others will take advantages of him, so he appears to be cool and aloof.

The Experts Say

Plaque Chief Culprit In Dental Disease

By ANN LAUGHLIN

MONTREAL (CP) — Five minutes a day with the proper technique can take about 80 per cent of the bite out of tooth decay and dental fills, says Dr. Mervyn Gornitsky, head of the Jewish General Hospital's department of dentistry.

Chief culprit in dental disease, "one of the most rampant diseases going," is plaque—bacteria colonies lurking in tooth spaces —which form decay-causing acid when they react with food—he said in an interview in the hospital's new preventive dentistry clinic where patients are taught how to use toothbrushes and dental floss properly.

"Plaque forms every 24 hours and if it is removed once every 24 hours you've got pretty dental problems licked," Dr. Gornitsky said.

Three-fifths of your teeth is the only way to get rid of plaque between the teeth, in area that toothbrushes do not reach and brushers neglect.

"A tooth brush will take care of surfaces and the important spaces between gums and teeth," Dr. Gornitsky said, "but even brushing 360 times a day won't do the job that one five- or 10-minute daily session with dental floss will."

Any toothbrush should be small and soft with two rows of bristles in the middle and replaced after three months wear and tear.

"People buy big brushes so they won't have to work so hard but they simply can't get at places like the back of the mouth where there's a job to be done," Dr. Gornitsky said.

Toothpastes containing fluoride are beneficial as the fluoride enters the surface of the teeth and makes them resistent to decay but mouthwashs are "useless" in controlling bacteria.

"If you get rid of what is really decaying garbage in your mouth you wouldn't need mouthwashes to feel kissing sweet," Dr. Gornitsky said.

While some people may have a greater inherent susceptibility to disease such as tooth decay, there is no such thing as soft teeth.

"Decay is external to the tooth once it is formed, caused by the environment in the mouth," he adds.

Diet plays an important role in that environment as sticky sweets prompt decay, especially in children.

Cigarette tar stains teeth laying the groundwork for further bacterial deposits and plays a role in mouth cancer while the smoker burns mouth tissues.

Educating the public as to "what is going on in their mouths and what they can do about it" is the aim of the preventive clinic, part of an over-all department providing complete remedial facilities for all phases of dentistry.

"We're working with all age groups, trying to get children off on a proper program and re-educating adults to avoid entirely preventible problems with teeth, gums and supporting structures," Dr. Gornitsky said.

Lunn Ends Drought

ATLANTA (AP) — "I can't remember hitting the ball any better," said an almost-dazed Bob Lunn Sunday after he ended a four-long victory drought on the pro golf tour with a two-shot victory in the $130,000 Atlanta Golf Classic.

"I think everyone went through these things," Lunn said of the lengthy slump that had seen him win only $2,367 on this year's tour before grabbing the $26,000 first prize here.

Lunn's downfall coincided with a weight loss that saw him plunge from a hefty 200 to only 168 pounds before he started eating again.

Lunn started the final round at the hilly, 6,883-yard, par-72 Atlanta Country Club course tied for first with South African Gary Player. The big Californian took a two shot lead on the 563-yard second hole when he knocked in a 30-foot eagle putt.

Jack Nicklaus, who matched Lunn went to the finishing hole with a two-shot edge and watched from the fairway as Player knocked in a 12-foot birdie putt. Lunn then placed his third shot only six feet from the pin and made it for a birdie and a final round 69, leaving him at 275 13-under, for the tournament which he also won in 1966.

Player closed with a 12 and 217 while Lou Graham was in third place alone at 278 after a closing 79.

Two Tie For Top

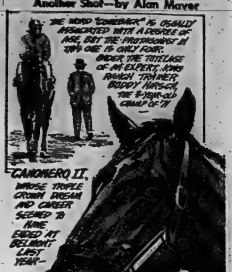
LONDON (CP) — England and Scotland battled to a 1-1 draw in the British soccer championship on the wreck of Hadrian's 140 victory over the Scots in Glasgow Saturday.



Northern Ireland finished third and Wales last in the four-nation championship which included Saturday night with a 0-0 draw between the defenders of Wrexham, Wales.

The Scots, having beaten Northern Ireland and Wales, needed only a draw with England to take the championship, but England got back into the game and won on a goal by Alan Ball in the 20th min.

Each team met the others once. England's victory and Northern Ireland's win over Scotland's was in England.

England and Scotland had four points from three games at the finish. Northern Ireland had three and Wales one.

Planes Return Favor

Lazza put the boots to Plane's Concrete in a week-end South Hastings Baseball League game — five hoots to be exact.

The five Lazza minuses cancelled a three-hit performance by Dennis Richardson and Bob Smith also bore leaving them on the short end of a 6-5 score.

Ken Abrams picked up the win for Plane's, tanging eight and walking two. Abrams, Howard Meeks and Brian Coughlin each had a single for last year's league champion.

Smith and Richardson hurled third strikes past seven Cementmen and issued the same number of free passes. Doug Geen and Smith each hit two singles to pace Lazza's seven-hit attack.

Sunday it was Plane's turn to hand the game away and return the favor to Lazza.

Oaths eight to five, Lazza capitalized on four Plane's errors to gain an identical 6-5 victory.

Bob Smith again saw mound duty for the winners but with different results. He fanned nine and walked three in going the route. George Salmon punched a double and two singles for Lazza with Dennis Wilson and Terry Ray adding singles.

Bob Craig and Brian Coughlan were touched for the loss. The pair struck out eight and walked three. Howard Meeks had a double, with Ken Abrams and Bob Neilson adding two singles apiece.

Scanlan Plan Leaks Out

by

Maurice Switzer

Sports Editor

With a 46-inch wristlac, Jack Scanlan doesn't seem like a likely candidate for Belleville's first penthathlon championship.

But it wouldn't be javelins the local Legionnaire would be hurling, it would be darts or horseshoes. And instead of skipping along Pinnacle Street in a 180-metre asphalt sprint, the plump plumber would be slipping in bowers wherever his euchre partner needed them.

Scanlan's suggestion, which leaked out after a lacklustre night at the pari-mutuels, was intended to appeal to members of Legion Branch 99, but there is no reason why ANY interested individuals shouldn't be eligible.

* * *

The Scanlan Pentathlon would involve five such reasonably sedate competitions as shuffleboard, darts, euchre, cribbage, or billiards which are all being played now at both downtown veterans' clubs —the Legion and Duke of Edinburgh Army - Navy Unit,—on an individual basis.

Such an overall competition, in which a participant would accumulate points for his performance in each of the events, would not restrict those incapable of more physically-taxing pastimes.

There have been few recorded cases of coronaries over a cryptonyx crib, and the occasional bruised thumb is the only body contact involved in shuffleboard.

Granted, special accommodations might still be necessary for extremely handicapped participants. For instance, Frank Donovan, one of the cutest exponents of the cue around, would have to be provided with a stool for the billiards competition.

And there would still have to be rigid rules established to avoid tarnishing the city's first-ever determination of an all-round leisure activity champion. For example, should Fred Parry's dart follow through be restricted to four feet?

But these are all minor details that could be worked out later.

In fact, there is no reason to limit the number of events to five, except that pentathlon is easier to pronounce than septathlon, or octathlon.

It could be a decathlon, but, as many wives would hasten to point out, there are only seven nights in one week.

Comrade Scanlan suggested that something as strenuous as golf might even be included for the more hardy competitors.

That sounded okay, until it somehow entered the conversation that Comrade Jack is currently carrying a handicap of 6!.

Which, if you're a stranger to the game, means you could literally excavate a fairway and still beat Lee Trevino on the scorecard.

Anyone for checkers?

"I tried to hit a homer for you Eddie. Can I help it if it was a foul tip !"

One Step Ahead

Although one of their players had a step advantage on a Mississauga defender here, the Oshawa Green Gaels were leaps and bounds beyond their opposition in a Saturday night Memorial Arena exhibition staged by the Ontario Lacrosse Association Junior A rivals. Oshawa, winners of seven consecutive national titles from 1963-69, trounced Mississauga 23-12.

Rovers Survive Fickle Wind

Despite suffering from the "winds of change", Lino's Rovers managed to open their Kingston and District Soccer schedule on a winning note by taking a 2-1 decision from Portugese in a Saturday game at Zyrick's Island.

The visitors won the coin toss, giving them the advantage of the wind for the opening half. Despite the handicap Lino's managed to outscore the visitors 2-1 in the opening period.

Ernie Brown scored the Rovers' first goal after Kingston had pulled ahead 1-0 at the ten-minute mark. Brown was awarded two penalty kicks, converting one of them to tie the game at 1-1. Joe Iasenza provided the winner shortly before half time.

The breeze shifted to a cross wind in the second half, depriving the Rovers of an advantage that they normally would have enjoyed. This, coupled with two injuries to the Belleville team, allowed Portugese to enjoy a late edge in play. They failed, however to get the tying goal.

Gaels Crippled, but Capable

By MAURICE SWITZER
Sports Editor

There was more than met the eye to Saturday night's exhibition Junior A lacrosse game at the Memorial Arena.

Those who paid to watch Oshawa's Green Gaels trim Mississauga PCO's 23 - 12 might have expected the result. After all, the Green Gaels are somewhat of a Canadian lacrosse legend.

In the process of spawning such stars as Gaylord Powless, the team won seven straight Minto Cups, emblematic of Canadian Junior lacrosse supremacy from 1963 to 1969, and during one span went more than 40 games without suffering a loss.

But it was a crippled dynasty that was making Saturday night's exhibition win look so simple.

"We have a few injury problems," understated assistant coach Al Austin. "Our first and second string goalies are out, That kid (Don Flintoft) who's playing tonight is a midget."

Included on the injury list are the team captain and the team's two top scorers. One of them, John Reid, had scored 195 goals in two years of Junior B action before moving up to the Gaels this season.

In spite of their problems, the Gaels are holding down third place in the eight-team Ontario Lacrosse Association Junior A League behind Peterborough and Rexdale, and ahead of sixth-place Mississauga whom they played here to boost their sport in general, and the Frankford Minor Lacrosse Association in particular.

"Give us a few weeks to mend our aches and pains and we'll be up there," Austin optimized about his team's 4-4 record with 20 games remaining in their schedule.

Last year, Austin feels, an easy first-place finish hurt the Gaels, who lost out to Peterborough after a first-round playoff bye that gave them a 10-day layoff. Peterborough lost their Minto Cup bid in four straight games.

A pewter coach in the Oshawa system last year, Austin has strong opinions about how much junior powerhouses as the Gaels take form.

"You've got to really concentrate on developing your own local group before you worry about playing other centres," Austin explained. "Travelling can be a problem in places like Belleville. Your nearest opposition could be 50 miles away.

"In the Toronto area, they've got it really soft. There might be seven or eight junior teams within 10 miles of each other."

But Austin hastened to add that lengthy road trips don't have to be the factor that decides whether or not junior lacrosse will catch on in any given area.

"Huntsville is in our league and we have to go over 100 miles to play them."

Fish Tale True

By IAN ROBERTSON
Staff Reporter

Tall fish tales are as common as fishermen during fishing season, but for Peter Lilla, 8, of 12 Smith Crescent, his tall story will go on record.

Ken Parkinson and his wife Wilma, of 14 Smith Crescent, took their children, including neighbor Peter on a fishing trip to Moira Lake Sunday.

While Ken was baiting rods for everyone else, Peter had already used up one worm at O'Brien's Bridge, near Madoc.

"My line felt like it was caught on the bottom," the pint-size fisherman said. "He took out my line."

Noticing the boy's problem Ken helped him reel Mike, the Pike, a 40-inch grand-daddy in to shore. Two passing farmers helped them land the giant fish in a net they carry.

Indy Winner Only Smiler

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Mark Donohue wore the mantle of victory with a smile Sunday night, but there was an undercurrent of confusion and frustration at the Indianapolis 500-mile race victory dinner.

Donohue, a moon-faced 35-year-old Pennsylvanian, played it cool Saturday to win the 50th edition of the lucky classic, and he was cool and calm again Sunday night.

The victory in North America's most important auto race got $213,707.80 into the Penske

Foyt Burned

DUQUOIN, Ill. (AP) — Race driver A. J. Foyt was listed in good condition in hospital where he remained overnight Sunday with burns suffered during a pit stop in a 100-mile United States Auto Club event earlier in the day.

Officials at the DuQuoin State Fairgrounds said Foyt, a three-time winner of the Indianapolis 500, was leading the event by 25 seconds when he pulled into the pit to refuel on the 88th lap.

Foyt apparently left the pit area too quickly, authorities said, jerking the fuel hose from his Ford-powered racer and spilling the fuel on his back and into the car's cockpit.

The fuel then ignited, causing Foyt to leap from the car, his clothes ablaze. While attendants extinguished the fire, the car went six eighth of a mile down the track.

Auto Parts

MONTREAL (CP) — Ottawa's Brian Robertson drove his Opert Chevron to victory in the first leg of the Players' Challenge Series for Formula B racing cars Sunday in blistering heat.

Second-place finisher in last year's series, Robertson's average speed of 84.9 miles an hour gave him 20 points towards this year's title and $500 for the win.

WINS STOCK CAR RACE

WINS AUTO RALLY

SMITHS FALLS, Ont. (CP) — The Silver Lake auto rally, one of 23 events that determine the Canadian national championship, was won Sunday by Ouy and Gilles Vanier of Montreal, driving a Datsun 1600 SSS. They accumulated a total 881 penalty points, one for each second lost during the overnight rally organized by the Outaouais Valley Autosport Club.

racing title. That payoff came from a record Indianapolis Motor Speedway purse of $1,811,845.94, the third straight $1 million payoff at Indy.

Only five of the 33 starters completed the 200 laps Saturday and Donohue, winning in his Penske - McLaren-Offenhauser car in three hours three minutes 51.55 seconds. His average speed of 152.882 miles an hour broke Al Unser's 1971 record of 157.735 m.p.h. Donohue also had the top lap—the 150th at 167.539 m.p.h.

The tenor of the victory dinner was reflected in remarks by Unser, elevated to second place from third as Jerry Grant was dropped from second to 12th by Speedway officials after a protest by Unser's chief mechanic, George Bignotti.

Bignotti complained that Grant took on fuel from the tank of his team-mate, Bobby Unser, in a voluntary pit stop on the 197th lap. Each car is allowed a specific amount of fuel and may not share the car's supply.

Unser said: "It's kind of bad to take somebody's place. I don't feel like we belong up here." Grant and Jerry Grant should have been up here talking to you."

Grant's car owner, Dan Gurney, who saw his top driver, Bobby Unser, go out of the race with a mechanical failure after leading the first 31 laps, has three days to file an appeal of the track's decision with the United States Auto Club.

Gurney, a former driver at Indy, said after the dinner: "The only thing I want to do is clear up the misunderstanding. There is an implication we came in on the pit stop needing fuel, and that is not true."

Gurney said he was not sure, yet, if his Dan Gurney All-America Racers, Inc., would file an appeal with USAC.

Grant, 37, from Seattle, Wash., said: "Daniel feels the penalty was unjust because the officials thought I needed gas. I didn't need any fuel, only new tires."

He said: "We're not going to say the load here save only a $72,000 penalty. We came to race this year and we'll be back again."

Other top money winners included third-place finisher Joe Leonard with $58,797.89 and 14th place finisher Gary Bettenhausen, Donohue's team-mate, who led the race for 129 laps before developing mechanical problems. Bettenhausen won $47,213.88.

Of the total purse, the Speedway paid $231,000, the Indianapolis Chamber of Commerce Citizens Speedway Committee paid $40,000 and the remaining $140,845.94 came from commercial accessory prizes.

The crowd at Saturday's race was estimated at 275,000. The Speedway never releases official crowd totals.

Mike Mosley edgd Sam Posey in a tight vote for rookie of the year. Him, from Tustin, Calif., finished seventh in the race after starting in 30th place. Posey was the top rookie finisher, winding up fifth.

Blue Looks Sharp in One-Hit Start

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Vida Blue had a pretty good start Sunday, but George Hendrick provided an even better finish.

Blue, Oakland Athletics' celebrated holdout, made his first 1972 start and pitched five scoreless innings against Chicago White Sox, allowing only one hit and fanning five before he left for a pinch hitter.

"I think five innings was just about right," said the 22-year-old southpaw who had an 8-1 pitch limit and used 7 of them.

The American League game was scoreless when Blue departed. The Athletics took a 3-0 lead in the sixth inning but the White Sox scored once in the eighth, twice in the ninth and once in the 10th for a 4-3 loss.

But with two out in the last of the 10th, Mike Hegan singled off Steve Kealey and Hendrick blasted his first major league home run for a 5-4 Oakland triumph.

Elsewhere Sunday, Minnesota Twins whipped Texas Rangers 7-2, Detroit Tigers edged New York Yankees 5-4, Baltimore Orioles trimmed Cleveland Indians 5-1, Boston Red Sox downed Milwaukee Brewers 6-1 after the Brewers fired manager Dave Bristol and California Angels defeated Kansas City Royals 4-3.

Blue, the league's most valuable player and Cy Young Award winner last season, lined up for his first 1972 start, by hurling one inning in relief on May 7 and losing to California, allowing two runs.

It appeared as though he might be in for more of the same Sunday, walking three batters and throwing 43 pitches in the first two innings.

"I was nervous because there were about 45,000 people here to see me pitch," he said. "Dick Williams (the Oakland manager) came out to talk to me in the second inning just to give me a breather.

Blue settled down after that, yielding only a third-inning single to Richie Allen.

Last year he produced a 24-8 record, 1.82-earned-run average and 301 strikeouts. Then came the salary battle with owner Charles O. Finley, with Blue asking first for $115,000 and finally accepting $63,000.

Oakland's triumph kept the Athletics one game ahead of Minnesota in the West and dropped Chicago to third, 1½ games back.

Rookie Paul ata replacing injured Al Kaline, singled and scored in the 10th inning and doubled and scored again in the seventh as the Tigers beat the Yankees behind Chuck Seelbach's strong relief pitching.

Jim Palmer stopped slumping Cleveland's four hits and drilled a two-run double as the Orioles handed the Indians their fifth consecutive setback.

The Brewers, whose 18-21 record is the poorest in the majors, canned Bristol early Sunday and replaced him with Del Crandall, who had been managing their Evansville farm club in the American Association.

Crandall won't take over until the team returns home Tuesday night, so he wasn't around Sunday to see the Brewers, handled by coach Roy McMillan, suffer their third straight defeat when Boston's Carlton Fisk slugged a tie-breaking homer in the seventh inning and added a two-run double in the eighth.

Sore-armed Clyde Wright made his first appearance since May 18 and allowed only four hits in seven innings and walloped a home run as the Angels turned back the Royals.

Sunday's Stars

Batting — Garry Maddox, Giants, ripped six hits including homer and two doubles, as San Francisco split a doubleheader against Atlanta Braves, winning the first game 3-2 and dropping the nightcap 7-6 in 11 innings.

Astros, Cubs Forgot Gloves

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

When Mrs. Doubleday's little boy Abner thought about playing with the bats and balls and bases, he remembered to give all the players a glove.

The glove'll be cause Houston Astros and Chicago Cubs are wondering, is used to catch the ball. It was a job neither team did very well on Sunday.

Houston snatched defeat from the jaws of victory, giving Los Angeles Dodgers a run without benefit of a base hit on two 11th inning errors and losing 6-5. Chicago outdid that, giving Montreal Expos two runs without a hit on a pair of early errors and then allowing the winner to score on another field-ing goof to lose 7-5.

Elsewhere in the National League Sunday, St. Louis Cardinals rapped New York Mets 8-3, Pittsburgh Pirates nipped Philadelphia Phillies 6-5, San Diego Padres trimmed Cincinnati Reds 5-4 and San Francisco Giants split a doubleheader with Atlanta Braves, winning 3-2 and then losing 7-6 in 11 innings.

The Astros took a 4-3 lead into the ninth inning against the Dodgers with Larry Dierker working on a three-hitter. Duke Sims opened with a double and Bill Buckner followed with a third. That brought on Jim Ray, the Astros' relief ace, and when he walked Willie Davis, it loaded the bases.

Pinch hitter Frank Robinson lofted a sacrifice fly, but when Jesus Alou ran into Cesar Cedeno, he jarred the ball loose and one run scored with the bases remaining loaded. A fielder's choice grounder by Bill Buckner brought the tying run home.

Two innings later, the Dodgers won it. Second baseman Bobby Fenwick threw Reggie Smith's leadoff grounder away for an error. Russell moved up on a sacrifice and after Steve Garvey bounced out, first baseman Lee May kicked Bobby Valentine's grounder, allowing the winning run to score.

Don Kessinger's eighth inning throwing error allowed Montreal to score its winning run against Chicago but the Cubs had set the two way back in the second when a pair of errors by Carmen Fanzone led to two runs for the Expos.

Ken Singleton opened with a walk and with one out, Fanzone kicked Tim Foli's grounder. A sacrifice advanced the runners and then Fanzone failed Ron Hunt's bouncer, allowing Singleton to score and Foli to reach third. The Expos rubbed salt in the wounds, working the double steal with Foli swiping home on the front end.

With the score tied at 4-5 in the eighth, Foli beat out an infield hit and then circled the bases on a fielder's choice and Kessinger's wild throw.

Pittsburgh saw a 4-3 lead evaporate when Philadelphia pushed across two runs in the top of the ninth inning, then bounced them behind with two in their half of the inning to beat the Phillies.

The Pirates had scored the tying run on Jackie Hernandez' throwing error and went ahead in a two-out single by Greg Luzinski.

Not as Quick as Parents...

Bellfox Just Fast Enough to Win

By MAURICE SWITZER
Sports Editor

Ken Weeks appears to have the patience required of owner - drivers on the smaller tracks of Ontario's harness racing circuit.

He knew before his nine-year-old Bellfox won the sixth heat on Saturday's Quinte Exhibition Raceway card "she's not a real fast mare" and he felt exactly the same way afterward.

"But she's getting better with age," the Foxboro driver conceded after Bellfox paced her 2:15.3 win over a field of 1972 non - winners in one of her better-times.

"That's not too good for a father (Avelon Javelen) that went in two-one and a mother (Hildreth Hanover) that did two - five," said Weeks. "Usually you'd expect a two-eight mile out of a foal from those parents."

Nevertheless, Bellfox has been in the money in both her 1972 starts. She placed second in her first outing of the season at the opening Belleville meet a week earlier. In 25 starts in 1971, she was in the money 10 times (3-3-4) and won $833.

Ken Weeks has had enough experience in the sulky to know when he's getting enough mileage out of a horse.

"I started coming around the track here when I was about 13 or 14," he recalls. "I've had a licence since I was 16 and I'm 32 now."

Ken went to work in Keith Waples' stables when he was about 17, then there were the years driving "around the horn" at Bluebonnets, Connaught Park and other big circuit tracks until now Ken and co-owner brother John restrict their activity to Belleville and Kingston tracks.

If there's one thing that DOES get Ken Week's goat a bit, it's the trouble he and brother John have had raising a fast foal of their own.

Right now, their stable consists of Bellfox, who foaled twin colts that died a year ago January, and non-racing sire Nibble Scot and brood mare Dillon Green.

"And we had one colt thrown on us," added Ken, pointing out that the best Weeks' Stable future prospect is two-year-old Nibble's Girl, who is being trained for racing this summer.

The ironic thing is that Nibble's Girl was sired by Nibble Scot. "We had to buy one off our own stud," Weeks sighs.

Meadwhile, faster news was being made on Saturday's nine-heat Belleville card by Captain Craig, who won his second straight Fairgrounds feature, this time in a blistering 2:02.3.

The previous Saturday, Trevor Atkinson's four-year-old bay gelding beat I. N. Wann and Mary Bing to the wire in 2:20.1. This time the Campbell speedster finished in front of Mary Bing and Hugh Wemp's Canal View Way.

Wemp was the only double-winner on the card, reining home Carl Robinson's Willbrook May in the third and Zorro Gratton in 2:11 in the fourth.

Zorro Gratton, Stan Kleinoncnic's four-year-old Truman bay, now has two wins in as many Belleville starts after recording a first and second at Kingston earlier in the month.

In the card-opening maiden's pace, Carman His brought Oshawa three year-old Caper Horn home first in 2:14.4.

Ratio Reviewed

CALGARY (CP) — The Canadian Football League's decision to alter its Canadian-American player ratio will be reviewed at the league's negotiating meetings next month, Gerry Patterson, executive director of the CFL Players' Association, said Saturday.

The league this year will allow each team to carry 17 Canadians and 15 Americans. Last year, they were allowed 18 Canadians and only 14 Americans.

Now Hear This!

Bellfox, a nine - year - old mare driven by Foxboro co-owner Ken Weeks, appears to perk up her ears after her first win of the season is officially declared at Saturday's Quinte Exhibition Raceway harness racing meet. Bellfox now has a second and first in two 1972 starts.

Junior Five-pinners Take Heat Break

Another special award was presented to Peggy Mudd who placed second in the eight-year-old division of the 2100-entry Toronto Star tourney.

Individual trophies were presented, with special attention going to the team of Daryl Asselstine, John Heidstra, Steve Heard, Kathy Dafoe, Debbie Warren and David Hanson who took first place in a special junior league all-star tournament May 13 in Toronto contested by teams from Brunswick Houses in Belleville, London and Toronto.

Mrs. Theresa Clark acted as supervisor-head coach for the Brunswick Junior Bowlers, with assistance from Doris Tripp, Bill Curry, Bill Warren, Art Heard, Madeline James, Marg Rutan, Greta Heard, Anita Warren, and Betty Botting.

Archers Still Bending

Archers bent on qualifying for the Munich Summer Olympic Games, the first time in modern history their sport has been included on the Olympic program, continued to hone their skills in Belleville this weekend.

Former national men's champion Don Jackson of Lindsay shot his seventh 1100-point round (men need four to be eligible to compete in the Canadian Olympic trials in Regina in July) — an 1114, while Ottawa bowman Rick Mallett turned in an 1,113.

Mary Grant of Guelph scored a 1,089 round, giving her the required four of 1050 or more to compete at the July Olympic trials.

Belleville's Carol Armstrong, former twice national woman's champion, couldn't add to her total of three Olympic qualifying rounds, coming up with 1,007 and 1,004 efforts this weekend, but she has six more chances in the next three weeks to get her fourth.

Centennial Secondary School will again be the scene of The special FITA (Federation of International Target Archers) qualifying shoots next Saturday and Sunday and June 17-18. In between, there will be one staged in Toronto.

"Actually, you only need three to attend the Olympic Trials," Carol explained, "but then you'd have to shoot one during the trials themselves and I'd just as soon have the four under my belt before then."

Hitting Pitcher Spoils Lenders' Sunday Bid

There's an old baseball saying that says, "pitchers can't hit" but don't expect John Quinn to believe that.

Quinn lost his bid for a no-hitter, and the game as well, thanks to the opposing pitcher as The Intelligencer edged Belleville Lenders 3-2 in an Industrial Softball league game Sunday.

A seventh-inning single by John Mahoney spoiled Quinn's no-hit bid. The Intell pitcher then came around to score the winning run on a base hit by Brian Amaron. The first two Intell runs had been scored on fielding errors by the Lenders.

Edwards pitched three - hit ball to gain the victory, striking out five batters and giving up two walks. Quinn set down seven men on strikes, walking five and allowed only the two hard-hitting singles. He collected one of his team's three hits with singles credited to Norm Tetlock and Hein Nan Paskes.

CNR split a pair of weekend encounters, losing 5-4 to Brooke Bond Saturday before bouncing back with a 22-5 decision over Canadian Tire the following day.

Mark Sheridan lost a two-hitter in Saturday's game as Bob Chambers checked CNR on seven hits and no walks. Sheridan issued six free passes, while whiffing 12 batters. His Brooke Bond counterpart set three men down on strikes.

Al Colden collected both hits for the winners, driving in two runs as well. Seven different batters singled in the losing CN cause.

The Trainmen really found their batting eyes Sunday, ripping out 17 hits against a trio of Canadian Tire pitchers. Brian Plumbe started and allowed four hits before giving way to Sheridan who mopped up with three hitless frames.

Bob Duvall had a triple and single for the winners with Sheridan and Ron Marshall getting three singles each. Andy Prudden had two base hits for the losers.

Terry Munby hurled two hitless innings to help the Lenders to an 11-6 Saturday victory against the Morch Mariners. Starting pitcher Wayne Casselman allowed only six hits, but was victimized by six errors in a single inning committed by the Lenders. Brian Reid and Don Bart yielded 15 hits on the seven visits and fanning six. Ed Christopher added a double and two singles to Lynch's two four-baggers.

Sonny Holoway allowed only five hits and struck out 11 while on the Mend's mound. Kim O'Connell with two doubles and Jim Sopha, Gary Genereaux and Holoway with a double each were the hitters for Mends.

Belleville Tykes Find Four Heads Better Than Three

Four heads were better than three as far as the Belleville Tyke baseball representatives were concerned as a quartet of pitchers paved the way for a 12-8 victory over a visiting Kingston squad.

Larry Hankin, Dale McTaggart, Mark Crawford and Shawn Mulroney outlasted a trio of Kingston pitchers in combining for the Belleville win. The four fanned eight and walked two. Louis Crawford pounded a double and two singles to lead the winners at the plate.

C. Jordan had a homer and double for the visitors.

It was a long "Hall" for the Kingston peewees on Saturday in their scheduled game with Belleville Conductors and Brakemen at Hall Park in.

The local youngster fired five-hit ball and cracked a double and single in leading the Trainmen to a 6-3 victory. Hall fanned nine and walked only one and received support in the form of seven run batters who were tagged with the loss for the visitors. The pair fanned eight and issued one free pass.

In another weekend contest Plaine's Concrete Tykes unloaded a 25-hit barrage to overpower Orono Jills.

Tom Masterson led the winners with three singles, a double and triple, plus combining with John Card on the mound for the Thurlow victory.

Tony Parks punched two singles and two doubles and B. Sullivan added a single and double for the winners.

D. Hutton and Heston took the loss for Orono.

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

Aries (March 21-April 19): Haste generates confusion; slow down, say just what you do intend. Business practically runs itself. Take the needs of loved one into account.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Expect an interruption in the midst of your work; realize that it isn't anything to blame on the people who have to abandon their hopes.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Bring yourself to a one-thing-at-a-time pace even though it may be inconvenient. Speculation will be troublesome, subject to later repercussions.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): The test today is whether you can see and stay out of a fight. Remember that while you're your calm, you miss something else too.

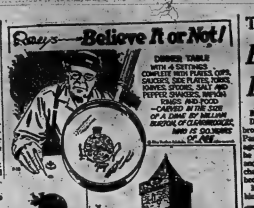
Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): There are only so many loose ends you can catch up at one time—select what you think you can attend properly and concentrate solely on that.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Impulse runs toward changes of relationship, affiliations. Leave your chequebook at home if you aren't sure of your self-discipline.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Just when you think you have reached a balance and have several ventures going, a challenge comes to your abilities.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Intense action pays off in conservative terms. Special opportunity opens amidst scheduled readjustments. Take your share while the taking is good.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Don't talk about money and what you want to do with it. Check out the fine-print.



You want to go ahead, do so without fanfare.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Your firm convictions carry you through this day of vigorous discussion and dissent. Courtesy in all travel is essential.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): There's extra gain for you if you can get an early start.

Associates later disagree with very little provoca...

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Friends bring access to fortune and good times, along with the usual complications which accompany mixing business and friendship.

Bed Sores Can Be Difficult to Cure

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My brother, 64, became ill with Parkinson's disease 12 years ago. For the last several years he has been almost immobile and spends his days in a wheelchair. He has developed bed sores where he sits.

My sister-in-law has taken him to skin specialists, but creams and medications have not helped. She keeps him in bed now most of the time, but even the sore so it can be exposed to the air, but even that has not helped.

By staying in bed as much his muscles are becoming stiffer, but the pain is excruciating when he tries to sit.

We are looking for help in curing the bed sores, not the Parkinson's disease.—Mrs. G. L.

Nurses (and doctors) know that prevention, rather than cure, of bed sores is the "best" answer. I hope this last will be taken to heart by anyone who is starting to care for an immobile. "Bed" sores soon they have started, are not easy to control. Many times they can be treated successfully, but it is neither easy nor quick.

Such sores result from pressure. The skin becomes macerated by perspiration, urine, or feces, and rectal seepage add the irritants.

Invalids often do not eat well, and inadequate protein and vitamins, especially A and C, compound the distress.

Measures that can be used at home (besides suitable diet) include use of a sheepskin pad on the bed. Synthetic pads are also available for this purpose.

When sores are on the buttocks, an inflated rubber ring may help the patient to sit comfortably—and in a case like this one, it is essential that the patient be kept out of bed as much as possible to prevent further stiffening of the legs.

Heat lamps may help keep the sores dry. (They should be infra-red l a m p s; ultra-violet ones may burn).

However, when bed sores reach the condition described in your case, the problem may be too difficult to handle at home. At this stage salves and medicines won't suffice.

Plastic surgery may well be necessary—skin grafts, or a gold leaf technique to help stimulate protective scar tissue.

The patient mentioned above happens to live in a city that has a rehabilitation institute, and those institutions are well equipped for such cases. I would strongly suggest considering moving him to the institute for a time.

Treatment can be given for the most effective nursing procedures taught to prevent recurrence. And, of course, if further treatment can help the Parkinson's disease, that would be investigated, too.

The patient's physician can arrange for admission to the rehabilitation institute.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Regarding your column about young children suffocating inside plastic bags, I'm a bride in the small plastic bag, or a series of knots in a large one, it is impossible to put the head inside. I have two children, and I make sure that there is no other plastic bags that way.—Mrs. S. L.

Sounds good. But still keep the bags out of reach. Kids can untie knots, too.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is there some kind of cosmetic that will cover a birthmark, without having plastic surgery?—F. S.

A special cosmetic, called Covermark, often suggested by physicians. It can be blended to match skin tones. There may be other kinds, but that's the one I'm familiar with.

Opening lead—five of clubs.

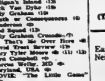
Guessing a two way finesse for a queen is a fairly common challenge, but to get by this challenge, you must also guess a nine finesse in the same suit is a rare occurrence indeed.

Look at this sensational hand played by Bobby Wolff of the Dallas Area in the 1971 world championship match between the United States and France.

East was the low club lead with the ace and returned a spade, taken by West with the ace. West thereupon cashed the king of clubs, bringing the defense to three tricks, and waited with a spade.

The ball was now in Wolff's lap. His one and only problem to bring to avoid a trump loser. Ordinarily, with this best combination, declarer's usual method of play by far would be to cash the king and lead the ten, planning to finesse.

But Wolff, after studying the situation carefully, came to the conclusion that there were extraordinary circumstances. It seemed to him that West was more likely to have the queen than East, judging from his hurry to cash the king of clubs before returning a spade.



Backing his judgment to the hilt, Wolff won the spade with the queen and led the jack of trumps. West covered with the queen, reasoning his aim to take the setting trick later on, but he was doomed to disappointment.

Wolff won in dummy with the king, returned to his hand with a diamond, led the eight of hearts, and successfully finessed when West followed low.

So Wolff made four hearts by brilliantly abandoning the mathematically percentage play and substituting his own fine judgment in their place. Which is exactly how championships are won!

Tomorrow: The rub of the green.

Unite-Quebec Presents Plan For New Union

MONTREAL (CP) — Unite-Quebec, opposition party in the national assembly, came out at a weekend policy convention in favor of a new constitutional Canada.

The new agreement would be based on the recognition that Canada and Quebec are two distinct blocks or nations and that Quebec has a voice equal to that of the rest of Canada.

"With and for Quebec, Unite-Quebec will write a new constitution," party leader Gabriel Loubier said in his closing address to the 2,638 persons, 1,232 of them official delegates, attending the convention.

Mr. Loubier said the resolution on the constitution would apply to negotiations drawing up a new constitutional agreement.

Other resolutions passed at the convention included recommendations that Quebec adopt a presidential system of government and form a labor council made up of representatives of employers' groups, government and labor which would have decisive power over labor relations.

The presidential system, much discussed in recent years, is a new policy for Unite-Quebec. The president would be elected by universal suffrage. Cabinet ministers would not have to be members of the governing party in the national assembly.

CP News Briefs

McGovern, Humphrey Engage in Hard Debate

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sharp exchanges between Senators George McGovern and Hubert H. Humphrey marked their first joint television appearance of the presidential campaign.

Both said they are eager for the two more meetings before the June 4 California primary.

Three issues—Vietnam, defence spending and welfare reform—dominated the hour-long program Sunday night as the two leading Democratic presidential contenders answered questions from three reporters, occasionally interrupting to criticize one another.

Pitman Speaks

TORONTO (CP) — Members attending a conference on the politics of education here Sunday that advisory groups working in co-operation with local school boards, and a provincial committee on top, could provide the basis for reforming education system in Ontario.

Walter Pitman, director of arts and science at Trent University, Peterborough, and former New Democratic Party education critic in the Ontario legislature said the group that has often been interested only with situations within their own sword.

Hit Bathhouse

SOUTHAMPTON, Ont. (CP) — Gutsy crews and some other ratepayers Saturday challenged the town's council and parks board over plans to redevelop the main public beaches in this community on Lake Huron, about 26 miles west of Owen Sound.

More than 250 residents demand that a half-completed $45,000 bathhouse on the beach be demolished and that no further work take place until a referendum is held.

50 Children Die

BOGOTA (Reuter) — At least 50 children have died in outbreaks of gastro-enteritis and smallpox following flooding in rural northern areas of Colombia, the newspaper El Tiempo reports. It quotes correspondents in the area as saying the death toll could rise and medical help from the capital is urgently needed.

On the attack almost immediately, Humphrey assailed McGovern's claim that he was "right from the start" in opposing the Vietnam war, a crisis claim McGovern said he found almost impossible to believe.

The Minnesota senator then spent much of the show criticizing his rival's proposals for a sharp slash in defence spending and for his "simple" solution of pull-out to replace the welfare system.

Humphrey made clear, however, that he would support

Clean up Park

VANCOUVER (CP) — A band of garbage vigilantes, tired of the mess Stanley Park has become since civic workers went on strike a month ago, spent Sunday tidying things up.

The group of 18 young people filled more than 100 plastic garbage bags with abandoned litter ranging from a blonde wig to a car bumper during their garbage patrol. They left the garbage bags taped to either trees or regular-overflowing garbage containers.

Last Picture

ST. JOHNS, Que. (CP) — Yellow-members of his shipyard crew, Jean Goyette was known as a "funny guy who liked a lot."

Moments before he boarded a small plane for his 18th jump Saturday morning, Goyette, 28, and four other sky-divers posed for a picture taken by a fellow club member.

"It was a good one," Goyette told the photographer. "You never know, this could be the last picture taken of me."

Fifteen minutes after the photo was taken he plummeted 4,000 feet to his death when neither of his two parachutes opened.

Interference

TORONTO (CP) — York University President David Slater objected Sunday to what he termed government interference in university affairs.

In an address to the convocation at York's Joseph E. Atkinson College, Mr. Slater cited the $100 increase in tuition fees by the Ontario government as an example of interference. He said the government should "consult with months warning of the move before bringing down its March budget.

McGovern if the South Dakota senator wins the nomination.

When the program, an expanded version of CBS's Face the Nation, was over, both Humphrey and McGovern appeared pleased with the show.

The two senators will appear Tuesday night on a special Meet the Press program in Denver, ABC and next Sunday on the ABC program Issues and Answers.

Three Killed

L'ORIGNAL, Ont. (CP) — Three young Ottawa men were killed instantly late Saturday when a truck and a Colonial Coach Lines Ltd. bus were in collision three miles west of here.

Killed were Dudley Brown, 25; Peter Hernandez, 23; and James Cohen, 22. Because three motorcycles were in the back of their van-type truck, police believe they were returning from a motorcycle rally in the area.

Security Tight

NEW YORK (AP) — Newsweek magazine quotes sources as saying the investigation into the shooting of Gov. George C. Wallace has disclosed evidence that accused assailant Arthur H. Bremer went to Canada for the express purpose of killing President Nixon during his visit there.

Newsweek reported Sunday that sources close to the investigation said: "There was documentary evidence that Bremer had made his trip to Canada with the express purpose of killing Mr. Nixon, but apparently found security too tight."

Help Provided

CHICAGO (AP) — Rudolph Jordan and his family began having second thoughts about moving into their three-year-old ranch home in an all-white neighborhood after a window was smashed and windows in the house last week, splashed paint on the garage and what they attempted to burn down the garage.

But when moving day came this weekend, the Jordans found they had more offers of help than they could use.

Many of the neighborhood's white residents still weren't speaking to the Jordans, but their children came over to play with the two Jordan youngsters.

MPs Get First Chance Today To Debate Foreign Ownership

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons gets its first crack at criticizing the government foreign-ownership policy in Synod debate today after a four week cooling off period since the program was announced.

On the parliamentary agenda for debate today and Tuesday is the legislative incarnation of years of agonizing over what to do about the domination of Canadian industry by foreign corporations.

The legislative response, obtained by the Trudeau government next May 2 and presented in legislative form two days later, came under fire from government opponents at that time as a paltry answer to growing foreign ownership.

The only significant measure in the bill would require advance government approval for any proposed takeover by allen interests of a Canadian firm with assets of $250,000 or annual income of $1 million or more.

Since only five to 20 per cent of growth in foreign-controlled industry results from takeovers, most of the Commons agenda already is piled with more legislation than it can possibly complete before the end of June targets for summer adjournment.

There's Mister Speaker, the Commons' choice as current session opened in the middle of February, to be dealt with by his appointed 26 pieces of legislation and there are at least three to come, including the budget legislation.

Of those, only seven have been passed into law, and they exclude two routine bills to pay for government operations.

There are 25 sitting days to June 30. Thirteen of these are already allocated—11 for debating topics to be chosen by opposition parties, two for completion of the six-day debate on the May 8 budget.

That leaves only 12 June days for work on a score of government bills, many of them already exhaustively debated and others as controversial as the foreign-control legislation.

Belleville Ratepayers Get 7 Per Cent Tax Cut

Lower School Levies Help to Pare Rates

By HARRY MULHALL, Staff Reporter

Belleville's 1972 tax rates have been cut more than three mills.

Today, the city may be one of the few Ontario urban centres not only holding the line against tax inflation, but with lower tax rates.

That's how Mayor Russell Scott outlined city hall's 1972 budget which pared rates while meeting estimated expenses of $7,315,000 for local government — up $642,000 from last year. School costs add almost another $2,195,000.

The 1972 rates, with reductions in brackets:

Commercial — 53.2 mills (3.2)
Residential — 46.1 mills (3.6)

Separate school supporters will pay:

Commercial — 57.5 mills (3)
Residential — 52.1 mills (4.1)

Lower school levies, more assessment, and provincial funds supported the thinner mill rates. The general rate remains at an unchanged 23 mills residential, 36.3 mills commercial, up .5 mills.

The ratepayers, dulled to acceptance of tax increases as automatic, the budget break with a years - long spiral might be seen as a refreshing fiscal rarity.

But any suggestion the budget be viewed as an election-year lure by vote-seeking city councillors was quickly denied by the mayor.

He saw it as the benefits of civic expansion and good management being passed on to the people.

"Good news for the taxpayers" and a "boon to industry and commerce" was City Manager J. R. Reynolds' description of the estimates he presented city councillors — drafted after long talks with a council advisory committee.

The enthusiastic reflections of both the city's political head and its top civil servant seemed mirrored in the attitude of council. It took councillors only two hours to endorse the city manager's bulky sheaves of estimates with only few minor adjustments, and scarcely any major dissent.

The lower mill rates will save homeowners about $22 on properties assessed at $10,000 and industry and business about $300 on every $100,000 commercial assessment.

Besides the lower school levies, more provincial funds in grants and various payments, a $385,000 surplus in the city treasury made a major contribution to the "boon-and-benefit" budget. This in turn reflected about $10 million in increased assessment, some small savings by city hall departments and unexpected payments from several sources.

Burundi Coup Kills 50,000

KAMPALA, Uganda (Reuter) — At least 50,000 people have died in fighting in the tiny East African state of Burundi since a coup attempt a month ago, says the government radio station, the Voice of the Revolution, monitored here.

A French-language broadcast Monday night said that teams of volunteers had recovered "50,000 bodies, not counting those who are missing or who have fled as refugees to Tanzania and Zaire."

In the most detailed account so far of the troubles which broke out April 29, the radio said the authorities had to deal not only with a carefully planned attempt to overthrow the government of President Michel Micombero, but also with a "maliciously prepared plan" to exterminate the ruling Tutsi clite.

The Tutsi tribe makes up 14 per cent of the population and forms the bulk of the government, while the Hutu tribe accounts for 85 per cent of Burundi's population.

The radio said that about 5,000 of the rebels who attacked Burundi April 29 had received arms training and instruction in sabotage outside the country.

These rebels had linked up with criminal elements inside Burundi. One group, over 4,000 strong and armed with automatic weapons, killed men, women and children in Kayanza, the radio said.

At the same time another group, 3,000 strong, moved up from the south. Yet other groups attacked the central Burundi town of Gitega, where 25-year-old former king Ntare V was killed, and a military camp at Kanhosa, in the far northeast of Burundi.

The radio said that each of these bands carried out massacres in exactly the same way.

"They took drugs which made them mad and stimulated them to a high state of excitement," the radio said.

"They believed that bullets could not harm them. They shouted slogans to ward off bullets, and were covered in tattoos and scarifications likewise intended to protect them from bullets."

The radio said that the rebels had enslaved children, committed unspeakable atrocities against girls, and massacred adults. Some people had been crucified, and pregnant women had had their bellies split open.

However, the radio said, "it quickly became clear that the massacres were not indiscriminate."

"The number of victims indicates not only a carefully organized plot to overthrow the government, but a maliciously prepared plan to exterminate the Tutsi."

It cited one case in the southern province of Burundi where all the local Tutsi officials, 40 people in all, had been killed after being "ignominiously mutilated."

"Surely Siberia would be the place to sign a SALT agreement."

Railwayman Protests

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — A retired veteran of 47 years with Canadian National Railways, William C. Flood told a Commons committee poor connection for CN trains appear to be a deliberate attempt to discourage passengers "for it is certain that no one in their right mind would ride trains under such conditions if there was any other means available." Mr. Flood presented a brief on behalf of the London and District Railway Workers' Council.

Gunman Kills Three

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Police say Senator B. Everett Jordan apparently was not the target of a young gunman who killed three persons and wounded eight others before taking his own life at a shopping centre where the senator was campaigning. The gunman "just broke out his gun and started shooting, first one way and then another," Police Chief Robert Goodwin said.

Cutting Tongue Cut

NAPLES, Italy (AP) — Maria Romano Carolone and her mother-in-law who live in adjoining apartments in the village of Carbonara often quarrelled bitterly. Tuesday she cut out the mother-in-law's tongue with a pair of scissors.

Working Their Way Into A Corner

There's no place for these Kinsmen to go but up as they apply finishing touches to the club's pool on Dundas St. East. It took 25 man only two hours Monday to whitewash the entire length of the 109-foot pool. Work actually began Saturday with a disinfecting scouring by club members. Pool will open when school lets out at the end of June.

Nixon's Party Arrives in Iran

TEHRAN (CP) — President Nixon arrived in Iran's capital today, to a 21-gun salute, for an overnight visit and five hours of talks with the Shah on regional and world matters.

The president and Mrs. Nixon were greeted at Tehran's Mehrabad Airport by the 52-year-old monarch and Empress Farah after a flight from Kiev, the Nixons' last stop in the Soviet Union following a week of summit talks between the President and Kremlin leaders.

Massive security precautions were taken against attacks by urban guerrillas and other dissident Iranians who were told by Baghdad broadcasts to disrupt the visit. Police lined the president's route into the city and there were heavy guards at all points on his itinerary.

Tired but still cheerful, the U.S. president said goodbye at the airport to President Alexander Lyakho of the Ukraine and other officials and a brief tour of the capital of the Ukraine and a cradle of Russian civilization.

Earlier this morning, the president placed a wreath at the tomb of the unknown soldier, a tall obelisk of polished granite set in one of Kiev's parks.

Later he visited the 11th-century Byzantine Cathedral of St. Sofia where he was taken on a conducted tour.

U.S. officials acclaimed the results of Nixon's Kremlin meetings, saying he had won essentially what he had come to achieve.

Nixon and Soviet Communist party chief Leonid Brezhnev Monday signed a declaration of principles to improve U.S.-Soviet relations after years of unremitting cold war. But they acknowledged there were still serious differences over Vietnam.

The U.S. president's feeling of satisfaction with the summit was expressed at a midnight news conference by White House adviser Henry Kissinger. Yet he cautioned that further relations between the two countries would depend on how deeply their trust of each other developed.

Rollercoaster Kills 5 Persons

LONDON (AP) — A holiday ride on a rollercoaster turned into horror today killing, five persons and injuring 22, most of them children in London's Battersea Park fun fair.

An ambulance spokesman said one of the coaster carriages apparently derailed and left the ride's framework at high speed.

Police and firemen were digging into a tangle of wreckage to free trapped and injured children.

Casualties were taken to two hospitals. At one, a spokesman said: "We have had nine children brought in so far. Three of them were dead."

Police Think Slain Girls May Have Witnessed Murder

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Police are investigating the possibility that two girls whose bodies were discovered in a farm ditch in the windsor area witnessed a motorcycle gang murder before they died.

The bodies, discovered Saturday by a farmer near Comber, 35 miles east of Windsor, were riddled with bullets. According to a Toronto pathologist who examined them Monday night.

Police said the bodies have not yet been positively identified, but they are believed to be those of two Windsor girls who have not been seen since Jan. 31. The missing pair are Sandra Lynn Campeau, 16, and Cathryn Hulko, 16.

Mrs. Hulko's husband, William, 28, was charged Jan. 31 with non-capital murder along with seven other persons in connection with the death of Leonard Craig, 23, of Maidstone, Ont., who was found beaten to death outside the Windsor club house of the Satan's Choice motorcycle gang.

Chill Wind of Idleness Blows Among Spacemen

HOUSTON (AP) — The chill wind of dying hopes and vanished dreams whistles through the ranks of the astronaut corps. One by one, like gaggle leaving a party after the laughter is gone, America's spacemen are seeking other jobs.

Of the 73 pilots and scientists selected as astronauts, 42 are left ready to fly. Twelve of this number are assigned to fly in either Apollo 17, the last moon mission, or Skylab, the series of three long-duration missions scheduled for next year.

Twenty astronauts have never flown and are not now selected for a planned mission. Their chances of flying after spending a half decade or more in training, says one astronaut, are between "poor and nonexistent."

Eleven others have flown at least once, but are not at present assigned to a mission.

Donald Slayton, chief of flight crew operations and one of the active astronauts who has never flown, knows his office is overstaffed and he is encouraging astronauts to seek other work.

Last week, two moon walkers, Edgar Mitchell of Apollo 14 and James Irwin of Apollo 15, announced their retirements effective later this summer.

Many of the spacemen, particularly those who never flew, are quietly making plans to leave.

IRA Wing Suspends Attacks

BELFAST (AP) — The Official wing of the Irish Republican Army announced Monday night that it is suspending its guerrilla attacks indefinitely, but the rival IRA Provisionals refused. Officials of surrender and vowed to fight on.

"So far as we are concerned, the fight goes on," a Provisional spokesman said. "We look upon the surrender as a gigantic confidence trick aimed at giving former control to the Official wing of their undisciplined members."

The Provisionals have been responsible for most of the bombing and guerrilla attacks in Northern Ireland, and a spokesman said the faction won't stop them until all political prisoners are released and the British army leaves Northern Ireland's six counties.

Trenton Puts Price Tag On Its Building Project

TRENTON (Staff) — Council here Monday believed the expenditure of $375,000 for the new parking garage - municipal office project and Consolidated Bell Tower is conservative.

Preliminary approval of the amount, come two weeks before closing day for tenders and Parker took to support a tentative cost now is foolish.

Nobody here believed the job could be done for less than $362,000 and one developer cites $720,000 as the figure which the scheme just could not be realized. The $388,000 was included for the project in Trenton's 1972 capital budget.

Last week, architect Tony Lassing told council the mid-town project may cost as much as $378,000 and last night legislation to cover this amount was accepted. Lassing is known here for his relative accuracy in cost estimates.

Mayor Duncan McDonald told The Intelligencer the town was not doing anything unwise by mentioning the tentative estimate in the bylaw. He said the town usually estimates the cost of sewer projects prior to the closing of debentures.

Councillor Ted-Parker believes publishing the $375,000 figure was not sound and contends it may be of benefit to tenderers. He made this feeling known at a committee of the whole[meeting that following council.

Deputy clerk Arden Royce says the amount was used in the formal bylaw partly because it was mentioned in media reports.

Treasurer Brian Fagan conceded there was some "fuzz" involved. It appears council wanted to have the resolution passed for consideration by the Ontario Municipal Board.

Council wants to present the OMB shortly with all data required in the Dundas West project, leaving only the final accepted tender price to be submitted later.

The treasurer was asked during the council meeting to recommend a procedure for debentured to cover cost of the development.

He suggests 25-year debentures (at about nine per cent) that will send taxpayers about $40,950 annually, or approximately two mills on the tax rate.

Trenton taxpayers had approved by referendum the expense of $251,000 for new municipal offices as part of a condominium proposal that fell through.

In financing of the project, the treasurer indicates the parking authority will help with the payment of a portion — the garage — of the complex.

On the question of whether mentioning the Lassing estimate was prudent, sources here say impact of the release by the town of this amount will discourage a number of contractors submitting tenders — the greater the competition — the effect it will have.

Where the public acceptance by council of this $375,000 total is important relates to the man who submitted the cost estimate. Say contractors in the region, "Lassing knows what he is doing." However, contractors will likely still go ahead and do their own estimates before the final day for receiving tenders comes along June 19.

Safety Gates Sought For Haig Rd. Crossing

The city's traffic committee has been relieved of the Rail transport Committee of the Canadian Transportation Commission, that the city is against installing gates on a single line like Dundas St. E. — equipped with flashing lights — although the policy is under review.

But the clincher for the committee, is the fact that at a passing track, on which a parked train can be mistaken for one activating the signals. As a result, some motorists are charged to have narrowly escaped when they discovered the alarms actually were triggered by an oncoming train from the opposite direction.

The committee, instructed Alderman Arnold Orr, had accepted the fact only flashing lights — with the city paying 12.5 per cent installation costs — would be installed at Haig Road. But it should also emphasize to the federal committee that a "dangerous situation" exists on the Lansdowne E. crossing and seek "proper protection."

"If there's a serious accident at present, I think we're morally responsible to push for what as far as we can," he told agreeing committee members.

Parks Budget Cut

Funds have been clipped from the 1972 city budget — approved by council last night.

The biggest single more parkland during the year.

But Alderman Paul Russell, parks board chairman, did not attend the meeting due to the greenbelt squeeze.

City Manager J. R. Reynolds told council that budget estimates had pared one-third of a mill from board requests. But, with increased assessment, a remaining two mills would provide the board with $20,000 more, he did not recommend any funds for park acquisitions, and that the board should develop the land it now has available.

Ald. Russell objected. The extra $20,000 already was needed for hiked administration costs. The board itself, he said also emphasize to the federal committee that a "dangerous situation" exists on the Lansdowne E. crossing and seek "proper protection."

"If there's a serious accident at present, I think we're morally responsible to push for what as far as we can," he told agreeing committee members.

City Back In LORDC

Belleville is back in the Lake Ontario Regional Development Council.

One of the original members of the provincial government -sponsored agency — founded in the late 1950s as the Lake Ontario Development Association — the city turned in its card some years later.

Now, broadened in scope as LORDC the then water-rough - based agency has been growing in significance and Thursday will hear what is viewed as a significant survey and development report outlining future growth patterns for the region from provincial Treasurer Darcy McKeough.

Reminded that this may signal a crucial year for LORDC members, city council last night voted $2,100 into its budget to renew its membership.

The reminder came from Alderman Donald Soatter who said Belleville, as the largest lakefront community in LORDC's area, should take a play in the region's development.

He drew support from councillors Arnold Orr, Paul Russell, Enos David and Jack Ireland, a past president of the organization and — in a business member — still participating in its activities.

Said Ald. David: "Now is the time when decisions are being made, and we can't afford to stay out . . ."

Tax Rates Lower

"This has nothing to do with an election year," the mayor told newsmen. "We had a surplus in our accounts, increased assessment due to construction, and it's being passed along to the people in a way it should be. It's the result of good management — and expense control."

"This will be one of the few urban areas in Ontario — not in Canada, that has been able to reduce its taxes this year," Mayor Scott claimed. "I think it's great."

(Not that the benefits will necessarily accrue. Abolition of the provincial governments residential tax and the 10 per cent of income tax credits — worth almost $60 to a majority of Belleville homeowners — took place this year. Deprived of the subsidy, homeowners will have to pay the full local tax bill—then wait until next year for benefit on income tax returns. For residents in lower income groups this could mean increased benefits, city hall officials say.)

Most of the $642,000 increase in local government costs estimates will be paid out in other salaries, wages and benefits.

Included in the increases are higher pay for the mayor and the 10 councillors — placing them on a "matrimatical" scale of increase, to avoid sudden and dramatic hikes after four years in office. The mayor's salary is set at $7,500 up $450, while each councillor gets $2,630 — up $150.

High schools, $975,844 — 7.7 mills commercial, 6.9 mills residential.

Separate schools, $1,630,254 — 9.2 mills commercial, 8.2 mills residential.

Separate schools — $183,195, 13.5 mills commercial, 12.2 mills residential.

Nearly $4,587,000 in taxes will be raised for general purposes; $776,000 collected in special charges; payments in lieu of taxes, $263,300; grants and subsidies $612,600 and $77,000 other revenue.

Protection service, public works, sanitation, recreation and community services, and general government are among the major increased estimates in the budget.

The 1972 estimates (with last year's costs for such services bracketed) are tabled thus:

Protection — persons and property (police), $2,113,203 ($1,758,114); public works $1,341,946 ($1,491,777); recreation and community services $876,212 ($863,434); general government, $564,792 ($438,-350); sanitation, $1,017,114 ($857,017); conservation of health $378,293 ($372,759); social and family services, $331,-526 ($220,214); planning and development $233,229 ($261,-219); financial expenses, $1,132,765 ($791,491); other $126,-374 ($133,635).

Protection — Fire dept., $853,780 ($676,211); Police, $1,-259,243 ($1,081,903); building, school guards, other protection, $232,745 ($174,790); Protective inspections, $41,625 ($45,724).

Public Works — Roads, $189,100 ($290,581); drainage, $191,150 ($111,670); winter control, $166,700 ($194,322); sidewalks, $72,308 ($76,907); debit charges, roads-bridges, 195,-625 ($195,065); traffic control, $99,100 ($49,772).

Sanitation, waste removal—GWHC sewage plant service, $506,627 ($416,877); garbage disposal, $179,800 ($155,716); sewer repairs, cleaning $96,-200 ($74,734); sewer debt charges, $122,781 ($101,450).

Recreation - community services — parks board $289,600 ($278,250); recreation, $235,-375 ($192,970); library board, $126,298 ($122,296); Memorial Arena, $110,149 ($107,-Dick Ellis rink, $90,912 ($57,-191); grants $36,000 ($33,650).

Swimmer Drowns

SHARBOT LAKE (Staff) — Ontario Provincial Police divers from Belleville and Madoc detachments have recovered the body of a 23-year-old American youth who drowned in King's Lake Sunday.

Constables Garnett Brown and Gordon McCorvie were called to this wilderness camp in the township of Palmerston, 65 miles north of Kingston, after the New York State resident was reported missing by the four remaining members of his party.

The man had gone swimming alone.

A post mortem conducted by pathologists at Hotel Dieu Hospital, Kingston revealed drowning was the cause of death.

A spokesman for the Sharbot Lake detachment, OPP, said the dead man was one of five American friends cottaging in the area since Saturday.

Provincial police have solicited the help of U.S. police in attempting to notify next of kin.

Joyce Questions Conventions

Does Belleville need conventions?

That is the city, as Alderman Gerald Joyce asked fellow councillors — budget session Monday — "prospecting" for something we don't really have.

His flurry was prompted by a $2,500 allocation to the Convention Bureau — up $1,000 from 1971 and the fact the city is prepared to be host for the Ontario Parks Association annual conference this summer.

Recalling other conventions in the city, he pondered who really benefitted and noted the city has few big-convention facilities.

"There are, in fact, very few people who see any advantage in having a convention in a small community," he said.

Mayor Russell Scott said conventions came in two classes — those involving municipal organizations to which the city belonged, the other held by clubs and organizations.

As a participating community, the city had a responsibility to be host for the first when its turn comes. The second, he said, is municipally nothing, he said.

The budget also includes a $5,000 provision toward expenses for the park convention.

Blossoms Co-operate For Fragrant Weekend

AMELIASBURG (Staff) — Lloyd E. Thompson, publicity chairman for the seventh annual Quinte Apple Blossom Festival, which opened last weekend, yesterday described orchard tours as "by far the best yet" and added more than 200 apple trees were sold from stands on the green.

The tours held at the Ameliasburg orchards of Allan Wesse, Lyle Wesse and Sommers Dawson and the Wesson farm of Bruce Little drew hundreds of visitors who arrived steadily throughout the warm spring afternoon.

Sunny weather during most of last week coaxed the blossom into bloom and wagon rides through the orchards offered Quinte area residents an opportunity to enjoy the trees at their flowering peak.

The County Whirlers provided entertainment and color with their square dances beneath blossom-laden boughs.

Apple pie, cheese and cider were sold to hungry guests who strolled among the many rows of orchard trees.

Apple Blossom Queen for 1971, Anna Lynn Walker of Milford and her two princesses mingled with visitors and joined wagon rides among the fragrant trees.

The orchard tours, which have highlighted the festival since its inception, also were enjoyed by James Taylor, MPP Prince Edward-Lennox, Prince Edward County warden Ross Benway and many other municipal officials.

The blossom festival continues this week with a variety show at Picton's Memorial school Wednesday night and at the annual Apple Blossom ball at Keste School, Friday night, June 2.

Workers, Jobless Plan Demonstration

TRENTON (Staff) — Members of the United Workers and Unemployed Organization, at a Trenton group that promotes the interests of the working man and non-working man, plans a demonstration against the Insurance Commission and Canada Manpower.

Only problem with getting the demonstrations off the county ground, says chairman Lloyd Cook, is the mobilization of membership. At a weekend meeting here, called to help several individuals with their dealings with government agencies, the individuals concerned failed to show up, to the irritation of members present.

However, Cook took the occasion to call for demonstrations against UIC and Manpower.

He says the organization is more against UIC than Manpower, but adds both "talk sarcastically".

Major grievance of the organization is the matter of delays in receipt of unemployment cheques. Crook indicates that he has handled about 24 cases of people facing grave conditions because of delayed cheques, which he says are still a great problem.

Crook says the only gripe against Canada Manpower is that you need an appointment to deal with them and the group believes this should not be necessary.

Site for the demonstrations will be in front of the federal building here and letters are being sent out to members asking them if they will support the protest movement.

"We are not dogs; we expect the same respect from them as they expect from us. We mean business, we are tired of fooling around with them all," Crook said.

He was full of praise for work done by Hon. George Hees in trying to come to grips with problems presented to him by the United Workers and Unemployed which is now making plans also for a group picnic probably to be held at Zwick's Island in Belleville.

Two Belleville children are to be awarded gold awards of excellence for their performances in the Canada Fitness testing, carried out at the Belleville Family YMCA last week.

Mary Wells, 12, of Haig Road and Hughie Mordell, 9, of Plaza Square, both attained at least a 95 score on the testing.

The test included speed sit-ups for one minute, standing broad jump, shuttle run (transporting blocks from point A to point B, back and forth, for a total distance of 120 feet), flexed arm hang (holding yourself at eye level to a suspended bar), 50-yard run and 300-yard run.

To be awarded the gold standing, the applicants had to attain at least a 95 percentile rating over their four best areas.

Hughie's marks ran four 95 ratings and two 90 scores.

Mary scored two 100 areas, two marks of 95 followed by 80 and 85.

Of the 24 girls competing, 10 were awarded the second place silver awards, requiring a mark of 80 to 94, while nine others received bronze stakes with a mark from 55 to 79.

One of the 12 competing boys scored for a silver while three others will be awarded bronze.

The results of each person tested will be mailed to Ottawa to the desk of the Canada Fitness Awards and Amateur Sports Director.

Once checked, crests will be returned to the Belleville Y, to be distributed to recipients.

The Duke of Windsor

The long period of years The Duke of Windsor spent away from England seem like the "evening gone" of the hymn. His short reign as Edward VIII and his abdication and the constitutional crisis of 1936 seem like only yesterday. Those were days too when people like him, in high places, risked the assassin's bullet. Wasn't it during that period, among a large London crowd that had turned out to see the monarch, that a man was picked up and found in possession of a pistol?

There were the years as Governor of the Bahamas and the years in Paris where he made his home. There were occasional private visits to England and that poignant occasion when he returned to London for the funeral of his mother, Queen Mary.

The years gradually softened the trauma of the abdication and the rift it caused in the ranks of the House of Windsor. The Duke and his wife, the former Mrs. Wallis Simpson of Baltimore, the woman he loved and for whom he gave up the Throne, were guests of the Queen at Buckingham Palace in the last year or two. In Paris recently for an official visit, the Queen visited her uncle and the Duchess at their home. He was then critically ill. The Duke's passing marks the end of one of the most dramatic periods of British history.

British history. His visits to Canada and his ranch in Alberta are recalled at this time. He was held in high regard by Canadians.

The years of exile are over and he is to be buried in England. The Duchess of Windsor was at his side when he died, as she was, with grace and courage, all of their years together.

The Language

The complaint is heard often enough about students who are unable to express themselves properly, unable to write clear reports, unable even to spell or use correct grammar.

School trustees were reminded of this again recently at a meeting with professors at Queen's University and the subject in turn sparked discussion at a meeting of curriculum committees at Centre Hastings secondary school in Madoc.

A primary teacher complained that teachers are confused by conflicting attitudes toward teaching of skills — reading, writing and spelling and she came up with this startling observation: "We have been let down or misled up for years. I was made to feel guilt if I marked a spelling error. Our director of education said, 'why teach spelling, when our children will have secretaries when they grow up to spell for them.'"

Such an attitude is shocking to say the least and it may account in part for the slipshod spelling, sloppy diction, erratic use of the language and incorrect grammar that is common to so much everyday conversation and prevalent today. Certainly there is room for improvement in this regard. If there are conflicting attitudes, as the teacher suggests, they should be abandoned so that there is no room for confusion; if there is a cavalier attitude among students toward good use of both the spoken and written word it should be corrected.

Let's Curb Waste

Whenever we are told by the Government that there is no money for projects such as a new Bay Bridge or for providing paved shoulders on freeways like 401, both of which have been urged by city council and are considered necessary in terms of convenience and safety, we think of the many outrageous examples of Government extravagance that have come to light over the years. These run the gamut from waste in high places to often inefficient bureaucracy, to vacation trips by air courtesy of the taxpayer. If a total accounting of such ventures were made it would likely be sufficient for a host of projects now being held back supposedly for lack of funds. The provincial and federal governments should do some penny pinching because they can well afford to; they could cool it on such expenditures as Prime Ministerial office redecorations and tropical plants in this or that department.

Park Development

Lennox and Addington Education Board's development of Gibbard Park as a community recreational complex has been boosted by a $5,000 cheque from Napanee Rotary Club. Park development is an important aspect of community betterment and this is a fine example from that area.

Security Gauntlet

Oddballs and PM's Female Admirers on the Hill

by RICHARD JACKSON
from The Intelligencer's
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — With Spring — it comes in like a steamy blast from a sauna bath — the students and the pigeons have returned to Parliament Hill.

And the crowd problems.

Not just the litter disfiguring the lawns and beds, the noise, the clatter rocketing up and down the high-ceiled marble and sandstone corridors.

But the security question.

No, not that the hordes of swarming kids are any threat, except that in their teeming numbers crowding both the Hill and the Centre Block, they provide concealment in their very mass.

Among them, mingling in their restless, moving hundreds, trouble-makers or worse can — and all odd times did — lurk undetected.

So far, arriving in their busloads, the students and even the tourists are carefully dragooned.

Lined up, marched in, escorted out. Always closely watched by guards both in and out of uniform.

The kids no longer may swarm around the Prime Minister's limousine when it pulls up to or away from the West VIP Door.

They are herded across the driveway to wave and be waved at from a safe distance when the PM arrives and leaves.

You can tell when he is expected.

Four or five uniformed RCMP officers with their sidearms and radio-phone drift over from other sections of the Hill to the West Door.

A half-dozen young men in slacks and sports jackets or business suits, looking disturbed and no different than others passing by, saunter casually about, back and forth.

The guards and bodyguards, like big-bruised German shepherd dogs, seem able to instinctively sniff out the potential trouble-makers from the harmless eccentrics.

There is a sudden, quick, almost silent scuffle and someone is smartly frog-marched, in an almost natural-looking arm-lock, out of sight.

But there are some unusual characters who go through the net, some by tolerance with the guards knowing them as harmless oddballs, but others by stealth and not so innocent.

Among the more unusual are two regulars. One an ancient politician — another, stumbling along in his eighties, who daily never once missing, for two swears — attends the opening Question Period in the Commons.

He has been occupying the same seat since the days of former Conservative Prime Minister Richard Bennett.

Another of the more remarkable "regulars" is a reasonably good-looking, well-shaped blonde of indeterminate years who has to have something of a crush on the Prime Minister.

And there she is daily, often in a vivid red or yellow jersey suit, perched eagerly on the edge of the same seat in the Public Gallery, avidly eyeing the Prime Minister when he is in the House.

And keeps tabs on his comings and goings and when he is not of town she does not show. But when he is in the Capital, which is the case most days, she is there in the crowd to see him arrive at the West Door, and in the Gallery to study his every move and mood, all the while smiling her own secret smile.

But they are not all harmless eccentrics. There is the ancient politician - watcher and the would-be snooper in the journeyist.

Like the other night at 24 Sussex Drive, the Prime Minister's residence, surrounded by a hedge, floodlighted and guarded at both gates by the RCMP, with the Ottawa River at its back.

Impregnable to intruders, impossible of concealed approach and entry.

Except that a 23-year-old part time musician from Guelph, Ont., somehow managed undetected from drug trafficking, slipped by the wall, through the hedge, past the guards at the gates, under the floodlights, unveiled and unseen.

They latched onto him as he was up-tossing through the Prime Minister's private garden carrying 269 worth of LSD he had stashed to present to Mr. Trudeau.

In provincial court next morning he was presented with 7 days in jail.

Things like that sort of make the guards and the bodyguards on the Hill and at 24 Sussex Drive a bit on the edgy side.

"We get all the nuts," shrugged one the other day. "Kind of spooks you after awhile. . .

Municipal Act and Conflict of Interest Issue

A reader has written suggesting publication of Section 36 of the Ontario Municipal Act, noting that "this certainly would help the public understand what is at issue in the recent allegation of conflict of interest against Mayor Scott."

Alderman Donald Souter had claimed that a storm sewer costing 37 acres of Sanatary Development land — property in the city's north end part-owned by Mayor Scott — would drain an area of minimal present value and render it of immense potential value.

Following Mr. Souter's allegation of conflict of interest the Mayor said that Mr. Souter must have received advice but that it was "poor advice" and that the subject was all completely covered under section 36 of the Municipal Act.

Here in part are the contents of Section 36 (a copy is available at the library if anyone wishes to read the section in its entirety) under the heading of "Disqualification":

"The following are not eligible to be elected...a member of a council or entitled to sit or vote therein, a judge of any court; b. a jailer or a keeper of a lock-up; c. a sheriff, deputy sheriff or sheriff's bailiff; d. a clerk of police of a city or town; e. a collector of taxes, a treasurer, a clerk, or any other officer, employee or servant of the corporation of a municipality; f. a trustee of a police village unless he has before the opening of the nomination meeting filed his resignation with the township clerk; g. a person, other than the head of the council or a member of council appointed under section 213 to act in place of the head of the council, who is a member of a board or commission appointed or elected for the construction, management or control of a transportation system that is owned by, or leased to, or controlled by a municipal corporation, or by trustees, or by any board or commission of which a power or behalf of such corporation, unless before the opening of the nomination meeting he has filed his resignation with the clerk of the municipality; i. a clerk or bailiff of a small claims court; j. a Crown Attorney or a clerk of the peace; k. a registrar or a deputy registrar of deeds; l. a master of titles; m. a member of a board of education or of a public, separate or secondary school board, whose term of office has at least two months to run after the day on which the nomination meeting for a new election is to be held, unless before the opening of the nomination meeting he has filed his resignation with the secretary of the board; n. a provincial judge; o. a clerk of a county or district court; p. a deputy clerk of the Crown or a local registrar; q. a person having himself or by his partner or with through another an interest in any contract with the corporation or with any commission or person controlling the corporation or in any contract for the supply of goods or materials to a contractor for work for which the corporation pays or is liable directly or indirectly to pay, or which is subject to the control or supervision of the council or of an officer of the corporation, or who has an unsatisfied claim for such goods or materials; r. a person who, either himself or by or with or through another, has any claim, action or proceeding against the corporation, but this does not apply with respect to any monies paid or payable to a member of a council under section 265, 211, 383, 391 or 392 or under section 9 of The Planning Act or with respect to assessment appeals before The Assessment Act or The Local Improvement Act.

Subsection 1 (all of the foregoing), the text continues, "does not apply to a person by reason only that he is a shareholder in an incorporated company having dealings or a contract with the municipal corporation, unless he is director, manager, secretary, treasurer, secretary - treasurer or agent or has a controlling interest in such incorporated company, or all of his being a less than of the corporation for a term of 21 years or upwards of any property in the corporation; c. that part of his property is exempt wholly or in part from taxation, whether such exemption is founded on an agreement with the corporation or on a by-law of the council.

Here are the new food rationing regulations announced in a broadcast to the people of Canada by Donald Gordon, chairman of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board: sugar — half a pound per person per week; tea — individual consumption must be cut by one-half; coffee — individual consumption must be cut by one-quarter. The one-half pound sugar ration is the same as that in effect in the United States and in the United Kingdom. Shipping difficulties had made it essential to conserve stocks and reduce consumption of the rationed commodities.

Denturists Will Have Their Day

Kitchener-Waterloo Record

Recently, Dr. Harry Parrott of Woodstock, the only dentist in the Ontario legislature, drew the wrath of other members of his profession by daring to suggest that qualified denturists should be permitted to provide direct service to the public.

In answer, Dr. Richard Potter, Ontario health minister, said he hoped to bring in legislation to permit properly trained denturists to do just what Dr. Parrott suggested they should be allowed to do.

Although both men denied they knew beforehand what either was planning, it is apparent rapidity with which Dr. Potter has moved suggests otherwise.

The two quick, hammer blows and the minister will go a long way toward removing the uncertainties which have been the cause of so much unhappiness in the profession.

And a public anxious to reduce its dental costs as much as possible can only welcome Dr. Potter's initiative. . .

Focus on Reform of Municipal Election Term

By DON O'HEARN
From The Intelligencer's
Queen's Park Bureau

Local politicians in the Metro Toronto area are pressing for the change in municipal law which will mean they will have to hold local elections every two years, instead of every three as at present.

They have some support from other municipalities, but not too much.

The bulk of the municipal men in the rest of the province seem to see the wisdom in the two-year term.

The important point in having a shorter term is that it is protection against weak government.

It will mean that if a municipality happens to be saddled with a very weak council, at least it will have to be stuck with it for two years.

And there can be weak councils, of course. Most municipalities have had some experience with them.

A common challenge of critics of the shorter term is that the government does not stay before the people for such a shorter term for provincial legislatures. Provincial governments, of course, can go up to five years without calling a vote.

This challenge, however, proves nothing in support of a weak charter of the two levels of government.

At the provincial level, however, there is party government.

This means that the individual member of parliament is not nearly so important at this level as he is in the municipal field.

Whether supporting the government or in opposition, he has relatively little influence on the day-to-day decisions and policies, which are determined by party positions.

Thus weak members—even with a good number of them in any legislature — don't necessarily mean weak government.

But in a local council every representative plays a significant part in the legislative process. He has a voice, and if he's active and important for good local government.

And if any number of voices in a legislature are weak, and feeble, then the government itself tends to be weak.

Admittedly one drawback is that under the shorter terms local politicians have to go to the work and expense of an election more frequently.

This might be enough to keep some good men out of the field.

There also is less security with the possibility every two years representatives being defeated.

Experience is, however, that a good man in the municipal field is seldom defeated.

Hellyer Repeats Claim Reds Active in Canada

OTTAWA (CP) — Former Liberal Paul Hellyer persisted in calling for a royal commission into Communist subversion in Canada Monday night, despite denial of his charges by two ministers and lack of public response from the opposition.

Mr. Hellyer, who resigned as a cabinet minister in 1969, reiterated in an interview that Canadians would be shocked if they knew the true extent of Communist activities in their country.

He said the same thing during the weekend. He added Monday night that a royal commission inquiry could show how alleged front-such as the much-debated Company of Young Canadians—are manipulated and used by Marxists.

In neither his Monday night nor weekend interviews did he indicate he had any new information to add to what he learned as a Trudeau cabinet minister in 1968 and early 1969.

The opposition, which is quick to jump on something that might embarrass the government during the 40 minutes set aside for questions each day, paid little attention to what Mr. Hellyer suggested.

Jack Marshall (PC—Humber —St. George's—St. Barbe) was told by Solicitor-General Jean-Pierre Goyer that security against subversion is "completely under control."

Mr. Marshall suggested Mr. Hellyer has brought before a Commons committee to explain his remarks. No other members of the opposition pursued the matter.

Puerto Rican Fights Extradition Order

OTTAWA (CP) — The tour-ist-brochure image of Puerto Rico as a carefree Caribbean lake was smudged Monday by three prominent Puerto Ricans testifying at the extradition hearing of Humberto Pagan Hernandez.

Pagan is charged with shooting a San Juan police officer last year during a university riot sparked by a scuffle between students, soldiers and independentistas — advocates of an autonomous Puerto Rico.

The three witnesses Monday flew from Puerto Rico to testify for Pagan and drew a harsh, sometimes angry, picture of Puerto Rican politics and law enforcement.

Prof. Marcos Rigau said the case has become a political one in Puerto Rico and cannot be considered a normal criminal prosecution.

A constitutional law expert and once an assistant to former U.S. attorney-general Robert Kennedy, he said that the island government is committed to "law and order" and would not allow people who are accused of a crime to go unpunished even if they are not guilty."

Bishop Aurelio Parrella, Bonifla, one of six Roman Catholic bishops in Puerto Rico, testified that Pagan is wanted as the "scapegoat" by the government

Foreign Capital Control Debated

OTTAWA (CP) — There was plenty of parliamentary fuel for clear party stands in the first day of Commons debate Monday on proposed foreign-takeover legislation.

A motion presented by Conservative lead-off speaker Gordon Fairweather (Pundy Royal), which would have killed the bill, was ruled out of order. Mr. Fairweather condemned the legislation as tokenism but did not commit the party to a specific stand.

New Democrat Leader David Lewis was unequivocal in his opposition to the bill-so much so that Grant Blair (L-Grenville-Carleton) felt free to question reports of a split between the NDP leadership and the party's left-wing Waffle caucus.

A moderate view of the bill was left to Adrien Lambert (SC-Bellechasse) who endorsed it as an acceptable first step, to be taken without fear of accusations of narrow-minded nationalism.

The legislation-end result of a two year government study-would give the cabinet power to withhold approval from takeovers of Canadian-owned enterprises by foreign investors.

Free Advice For Consumers

OTTAWA (CP) — The consumer affairs department is going to step up its information programs, turning them more at low-income earners and immigrants.

Consumer Affairs Minister Robert Andras said Tuesday the new information programs will include "store-front advice and resource centres" where consumers can drop in for free advice and information.

They will be established this year—in Montreal, Toronto and Vancouver—and if the program is successful others will follow.

Fashions Ballooned in Size

NEW YORK (AP) — Big sleeves, big coats, big shoes — some fall fashions have ballooned in size.

"I concentrated on big sleeves," said designer Issey Miyake, followed these fall days for Paris Collections Monday.

His clothes are a great blend of familiar and strange looks. He showed big-sleeved lamb wool jackets and pants in an unusual cotton, woven to look quilted.

"It took me a year to develop the fabric," said Miyake, who used it for reversible jackets, in bright blocks of color, as well as peddle-pushers and even shorts.

"It's judo fabric," he said, except that it's lighter, softer and less expensive.

His sleeves got even bigger, snow and rain print blouses and and rounder for evening—in pants.

Is There A Killer in Your Pocket?

By DORIS CLARK

Someone described cigarettes as "killers that travel in packs". I couldn't agree more.

What amazes me is the number of seemingly intelligent and educated people who continue to cast such death-dealing packs around in their pockets or their purses, and proceed to blacken their lungs.

If it were only the color of the lung that was affected, that wouldn't matter. Nobody sees them anyway. But when cigarette smoke succeeds in decreasing the body's ability to use the life-giving oxygen in the air, are we not, in effect, taking poison into our systems? And in this year of our Lord 1972 there is far too much known about it for any of us to deny this connection between cigarettes and life itself.

Not only lungs, but hearts suffer, and bladders. And tongues. And the newborn babies of smoking mothers.

The same person who considers himself a model of good-looking, healthy manhood or womanhood, may still be unconcerning that he hasn't the will power — or is it the good sense? — to resist the killers that come in packs.

Deer Doris: Re: your article regarding the girl who is 17 years of age and is wondering if her sister has control over her. Apparently you are guessing.

The Newfoundland government has set the age of a juvenile to be under the age of 17 years, while the Canadian Criminal Code sets the age of an adult to be 16 years and older. So "Undecided" you can tell her sister to go fly a kite. — Interested Newfoundlander

Dear Newfoundlander: Not guessing — no — but "Undecided Wondering" lives in a province where 18 is the age of majority.

There are variations in the law from province to province and I agree I should have said so, since this column appears in our newest province — yours — as well as in most others.

Thanks for pointing this out for the benefit of readers in Newfoundland.

Dear Doris: About the irons with the click-on handle. I still use mine most of the time. That cord on the rear end of the electric iron irritates me. It's a drag! And I mean drag.

As my brother-in-law says, he never realized he was old until he went to a museum in Ottawa and saw there, as antiques many of the things that had been used at home in his own lifetime. — Mrs. H. D. C.

Dear Mrs. H. D. C.: I agree about the drag business at the time. That cord on the rear end of the electric iron irritates me. It's a drag! And I mean drag.

Ann Landers

Mom Apprehensive of Motorcycles

Dear Ann Landers: Our 17-year-old daughter has been dating a 19-year-old boy for the last year. Jim is a fine young man, a good student and a careful driver. Jim announced a few days ago that he has purchased a motorcycle. Our daughter expects to ride with him.

I have good reason to fear motorcycles. The sons of two close friends were nearly killed on motorcycles. A neighbor's daughter was in a motorcycle accident a few months ago and she will never walk or talk again.

I told our daughter we will not allow her to ride on Jim's motorcycle and she is very upset. She assures me that Jim will handle the motorcycle with extreme caution. She also says if she is not permitted to ride with him he will drop her.

I don't want to lose a lively daughter, either on a motorcycle or through lack of communication or understanding, but I know that if I say yes my heart will be in my mouth every minute she is away from home. Do I have the right to say no? — Livonia, Mich. Mother

Dear Mother: You do and I hope you will.

The National Safety Council has some blood-chilling statistics on the annual carnage resulting from motorcycle accidents. You have every right to be apprehensive. If Jim dumps your daughter because she had the good sense to respect her parents' wishes, he was no bargain.

P.S. To all you cycle fans who may be angered by my answer, please save your stamps. My stand is irreversible.

Dear Ann Landers: Please tell everybody who reads English that when they reach a wrong number, they are inconveniencing someone. It's not the other way around. Moreover, they have no right to ask, "Who is this?"

Several months ago I was the victim of a wrong number. When asked, "Who is this?" I refused to say. This so angered the questioner that she called four or five times every night for months. My husband and I lost a great deal of sleep because of that woman's rudeness.

The proper procedure, when you believe he has reached a wrong number, is to say: "I'm calling for Soandso's residence for Soandso Soandso. Do I have the right number?" This does not require that the party on the other end reveal his identity.

Thank you, Ann, for performing a useful service. — Hackles Up In Buffalo

Dear Hackles: Most people, when they reach a wrong number, will continue to ask: "Who is this?" I suggest that the person who receives the call answer the question with a question: "Who are you calling?"

Dear Ann Landers: The man I'm going with is 30 years old. His father died when he was 12. His mother won't let him live his own life. The problem is sleeping pills. He eats them like candy. He is in a daze most of the time. His mother's doctor is a druggist and she gets pills for next to nothing — no prescription. He is also a big beer drinker. I've read in your column that people who take pills should not mix them with liquor because the combination could be deadly. I've clipped three columns and showed them to him. He says beer doesn't count. Is he right? — Belinda

Dear Bel: He's wrong. Beer contains alcohol and if he drinks enough beer he can get just as bombed as if he were drinking gin. Pills and beer can be a lethal combination.

Area Senior Citizens Clubs

TWEED SENIOR CITIZENS

The regular meeting of the Tweed Senior Citizen's Club was held at St. James' Anglican Church Hall, Wednesday May 24 at 2 p.m. with a total of 52 in attendance. The president, Mr. Harries, members chaired the meeting and following the opening, read a humorous story.

The birthday song was sung to Mrs. Maude Forsey who celebrated a birthday in May. She was treated in the usual manner with a presentation.

Future bus trips were discussed and the president suggested that the members' wishes be placed either on the bulletin board or in the suggestion box and these suggestions will be discussed later.

Tickets for the butterfly quilt are now being sold and Mrs. Hazel Abbott was grateefully thanked for her efforts in the making and sewing on this quilt, and she in turn thanked Mr. and Mrs. Charles Perrill and Mrs. Henry Morton who had donated the time, batt and the lining for the article.

Sunday June 18 will be the Divine Service for the Senior Citizens of Tweed and the service will be held in St. James' Anglican Church with the Rev. Virgil Earle conducting the message. A choir of Seniors is being organized for this special Sunday service.

Thanks were extended at this time to Mrs. Rachael Spencer, for typing the six letters to the different dignitaries in regard to the Ontario Housing Units to be erected in Tweed. The president has already received replies from Hon. Pierre Trudeau, Clarke T. Hollins and Lee Grills.

Mr. Charles Perrill gave two humorous readings.

An "Open House" will be held at the Hastings Manor on May 31 and cars and drivers were asked to volunteer to take members to attend.

An invitation was also read from the Senior Citizens of Carrollton to attend their Annual Tea on June 14 from 2 to 4:30 pm. in St. Marks United Church Hall.

The door prize tickets were drawn by the past-president, Felix Rashotte and were awarded to Harold Morton and Mrs. William Curtis.

After the meeting, cards were enjoyed by the members and a dainty lunch of tea and assorted fancy cakes and cup cakes were served by the lunch committee under the convenorship of Mrs. Jessie Langevin and Mrs. Elizabeth Moon.

SENIOR CITIZENS

MARMORA — The Senior Citizens' Club of Havelock and Norwood have accepted the invitation of Marmora Senior Citizens' Club to meet with them for dinner at noon on May 31 at the Royal Canadian Legion Hall in Marmora.

Miss Grace Warrens and Mrs. Edward Sleeves agreed to arrange for a program following the dinner; Miss Mary Jones will be in charge of the guest book and Mrs. John Glover will act as matron of honor. The committee of Mesdames F. Leal, E. Bedore, V. Chambers and E. Chapman will look after food arrangements for the expected 125 people.

A two minutes' silence was observed at the meeting in memory of one of the charter members, Mrs. Lula Lawrence, who passed away recently.

It was decided to send two delegates, Mrs. E. Post and Mrs. E. Stevens, to the Senior Citizens' Conference in Windsor on August 22 and 23. Card parties will be held on Monday evenings, May 15 and 29. It was decided that the June 7 meeting should be in the form of a potluck dinner.

Mirror of Your Mind

by JOHN CONWELL

Does indecision create frustration?

MAYBE someone's inability to make up his mind doesn't create frustration, but it certainly does nothing to enhance the individual's chances to gratify his needs. If, for instance, a person can't decide between courses of promotion that have been offered him in his career, he is apt to try to decide by the process of elimination. Usually, however, by the time one opportunity is closed to him, he is cut off from the other, too.

Has TV helped make kids smarter?

NO, not the regular shows anyway. Maybe the "fisher" programmers have too low an opinion of viewers. Whatever the reason, Dr. Jesse L. Steinfeld, Surgeon General of the U.S., appearing before a Senate panel looking into the effects of TV violence on children, said that children who watch a lot of TV in their early years tend to lag their vocabulary! In fact, he added, high school students who can't tear themselves away from the TV seem less bright.

Can infidelity lead to depression?

YES; and the spouse who does the straying is the one who is more apt to become depressed because of infidelity. A husband, say, who truly loves his wife may—just because everybody's doing it—dally in an extramarital affair. Yet when he comes home to his trusting, unsuspecting wife, the philandering husband might readily feel depressed that he could do anything to jeopardize such a happy relationship.

Civil Servants Found Docile

TORONTO (CP) — Opposition party leaders criticized civil servants Monday night for not showing more opposition to a bill that establishes bargaining procedures between public employees and the government.

Opposition Leader Robert Nixon told the Ontario legislature during clause-by-clause study of the legislation that opposition by the Civil Service Association of Ontario has been "something less than robust."

Stephen Lewis, leader of the New Democratic Party, expressed "disappointment in the energy, submissions and purpose of the CSAO in pursuing the rights of its members as detailed by this bill."

He said the legislation, which eliminates the right to go on strike for 53,000 public employees, "poisons the collective bargaining process between the government and the civil service in perpetuity."

The CSAO had opposed certain sections of the legislature when it went before a legislature committee and had also picketed Queen's Park in protest.

Charles MacNaughton, chairman of the management board of cabinet, introduced amendments to two key sections of the bill he claimed would broaden the number of areas where collective bargaining could take place.

But the opposition contended Monday that the amendments didn't go far enough and, in fact, left the civil servants with little to bargain for.

One section of the bill gives the government exclusive jurisdiction to decide arbitrarily on the size of the work force, job classification and appraisal, disciplne and termination of employment, superannuation, promotions, demotions, transfers and layoffs.

Railway Car Purchase Debated

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian taxpayers will foot the initial $43-million bill for 2,000 hopper railway cars to get Prairie grain to market.

But who is to pay operating costs remained in doubt after extensive questioning inside and outside the Commons Monday.

Also in doubt is who castes in on the subsidy—farmers, the railway companies, grain shippers, buyers, or all of them.

Prime Minister Trudeau announced the plan to buy the hopper cars at a Liberal party rally in Winnipeg Friday night, part of a pitch designed to prove that his government does care about marketing grain.

During the daily Commons question period Monday, Prairie MPs bombarded the government with questions on details of the deal. Some answers from Justice Minister Otto Lang, minister responsible for the Canadian wheat board, left questioners confused.

Mr. Lang did make clear that the government had decided to go ahead and buy the hopper cars because the railways and grain terminal companies had been wrangling about which one should make a move to remove bottlenecks in grain deliveries.

In reply to questions from Alf Gleave (NDP—Saskatoon-Biggar), Mr. Lang said the wheat board will be "titular owner" of the cars, but will be reimbursed for their purchase and depreciation cost by public funds.

Operation of the cars "will be organized by the railways."

But the "exact relationship between the railways, the wheat board and the government in connection with costs involved . . . remains to be settled officially in future discussions."

Woman Has 9 Fetuses

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A woman who had been taking fertility pills for at least three years delivered nine dead fetuses Monday, the University of Pennsylvania hospital reported.

The woman, who was not identified by the hospital, was in her 10th to 12th week of pregnancy. The fetuses were each about two inches long, her physician said.

Multiple births resulting from this type of medication she took are not unusual, officials said, but the number of fetuses produced was extremely rare.

Announce New Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids . . . and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissues.

One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved . . . actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief even occurred in cases of long standing, and most important of all, results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a principal cause of hemorrhoids.

Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).

Satisfaction or your money refunded.

Committee Asks Action On Parking Problems

City council will be asked to resolve parking problems created by residential — notably apartment — construction in Belleville.

The request will come from the city's traffic and light committee, which yesterday scanned a report from Police Chief Douglas Crosbie on high-rise developments.

In one instance, city authorities were placed in a "somewhat embarrassing position" when one high - rise proprietor began renting before the apartment block's garage was built.

Street parking was permitted because it would have been unfair to penalize tenants, said the chief. But this affected safety of school children with the result a school guard had to be hired for two months. (The apartment block was not identified by date or location).

Alderman Paul Russell said council perhaps should review all conditions of occupancy involved in development.

"If parking is going to cause a problem, maybe other things are going to cause a problem too," he added.

Ald. Arthur Keegan suggested that parking lots be the first projects constructed on any apartment development. This would reduce off - street parking problems caused by work crews during building, while ensuring car facilities were immediately available to tenants.

Police Inspector Ralph Blatchford added that parking is a "recurring problem" from the time construction starts.

Ald. Russell made the recommendation calling for council legislation to have builders provide off-street parking from the time construction starts.

YMCA Criticized, Grants Approved

City council last night approved $26,000 in budget grants to community groups — but not before one recipient came in for outspoken criticism from one councillor.

Under fire from Alderman Arthur Keegan was the YMCA, for whom $7,500 was approved as budgeted — but with some strings attached as sought by the councillor.

In a sense, claimed Ald. Keegan, Belleville taxpayers were being asked to support two recreation committees — the city's, and the YMCA.

The YMCA's "meagre facilities" should be used by those using it to do so and pay for them, and the organization should "quit promoting programs that can't be performed" at its present outdated building, and which can become a taxpayer's liability, he said.

He said he could not understand why Isidore Cooperman, director of the United Community Services, is "promoting such things" on the YMCA's behalf.

"In my opinion, this man is getting to be the most powerful man in this city and must be stopped," claimed Ald. Keegan.

Ald. Jean Smith countered that government should encourage citizens to run their own projects and government committees should not overlap on "people-run things."

Ald. Robin Jeffrey said the recreation committee could operate projects as cheaply as the YMCA. But she didn't believe the committee "has to run every program going on in the city" that could be classed recreation projects. She noted that most of the grant would be spent on a beginner's swim instruction program. Participants are charged $1 an hour, while it costs $4 hourly to operate the YMCA pool.

Council concurred in Ald. Keegan's motion that the $7,500 be granted — but that the YMCA must present an itemized program for council approval, the money to be paid on by requisition.

Other grants approved: Canadian National Institute for the Blind, $1,000; Chamber of Commerce, $1,000; Convention Bureau, $2,500; Canadian Legion $500; ANAF Veterans, $200; Historical Society, $1,500; Horticultural Society, $500; Santa Claus Parade, $500; United Community Services, $1,100; Victorian Order Nurses, $1,000; Rotary Club, $200; Wharf '2: Debating Club, $200; Central Ontario Cheesemakers, $150; Belleville - district Employment Committee, $250; Hastings County Museum, $3,000.

Minor Sports To Get Help

PICTON (Staff) — Minor sports programs sponsored by the Wellington Minor Softball League, the Hallowell township recreation committee and the Picton recreation and parks committee will receive assistance through the athletics commissioner of the ministry of community and social services.

The Wellington Minor Softball League will receive softball bats, softballs, and catchers' equipment.

The Hallowell township recreation committee is slated to receive softball bats, softballs, catchers' equipment and a set of bases.

The announcement of this assistance to sports programs was made this week by James Taylor, MPP Prince Edward-Lennox.

Barber-Carver Ricard Relaxes

Hand-made Canadiana Is Barber's Pastime

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

Souvenirs are his business and he has been known to be indignant when told there are no souvenirs of Canada, made in Canada.

Alex Ricard carves things, reminiscent of early Canadians. When hearing one day on the Mike Johnston show that there were no Canadian-made souvenirs, Mr. Ricard sat down and crafted a very large spoon and, suitably inscribed the back, contesting the comment.

A barber for more than 46 years, Mr. Ricard spends his days cutting hair at Stewart's Barber Shop on Victoria Avenue and fashioning wooden articles in the evenings.

"When we are having a quiet day, I sit in one of the shop's chairs and make a fork or something," said Mr. Ricard.

Originally from Hull, Quebec, Mr. Ricard uses many old designs for his carvings.

"I remember tools my grand mother used to have, to cook meals and do my best to reproduce them," he said. "Things like pot masher can't be bought anywhere, the design is that old."

The front window of the barber shop doesn't look like a barber shop window any more. Dozens of carvings and sets of knives, forks, spoons and potato mashers fill the showcase.

"At least 15 people a day come in and ask who made the pieces, if they are for sale and if this is a barber shop or a hobby shop," said Mr. Ricard.

The sets sell for about $7.

The sets are not available in stores because the maker "doesn't think it's right".

"This is a hobby with me, not a way to make money," he said. "I have always had a hobby of one kind or another to give me something to do."

Living alone, Mr. Ricard whiles away the evening in his home, nobbling at pieces with a scrap of broken glass. "I use whatever is handy," he said.

Mr. Ricard's tool chest is small, containing only a carpet knife, a pocket knife, a small axe and broken glass.

"I make the rough cut with the axe, then to the carpet and pocket knife and finish smoothing with the edge of the glass," he said, while working on a piece.

Last year, Mr. Ricard struck upon a "gold mine" when hydro wires were being placed near Plainfield.

"They had cut down many trees along the side of the road and were going to cart them away to burn. I thought it would be an awful waste and, after asking, carted away two carloads of the lumber. I dry in my back yard," said Mr. Ricard.

Since that time, more than 200 pieces have been made from the reclaimed wood.

"I give them away because I am proud of them and it makes me feel good to give things to people," he said.

At one point Mr. Ricard sat down and made 44 spoons and mashers to give away as thank you gifts at and Elk's Lodge banquet, where he is a member.

He has been doing it off and on for about 20 years. He started in Quebec, carving hammer and axe handles and has since turned into building everything from walking canes to bird houses.

When you visit the Ricard household, you will probably leave with a reminder of the visit.

"I give things like this to guests, hoping they will remember the time they spent with me," said Mr. Ricard.

Camp Boom for Youngsters, Parents

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

THOMASBURG — Outlines of a supervised summer recreation project which should prove a boon to local youngsters — and their parents — now are being drafted for this area.

The undertaking, financed under the federal Opportunities for Youth program, will centre on the Moira River Conservation Authority's Col. Rorose Vanderwater Park.

The project — spanning a wide range of activities from canoeing to conservation lessons — is aimed mostly at youngsters of "public school age and runs July 4 - Sept. 1.

Launched during the summer school holidays, it also will give parents "a chance to relax" says Susan Hurley, 22, one of the originators of the project.

"It means they won't have to provide day-to-day entertainment for their children during the vacation period," she says.

Mrs. Hurley, a native of here, and her husband, Frank 23, both in their final year at the Ottawa University physical-education students, are among the small group of young people now putting final touches to the scheme.

Including the Hurleys, the program is providing summer work for five university students and two local high school graduates.

As yet, there's no indication how many will participate. That will come on the July 4 registration day. But the program is available to youngsters in a wide area of countryside, including Belleville and Tweed.

It also will provide a facility for campers at the 500-acre riverside park.

Not only will the program be available to their children, but the student group hopes it can also offer babysitting services to camping visitors.

The project, first prompted by suggestions from Everett English, vice - principal of Belleville's Queen Victoria public school, says Mrs. Hurley, won a $3,300 OFY grant after support from conservation authority spokesman.

Aside from outdoor sports, the group also plans to insert wildlife studies in its daily programs. The studies will include preventive instruction against forest fires, pollution.

Youngsters were readily respond to such instruction, which could pattern their attitudes as adults, says Mrs. Hurley.

And for rainy days, the group has rented a nearby hall in Thomasburg where creative instruction, arts and crafts can be held.

Hopefully, parents also may become involved in the program and the students can organize events from ball games to campfire singouts for the parents, says Mrs. Hurley.

"The only thing we can't provide is transportation," she says.

But this is not seen as a problem, since parents — who must formally consent to their children's participation — can form car pools to get the youngsters from home to the park.

Stretching It A Bit

It was all in the call of duty, as this Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment cadet was a "victim" in this exercise performed at the annual regimental inspection Sunday, at Belleville armories. Cadets scaled a ladder to the balcony, performed first aid on the "victim" and lowered away to fellow cadets on the parade floor below. Not to worry, everything went like clockwork, as officers predicted.

Cadet Awards Are Presented

Not only did the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment of cadets receive the Lord Strathcona shield for the best cadet corps in Ontario, a number of individual cadets were honored at the annual inspection Sunday.

Recipient of the A. A. Kennedy trophy for the cadet who made the greatest contribution, both military and as a citizen, was cadet Master WO Bruce MacDonald.

Cadet MacDonald was also chosen as one of 13 Canadian cadets to attend outward bound programs in Wales this summer.

The Lt.-Col. K. D. H. Wilcox trophy for best cadet went to his brother, cadet Sgt. Derek MacDonald.

Best recruit of the year, cadet Edward Shepherd, received the Lt.-Col. F. H. Allen trophy.

The Non-commissioned Officer's trophy for best shot, was presented to cadet Lieut. Donald Welch.

Lieut. Welch also accepted the Instructors' trophy for best platoon. Platoon One received the honors this year.

Completing the roster of honors presented at the weekend inspection at the Armoury, were four Master Cadets awards.

Plan for Region To Be Revealed

PETERBOROUGH (Staff) — Representatives of Central Ontario municipalities converge here tomorrow for the 16th Lake Ontario Regional Development Council conference — a conference embracing a new development plan for the entire region and one in which the Quinte area will have substantial involvement.

Highlight of the two day gathering is the release Thursday by Minister of Treasury, Finance and Intergovernmental Affairs Darcy McKeough of the phase one report of the Lake Ontario "design for development" that the minister has said is a program of spe-

For Belleville, the gathering will mark a renewal. Belleville opted out of LORDC in the mid-60s but at Monday's budget meeting council approved joining the development council again.

Don Rebera, a real estate broker from Stirling and president of LORDC, officially opens the conference 3.15 a.m. tomorrow at Rock Haven Motor Hotel here.

Focus of attention Wednesday morning is a seminar titled Are Local Municipalities Mature Enough to Formulate and Give Final Approval to Official Plans. Dealing with the topic, complete at 11 a.m., is a six-man panel that includes Bloomfield reeve Allan Anderson, Trenton's clerk - comptroller O. W. Larry and Quinte Planning Board director Bert Kenny.

In afternoon proceedings, Alderman Jack Ireland of Belleville, a past president of LORDC is panelist for the seminar Is the Promotion of New Industry in Eastern Ontario Obsolete.

Ireland, instrumental in the founding of the development council, has retained a personal business membership in LORDC through the years that Belleville divorced itself from the regional organization.

Also scheduled for tomorrow is a report of the LORDC's research and planning committee to be given by Loyalist College instructor Ray Mitchell, a director of the development council.

More seminars and work shops follow on Thursday as does presentation by Mr. McKeough of the new Ontario government plan.

Thurlow Tax Rate Down Three Mills

Thurlow Township residents can also look forward to tax savings in 1972.

Like their neighbors in Belleville, they will benefit by an increase in assessment, saving on the average nearly three mills.

Largest decrease applies to elementary separate school supporters. Residential and farm dwellers will pay 44.76 mills, compared to 50.19 in 1971, while commercial and industrial proprietors pay 49.73 mills, against 55.67.

Other rates are as follows (1971 rates in brackets):

General township: residential and farm 18.89 (19.52), commercial and industrial 34.14 (38.53); elementary public supporters: residential and farm 27.08 (28.04), commercial and industrial 30.09 (28.90); secondary supporters: residential and farm 26.17 (26.92), commercial and industrial 29.08 (29.91); and county, 33.14 (34.18).

Only elementary public school supporters will pay more this year, with rates going up 1.04 mills for farm and residential, 1.19 for commercial and industrial.

Residents of Foxboro, Canniffon and Plainfield, where street lights are installed, pay an extra levy.

Main reason for the cuts, said clerk Clare Overton, who drafted the budget, is the amount of building which went on in the township last year, thus increasing assessments.

He added that there was also a surplus of $25,500 left over from 1971.

Kiwanis Auction Raises $1,600

PICTON (Staff) — The annual Picton Kiwanis Club auction held last weekend at the County Centre this spring grossed approximately $1,600 and was described by club members as "the best yet".

Kiwanian Chris Lockyer of Picton said that more than 200 man-hours accounted for the success of the event and added that canvassers drove approximately 1,500 miles in recent weeks to pick up donations for the sale.

Mr. Lockyer added he is convinced the auction has become an event anticipated by all county residents and noted the excellent attendance this year.

WHA's Ottawa Entry Considering Selling Shares Down South

OTTAWA (CP) — Ottawa Nationals of the World Hockey Association are considering looking to the United States for financing.

Although the club already has five or six Canadian shareholders, owner Doug Michel Monday said the club has been required to tie so much money up in guarantees it is running out of working capital.

And, although he would like to keep the club all-Canada, a $300,000 offer for 30 per cent of the club from an unnamed U.S. television network appears the only answer.

He told a news conference the club is offering a letter of credit to players being paid $50,000 a year guaranteeing their first year's wages in the event the club fails to last through the opening season.

The league also is bound to put up half the $2,000,000 offer by Winnipeg to lure Bobby Hull from Chicago Black Hawks of the National League.

And minimum WHA salaries will be $15,000 a year, $1,000 more than offered by the NHL.

Michel said at least $200,000 of the league sum for Hull is expected to be earned back through endorsements. But even as the Nationals were required to post a $100,000 performance bond before an agreement could be reached with the Central Canada Exhibition Association for a lease on the 8,500-seat Ottawa Civic Centre.

Although the Nationals still have to announce signing of their first players, Michel has scheduled a news conference for Thursday at which the first signings are expected to be made public.

Denver Sleds Stay

LAUSANNE (AP) — Avery Brundage, president of the International Olympic Committee said Monday the IOC Executive Board has not accepted the proposed elimination of four-man bobsleds from the 1976 Winter Olympics in Denver, Colo.

Brundage stressed that the International bobsled and luge federations had rejected the Denver organizers' justification for a plan to drop the four-man bobsled and combine the two man bobsled and luge events on a single course.

Asked whether both the bobsled events could be held under Olympic auspices at Lake Placid, N.Y., Brundage replied:

"The Denver committee in its invitation agreed to carry out the Olympic program."

Brundage indicated however, that the International Ski Federation has agreed to drop its objections to dispersal of the Denver alpine and nordic ski events to Steamboat Springs and Vail, widely separated ski resorts more than 100 miles from the state capital.

The 84-year-old Chicago millionaire reiterated his determination to withdraw as IOC president at the Munich games.

"I think the IOC has seen enough of me in 20 years and they are perhaps getting a little tired of my presence."

Motorbikes Charged To Marlies

TORONTO (CP) — A witness testifying at the trial of Harold Edwin Ballard, president of Maple Leaf Gardens, said Monday that two motorcycles bought in 1965 from a company she worked for were charged to the account of the Toronto Marlboros and paid for by the Gardens.

Ballard, 67, is being tried on charges of fraud and theft from the Gardens involving $265,000.

The indictment against Ballard includes 28 charges of fraud and 21 of theft.

Doris Murray, whose brother now owns Brown's Sports and Cycle Co. Ltd., of Toronto, told the court she managed the store from 1965 to 1967 and extensive business was carried out with the Gardens.

She said the Gardens purchased all its hockey sticks between 1962 and 1967 from the store.

Mrs. Murray went on to say that a purchase order dated Sept. 1, 1965, showed $444.96 worth of hockey sticks for the Marlboro club. She said the Gardens sent a cheque for this amount but it was used towards payment for two motorcycles.

Ballard said the two motorcycles back to Brown's in June, 1967, and December 1968 for $150 each, the witness said.

Pittsburgh Picking Up Steam

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Pittsburgh Express is picking up steam.

"I've never seen baldish swing the bats like they do," Philadelphia manager Frank Lucchesi said after the Pirates whistled by his Phillies 7-3 and 4-2 Monday.

The sweep gave Pittsburgh 13 victories in the last 15 games and cut into the lead of New York Mets in the National League East. Despite beating St. Louis Cardinals 7-6, the Mets' margin dropped to 3½ games.

Pittsburgh's latest victories were fashioned typically—by a non-stop hitting attack.

"They don't take any pitches," said Lucchesi, stunned by 25 Pirate hits Monday. "They strikes and you throw the ball way outside and they still hit the thing. The Pirates are tough on anybody, the way they can run that ball."

Pittsburgh's part-timers are just as hard on the opposition as the regulars. Rennie Stennett and Jose Pagan, a pair of utility men, played major roles Monday.

"One of the reasons we've been doing such a good job lately is our bench," said manager Bill Virdon. "I'm not afraid to make a move when I know I've got guys who can go in and do the job."

In the other National League games Monday, Houston Astros lost to Cincinnati Reds 8-3 and had their West lead trimmed to a mere half-game over Los Angeles while the Dodgers beat San Francisco Giants 2-1. Chicago Cubs downed Montreal Expos 5-3 and Atlanta Braves clipped San Diego Padres 2-1 in other outings.

Pittsburgh's first-game attack was led by Pagan, a 36-year-old

Orioles on Perch

"I'd hate to think where we'd be without Don Baylor, Terry Crowley and Bobby Grich," Baltimore manager Earl Weaver mused.

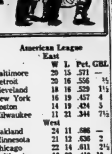
One thing for sure—the Orioles wouldn't be leading the American League East today.

Cleveland Indians ambled into Baltimore four games ago, leading the division. But after reaching headlong into the Orioles' kiddie corps and their quartet of 29-game winners, the Indians crawled out of town in third, 1½ games off the pace.

Baylor, Grich and right-hander Pat Dobson did the damage Monday night in leading the Orioles to a 6-1 triumph in the series sweep.

In other American League games, New York Yankees took a pair from Detroit Tigers 5-1 and 4-2, Oakland Athletics whipped Texas Rangers twice 4-1 and 7-2, Chicago White Sox beat California Angels 5-4 before the Angels won the 10-inning second game 3-2, Milwaukee Brewers shelled Boston Red Sox 11-3 and Kansas City's game at Minnesota was rained out.

Dobson tossed a five-hitter as the Indians managed only 19 hits and four runs in their four games. Crowley had an off night at the plate but Baylor and Grich continued their hot performances with a run-batted-in apiece while Merv Rettenmund singled, doubled and tripled and scored twice.



The Orioles got all the runs they needed against Dick Tidrow in the first inning Monday night as Baylor singled to left to score Rettenmund, then came home himself as Boog Powell singled. Grich doubled Rettenmund home in a two-run fifth.

A relief pitcher here, a pinch hitter there—that was how the Yanks swept Detroit.

Successive pinch doubles by Ron Swoboda and Rusty Torres, the latter a two-run shot, turned the Pinstripers' way in the first. Yankees' ace Steve Kline had outdueled right-game winner Mickey Lolich in the opener.

In the first game, successive sacrifice flies by Swoboda and Hal Lanier, a couple of replacements in the lineup, gave New York a 2-0 lead in the seventh and it ballooned to 5-0 in the eighth on three walks, Felipe Alou's fly ball and Torres' double.

Reid Changes Uniforms But Slab Results Same

It may be a new team and a new uniform for Scotty Reid but it's still the same old pitcher.

Last year's Rollins Construction ace and former Elks Junior star, Reid added to his collection of laurels Monday night by being named player of the week for the Commercial Softball League's initial seven days of play.

Now hurling for Quinte Hotel, Reid was chosen MVP of the week by official league on the strength of his two victories and 24 strikeouts. Reid also batted over .300 for the week with a single and a three-run triple.

As the second week of action began last night it was obvious that Reid had no intentions of letting up as he fired a three hitter and fanned eight batters in leading the Hotelmen to a convincing 8-1 victory over Devolin Motors. Quinte's three wins are one more than they managed during the entire 1971 season.

In the second game of Monday's doubleheader Ted Waite recorded his third win in as many starts and picked up his second shutout when Rollins' Construction blanked Globe Hotel 3-0.

A third inning unearned run spoiled Reid's bid for a shutout and Martin Walsh supplied the big hits as Quinte Hotel made it three in a row.

Walsh smashed a homer, triple and single and drove in three runs, more than enough for Reid to work with. Paul Moran added a double and two singles while Wayne Woods and Reid each connected for two singles.

Devolin Motors' Don Holloway was knocked for eight runs in the first two innings before settling down and blanking Quinte the rest of the way. He fanned 11 and walked only one.

Rick Rosebush posed the only real hitting threat for the Motormen connecting for a second inning triple.

Rollins' starter Ted Waite kept his 1.00 earned run average intact with his 3-0 shutout of Globe Hotel.

The stocky right hander allowed only three hits and fanned eight in keeping Rollin's undefeated going into tonight's showdown with Quinte Hotel.

Rollins' catcher Larry Mavety, who finished runner-up to Reid in the MVP balloting last week with a .556 batting average, almost made it big this week with only a leaping catch by Globe centre fielder Elmer Daley at the 256-foot sign robbing him of a home run.

Mavety did supply one hit, a single to go along with Paul Goodfellow's double and Ralph Plane's two singles.

Eert Foster went the route for the Globe, allowing eight hits. Gary Johnston's two singles and Daley's one were the only hits in support of Foster.

Action resumes tonight with Quinte and Rollins meeting at seven p.m. and the Ellis Jrs. playing Howard and Roberts weather permitting.

Elevens Even Work

Bayview Orchards and Concession both rolled elevens last night as the teams battled to an 11-11 draw in an abbreviated North Shore softball game Monday. The contest was halted after six innings because of a curfew.

Steve Doxtator, Jim Bell and Don Rosier worked for Bayview, yielding six hits, while Steve Tripp and Art Keller allowed 13 safeties for Consecon.

Mitch Yott and George Daniels carried the Bayview stocks with three hits apiece while Jack O'Neill was good for two safeties. Six different players had single hits for Consecon.

Builders Melt Dairy Queen

Rollies Construction melted down the Dairy Queen by a 6-3 score in Belleville Minor Lacrosse action Monday night.

Isard counted four goals and Burkholder one to push Rollies novices to the win. For the Dairy Queen it was Johnnies Forster firing two goals and Joe Belanger a single.

In exhibition lacrosse, Belleville Juniors Jets took a 20-7 verdict from Cobourg. Joe Cherubini, Joe Shields and Rob Richardson counted two goals apiece for the winners with Pat Nesbitt, Chris Rutledge, John Green and Brent Walmsley accounting for the final total. Mark Darby was a four-goal man for Cobourg.

Belleville Juveniles had little trouble disposing of Trenton 19-2 in another exhibition bout. Gerald Grier's hat trick was tops for Belleville with Kerry Reid and Rick Bell each scoring twice. Single markers went to Kevin Dockrill, Wayne McGeachy and Rob Turner. Harvey and Darryl Donnelly scored the Trenton goals.

Ellis Needed More Help

Bob Ellis had Holloway coming and going, but it was not enough to cop a Thurlow-Sidney Softball win.

Ellis had three hits and cut down two Holloway base runners from his centre field position but it wasn't enough to prevent Dickens Voyageur Restaurant from suffering a 6-3 loss.

Faulkner hurled a five-hitter to give Holloway the win, while Van Volkenberg yielded seven hits on the losers' mound. Throwing errors cost Dickens three unearned runs that proved to be the difference in the game.

Where'd It Go?

Devolin Motor's Bruce Sickle makes an all - out drive for first base in Monday night's Commercial Softball League action, but he could have taken it a little more easy as the ball careened past Quinte Hotel first - sacker Bob Parsons. Sickle was one of the few Motormen to reach base and the only one to score as the Hotelmen took their third straight win 8-1.

Lenders Change Tune

The Belleville Lenders received another sparkling two-hit performance from their pitching staff Monday night but this time their hitters made sure the final result would be different.

The Lenders, who dropped a 3-2 decision to The Intell Sunday despite a two - hitter by John Quinn, erupted for 21 hits en route to a 16-1 win over Constellation.

Terry Murphy fashioned a two-hitter for the winners, losing his no-hit bid and shutout in the sixth. He fanned 11 and walked four.

Wayne Carmichan supplied most of the power with a homer and three other safeties, Mike Sharrard and Bob Wilkes also added four hits each.

Steve Galeum went the distance for Constellation. Wayne May and Rob Williams were the only ones to reach Murphy for hits.

In another game last night the CNR picked up a 9-0 forfeit win over Stewart Warner. Trailing 14-1, the Stewart Warner team walked off the field, forfeiting the game.

In the final game of the night Maud Johnson dumped UIC 6-2. No game report was submitted.

Realtors Cling to Win

United Realty united to hang onto an 18-17 win over the A and W Drive-In in Belleville Minor Softball Association tyke play Monday.

Jim Sopha worked on the winners' mound with Todd Poister pitching for the losers. Rusty Downey was the top United batsman with two home runs while Sopha and Stephen Miller had doubles. Chris Finkle homered in a losing cause.

They Drove for Dough

STOUFFVILLE, Ont. (CP) — Two long-ball hitters from Burlington combined for an eight-under-par 63 Monday to win the Apache $1,500 best-ball tournament in the first all pro event of the Ontario golf season.

Gary Slater and Mike Fraser also turned in the low individual scores of the day, each with three-under-par 69s, to share the first two money places in that division.

The collapse of Ken Duggan and Gary Pitchford of Toronto's Markland Wood on the last three holes enabled the Slater-Fraser duo to nab the title.

Duggan was two-over-par twice and one-over on another closing hole and Pitchford was unable to take up the slack.

In the individual scoring, Moe Norman of Gilford and Bobby Rose of Hamilton were a stroke off the leaders with four others sounding success, drawing a good turnout to see Red Storey, Bobby Hull, Tim Horton, Bill Durnan, boxer Paul "The Investment" Nielson, and a number of others, including some members of the World Hockey Champion McFarlands.

"Why did you make me spend all that time skipping rope? The guy don't want to play no games!"

Quintes Organizing Sport Celebrities Dinner

Members of the Belleville Quintes' Sports Foundation continue to try and put some financial teeth behind senior hockey in the city.

The Foundation is currently in the process of organizing a sports celebrity dinner for one of the last three Wednesdays in August. At $10 a plate ($15 for father and son), the proceeds will go towards supporting Belleville's Senior A and Junior B hockey teams.

A similar venture staged a couple of years ago at the Club Canara proved a resounding success.

The Foundation would like anyone with any family or business connections with any potential sport celebrity guest to contact The Intelligencer Sports Department.

Slow Driver Sits Out Again

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Owner-driver John Bosworth has been in the driver's seat for good time this month and the fifth time this season.

Bosworth, of Newmarket, Ont., was set down for 10 days Monday for a driving infraction at Garden City Raceway Sun day night.

As in the five previous occasions, he was driving Beau Winter, a New Zealand-bred trotter he owns and had driven to $28,655 in purse money this year.

Bosworth, for the fourth time, was punished for "causing any horse to race in excessively slow down its or their speed."

In Sunday's race, the fourth on the card, Bosworth and Beau Winter moved to the front then, in the testimony of track officials, held the field in check for half the race before sprinting away to victory.

The latest suspension, from presiding judge Jack Stewart and associates Bill Lawrence and Bill Lang, carries through to June 7.

OULTON PARK, England (AP) — Dennis Hulme of New Zealand won the Formula 1 International Gold Cup auto race Monday in a McLaren after a tough struggle with Brazilian ace Emerson Fittipaldi, driving a John Player special.

Hulme's average speed was 115.17 miles an hour. Tim Schenken of Australia placed third in a Surtees.

LETHBRIDGE, Alta. (CP) — Earl Ingarfield, a former National Hockey League player, said Monday he has turned down an offer to coach New York Islanders, one of two new teams in the NHL. Ingarfield recently became chief western scout for the Islanders. The former New York Rangers forward said: "I'm not certain I want to pursue a career in coaching. I'm not in a position to move my family at this time.

French Detest Football

PARIS (AP) — United States professional football has flopped in Paris, shutting down with nightmare notices that Hamlet wouldn't have survived.

What the French saw was a charity benefit demonstration played Saturday by two teams of National Football League all-stars. But most believed that the performance was the real thing and regarded American football an abomination.

"To us, these American football players seemed static, without reflexes or imagination, lacking in enterprise, and in precarious physical condition," the sports daily, L'Equipe, wrote of the performance of players such as Bob Hayes, Ben Davidson and Gene Washington.

L'Equipe said, "the crowd was very disappointed, and robbed by a show which was not worth 15 francs, ($3) for box seats."

L'Aurore, the conservative morning newspaper, said the sport was a disappointment and claimed that a 10-yard touchdown pass to Hayes was a setup that fooled no one.

"Rugby can sleep soundly in France, there's no risk that American football taken its place."

Andre Boniface, France's best known rugby player, was the game's harshest critic.

"They got no rhythm or speed," he said. "I criticize them for not running enough with the ball and I think they're in poor physical shape.

"Most of all, they confirmed what I thought about them—that is that they don't have any imagination. They think too much about their size and look like big machines dressed up in uniforms."

Glennie, Kelly Deny WHA Jumps

OSHAWA (CP) — Bob Kelly and Brian Glennie are still in the National Hockey League as of Monday night.

Kelly, a robust winger with Philadelphia Flyers, denied he has signed with Chicago Cougars of the new World Hockey Association and Glennie offset rumors he has joined Minnesota Fighting Saints of the same league.

Glennie, a defenceman, said it would be one or two weeks before his lawyer, Alan Eagleson, settles contractual talks with his current employer, Toronto Maple Leafs, or the Saints.

The two were head table guests at the sixth annual Sports Celebrities Dinner sponsored by the Green Gaels junior lacrosse team.

Kelly, in denying the Chicago claims to his services, said he had signed a two-year contract with the Flyers.

Guest speaker at the function was George (Punch) Imlach, general manager of Buffalo Sabres of the NHL, who recently vacated his coaching duties after a heart attack midway in the 1971-72 season.

Imlach paid tribute to all the outstanding players he coached in two years at Buffalo and 11 years with Toronto, including Frank Mahovlich, whose name he still pronounces "Mahoolich."

King Clancy, Toronto vice-president, part-time coach and Imlach's sidekick in four Stanley Cup victories, said the deal that sent Mahovlich, Garry Unger, Pete Stemkowski and Carl Brewer to Detroit Red Wings for Norm Ullman, Paul Henderson and Floyd Smith was almost aborted at the last minute.

Water Hopefuls

Swimmers Start at Six

VANCOUVER (CP) — For two 16-year-old girls, the long, hard grind leading to the Olympic Games swimming pool in Munich this summer involves two-to-nine swims each day, their legs bound together with strips of inner tube.

And Donna-Marie Gurr and Leslie Cliff look upon it as just part of the price that has to be paid.

"We kid ourselves when we think we're training hard," Leslie says. "The Australians are working at it much harder than we are. They are swimming at least four hours a day and do much more yardage than we do. And they are training this hard all year."

For Donna-Marie and Leslie, the day starts at 6 a.m. They dress, eat a swift breakfast, then head for the pool.

For an hour and a half they swim through a variety of exercises designed to build up stamina, strength and speed.

At 8:30, they emerge from the pool, dress quickly and rush to their schools in widely separated parts of the city. Their hair is still damp as they pore over their books, attempting to get ahead in their studies far enough so they can take as long as needed—a few days or a few weeks—for an important meet.

"Sometimes you can get ahead a little before you go away," Leslie says. "But mostly you hope the teachers are nice to you and help you get caught up when you get back. Most of them do."

Both girls eat lunch at school. At the end of the school day they rush home, say hello to the family, throw in their books and scoop up the keys to the family car and drive to the pool again for a two-hour workout which includes a half hour of exercises on the pool deck.

At 7 p.m., they're back home for the dinner that has been kept simmering on the stove. Bedtime is seldom later than 9:30 p.m.

Saturday, they get the day off. Two days in a row would undo much of the benefit derived from the stern routine.

Donna agrees that their schedule is less arduous than that of the Australians.

"When we went there and saw how hard they were training, it drove home to us just how much harder we would have to work," she says. Of course, we realized this before we made the trip, but it was a an eye-opening experience just the others."

Says Leslie: "We're working up to this pace ourselves. . . . If we want to remain in contention in world swimming, we have to."

Deryck Snelling, head coach of Canada's swim team, says the only thing the girls complain about is that they're not training hard enough.

"You have to be a certain type," he admits.

"Donna and Leslie were working out with about 40 other swimmers at Crystal Pool.

"They sacrifice normal timetables and they don't go to Friday night parties," the coach says. "But they do become involved with things in their own group.

"They have things they do together—we even have our own band."

Donna admits the routine gets to her.

"Everybody you do is fated around swimming. You're too tired to do anything else. Every once in a while you think you could be doing better things, then you start getting to go on trips and things."

This is one of their prime compensations. In their brief careers they have travelled to Europe, England, Australia, South America and many parts of Canada and the United States.

Donna holds the Canadian record in the 200-metre backstroke; Leslie holds the Canadian record for the 200- and 400 metre individual medley.

Each won three gold medals in the Pan-American Games at Cali, Colombia, last year. Leslie added two second-place silvers to edge out Donna who had one second finish.

Both girls are members of the Dolphin Swim Club, one of the clubs that sent Elaine (Mighty Mouse) Tanner to the 1968 British Commonwealth Games where she won four golds and three silvers and to the 1968 Olympics where she won two silvers.

Crawford's Tune Out Cablevue Tadpoles

Crawford Metals tuned Cablevue out of the picture last night by taking a 19-1 Belleville Minor Baseball decision from the opposing tadpoles.

Steve Milaski and Rory MacLeod combined to pitch a one-hitter for Crawford's walking three batters and striking out 12. They allowed only a single to Ralph Clay. Three only three hits, but managed to serve up 23 walks during the course of the contest.

MacLeod homered for the winners with Milaski going to Peter Little and Leslie Bradley.

In the other tadpole contest played Monday, Uniroyal started rolling the right way with an 8-7 win over Kinsmen. Stewart Emerson, Steve Taylor and Craig Reeves combined for a four-hit win, striking down 19 batters on six strikes and issuing four bases on balls.

Emerson, Taylor and Allan Tomkins homered for Uniroyal with Allan Hudson, Mike Dowling and Trevor Powell hitting Kinsmen round - trippers.

Hastings Tykes stampeded Jerry's Motorcycle Tykes by a 38-4 count behind the three-hit pitching of Steve Seymour and Blaine Crandell. Their hitting attack was led by Steve McCrory with a homer and three singles, Waddell and Bill Stark also homered, while Rob Donald had a circuit blast for Jerry's.

Sudden Mile hastens held on to outslug Thurlow in a 15-14 bout. Brenn Turner powered a homer, double and single for the winners with Steve doubles and a triple, Jeff Morrill, Paul Weeks, John Enright and Pete Primeau had two hits apiece for the winners. Rod Dafoe paced Thurlow with two triples and two singles, while Farley Vader had a pair of doubles among his four hits.

In Male Role

Actress Pat Galloway smokes a cigarette in the Foyer of the Festival Theatre, Stratford, Ont., where she plays one of the male leads in Alfred de Musset's tragedy Lorenaccio. She says she is getting tired of the mentality that finds it strange to think of a woman playing a man's part.

Canadian Shows for Kids

TORONTO (CP) — A 90-minute block of all-Canadian children's programming on Saturday mornings is the highlights of the fall schedule released today by the CTV network.

Two of the three half-hour shows feature puppets. One is The Waterville Gang, a show about some underwater characters concerned about the environment. The other, Polka People, a quiz show with each team to consist of a child and a puppet.

The final third of the block will be reruns of this season's Story Theatre series.

In addition, a new 30-minute daily morning show for adults, to be called Canada A.M., will run during the week. It is expected to be patterned somewhat after NBC's Today show.

Among the many United States programs scheduled are: The Paul Lynde Show; Probe, in which Hugh O'Brien plays a gadget-loaded James Bond type; The Streets of San Francisco, a police show with Karl Malden; Ghost Story, featuring Sebastian Cabot; The Little People, with Brian Keith as a pediatrician; Bridget Loves Bernie; The NBC Mystery Movie, and the Sonny and Cher Comedy Hour.

Pollution's Dangers Dominate TV Special

NEW YORK (AP) — It was ABC's turn to tackle the pollution problem with a special Monday night called Oceans: The Silent Crisis. It concentrated not on oceans so much as on the threatened deaths of the Mississippi River and Galveston Bay from chemical poisons.

Certainly most Americans by now are familiar with pictures of fuming industrial wastes pouring into streams and rivers, and with statements of officials that "human health is endangered." But the report that "the filth of half the nation" pours into the Mississippi is alarming and dismaying.

The hour-long program showed company executives, pollution control experts of large corporations and public officials trying to explain, somewhat hopefully, that they were trying to do something to control industrial waste or attempting to dismiss the reports. One ailed such earthy language that part of his response had to be erased from the sound track.

A physician told of a newly reported pollution-caused disease which is killing bathers in the United States, Australia, Belgium England and Ireland. It was followed by an interview with the tearful widow of a man who had died of it.

Frank Reynolds came on camera at the end of the hour to say the solution to industrial and sewage pollution was "simple and expensive" but that the public and industry must be ready to assume the cost of cleaning things up—or else.

Peace Anthology Grows

TWEED (Special) — Two Nobel Peace Prize winners, Chancellor Willy Brandt of West Germany, and Lester B. Pearson, former Canadian prime minister, are among the contributors to the peace park library being sponsored by the Lester B. Pearson Peace Park Committee at Tweed.

The contribution by Willy Brandt was made when he was holidaying in Florida following his meeting with President Nixon.

During his Florida holiday the West Germany chancellor gave an interview to Roy Cadwell, chairman of Tweed area peace park and presented him with an autographed copy of his book A Peace Policy for Europe.

Other contributors to the peace park anthology include Hon. Robert Stanfield, Peter Newman, editor of McLean's Magazine; U. Thant, former secretary of the United Nations; Dr. Frederick Schiotz, president emeritus of the American Lutheran Church and C. K. Kalevar, chairman, Political Action Committee, World Federalists, Ottawa.

Queen Elizabeth, through her secretary, has given permission to quote from her New Year's message and President Nixon has given permission to use excerpts from his interview on peace with Mr. Sulzberger of The New York Times. Evangelist Billy Graham has also given permission to quote from his book Peace With God as has Pope Paul in an article No More War.

"What has been most gratifying," said Mr. Cadwell, "has been the large response from lay persons as well as world leaders. Negotiations are now being conducted to have the book published hopefully before the end of the year."

Marmora Red Cross Meets

MARMORA (Special) — This village has often received more help from the Red Cross in a year than it has collected for the organization, its service chairman, Mrs. Howard Bleeker, reported at the last regular meeting.

She said $123 had been spent for services last year, in addition to bedding received from Red Cross headquarters for a burned out family.

Mrs. George Wisti, campaign chairman, announced the blitz campaign raised $711. President Mrs. G. Meikle-john reported that students at Marmora Elementary Schools had raised over $100 at a fun day.

The local branch made a donation of $250 to the Hastings Recreation Committee's swim program for 1972.

A blood donor clinic may be held in St. Andrew's Church Hall in Marmora, if arrangements can be made with the blood donor division.

Mrs. Donald Bailey raised the possibility of Marmora Red Cross initiating a Medic-Alert program.

Medic-Alert is an organization that provides people who have allergies, drug sensitivities, heart condition, diabetes or wear contact lenses with a bracelet inscribed with this information. It can be readily seen at a time when the person might not be conscious.

Mental Illness May Be Hereditary

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My daughter is dating a young man whose sister is in a mental institution, diagnosed as a chronic schizophrenic.

They are seriously thinking of marriage. Is mental illness hereditary? Please answer this letter. A lot of happiness for future may be at stake.—Mrs. I.I.

I'm glad that not all the questions that come to me are as hard to answer as yours.

Perhaps I can offer a little guidance, but frankly there is no yes or no answer to your question. You can't, for that matter, say that mental illness is. Is illness hereditary?" For sometimes it is, and sometimes it decidedly isn't.

Mental illness, and this applies to mental retardation as well, can occur in any family, regardless of whether there is any evidence of ancestors having had the same trouble.

This would indicate to me that, regardless of whether some mental problems are hereditary, certainly not all of them are.

Before writing off a young man because his sister has mental problems may be doing him a great injustice.

On the other hand, it would be foolhardy, I should say, to marry into a family in which a pattern of mental instability exists. If a number of members of the family have exhibited episodes of such emotional breakdowns, I would think twice about the outlook.

An added part of the question is this: the precise cause, or causes, of schizophrenia have not been identified. There is evidence of some chemical changes in the system but it remains to be seen whether they are cause or effect. Obviously that makes a difference.

It is possible that the doctor or doctors treating the sister should give you some enlightenment in this instance. Perhaps yes; perhaps no. They may, for instance, have some clues to certain pressures that may have brought on the sister's breakdown.

It is possible also that if you are near one of the big medical schools or medical centres that has a team doing genetic counselling, they could offer some sound advice.

Whether they could give a definite yes or no answer is another matter.

But at least there are avenues you can explore and perhaps get help. As you can see, your question isn't an easy one that can be answered offhand. Nor should it be.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: If a man has the same type of blood a baby has, does that positively prove he is the father? Is there any other positive test?—M.D.

No to both. There are millions of men and millions of babies, but only a few blood types. So when a baby is born with a certain blood type, obviously there are millions of men with the same type of blood.

Anyway, a baby's blood type depends on the interactions of the father's blood and the mother's and need not be the same as either.

No test has been devised to prove a man is the father of a child. However, blood typing can prove in certain cases that he is not the father.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I just went to the hospital as an outpatient for an EKG. Will this tell me if I ever had a mild heart attack, even if it was about six years ago? I have heard both that it does and it does not, and don't know which to believe.—M.K.V.

You heard correctly. It may or may not.

The EKG (electrocardiogram) registers changes in the heart muscle, among other things such as rhythm.

If a prior heart attack left a sufficient scar, this would be reflected in the EKG tracing. But if healing was complete (meaning that damage was very slight) a normal tracing could result.

The bidding:

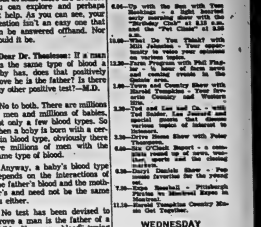
Opening lead—ten of clubs.

How much luck is there in duplicate bridge? Certainly not much in the long run. For luck tends to even out from game to game, but in the short haul it is possible to be extremely lucky —even though the same hands are played at each table.

Consider this deal from a team of four match. At the first table, South, after heavily cagily playing weak notrumps with a range of 12 to 14 points — decided to open with a notrump.

This proved to be a very lucky shot when North, using a specialized form of the Stayman convention, responded two diamonds, asking South to bid a four-card major suit if he had one. South duly obliged with two spades and North took the bull by the horns by raising partner to six.

This contract proved to be absolutely unbeatable. West led a club and declarer went up with the ace, cashed the K-Q of trumps, ran five diamonds — discarding a heart and a club from dummy — and so had only a club trick to bring home the slam.



It would not have helped West to lead the ace of hearts instead of a club. In that case, with perfect normal play, declarer would likewise have made the slam.

At the second table, the bidding went as follows:

| South | West | North | East |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1 NT | Pass | 3 ♣ | Pass |
| 3 ♦ | Pass | 4 ♦ | Pass |
| 4 ♠ | Pass | 6 ♠ | |

Here North became declarer at six spades and East led a heart. As a result, the slam went down the drain, for North had to lose a heart and a club regardless of how he played the hand. The rub of the green, you might say, but that's what sometimes happens in duplicate bridge.

Tomorrow: Card reading.

Municipalities Seem to Agree--Planning Not Working

By KENNETH SMITH
Staff Reporter

PETERBOROUGH — There was little resolve today among representatives from Lake Ontario Region municipalities as they opened a free-wheeling discussion here on their own planning capabilities.

At the Lake Ontario Regional Development Council Conference here a record developed that the whole planning provincial - municipal planning progress is in need of serious revision if it is to work adequately. Hope is mounting that the phase I development plan to be released to the 225 conference delegates tomorrow may bring some answers to the planning dilemma shared by most municipalities represented here.

Controversy began to show between the mayor of Peterborough, Douglas Galvin, and representatives of surrounding townships over the question of the ability of municipalities to plan for themselves. Galvin took the position in this morning's packed house seminar that "municipalities have been negligent in planning." Now, he fears the possible outcome.

He told delegates here that increasingly the province is taking over what the municipalities have not been prepared to do for themselves. However, he added "the minute they (provincial authorities) come in and say do this they are going to be out of office."

Galvin charged that Peterborough area municipalities have refused to take time even to comment on Peterborough planning despite requests that they do so. This sparked a heated exchange between the mayor and representatives from neighboring municipalities.

Dialogue broke into pros and cons concerning the mayor's remarks with one delegate from a lake shore township saying in his area (Port Hope) "We are not working very hard either" — whereupon ever we have animosity with other townships over planning we ask the great white father for help and this is where the problems begin."

Trenton's clerk controller O. W. Larry took the position in the seminar on planning that "only about 25 municipalities in Ontario are capable of planning for themselves."

He said "it is possible for municipalities to do the job but they can only do it effectively with their own planning staffs and this lets out 80 per cent of us."

As one of six panelists, he told the assembly here that his experience of dealing with private planning consulting firms leads him to the judgment that these people just come to town, gather facts

Commonwealth Secretary Urges Tougher Sanctions

LONDON (CP) — Commonwealth Secretary-General Arnold Smith called today for tougher sanctions against Rhodesia to force the whites into a settlement that will secure self-determination for the African majority.

"All countries with a sense of international responsibility should crack down on those who attempt to defy the United Nations sanctions," Smith said as he opened the 62nd annual conference of the Commonwealth Press Union.

The former Canadian diplomat, noting that Britain "has been as good as her word" in seeking aside her proposed settlement with the Ian Smith regime, said it is unlikely "that things will ever be quite the same again in Rhodesia.

As a result of the work of Lord Pearce and his commission, a political ferment had taken place among the Africans who now were "more articulate, better led and better organized today than they have been for many years.

Planes Trying To Isolate City With TV Bombs

SAIGON (CP) — U.S. Navy fighter-bombers using electronic "scopes" with TV nose cameras for pinpoint accuracy, launched an aerial campaign to isolate Vinh, the big coastal city midway between Hanoi and the demilitarized zone, military spokesmen said today.

The glide bomb carries in its nose a television camera that relays pictures back to a screen in the plane. When the bomb focuses on the target, the pilot keeps it on course by transmitting electronic signals to four tail fins that steer it.

Kegs Opposed Barrie Hotelmen May Boycott Formosa

BARRIE (CP) — A dispute is brewing here over the marketing of mini-kegs of draught beer for home consumption.

City beer retailers say they are considering a boycott of Formosa Spring Brewery products because the Barrie-based company plans to market the mini-kegs June 26.

Hotel owners say they all have Formosa products in supply and are continuing to sell them on demand.

But some object to the new home draught-beer product and are awaiting word from the local branch of the Ontario Hotel Association on whether they can boycott Formosa products. The OHA executive, meeting here, was expected to release a policy statement later today.

Tehran Bombs Delay Nixon

TEHRAN (CP) — A rash of bombs hit Tehran today, killing an Iranian woman, breaking both legs of a U.S. Air Force general and delaying President Nixon's schedule by 45 minutes.

One explosion occurred about 100 yards from the site of the President's final public appearance in Iran, at the tomb of the father of the Shah of Iran, where Nixon was to place a wreath. The bomb made up of two sticks of dynamite went off just outside the 16-foot wall around the tomb an hour before the president was due there.

Nixon's motorcade was delayed, but he went ahead with his appearance at the tomb.

Police charged that the bombings were the work of Iran's Marxist guerrilla movement which has been waging a two-year bomb-and-bullet campaign against the shah's regime.

Baghdad radio, in neighboring Iraq, has been calling on a 11 "patriotic Iranians" to disrupt Nixon's visit. The Iraqi regime is angered by U.S. support of Israel and is also contending with Iran for dominance in the Persian Gulf area.

White House press secretary Ronald Ziegler said the explosions were carried out by a small band of terrorists but said he was satisfied there was no directed at the life of President Nixon.

Asked if there was an attempt to assassinate the president, Ziegler said "absolutely not."

"There was no intention whatsoever to aim at the president or any member of his party," he said.

Explosions in an alley smashed windows at the office of the U.S. Information Service.

Brig.-Gen. Harold Price, an adviser to the Iranian Air Force, was badly injured when the car in which-he was traveling hit an explosive device in the road near the centre of Tehran.

Ziegler said a woman in the street was killed and another passer-by injured by the car blast.

Iranian and U.S. security agents sealed off the tomb of Rezah Shah, father of the shah, when the dynamite exploded 45 minutes before the president was due to place a wreath on it.

Th tomb is at Shaha Ray, south of Tehran.

The blast took place behind a wall about 100 feet from the tomb. Debris was thrown into the air, but the tomb was not damaged and security men standing nearby were not injured.

Officials said the debris would not have hit the president if he had been there at the time.

Thousand Junks Will Aid Hanoi

HONG KONG (Reuter) — China is believed to have amassed thousands of junks to rush capable of carrying up to 400 tons of cargo, to provide North Vietnamese with a new lifeline for war supplies, the South China Morning Post said today.

The newspaper quoted observers as saying China probably planned to start a floating shuttle service through a twisting maze of narrow channels off the Vietnamese coast above Haiphong.

This route was said to be navigable because U.S. mines dropped from the air earlier this month to seal off North Vietnamese ports had not blocked the narrow channels formed by the numerous reefs and islands of the Pai Tai Long archipelago.

The Post said the wooden junks—some up to 80 feet long and only sail-powered—were less vulnerable to mines than big steel ships.

It quoted sources as saying the route stretched from Pakhoi, the Chinese port at the top of the Gulf of Tonkin, to the Red River Delta area south of Hong Gai and Cam Pha, about 100 miles to the southwest.

Security Parley Approved

BONN (AP) — The NATO allies agreed today that military measures to reinforce confidence and increase stability between Soviet and Western forces could be discussed at a major conference on co-operation among 35 countries next year.

Th compromise was reached at the end of a two-day meeting to which United States State Secretary William Rogers brought word of agreements at Moscow that opened the way to further East-West talks.

There also was agreement today among the allies—in which France did not join—to press for separate talks with the Russians on mutual and balanced force reductions. These talks will be kept apart from the co-operation conference.

22 Die, 70 Hurt At Tel Aviv

TEL AVIV (CP) — Three young Japanese leftwing terrorists hired by a Palestine guerrilla movement staged a massacre with sub-machine-guns and grenades in the passenger terminal at Israel's international airport Tuesday night, killing at least 22 persons and wounding more than 70.

Travellers, relatives, bystanders and employees at the crowded airport were hit in the wild fusillade of gunfire and explosions loosed by three gunmen who disembarked from a Paris-Rome-Tel Aviv flight, pulled weapons from their baggage and started shooting.

In Beirut, the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine denied that the three Japanese —two of whom died after the attack—were hired guns. But the surviving terrorist was quoted as saying he did it for money.

Front sources spoke of them as "Japanese comrades" and said Arab elements belonging to the PFLP had taken part in the airport operations from inside Israel.

An Israeli official called the tragedy that took place in the customs hall Lod (Lydda) International Airport a "massacre of the innocents."

Reuter news agency said 26 were killed and 72 wounded, many critically. The Associated Press said 25 were killed and 76 injured.

Police Supt. Moderkay Tabor said 22 persons had been killed and 70 injured. But Dr. Moshe Shani, director of the Sheba Hospital, said 23 bodies were brought to his institution, and a spokesman at Bellinson Hospital said it had two. They said two dead Japanese terrorists were not among the 23.

Premier Golda Meir warned the Arab states they would be held responsible for the massacre and Israel "would find a way to prevent what happened from happening again."

She gave no indication that Israeli military reprisals were in the offing but she told parliament:

"The Arab states, who partake in great rejoicing over the murder—they will bear all the responsibility for these acts." She did not elaborate.

Mrs. Meir, her voice trembling with anger, indicated Cairo and Beirut "from which came rejoicing when the news was first announced" of the airport mass slaughter.

The Israeli premier leader censured world governments for the airport violence and said the massacre could "easily have been prevented, if only the airline on which the attackers flew had checked their passengers. . . ."

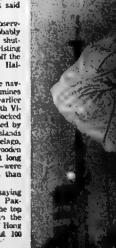
Among the dead were 13 Christian pilgrims from Puerto Rico on their way to the holy city of Jerusalem and a top Israeli scientist.

Two of the gunmen died in the attack, one apparently a suicide by his own grenade, the other killed by a bompardmen. The third was captured.

The attackers snatched Russian-made Kalashnikov assault rifles and grenades from suitcases as their baggage arrived by conveyor belt in the hall packed with between 200 and 300 persons.

In seconds the hall was a scene of carnage as the gunmen rushed to various assault positions, indiscriminately spraying passengers and waiting relatives and friends with gunfire and hurling their grenades.

Bodies, dismembered limbs, blood and broken glass splattered the floor. The moans of the dying drowned out by screams and the roar of exploding grenades.



The floor of the morgue was wet with blood and some of the bodies at Sheba Hospital were blasted by grenade burns beyond any normal recognition.

Two of the victims died on the operating table.

Some of the faces were frozen in open-eyed horror. Most of them looked burned, indicating the terrorist killers may have used phosphorous grenades.

The gunmen arrived aboard an Air France plane from Rome. One apparently committed suicide by blowing his head off with a grenade and the other was cut down by a companion's bullets.

The third was captured and told his interrogators he was a member of the extreme left-wing Japanese organization The Red Star Army.

A Hat for Being Ahead

If Capt. Albert Diahaw seems touched with a certain jauntiness, it's for good reason. For the second successive year he's been the first captain to bring commercial cargo into Belleville harbor and symbolically open the navigation season. For that he briefly sported the traditional top hat — presented by Harbor Master Don Barrett — on the bridge of his tanker, Imperial London, last night, as crew prepared to pump out oil cargo into nearby tanks. # Retarded Need More Facilities

By MARGARET HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — Prince Edward County's workshop for the mentally retarded must be relocated in the town of Picton if it intends to remain within the limited avenues of "realistic activities" open to them.

L Lloyd George, director of ARC Industries in the county, Tuesday told Picton Rotarians the primary need for re-establishment of workshop facilities is "a sponsor who will assist in planning and fund raising."

He suggested that $35,000 would place the workshop project "in a first class position" to meet immediate requirements.

The Prince Edward workshop for ARC Industries now is located on the Glenora Road premises of Picton.

Mr. George remined Rotarians mental retardation affects approximately 10,000 persons in Ontario who have IQs of 70 or less.

This represents about three per cent of the population and in Prince Edward, where the population is roughly 20,000 persons an estimated 600 are mentally retarded.

The mentally retarded are divided into four groups, namely the mildly retarded, the moderately retarded and the severely and profoundly retarded.

Members of the mildly retarded group have an IQ of from 50 to 70 and achieve a mental age of eight years.

The moderately retarded have IQs of 32 to 50 and reach a mental age of from four to eight.

The severely retarded have IQs of 18 to 32 and reach a mental age of two to four years while the profoundly retarded have IQs under 18 and mental ages of two years or less.

"The mildly retarded account for 75 per cent of the mentally retarded population. For Prince Edward County this means that of the estimated 600 mentally retarded population some 450 of them are in the mildly retarded group," said Mr. George.

He explained that 10 per cent of these persons will take their place in the community doing ordinary jobs while approximately 45 persons will remain in need of help.

"For the most part these people are educable and some people are educable and could be trained to become fully employed," added the workshop director.

The moderately retarded person is termed "trainable" and may have mastered some of the basic rudiments of secondary school. His further judgement is poor and they are incapable of anticipating thought processes, according to Mr. George.

Severely retarded persons can be trained to dress themselves and perform the simplest tasks of assembly and packaging while the profoundly retarded have little or no concept of their surroundings and are totally dependent.

Mr. George noted the moderately, severely and profoundly retarded comprise 25 per cent of the mentally retarded population and explained that by this figure means that approximately 250 persons in the county.

It is "guesstimated" that of these 250 persons, 112 fall into the range of moderately retarded while the remaining 138 who are severely or profoundly retarded presumably have been institutionalized.

Mr. George said a maximum of 33 per cent of the mildly and moderately retarded eventually might make use of the workshop facility. Transportation presents a major problem for many of the potential trainees.

Close examination of this situation is needed in view of the recently proclaimed declaration of general and mentally retarded persons, he said.

Mr. George predicted a maximum workshop population projection at full training for Prince Edward "within a reasonable time frame" and added there are now six trainees with a seventh one approved.

Two applications also are under examination at present.

Bay Two Feet Above Normal

Water levels in the Belleville area of the Bay of Quinte are up two feet above normal.

But the rise poses no problems that Harbor Master Don Barrett can foresee.

Mr. Barrett today reported usual maximum depth in the Bay harbor area is 12 feet. Levels now have risen to more than 14 feet.

What exactly is calming the rise is not immediately discernible. Harbor authorities were watching for higher levels last year following an winter of heavy snow. Higher water didn't materialize — until this year.

However, no problems have been caused dock facilities in the harbor area, Mr. Barrett said. He said Lake Ontario levels generally were up about three feet.

Last weekend officials of the Canada — U.S. St. Lawrence River Power Project reported lake levels at a record height — an average of 246.34 feet above sea level. The rise had not topped the maximum 246.5 acceptable to the commission.

Only heavy rains could take it over the maximum and levels can be adjusted by engineers — although precautions must be taken against flooding, said a commission official.

Despite what the occasional disgruntled motorist might think, the Belleville Parking Authority is not out to get the last nickel.

At least it is not going to follow the lead of the Toronto authority, which has installed hoods over meters masking out the dial so that motorists cannot take advantage of unused time left by the previous motorist.

"Absolutely not — there is just no way," was the comment today from Mrs. Kay Manderville, chairman of the local parking authority, when asked if Belleville was going to follow the Toronto lead.

"We are not out to get people. We are happy to have motorists come downtown to shop," she said.

Neither is the city going to install parking fines such as has been done in many other Ontario centres.

Mrs. Manderville said that parking fines in a number of other centres have been increased to $2.

"Regular parking fines in Belleville will remain at $1," she said.

He said planning of a workshop embraces three distinct phases, accommodation, programming, and equipment.

The workshop director outlined the required "facilities and equipment" suggested as essential if feasible within Prince Edward.

He suggested gardening or the establishment of a nearby new clothing outlet is a satisfactory supply centre.

"Because the county is not primarily industrially oriented, it is felt that we cannot rely on industry as a possible source of program activity through contracts. Although the potential in this area is still significant, other interesting alternatives are available such as furniture repair and refinishing," observed Mr. George.

He described the type of building required as a multi-use programs and urged Rotarians to offer consideration to support of the project in future.

Allen David Chambers, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. Keith Chambers, Belleville, received his Bachelor of Administrative Studies degree at convocation exercises held May 28 at the University of Waterloo. Mr. Chambers, who is a graduate of Quinte Secondary School, has accepted a teaching position in the mathematics department at Bowmanville High School.

Planning

and then go away to a desk and prepare a plan.

Commenting on Trenton's problems on gaining approval for its official plan he said "the public should not have to wait for years to get a plan through — the provincial planning branch (of the department of municipal affairs) has become a hopeless skein of years."

Larry said "we have to sit on their doorstep — they say you can't do this but they refuse to tell you what you can do."

Reeve Allan Anderson of Bloomfield speaking from the floor, suggested the department of municipal affairs would only get involved in local planning matters if there has been an appeal. He contended what is needed is a road map type of province-wide plan.

Quinte planning board director Don Cameron agreed with Anderson, saying controlling weeds on individual building properties is that too many plans are being produced on a municipal basis rather than on a community basis.

In definition, he said a community could be a collection of municipalities.

He suggested to the opening day of the LORDC conference that the department of municipal affairs should only get involved in local planning matters if there are appeals.

John MacKenzie, Reeve of Faraday township, was sympathy from delegates, when he expressed the view it is wrong to pay planners local if if the department of municipal affairs tells councils counties what they are going to do anyway.

Summarizing sentiments expressed this morning Mr. Larry said he believes local municipalities have the ability to plan but under present circumstances it is difficult for them to do so.

However, Mayor Galvin said lack of ability at local levels has led to the Metro-borough situation. He said "Peterborough is the worst planned city in Canada and it is a fiasco."

He recommended the province supply only consulting services to municipalities for planning.

One member of the Peterborough planning board agreed with the saying "no man is an island" as he talked of the necessity for intermunicipal cooperation. He said, corrected himself however, to the amusement of Belleville area representatives "no municipality is an island, except of course for some municipalities in the Belleville area by virtue of reference to the schism in Quinte Planning Board.

Suit Against LOCL Sought

TORONTO (CP) — The Environmental Law Association asked Attorney-General John Bales Tuesday for permission to prosecute Lake Ontario Cement Ltd. under the Beach Protection Act.

The action is the second initiated by the association in an attempt to protect pollution-plagued dunes near Lake Ontario Provincial Park south of Whitby.

Natural Resources Minister Leo Bernier announced earlier the sand-dune site will be taken over as parkland as soon as an alternative sand source is found for the company.

Meanwhile, the environmental group said the company is continuing to truck away the dunes. The huge sand hills built by wind and waves are described as unique in North America.

The association, acting for Larry Green of Pollution Probe, maintains that the cement company violated the act because it does not have a licence under the Lakes and Rivers Act. A government spokesman confirmed that no licence has been issued to the cement firm. "We don't know that one is needed."

David Estrin, executive director of the law association, said the beach propulsion but

Young Dancers Popular

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

TYENDINAGA RESERVE — Mohawk youngsters here are intricately treading in their forefathers' footsteps.

For these young Indian dancers, the response to their efforts, like their repertoire, is growing slowly but surely.

Organized last year, they have been making an increasing number of public performances for the surprised delight of their spectators.

They have treaded their way through performances at Kingston's St. Lawrence College, school auditoriums in Belleville and Eastern Ontario. This year they will dance at Queen's University and are scheduled to perform during Kingston's tercentenary.

The young dancers are students of the one-room public school at the reserve's west end and pupils of Mrs. Earl Hill, wife of the Quinte Mohawks' chief.

Inspiration for the group came to the school teacher while watching Indian dancers in other areas.

"I'd seen dancers on other reserves and it occurred to me we had nothing like that here and it would be rather interesting for the children to learn," she recalls.

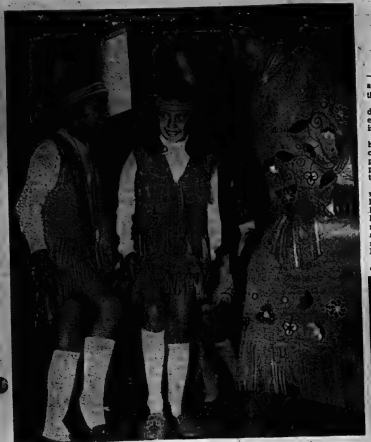
The project was timely, blending in with other attempts to revive Mohawk culture on the reserve.

"Our future culture depends on the children," observes Mrs. Hill, who began teaching the ancient dance measures herself — sometimes during school days, mostly on Saturdays, in practice sessions that last even throughout the summer, so apparently enthusiastic are her young Mohawk charges.

The youngsters easily adopt themselves to the routines — as in other areas of cultural learning.

"We find they are more interested and pick it up fast — even the Mohawk language — faster than the adults," she believes.

Since native peoples lived in close harmony with their natural environment, it's unavoidable that most of their dances are inspired by what they observed around them. Thus the ancient routines have such names as mosquito dance, raccoon dance, duck dance.



To date, the Mohawk youngsters are proficient in 11 of them and — with a voluminous historic selection to draw on — will learn more. The measures are accompanied by chants and drum beats, most of them taped and on records from other reserves. Soon, however, Mrs. Hill hopes her team will also learn their own accompaniments.

The group, at present totalling 28, has drawn enthusiastic response during its public appearances, she says. Many people, including some of the youngsters, were pleasantly surprised when they first viewed the results in public. As a result, interest in the project has stepped up on the reserve.

It will be an ongoing project — with graduates replaced by new school students willing to join.

It can also be "exhausting" at times, as the youngsters repeatedly practise the dance measures until they are proficient.

"Sometimes, as a matter of fact," confesses Mrs. Hill, "the children can outdance me. So I just show them how it's done — and they take it from there."

Sidey-College Lights Coming

Traffic signals are warranted at the Sidney and College streets intersection, the city's traffic and Light Committee was told Monday.

Police Chief Douglas Crosbie endorsed a report of City Engineer Wilbur Purcell that signals are required at the junction — that the installation should coincide with reconstruction of Sidney St.

Signals at Herchimer - Victoria avenues were not recommended at this time.

No Mothers As Guards

Not everyone is for motherhood.

Not in the role of crossing guards, anyway.

That's the intimation from two top civil servants to the City's Traffic and Light Committee.

Reviewing a request that mothers be stationed as guards at a sharp curve midway along Cannifton Road, the committee learned:

(1) Police Chief Douglas Crosbie noted "it would be dangerous for mothers to act as crossing guards."

(2) City Solicitor John C. Miller agreed. Such crossing safety measures are a police responsibility. Private persons should not be engaged in traffic control, unless (a) properly appointed and (b) both they and city hall are protected from liability.

The committee, however, decided to reply to the original proposal — from a concerned Cannifton Road mother — and promise curve warning signs would be posted when the road's current reconstruction program permits.

Girls Join Cadets

The establishment of a girls cadet section of the Hastings Prince Edward army cadet corps is an admirable move.

It might be asked though, why, with such an encouraging beginning — 25 girls have joined thus far — there was no place for these young people to say the Girl Guides? Whatever the answer, it is clear the idea of girls enrolling as Army cadets has a special appeal of its own. Hence the initial response, with the prospect of their numbers doubling next year.

The training emphasis for the girls will be on citizenship rather than the military role which is only to be expected; and whether or not it leads to a career in the services later on, the advantages of participation by the girls in the cadet program should be inestimable. Already they are having an opportunity to prove their resourcefulness — and, as a group, the value of a dollar. Thus far, there is no grant for even a uniform, so they are busy at their sewing machines turning pants into skirts!

Royal Memories

Looking again at the life and times of Edward, Duke of Windsor, the monarch who gave up the Throne to marry the woman he loved, one recent memory we have of him was a television documentary made, as we recall, by Charles Collingwood of CBS two or three years ago. It was filmed at the Duke's Paris home and was notable for its simplicity of treatment, with Collingwood and the Duke walking around the ample grounds of the estate and speaking of everyday things.

So far as we are aware the Duke was never in Belleville during his travels in this country, but there is an interesting memorial of sorts to him in the city. It is a picture that is part of the interior decor of Tiffanys at The Mall. It has been there since The Mall's opening, hard by the coffee counter, and it shows four generations in the persons of Queen Victoria, Edward VII, George V — and Edward as a boy, perhaps no more than five or six years old. The picture is just a print but in terms of Royal legend and the passing of the Duke at the age of 77 it is of more than usual significance.

Nixon's Efforts

It has been a remarkable ten days or so that President Nixon has spent in the Soviet Union. One thing that the talks and agreement to limit nuclear arms means is that the Vietnam problem, although as pressing as ever, has not been allowed to get in the way of a general détente between east and west. If the war can somehow be brought to an end, or a negotiated settlement be reached, it will be one of the many solid achievements of Mr. Nixon's presidency, notably his visits to China and Russia and his attempts to foster better understanding with these two powerful giants.

Hospital Parking

Agreement in principle for the introduction of a parking fee by users of the gravel over-taxed parking facilities at Belleville General Hospital strikes us as the most sensible and fair method of coping with the problem — at least for the time being. The estimated $50,000 a year it would mean for hospital funds should also make it easier to accept. No one should object to monies left over from salaries of security, nursing staff and other necessary expenses being put toward general hospital needs.

Barbed 'Gift'

When United Nations Secretary-General Dr. Kurt Waldheim was in South West Africa recently he met a cross section of the people there, among them an unexpected Bushmen family who hitchhiked from their distant native Ituzwkwe region to file a complaint. Game was getting scarce as a result of the intrusion of too many black people into their hunting grounds.

Having made their point, the couple and their son left after presenting Dr. Waldheim with an unusual souvenir — a poison-tipped Bushmen arrow. It was like the old Indian legend about white men speaking with forked tongues, only in reverse. Doubtless Dr. Waldheim, pictured gingerly accepting the missile, in the May issue of South Africa Scope, needed a poisoned arrow like he needed another brush-fire war in the area.

And It Costs $5 Billion A Year

Government: Balky Elevators and Sub-par Management

In the first of five articles on the efficiency of government, Queen's Park correspondent DON O'BEARN says that with the lack of experience of men running it we can hardly expect government to be run efficiently.

There is a bank of two elevators at the east end of the Queen's Park.

These are the elevators the premier uses to get to his office and that ministers use to get to cabinet meetings.

For a solid year service was not very good on these elevators, one or the other was always in trouble. In fact for 12 whole months there was not one time when both elevators were functioning.

At present this building is being sandblasted. Sand-blasting means a lot of inconvenience.

For one thing windows have to be closed shut and ventilation is cut off.

This building is now almost entirely used for legislation.

This means it is really busy only part of the year, when the house is in session.

It can be depended on that in August and September there will be relatively few people in it.

This would be a logical time for a sand-blasting operation.

So the government had it scheduled for April and May, at the height of the session when the maximum number of people would be inconvenienced.

Further, the windows were taped up — but two weeks ahead of the blasting.

Svengali couldn't have done better.

These are minor matters in the huge operation of Ontario government.

But they are important in that they reflect an inefficiency which could run right through government.

And anyone who is close to government and relatively unbiased knows that actually this does run right through it.

There are small situations represent a condition of poor management — lack of practicality, clumsiness and just straight inefficiency — which typifies government administration and operation.

And though this may be surprising to some people it really should not be. Few through the characters of government, it could hardly be anything else. Most of the politicians and all elected government is that its top level of management is amateur and, in Ontario at least, the second level is at most semi-pro.

The top management is the ministry. Ministers must be chosen from elected politicians. They must be selected from what is available. And this almost invariably means they are men of no experience in large-scale management — for managers of big business seldom enter politics.

The second level managers are deputy ministers and other civil servants of this rank.

The province has more than 70,000 direct employees and probably at least another 20,000 under indirect control through the Workmen's Compensation Board, Ontario Hydro and similar agencies.

It is very, very big business.

And managing it at the top are an assortment of lawyers and small business men.

Before entering the government most would have been reasonably successful in their own fields, a few perhaps a few hundred thousand dollars, if that, and a handful of employees.

Even the involvement of the few executives still retained have been in the "small business" category.

At the second level most of the deputy ministers are men who have come directly from university into government.

With them, and a few others who have worked their way up through the ranks, their only management experience has been in government itself.

And expecting them to run the huge enterprise of government efficiently could be perhaps the same as hoping for a chief clerk or an administrative chef to run the CPR and make it pay.

The Checkered History of Anglo-French Relations

By JOHN HARBRON
Foreign Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

Does history repeat itself? A radiant Queen Elizabeth in Paris in May conquers the hearts of Frenchmen. The stakes? A future happy French-British relationship with Britain who is at last in the European Common Market.

Almost 70 years ago, in 1904, Edward VII, the Queen's great-great grandfather, in best knave and Francophile, won over a jubilant Paris and formed the Entente Cordiale. The stakes? Britain and France united in future common purpose.

Unlike the British entry into the common market, the Entente Cordiale ended as an alliance for war. The blood of English and French soldiers, so often shed in history against each other, was shed as brothers-in-arms in the 1914 and 1939 wars.

France and Britain linked together in Europe has been more of a dream than reality. In 1415, Henry V, flush with French provinces from his victory at Agincourt, compelled the defeated French king to sign a peace which included marriage to his daughter.

The English and those of English stock around the world have been raised for generations on the arrogant assumption the French are losers. After all, they lost the great battles fought for 400 years between England and France, from Crecy and Agincourt to Trafalgar and Waterloo.

The French have been nurtured on their own stories of glory. The European empire built by Louis XIV and Napoleon Napoleon I were the real centres of European art and culture, to the detriment of what the English, Italian or Germanic cultures had to offer.

Yet by 1900, Britain and France were imperial states on parallel courses. The boundaries of their overseas possessions were impinging on each other in Africa and Asia.

Their nations had an inherent self-confidence, call it arrogance if you will, that their superiority as real commercial and military states could never be supplanted.

But together as allies they lost the best of their manhood in the 1914-1918 war, and whatever was left of the greater virtues of the Edwardian era in the 1939-1945 war. France lost more in that struggle, her nationhood. In the summer of 1940, her bitter and dissident leaders blamed the British for not helping out with more troops and aircraft.

The evil legacies of history appeared again. Perfide Albion, Perfidious Britain, had abandoned the Entente Cordiale to German conquest and occupation.

In 1963 when he refused to accept Britain in the European Common Market, the late haughty President Charles de Gaulle was acting more as a prisoner of history then as a pragmatic leader.

Britain would pay for entry not with a price set by the union of shopkeepers, but set by the same general who once cooled his heels in a wartime London waiting for recognition and an army to reconquer France.

The British smarted in typical style, turned their backs on the French, stumbled about the wrong ally in two world wars. After all didn't the English, who were almost conquered by the Norwegians in 1066, have more in common with their Nordic neighbors, the Scandinavian countries, than the Germans, than with the French?

But it was the Normans from Normandy who conquered England in 1066 bringing Roman jurisprudence and a romance language to embellish the Anglo-Saxon base of law and language. The English and French were to war incessently against each other through the centuries, even though their cultures were intertwined.

The English language without its words of French origin would have been a harsh, unattractive language, unlikely to have become the language of an empire.

The French-speaking British Queen's presence in Paris was a personal reminder to both of them of how many things the French and the British have had in common.

An announcement released by the University of New Brunswick at its recent Encaenia revealed that two students from Belleville and district were among the 24 Ontario students receiving degrees. John Patrick Funnell, Belleville, received the degree of Bachelor of Common Law, and George Burton Bailey, Tyendinaga, received the degree of Bachelor of Science in Forestry. Barbara Wright was a weekend guest in Tweed.

The smoke nuisance in Belleville has become quite a problem to members of council and although there is a smoke bylaw not much action has been noted in its enforcement. A recommendation was endorsed "that the Police Department in conjunction with the city engineer be instructed to take immediate action to have the fires on Coleman St. conform to the smoke bylaw, if the situation is not cleared up to the satisfaction of the departments, the necessary steps to prosecute are to be taken."

Today in History

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Today is May 31, 1972 . . .

The Peace of Vereeniging 70 years ago today—in 1902 —brought the South African War to an end. The war, a result of years of friction between Britain and the independent Dutch-speaking states, had caused serious controversy in Canada also — except for the Nile expedition of 1884, where Canadians took part only as individuals—it was the first time Canada had to decide whether or not to support the mother country in war.

In the end, 6,300 Canadians saw action, in the battle of Paardeberg and the relief of Ladysmith. Three Canadians won VCs.

1952—The Volga-Don canal in Russia was opened.

1942—Churchill said every German city would be attacked.

1941—The British evacuated Crete.

1941—Russia gave up extraterritorial rights in China.

Russia-Another Viewpoint

In response to the letter from a visitor to the USSR, praising life in that country, I will agree I had great improvements were made since the 1918 revolution. On the other hand over 50 years of progress in Science and technical knowledge has accomplished much also in other parts of the world. (I am thinking mainly of West Germany and Japan). In Russia, however, every success is ascribed to Communist party, forgetting the fact that much of what is enjoyed today has been imported from the west. Not to be forgotten is the fact that heavy price has been paid for improvements by slave labour during the Stalin era, when millions perished in forced labor camps.

But beside all social improvements and inspite of all anti-fiscal merriment, there is a prevailing gloom, a sort of drab life lacking the variety enjoyed in a free society. The nation's life is cast into one big mould and is geared for State-worship. Anyone attempting to go his own way will soon face the Secret Police.

The tourist of course knows nothing about the inner - life. They visit the country at a set son when all nature is alive with beauty. Escorted by trained guides to selected places, the happy visitor will succumb to all the charm. Pampered by all tourist party, forgeting the fact that much of what is enjoyed today has been imported from the west. Not to be forgotten is the fact that heavy price has been paid for improvements by slave labour during the Stalin era, when millions perished in forced labor camps.

But beside all social improvements and inspite of all anti-fiscal merriment, there is a prevailing gloom, a sort of drab life lacking the variety enjoyed in a free society. The nation's life is

MPs Are Hungry For Information

By STEWART MacLEOD

OTTAWA (CP) — When MP's sense an election is the air—as they now do—the government, ironically, becomes their biggest supplier of campaign material.

By placing strategic questions on the Commons order paper, the MPs glean valuable details that would take them months to research themselves. And as elections approach, the urgency for getting the information becomes more obvious.

Early last week, there was the unusual sight of seven opposition MPs on their feet at once to complain about delays in getting answers for questions that had been sitting on the order paper for weeks, and sometimes months.

Many of the questions being asked now will undoubtedly find their way into campaign material. Since the replies are published in Hansard, they are available to all.

For instance, any MP wanting to argue that too much federal money is being spent in Quebec will be able to look at information on the allocation of funds under the $160 million Local Initiatives Program and discover that $39,068,000 went to Quebec organizations. The nearest rival was Ontario with $14,277,652.

Or any MP wanting the information can grab the figures regarding payments made under the Central Mortgage and Housing Corp. Act, including a breakdown of defaults.

There is information on the 1,388 homes built for Indians living on reserves during the last few years, and the fact that the speed limit on Parliament Hill is 20 miles an hour.

There have been no speeding convictions this year, it is noted.

But most of the replies represent questions for election mills.

While opposition MPs may have another crack at the cost of refitting the old aircraft carrier Bonaventure, Liberal MPs may be tempted to remind Ontario pensioners that $1.6 billion has been paid to them from the old-age security fund since 1952.

There are 400 statistics produced on various federal spending programs. Many MPs have managed to get a breakdown by constituency.

Interested MPs have the official knowledge that Information Canada has received 27 complaints about Unemployment Insurance Commission services and that there are no immediate plans for a new post office on Mount Pleasant, Leaf.

By thumbing through the replies over the last year or so—and there will be a big pile—any MP can get enough material to arm him through an entire campaign—whether he was out to defend or destroy the government.

The best time to look for politically-loaded questions is just before an expected election, such as now.

Detrimental to Health?

The following is the text of a letter from Mr. Ernest Hastings to Dr. C. R. Lenk of the Hastings and Prince Edward Health Unit.

Dear Sir:

As one in a group of over 30 Corbyville district citizens, I am writing to request your co-operation regarding a situation that we believe to be detrimental to the health of our people. We number over 800 children in Harmony Public School—

The question is: Is there or is there not live Infectious Hepatitis or Salmonella virus in the sewage sludge being spread on the Robinson farm in Con. 4 Thurlow?

This, our lawyers tell us, is well within the area of your discovering and I feel it is your responsibility to either confirm it, or deny it.

I await your reply.

Deadlock on Docks Deepens

MONTREAL (CP) — The deadlock in a labor dispute on the docks of Montreal, Trois-Rivieres and Quebec City deepened Tuesday when the Maritime Employers Association indicated its support the shoremen who have ignored back-to-work calls.

The association, which represents a group of companies using Montreal harbor, said the decision to suspend the stevedores was taken because the men refused their "contractual obligation" to report to work.

Other factors in the decision were the refusal of the union to submit to binding arbitration and its disobedience of court injunction ordering a halt to the walkout.

"We feel there has been a violation of the agreement and that we have no other choice but to suspend the men," association president A. R. Masters told a news conference. The MEA is bargaining agent for management in the dispute.

Jean-Marie Salad-Onge, president of striking Local 375 of the International Longshoremen's Association, later said the move is "the last resort of the employers."

He added that the two sides are a long way from settlement. "This means that we have to settle the job security problem all over again before we go back to work."

Acting Labor Minister Bryce Mackasey said in the Commons the employers had little alternative but to suspend the longshoremen. He said the union members "should be added to questions of their leadership."

A three-year agreement between the MEA and longshoremen's association was signed March 29 and included a pension plan described by the union as one of the best in North America.

The management association says the agreement, which put in a minimum $6.71 an hour exclusive of fringe benefits, created "the most generous job security plan of any port in the world." They say it also provided for binding arbitration of all disputes during the life of the agreement.

In return for the pension plan, the ILA agreed to give up the custom of working in gangs of 18 men each. The gang system was to have been replaced by a computer dispatch system due to come into effect in September.

The dockworkers walked out May 8 to protest the jailing of three Quebec labor leaders. The men returned to work the following day after the MEA obtained a court injunction ordering them to stay on the job.

Phil Cutler, legal adviser for the union, said that the men remained on the job until May 11 when the employers started to break up the gangs and assign men to different duties.

The union protested that the gangs were not to be broken up until the computer dispatch system came into effect, he said, but the employers told the men to obey the orders and stay on the job or face contempt-of-court charges for breaking injunctions still in effect.

ILA members walked out again and most ocean-going traffic in the three ports ground to a halt.

Body-in-freezer Case

Manslaughter Plea Accepted

TORONTO (CP) — David Todd, 38, changed his plea to guilty of manslaughter Tuesday in the sixth day of his trial for the killing his wife.

The change came after two psychiatrists testified Todd was unable to form intent to kill or injure his wife.

Grace Todd, 34, was killed last July. Her body was found in a home freezer Jan. 11. She had been shot in the head.

Dr. Peter Rowsell of Oakville appeared for the Crown and testified that Todd told him his wife had taunted him for inadequacy and threatened to leave him. The doctor said Todd was intensely jealous of his wife and had delusions she was unfaithful to him.

"In popular parlance," said Dr. Rowsell, "he had gone over the edge."

The psychiatrist summoned for the defence, Dr. Basil Orchard, said Todd's description of the shooting was "pretty accurate." Todd told him the marriage had deteriorated for two years and he had become increasingly jealous. He said he began to drive his wife to and from work, call her throughout the day and often have lunch with her.

He objected to his own brother touching her when they danced together.

She had finally told him she did not love him and was going to leave him. Todd said he wanted to scream and that he had a feeling in his head and chest he could not control.

When his wife turned her back on him he picked up a loaded gun.

He said: "I pointed it at her and she turned. I guess she was scared and she put her hand up. I flipped it and somehow it went off."

Dr. Orchard said that after the shooting, Todd lived divided between happy fantasies and the reality of keeping the body, devising stories to explain his wife's absence and finding ways to get money to pay his bills.

Trudeau Cannot Remember Protest

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau said Tuesday that he didn't know if he had received and answered a telegram of protest sent to him last week by a national conference of newspaper publishing editors.

The telegram, drafted and unanimously endorsed by the editors last week in Saint John, N.B., protested government election legislation that would ban partisan political content in newspapers published the day before a federal election and the day of the vote itself.

The telegram termed the proposed prohibition a "completely unacceptable" infringement on the freedom of the press.

A spokesman in the prime minister's office said later that the telegram had been received However, he added, no acknowledgment or reply could be sent because the protest telegram included no return address.

In the Commons, the question was raised by Thomas M. Bell (PC—Saint John-Lancaster), who referred to "shamefully-worded criticism" by "a very eminent body" and asked about the reply.

Mr. Trudeau riffled through some papers on his Commons desk and replied:

"I cannot say whether or not it has been received among the many pieces of mail that I get.

"I have received something from the Committee for an Independent Canada that the honorable member might want to question me about, and I may have received the item the honorable member refers to. I am sure that if I did it was acknowledged by my office.

"As to the answer that we would give, the minister will state it on behalf of the government when the debate continues in the House. . . ."

Creditiste Advised To See Psychiatrist

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Parliamentary procedure was interrupted abruptly in the Quebec national assembly Tuesday as land acquisitions sparked angry name-calling and accusations.

At Quebec, Bernard Dumont, Creditiste member for Megantic, angrily described Opposition Leader Gabriel Loubier as an "vulgar little politician" and "disgusting."

Speaking on a question of privilege, Mr. Dumont replied to a statement by Mr. Loubier, Unite-Quebec leader, who said Mr. Dumont should remain in hospital under intensive care by his psychiatrist. A serious car accident last December forced Mr. Dumont to spend a lengthy period in hospital.

Mr. Loubier made the statement after Mr. Dumont questioned him about the purchase of some land in his riding where a new junior college is to be built.

In other legislatures:

Fredericton: Government and opposition members of the New Brunswick legislature agreed that the energy and enthusiasm of youth could be an effective force to improve the province.

Gerald Clavette (L—Madawaska) urged Youth Minister Brenda Robertson to channel the energies of youth into constructive programs and avoid frustration, which he termed "one of the great enemies of youthful freedom."

St. John's: Finance Minister John C. Crosbie was to introduce a budget in the Newfoundland legislature today with indications of a period of austerity for the province.

Winnipeg: The New Democratic Party government held a frantic 20-minute roundup of members to defeat a Liberal private member's bill. The bill, proposing more disclosure of the activities of the Crown-operated Manitoba Development Corp., was defeated on second reading by a vote of 20 to 17.

East Block Tour

OTTAWA (CP) — Parliament Hill's East Block, the only building on the hill largely untouched since Confederation, will be opened to the public, on a limited basis. The East Block includes Prime Minister Trudeau's main office. Mr. Trudeau announced Tuesday that, beginning July 1, there will be guided tours of the East Block on Saturdays, Sundays and public holidays. After the summer months the availability of tours "will depend on the degree of public interest."

Regional Incentives Opposed

OTTAWA (CP) — New Democrats unsuccessfully tried to have regional economic expansion incentives abolished as the Commons committee on regional development Tuesday wound up a long series of stormy meetings.

John Burton (NDP — Regina East) read a statement of more than 1,000 words condemning the program of giving grants to industries that locate in depressed areas. He charged, among other things, that there are potential conflicts of interest since some companies that get grants also presumably contribute to the Liberal party.

Liberal MPs reacted strongly against his statement, copies of which were handed to the press by an NDP worker.

Jean Marchand, minister of regional economic expansion, said the New Democrat's statement was nonsense, and based on narrow-minded partisan politics.

"If ever I get out of politics this would be the reason why," the minister exclaimed. "Because this is nonsense."

U.S. Top Immigrant Source

The United States for the first time has displaced Britain as the major source of immigration to Canada. Official figures released recently show that 24,366 of the 121,900 immigrants in 1971 were from the United States, about the same number as in 1970. British immigration, which has been falling steadily since 1966, was 15,451 in 1971, down from 28,500 in 1970. Immigration from the United States has been increasing since 1963. Graph shows immigration pattern from Britain and United States since 1961 and total immigration figures. (CP Newsmap)

Province to Assemble Land

TORONTO (CP) — The provincial government will become more active in assembling land, leaving the private sector free to handle construction and implementation of housing projects, D. W. Stevenson, assistant deputy minister of trade, economics and intergovernmental affairs, said Tuesday.

Mr. Stevenson told the annual meeting of the Urban Development Institute that the North Pickering community development project near the planned new airport for Toronto will be the first of many such projects.

The province will purchase the land and islands to oversee the creation of a new city on the site.

The announcement of further provincial land assembling caused many developers in the audience to shake their heads in apparent dismay.

Samuel Klapman, director of long-range planning for Kitchener, received a warmer reception when he suggested three points which would enable senior levels of government to help municipalities in meeting housing needs and creating jobs.

Mr. Klapman, reading a speech prepared by Kitchener planning commissioner W. E. Thomson, suggested:

—That senior governments give municipalities early warning of new programs;

—That if municipalities "put their brains where their mouths are" they could do a lot to meet the need for jobs and housing without senior government aid;

—Municipalities should always act from a position of strength. "Those that help themselves will eventually receive help from above."

Mr. Klapman suggested municipalities should take a less firm attitude to making laws.

Escarpment Purchases Planned

TORONTO (CP) — A nine-man committee with a civil servant as chairman has been set up to establish policies for buying land and developing the Niagara Escarpment.

The formation of a committee, revealed in a news release Tuesday, marked the newest round in the continuing controversy over development of the escarpment, a unique geological formation stretching from the Niagara River to Tobermory at the tip of the Bruce Peninsula.

Creation of the committee drew an immediate, heated reaction from Stephen Lewis, New Democratic Party leader, who called it "the latest instalment of the longest, continuous, floating claptrap game in the province."

Mr. Lewis said in a statement the committee represents a "further stall on the acquisition of Niagara Escarpment land."

It will be headed by Sam Clasby, director of Ontario's regional development branch, part of Treasurer Darcy McKeough's department.

Announcement of the committee, which has been ordered to report by Oct. 1, was made jointly by Mr. McKeough and Resources Secretary A. B. R. Lawrence.

—That if municipalities "put their brains where their mouths are" they could do a lot to meet the need for jobs and housing without senior government aid;

—Municipalities should always act from a position of strength. "Those that help themselves will eventually receive help from above."

Mr. Klapman suggested municipalities should take a less firm attitude to making laws.

CN Accused of Shunning Passengers

OTTAWA (CP) — The off-repeated charges that Canadian National Railways is deliberately reducing passenger services were repeated twice in the Commons Tuesday.

Jack Marshall (PC—Humber-St. George's-St. Barbe) tried, unsuccessfully, to get unanimous consent for a motion that would halt all applications for passenger service abandonment until after an independent study of the situation. And Wallace Nesbitt (PC—Oxford) later asked that the Canadian transport commission "investigate the situation immediately."

CHATHAM (CP) — Canadian National Railways has done everything possible, short of discontinuing trains, to discourage passenger service, Sarnia Mayor Paul Blundy told a Commons committee on transport and communication Tuesday.

Most trains out of Sarnia have no chair car, leave at the most inconvenient times, serve unpalatable food and operate on a milk run basis, the mayor said. He suggested that CN invest in modern, lightweight and safe equipment to put its passenger trains on a sounder and faster basis. The railroad should also be prepared to put its property to fruitful use, the mayor said.

added, or return it to the community.

He cited a 25-acre parcel owned by CN in Sarnia which it has refused to sell to industrial buyers in spite of the city's pleadings.

T. C. Smith, secretary treasurer of Sarnia Railroad Council, said the group wants an overhaul of the National Transportation Act which, he said, is biased in favor of abandonment of passenger services.

He estimated that abandonment of the Sarnia-Toronto passenger run, a move applied for by CN, may affect the jobs of 47 employees directly and others indirectly.

Toronto Liberal MPs Believe Takeover Controls Inadequate

OTTAWA (CP) — Liberal MPs from Toronto gave the Liberal government clearly to understand Tuesday that its proposed foreign takeover legislation is not an adequate response to foreign ownership of the economy.

The point was registered by two Toronto Liberals in the second day of Commons debate on the legislation. Prime Minister Trudeau has described the legislation as the longest step the government is prepared to take for the time being in deal with foreign domination of Canadian industry.

A third Toronto MP, Charles Caccia (L—Davenport), couched his support of the bill in terms of it being a preliminary to other and stronger measures.

From Ian Wahn (L—St. Paul's), however, came a stern warning that "Canadians will feel little but dismay if the government puts this measure forward as its final statement of policy in this field."

He asked that "this most important thing the government is to dicate clearly that this particular bill is in fact merely one measure in such a continuing program to regain control of our economy."

The comment drew from Industry Minister Jean-Luc Pepin an indignant protest that he had stated as much while introducing the legislation for second reading debate Monday.

"That certainly is a real advance but it is not the end," retorted Mr. Wahn.

While Mr. Wahn said he would support the bill, he made clear his feeling that it should have gone at least as far as the report on foreign investment and ownership issued in 1970 by the House external affairs committee.

The report of the committee, which Mr. Wahn heads as chairman, urged strong controls on the operation of multinational corporations in Canada and set the aim of 51-per-cent Canadian ownership of industry.

Steve Otto (L—York East) suggested that the authors of the proposed legislation have been naive.

He said he would vote for the takeover bill if only because its provisions would give the government some notion of weaknesses in existing financial institutions. But the bill has loopholes a mile wide, he said, and does not touch on the basic reforms that are needed.

The Liberal critics of the legislation were given by an unkind review by Stan Schumacher (PC—Palliser) himself no advocate for the bill though for much different reasons.

He suggested that the Toronto Liberals were afraid of the influence of the Committee for an Independent Canada, which sent telegrams to all MPs Monday demanding much stronger legislation.

The committee, while drawing membership from across the country, is indentified largely with such Torontonians as former finance minister Walter Gordon and publisher Jack McClelland. The telegram was signed, however, by Toronto Conservative lawyer Edwin Goodman.

That the Conservative opposition is itself far from unanimous in its approach to the issue of foreign ownership was clear from the comments of Mr. Schumacher and other party members.

He questioned the constitutionality of the legislation and worried that it would give Mr. Pepin "too much discretion to decide what is good for Canada."

His emphasis was on the need for particular measures, especially in the tax field, to encourage Canadians to increase domestic investments.

'Negative Tax' Test Planned

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario government's standing committee on social development heard Tuesday of a proposed experiment in guaranteed income.

Rene Brunelle, minister of community and social services, told the committee the government has been considering such a project for several years and $300,000 has been included in the ministry's 1972-3 appropriations to begin planning it.

The experiment would probably employ "negative taxes" and about 800 to 1,000 families, including a proportion of poor people, would be included. The location chosen would be one employing people at various jobs in several industries on a stable basis."

The experiment would be expected to run for five years and cost about $5 million, Mr. Brunelle said.

He said his department will be in a position to begin discussions with the federal government in a few weeks.

The experiment would test the ability of the "negative taxes" system to help people with the lowest income, the minister said. It would also measure the effect of guaranteed income on people's work habits and its effect on society.

If approval is given, the scheme may begin in the spring of 1973.

McKeough Will See Reeves

TORONTO (CP) — Liberal backbencher Eddie Sargent got Provincial Treasurer Darcy McKeough to back down Tuesday in the Ontario legislature.

The clash occurred when Mr. Sargent complained that Mr. McKeough had not answered a letter he wrote May 3 asking the minister to meet a delegation of reeves from the Bruce Peninsula.

Mr. Sargent, member for Owen Sound, said the reeves were anxious to meet with Mr. McKeough to discuss the government's plans for buying land on the Niagara Escarpment, which starts at the tip of the peninsula.

Mr. McKeough said he replied to Mr. Sargent's letter May 18, saying the reeves should meet with the provincial committee set up to recommend policies to the government on land acquisition.

Mr. Sargent said he wasn't happy with Mr. McKeough's reply and asked, "Why won't you meet with my people?"

After continual needling from the Liberal member, Mr. McKeough retorted:

"I know those people. I know you're trying to use them for some nefarious political purpose."

Mr. Sargent objected to the accusation, saying he would not sit down until the minister agreed to meet the reeves.

After Speaker Allan Reuter said the minister's remarks were "a little strong," Mr. McKeough withdrew the statement.

When Mr. Sargent refused to take his seat on the Speaker's urgings, Mr. McKeough rose to say he would meet the reeves rather than see the Liberals "embarrassed any further."

Women to Get Human Rights Code Protection

TORONTO (CP) — Labor Minister Fernand Guindon said Tuesday he has legislation "just about ready" to end discrimination against women under the Ontario Human Rights Code.

The minister told Stephen Lewis, leader of the New Democratic Party in the Ontario legislature, that the legislation will deal with discrimination in the areas of sex and marital status.

Earlier, Mr. Lewis had asked George Kerr, minister of colleges and universities, when a committee would be formed to study "discriminatory features in post-secondary education."

Mr. Kerr said he is considering appointing a standing committee of the legislature to study discrimination against women in post-secondary education.

Compulsory Arbitration Legislation Foreseen

TORONTO (CP) — The government's collective bargaining bill governing civil servants was labelled Tuesday as the forerunner of legislation that will force all labor disputes to compulsory arbitration.

The bill, which prohibits civil service strikes "is the first move by this government toward establishing compulsory arbitration right across the board," said Ian Deans (NDP—Wentworth).

Before the bill received final approval by a legislature committee, Mr. Deans attempted to have it renamed an act to provide for "compulsory arbitration" instead of "collective bargaining."

The amendment, one of two unsuccessful NDP attempts to block the legislation, was defeated. The Liberals supported the NDP on both occasions.

Mr. Deans predicted "illegal strikes by the civil service is once the bill limits the areas in which government employees can bargain collectively.

Both Mr. Deans and NDP Leader Stephen Lewis were critical of a section of the bill that requires the employees to bargain in good faith without putting the same onus on the government.

Penalties under the section can run to $500 for an individual or $5,000 a day for an employee organization.

Mr. Deans said the government should be liable to the same provisions, but Charles MacNaughton, chairman of the management board of cabinet said the Crown can't sue the Crown because "the money comes out of one pocket and into the other."

The bill now goes before the legislature for final reading.

Purse Not Shut

TORONTO (CP) — Forgivable loans worth $3.3 million for 30 foreign-owned firms are being considered by the Ontario Development Corp., John White, minister of industry and tourism, said Tuesday. He was replying to NDP Leader Stephen Lewis, who asked last week about applications made prior to the government's announcement Thursday that it would no longer provide forgivable loans to foreign-owned firms but would still consider applications made before its decision.

Raps Lag

TORONTO (CP) — The government is guilty of "unconscionable delay" in implementing regulations that would tighten its Environmental Protection Act passed last year, Opposition Leader Robert Nixon said Tuesday. He told the Ontario legislature that it would be inconsistent not to bring in the regulations now that the province has embarked on a $150,000 advertising campaign to educate people about litter,

How to Make A Junior Jigsaw Puzzle

By DORIS CLARK

Here's an idea for a home-made puzzle:

Select large colored magazine illustrations — preferably something pretty. Paste the illustrations down on pieces of thin cardboard.

Make jigsaw puzzles of them by cutting them up into (oh, seven and twisty pieces — say five or six pieces of each illustration. Keep the pieces for each illustration separate from the others by putting them in envelopes or separate folders.

This can be wonderful for a children's party or one of those solitary rainy afternoons when Junior says, "What can I play now?"

Dear Doris: About the lady who can't see to work: I think she could knit spiral socks and also squares for afghans. I have knit many hours slitting in the dark.

I know one old lady who couldn't afford to buy much wool. She used the same wool over and over again just to keep her hands occupied. — Hazel.

Dear Hazel: Yes, I have seen knitters who knit with only the occasional glance at their work; and others who will pause to feel where they are at, rather than look at stitches to count them. I have marvelled at them.

Occupational therapists are wonderful at teaching handicapped people such skills. And the Canadian National Institute for the Blind is the place to get the instruction.

(I expect it is better for that second woman to re-knit to her heart's content, rather than have idle hands! But somehow — couldn't she be helped to find the place to find the wool to make something which will be used by some cold child?

Dear Doris; I read you daily and maybe you can solve my problem.

My husband snores at night. It bothers me so much I can't sleep. I know he can't help it. He blows too.

Please answer me; maybe he can also read it. — Caren.

Dear Caren: The fellow who invents a sure cure for snoring will make a mint.

But see or another of the following do help some sleeping noise-makers:

1. Turn him over on his side.
2. Have him examined for nose blockage which may be triggering the snore.
3. Close his mouth.
4. Push the lower jaw forward, and with it the base of the tongue.
5. Have him rub vaseline into his nostrils and the base of his nose.
6. Rig up a bed for yourself on the chesterfield.

There's a gadget made by an English firm, says a British doctor friend of mine, which prevents snoring, but he has not yet succeeded in tracking it down for me. Has any reader heard of it?

Mirror of Your Mind

by JOHN CONWELL

Should a tot be told he's adopted?

ONLY if he should ask. The little tyke has no idea at all what adopted means. He might have picked the term up from his playmates (who got it from . . . guess who!). There is no need, says Dr. William E. Homan in "Child Sense" (Basic Books), to go into a discourse about the difference between natural and adoptive parents. At his age, the tot merely wants assurance that the only mother and father he knows won't leave him.

Is there a 'season' for shoplifting?

YES, especially for "grudge" shoplifters, those who think they are getting back at someone for some real or imagined deprivation. Say a shoplifter believes his shoplifting compensates him for enforced loneliness. (He will pick a holiday season because the "challenge," as he calls it, is greater. Although there are more shoppers in the store, there are more chances of being caught—and that is what a "grudge" shoplifter unconsciously craves.

Does a wife's 'out' the family mood?

YES, provided the wife has the dominant moment only for a particular time. Her husband, of course, will set the mood of the household whenever his attitude or demeanor prevails. When both of them feel very strongly about something or happen to be deeply depressed, at the same time, however, there might be a clash of temperaments. This is when a husband and wife are apt to fight, too, since neither one will defer to the other's anti-social mood.

UCW MEETINGS

Melrose U.C.W.

The May meeting of Melrose UCW was held at the home of Mrs. Clare Wense with Mrs. Vincent Pascoe conducting the worship service.

Mrs. Charles Bates was a guest at this meeting and at this point in the program was presented with a gift in appreciation for the services she had given to the society and the church through the years.

An invitation was read, inviting the women of Melrose to a bazaar at Foxboro on May 24.

Miss Ferne Snider, missionary in Brazil wrote regarding the receipt of the donation made to her earlier in the year. Since she was unable to have it cashed, maybe will be sent to her through The Board of World Missions.

Guest speaker for the evening was Rev. Wm. Hendry whose subject was involved Christian faith and it's development. Comparison was made to other beliefs. The true Christian responds to the teachings of Christ and tells the good news to others.

A closing hymn was sung and benediction was pronounced by the Minister.

Refreshments and a social hour followed.

Next meeting will be a "general greeting" to be held at the church on the second Thursday in June. The afternoon unit will be in charge.

Ann Landers

Only Clods Ask Rude Questions

Dear Ann Landers: Please print this letter for all dark-skinned Americans who are asked regularly by clods: "What are you?" In the last few years I have been asked if I am Puerto Rican, Polynesian, Jewish, Mexican, Italian, Greek, Syrian, Cuban, Armenian, Portuguese, Negro or Chinese?

Actually my mother was French and my father was Irish. I am just dark. When I give this response the reaction is strange. They say: "Oh, no. You must be something else, too."

Why do people care what I am, or what anybody is? Can it be they cannot relate to a person until they get their prejudices sorted out?

Please tell me how to respond to these jackasses? — Dark-Eyed Susan In New Brunswick

Dear Susan: A rude question should be answered with a question: Sample: Now why in the world would you be asking me a thing like that? What possible difference could it make to you? If they persist, repeat your question. You do not owe these clods an answer.

Dear Ann Landers: I am not much of a writer but I have a story to tell all the young women out there who think a wedding ring and a marriage licence aren't important.

I agreed to live with a man 28 years before it was considered the "modern" thing to do. My mother suffered through one very bad marriage and he said he'd have to wait a year or more before the pain of the divorce were off. Whenever I mentioned marriage he said he "wasn't ready" and to please stop nagging. He'd let me know. Finally, I gave up.

We lived together until six months ago when he died. Ever since that time I've been trying to collect the social security, pension rights and insurance a wife usually gets. It has been the most horrible experience of my life. The questions I have been asked made my gray hair stand on end.

Unless the laws are changed or society's attitude toward the unmarried wife is drastically altered, women like me will be humiliated and run down at every turn. Even in states where the common-law wife has legal rights she must prove it and that's not easy.

I say to every girl who reads this, if your man really loves you he will not ask you to share his life without giving you the legal protection that marriage provides. It's the woman who makes the final decision as to whether or not she'll settle for a no-ring arrangement. If she makes the wrong decision, as I did, she will pay the price. — Short End Of The Stick

Dear S.E.O.T.S.: I can add nothing to your letter except my thanks for writing it. A good title for this story might be: Free Love Can Be Very Expensive.

Dear Ann Landers: I am very much, in love with my first cousin and our families are against our marriage. They keep telling us we cannot be married because it is against the law. They seem to have the idea that children born of such marriages are not normal. Is there any scientific evidence to support this statement? — Bored With Fairy Tales

Dear B.W.F.T.: The scientific facts are as follows: In families where there is epilepsy, hemophilia or other diseases and conditions in which predisposition might be hereditary, cousins should not marry unless they agree to remain childless. Some states do permit first cousins to marry if both people are healthy there is no reason why they shouldn't.

Large Number Attends Senior Citizens Meet

A record attendance was present for the second May meeting of the Belleville Senior Citizens Club No. 94 with Mrs. Kathleen Adams presiding.

The warrant was draped in memory of two deceased members Mrs. Carolla Cunningham and Mrs. Melissa Carey at which time Mrs. Adams read a suitable poem. She also welcomed three new members and one visitor along with the regular members. Mrs. Wilma Summers also introduced a student Miss Doris Day who will assist the Recreation Committee and assist with summer projects.

During business Mrs. Bowers read the minutes of the previous meeting and a financial report was given by Mrs. Jackson. A report on the sick was given by Mrs. Gist who reported that Harry Allen was in hospital.

The president noted that a large number had enjoyed the Variety show at CFTO Toronto and a discussion took place about future bus trips with the bus trip to Ottawa all set with a total of 80 members planning the trip. Plans were also discussed on the picnic to be held at Zwick's Island, July 19. The theme of the picnic this year is "music."

At the close of the meeting all enjoyed cards with the winners: Mrs. Bernice Moore, Mrs. Eleanor Copeland, Mrs. Effie Nolan, Mrs. Kathleen Adams, Mrs. M. Gill and Mrs. Hattie Vickers. Door prize was won by Mrs. Evelyn Sheffield.

Mrs. Edith Hanna and assistants served refreshments.

Club Activities

WHITE CANE CLUB

The Quinte White Cane Club held its May recreation and business meetings at the Recreation Centre, Mrs. Maude Rollins played the accompaniment for the opening songs.

At the recreation meeting names of members observing a birthday in May. The birthday song was sung for them and prizes distributed.

Table bowling was enjoyed and the Kiwanis women served a tasty lunch.

The business meeting was presided over by 1st vice-president Pat Baverstock. Mrs. Rollins read the correspondence and the Canadian Council of the Blind newsletter. This letter contained the information that the Overseas Blind Fund Contributions now total $2,010.32. The deadline for receiving contributions is June 30.

A letter of interest from Paul J. Chovancek, executive director of the CCB was read. It outlined the additional benefits for the blind under the Income Tax Act, as of January, 1972.

The entertainment for the evening was provided by Greg Brownlee. His violin numbers were chosen from Choice Hymns of Faith. Included in these was the popular Amazing Grace, the tune at the top of the hit parade in England.

Floyd Reid expressed the pleasure and appreciation of the Club for the enjoyable music.

Pat Baverstock thanked the Koreites for the tasty lunch. The Lions Club provided the transportation for both meetings.

Women's Institutes

QUEENSBORO W.I.

The May meeting of the Queensboro Branch of the Women's Institute was held in the W. I. Hall on Wednesday evening, May 10 with Mrs. William Cassidy as hostess.

Mrs. Roy Rollins was in charge and opened the meeting in the usual manner. Those present totalled 16 members and one visitor.

Business discussed included: a report of the officers conference in Guelph by Mrs. Frank O'Rourke and a report of the collection for the Cancer fund of $21.80. The decision was made to canvass for the blind this year. Mrs. Arthur Holmes asked for information and pictures to help her compile the Tweedsmuir History. It was also decided that Mrs. C. A. McMurray, Mrs. Roy Rollins and Mrs. Hazel Thompson be delegates to the district annual. Miss Hazel Thompson showed some slides which she had taken in Oslo at the ACW.W. Triennial Conference last summer.

At the close of the meeting, lunch was served by the hostess and her assistants and a social time enjoyed by all.

BETHEL - ZION W.I.

Bethel-Zion W.I. met at the community hall for the May meeting, with a program of fun presented by Mrs. Fred Wellman and Mrs. Ralph Sills.

Reversing the usual order, several delicious desserts and coffee were enjoyed prior to the meeting. Mrs. Ralph Sills gave a humorous reading during the lunch and social time.

Presiding for the opening and business was Mrs. Ernest Hansey, with secretary treasurer, Mrs. Percy Ray reading the minutes and correspondence. A date was set to plan new programs; also for a bus trip June 15. Several amusing contests provided fun for all participants, ending with a bingo game.

A detailed report of Hastings East District annual held in Cannifton, was given by Mrs. Morden Brough.

Mrs. Ernest Hansey, delegate to officers' conference in Guelph, thanked the branch for the opportunity to attend and gave a complete and interesting report on all activities and speakers there. Over 700 attended the two days of work shops and group discussions there.

HORMONE TREATMENT

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — Dangerous young sex offenders are being given injections of a female hormone to reduce sex drive, a medical official said. Dr. Lionel Chain, psychiatrist superintendent of Melbourne Children's Court Clinic, said the treatment is used in cases where the only alternative is indefinite confinement. The youths are injected every two weeks with the hormone oestrogen; Chain said, but the treatment is temporary and completely reversable.

McMurter — Chajkowski

Monsignor J. A. Carley officiated at the May 20 wedding ceremony in St. Joseph's Catholic Church of Linda Sue Mary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Chajkowski, RR4 Belleville and Roblin Reginald McMurter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard McMurter, Belleville. Sister Mary Avila rendered organ music while William Mann was the soloist.

The bride given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length crystal peau satin wedding gown with empire waistline in a cummerbund effect and a wedding halo collar. Alencon lace trimmed the gown from the high neck to the bustline and also the long full sleeves with cuffs. A silk Shantoo veil fell from a white orchid headpiece and reached the chapel train. She carried a bouquet of red roses and ivy.

Matron of honor, Mrs. Jane Reid, wore a floor length dress with empire waist and bell sleeves in pink flowered polyester crepe. Pink velvet pashes trimmed the dress and a white picture hat was enhanced by pink crepe. She carried a bouquet of white mums and carnations.

The bridesmaids, Mrs. Lorrie Maracle, Miss Pat Green and Miss Debbie Hoffard, niece of the bride and flower girl Miss Kristen King were dressed identically to the matron of honor. They carried baskets of blended flowers also.

Grant Reid attended the bridegroom while Bob Ferguson, cousin of the bridegroom, Bill Elliott and James Hoffard, brother-in-law of the bridegroom were the ushers. Jamie King was the ringbearer.

For the reception held at the Salvation Army Citadel, the bride's mother greeted the guests wearing a floor length gown of pink chiffon trimmed with white lace, complemented by white accessories. Her hair was adorned with little pink rosebuds.

The bridegroom's mother assisted wearing a floor length gown of mauve polyester crepe with bone white accessories. A yellow carnation corsage enhanced the dress while little mauve flowers adorned her hair.

Upon their return, the couple will reside at RR4, Belleville.

TRIM

At Food City, our "close-to-the-meat" trim is your guarantee of good beef value. You always get more edible meat for your food dollar with Food City beef. Our Meatmen carefully trim steaks and roasts of excess fat and bone. Only the right amount of fat covering is left to flavor the beef. Try Food City beef and see if it doesn't become a "Natural Favorite" with your family.

SELECTION

At Food City, beef quality is important. Only one steer out of every nine inspected meets with our high standards and requirements. Our beef buyer is a specialist, responsible for personally selecting every side of beef we buy. He's a very fussy man. He buys on an individual basis rather than buying by the rail, so he's certain of buying the best beef available. Personal selection is just part of the quality control we insist on at Food City. Our beef is our reputation.

FRESHNESS CODE-DATING

All FOOD CITY store-packaged meats carry a freshness code-date, indicating the month and day of packaging. Clearly printed on the price label, the code date tells you just how fresh the meat is, at time of purchase.

City Station Tunes in WHA

by

Maurice Switzer

Sports Editor

It's not just coaches and prospective players that are keeping a keen eye on the fortunes of the fledgling World Hockey Association.

Radio Station CJBQ manager Frank Murray informs that the Belleville beacon wants to get in on the ground floor if the National Hockey League's rival group becomes a reality.

"We've made tentative arrangements to broadcast 60 games of the Ottawa Nationals in their entirety — 30 at home and 22 on the road," Mr. Murray announced.

* * *

"It's something we really want to be involved in if it's getting off the ground," said the CJBQ manager, who hopes the decision proves as wise as the one made to be among the first Canadian stations to join the Montreal Expo Canadian network when major league baseball made its Canadian debut four years ago.

"Of course," Mr. Murray added, "we are subject to the usual application for a network to be made to the Canadian Radio — Television Commission.

In truth, broadcasts of Ottawa National games — or those of any other World Hockey Association teams — hinge on a lot more than one "if".

The Ottawa entry, for example, one of 18 that posted $100,000 performance bonds at the W H A's organizational meeting a month ago, has still to announce the signing of a single player. This was expected to be done at a press conference tomorrow.

However the Nationals have already coughed up another $188,000 hand in reaching an agreement for use of the 9,500 - seat Ottawa Civic Centre.

If you find the WHA's signing silence relatively deafening, a report soon makes to be made shortly after the National Hockey League draft meetings in Montreal next week.

Up to now, the calibre of players who have admitted jumping the NHL would have to be categorized as "journeyman". Minor pro league players are attracted by the fact the minimum WHA salary is $18,000, while the NHL's is $3,000 less.

But once some established players find themselves unprotected expansion fodder in the draft, and some superstar-potential junior hockey graduates find they can get more for joining a WHA club than an NHL one, all heck could break loose and the first major league hockey war should be on.

Gradually, the outlaw league's rosters will become more respectable and perhaps give the occasional superstar the security he needs to make the big jump.

Bob Hull, for one, is reported ready to sign a 10-year, million pact with Winnipeg Jets, half of which will involve his playing services, with the other five years to be spent "in some other capacity."

Hull's decision will no doubt be influenced by the fact the Jets have already acquired the services of Ernie Wakely and Joe Daley, two goaltenders who certainly were good enough to make the National Hockey League grade.

Toronto Maple Leafs, for some inexplicable reason, appear to be the established NHL team most threatened by the new league.

Paul Henderson says a dozen players who appeared in Leaf uniform last season will play for WHA entries. Just last night, Brad Selwood, who signed a three - year contract with New England Whalers earlier this month, told a Windsor audience that rugged centre Jim Harrison has signed with Edmonton Oil Kings.

Those who are wondering about the calibre of WHA teams should ask themselves what they've thought of the calibre of NHL expansion hockey.

Even such a staunch NHL partisan as paid employee Ron Andrews was forced this week to reveal statistics that show last year's winning percentage by expansion teams was the lowest since 1967.

In 1966 there were six NHL teams. Next year there will be 16 and the following season there will be 18. Unless he had a chance to crack the lineup of one of the "established" NHL rosters, any up-and-coner would be a fool to look a WHA gift horse in the mouth.

Right now, it doesn't look like the new league will be as poor a product as the wasted - down NHL.

No Safety Here!

A goalie's crease is sacred ground and nobody dare trespass, but once outside that thin white line it's heads up and you're on your own, R.C.A.F. net-minder Dexter Donnelly decided to try his hand at offence during Tuesday night's Belleville Minor Lacrosse bantam action and soon found his path blocked by Bud Gill forward Jeff Gow. Donnelly had some measure of revenge though as the R.C.A.F. team picked up a come-from-behind 7-5 win.

Flyers Pull Plug On Gill Appliances

The RCAF Flyers pulled the plug on Bud Gill Appliances in Tuesday night's Belleville Minor Lacrosse bantam action with four third-period goals, enough for a 7-5 victory.

Trailing throughout the game, the Flyers outscored Bud's 4-1 in the final frame to snatch the win. Mike Johnson, posted two for the winners with singles going to Bob Sanders, Joe Sheilds, Brian McMahon, Bob McLean, and Alan Oberholzer.

Jeff Gow picked up the hat trick in a losing cause with Bob Crawford netting the other two Bud goals.

The other bantam game of the night wasn't as tight as Bob's Sports whipped Towers Food City 10-3.

Marty Mulorney fired three goals and Jeff Belanger two to pace the winners.

Jim Walsh, Rob Prevost and Mike Thompson replied for Towers.

Bob's Sports novice team was less fortunate than their bantam counterparts, winding up on the short end of a 12-1 score.

Barry Deane had three and Robert Soule, David Little and Hugh Northey two each for the Mall.

Rovers Win Sixth Straight

Lisa's Rovers continued to have the soccer world on a string as they ran their unbeaten string to six games with a 6-0 exhibition win over the Bata Braves last night.

Al Foster, Charles Nesterocki and Zdravko scored in the first half for Lisa's with Ernie Brown, Kevin Kirby and John O'Neill adding second - half tallies. Goalie Gary Donovan recorded the shutout. The win gave Lisa's a 4-0 record against Bay of Quinte teams this year, in addition to victories over clubs from Toronto and Kingston.

"Sure there are fish in the stream. They just don't like my bait!"

Bowman's Virus Puts Dent in Track Hopes

By ERIC EMERSON
Sport Staff

Area hopes for a medal at the upcoming all-Ontario track and field took a turn for the worse this week.

Dennis Bowman, one of two gold medal winners from the Bay of Quinte COSSA district at last year's OFSAA meet, is suffering from a virus that could affect his performance in the provincial championships this Friday and Saturday.

The Trenton high school athlete could be restricted to his specialty, the triple jump, although he qualified in three events at the COSSA meet last Thursday. Bowman took first place in the junior triple jump at all-Ontario last year to join gold medalist Glenn Milligan in the senior long jump as the only local athletes to crack the top three spots in any event.

"We're replacing him with Ben McPail in the long jump Friday", advised Trenton coach Peter Howe, "Dennis may be able to compete in the 400-metre hurdles but we'll have to wait and see how much strength he's lost. The hurdles are a tough event."

Another Trenton trackster who will drop an event at OFSAA will be in middle distance events. Long distance lancer Mike Taylor of Trenton, Moira triple jumper Dan Gotzaide, Trenton shotputter Doug Gillespie and teammate Dave Lewis in the triple, round out the budget field.

Joining David Thompson in the junior events at OFSAA will be Trenton's Bert Bourassa in the 1000 metres and Gary Mutsvairo of Albert College in the 200 metres and long jump, as well as Joe Norman of Trenton who will take Thompson's spot in the 800 metres.

Trenton's Duncan Armstrong made the grade in both senior sprints, while McPail will compete in the 200 metres as well as the long jump. Distance qualifiers include Tom DaSilva of Napanee in the 1500 metres, Quinte's Gerrard Farrell in the 3000-metres and steeplechasers Jim Thompson of Centennial and Roger Ray of Quinte.

Trenton's junior relay teams were the only Bay of Quinte entries qualifying for the provincials. The 440 team will consist of Darryl Donnelly, David Thompson, Ben McPail and Duncan Armstrong, while the mile relay entry will be made up of Joe Norman, Donnelly Thompson and Ray Wall.

The OFSAA meet will begin 4 p.m. Friday and run through until Saturday evening at the Centennial stadium in Etobicoke. Installation of the new "mod one" track surface has made Toronto's CNE stadium, where the event is usually held, unavailable.

OSD Strep-ped Of Big Hopeful

Despite the fact that they've been "strep-ped" of their top competitor, the Belleville Ontario School for the Deaf will be looking to help Canada regain the team championship often the third annual International Invitational Games for the Deaf are held here.

PAUL LANDRY

Three American schools and two Canadian will take part in the track and field competition, to be held Saturday on the new OSD all-weather Univeral surface.

The home team will be minus Merry Lee McKaig, their top girl trackster and the only member of the Belleville team that participated in the 1969 World Games for the Deaf in Yugoslavia. The sprint star is suffering from strep throat that will keep her from participating in the 400 and 800 metres as scheduled.

The Canadian schools (Belleville and Milton) will need all of the top competitors they can muster if they hope to regain the trophy which they won in 1970, but lost to the Americans last season. Deaf Schools from Rome, N.Y., Mich., will be carrying track colors for the United States.

"The main objective of the meet is to stimulate interest in track for deaf athletes," says OSD instructor Hyalie Bryant.

"I'm not sure just how well our team will do because we have no idea what the level of competition will be," admits Belleville coach Tod MacDonald. "but it's a pretty good bet that there'll be at least one or two really top athletes from each of the American schools."

A total of 200 athletes will be competing in the one-day meet. Boys will compete in seven track and seven field events, with girls taking part in five of each. The competition has been divided into junior and senior sections in both boys and girls.

The Belleville team will field 21 competitors in the boys events and eight girl athletes. Top local medal hopes appear to rest with Paul Landry, who finished fifth in the COSSA 400 metres. He is entered in the 400, 800 and long jump. Other hopefuls include junior milers Dan Tullock ad Stephen Bena.

More Natives Exempt Entries

TORONTO (CP) — At least 11 Canadian pros and two amateurs will not have to qualify for the $150,000 Canadian open golf tournament at Cherry Hill, near Welland, in July, in accordance with a new system of exemptions announced Tuesday by the Canadian Professional Golfers' Association.

The system, which eliminates regional qualifying rounds in effect last year, could expand the number of Canadians eligible for the Open so that they make up about one-sixth of the 144-man field.

Nine of the 12 spots assigned to the CPGA go to winners or high-point players from last year's Canadian tour.

Bonallack On Move In Britain

SANDWICH, England (CP) — Michael Bonallack, British Walker Cup captain and five-time winner of the British amateur golf championship, narrowly edged Simon Breis of Britain Tuesday to advance into the third round of this year's amateur championship event.

Bonallack trailed Breis by three holes with five remaining but came back to win on the final hole.

Another highlight of play was the four-and-three win of David Robertson, a 16-year-old Scottish schoolboy who defeated Van Ingen, 22, of the United States 7 and 5.

Robertson is five-feet three inches tall and weighs 170 pounds.

Among Canadians, Paul Williams of Burlington, Ont., and J. Pappin were eliminated in the first round with their respective competitors, F. Cooney of Brigin and W. H. Marcuson of the U.S., advancing to the second round.

In 1971 Canadian Open and John Morgan of Vancouver.

Morgan qualifies as top point man behind the other exempt players.

George Knudson, Toronto, has a U.S. tour exemption and Al Balding, Toronto, a sponsor's exemption from the Royal Canadian Golf Association, also assigned the two amateur exemptions to Nick Weslock of Burlington and Gary Cowan of Kitchener.

Bruce Kern, Homecuik and Vollmer are on the U.S. tour, they could win exemptions there and open the way to three other Canadian alternates to compete in the Canadian Open.

The alternates, says Dave Zinck of the sponsors of the Canadian tour, would be picked from the high points scorers on the 1972 tour.

Extra exemptions would occur if the three alternates and Gary Stevenson of Toronto make the cutoff at the preceding U.S. tour event at Cleveland.

RCGA executive-director Doug Forbes of Brantford Tuesday two other exemptions have been commulated—to next year's Canadian Open pro honor Ron Bohn of Montreal Hillcrest Golf, and to Jim Johnson of Mobile, Ind., although Jamieson would also qualify at Cleveland.

In addition, winners of next week's Ontario Open, the Quebec Open also June 22-25, and this year's Atlantic Open June 16-18 will join the exempted list.

Lunn Moves Up Money Ladder

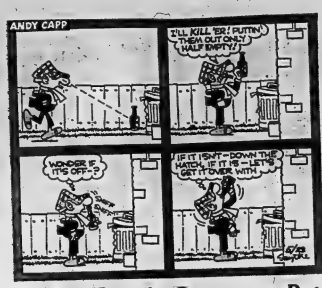
NEW YORK (AP) — Bob Lunn, $26,000 richer following his victory in last weekend's Atlanta golf classic, moved to 31st place in money-winning standings announced Tuesday by the PGA. Tournament players division.



Lunn's two-stroke triumph at Atlanta—plus $427 in pro-am earnings—elevated his 1972 income to $33,307 from $6,880. His last previous victory on the tour was in the 1969 Campbell-Los Angeles Open in 1971.

Jack Nicklaus maintained his lead among golf's money winners with $158,667, but Lee Trevino retained second place with $108,666 and George Archer remained third with $106,404.

Lee Trevino was fourth with $98,447, followed by Tom Weiskopf with $93,745. Rounding out the top 10 were: Bobby Mitchell, $85,590; Bruce Crampton, $82,847; Bob Murphy, $72,482; Grier Jones, $69,946, and Bob Rosburg, $68,842.

No Le Hace in Runner-up Rut

NEW YORK (AP) — No Le Hace will try to get out of his runner-up rut Wednesday when he and six other Belmont Stakes hopefuls will contest the $58,900 added Withers at Belmont Park.

Joining No Le Hace, the 3-to-1 overnight choice when the field entries were Tuesday for the Withers was Key To The Mint, 2-1 shot.

No Le Hace won three straight stakes this year for Joseph R. Skrees, including the Louisiana and Arkansas Derbies, but then ran second to Key To The Mint in the Derby Trial, second to Riva Ridge in the Kentucky Derby and second to Bee Bee Bee in the Preakness.

Jockey Phil Rubbicco said after the Preakness that he let Hace would win the Belmont, which at 1½ miles is the longest of the Triple Crown races and a half mile longer than the Withers.

With Upper Case resting after a disappointing seventh-place finish in the Jersey Derby Monday and Riva Ridge awaiting the June 19 Belmont, trainer Lucien Laurin entered Roy Anderson's stake winning Spanish Riddle, a 5-to-1 choice in the Withers.

Others entered in the mile test were Wild World, owned by Frank McMahon of Vancouver; Lionel Hill Farm's Icecapade; Happy Hill Farm's Head Table; Derby Dan Farm's True Knight; Greentree Stable's Run Tanila; William Haggin Perry's Forage, and Cragwood Stable's Zoke Two.

With 10 starters, the Withers will gross $59,000, with $35,400 to the winner. All will carry 126 pounds.

Only True Knight, Icecapade and Wild World have not been nominated for the Belmont, but may be supplemented.

Cars Charged to Gardens

TORONTO (CP) — Witnesses at the trial of Harold Ballard, president of Maple Leaf Gardens, said Tuesday that services supplied for Ballard's personal use by their companies were paid for by Gardens' funds.

Two Ontario Hockey Association Junior A games Tuesday night provided quite a contrast in Peterborough PCOs bombed Etobicoke PCOs 31-4 and Lakeshore Maple Leafs edged Oshawa Green Gaels 15-14.

In Peterborough, Jim Johnson scored six goals for the PCOs. Four goals came from both Gord Floyd and Bob Watson.

Ballard, 67, is being tried on charges of fraud and theft from the Gardens involving $265,000. The indictment against him includes 23 charges of fraud and 21 of theft.

James Fardoe, manager of Limestone Livery Toronto Ltd., told the court that on March 31, 1967, Ballard ordered three cars to be used for his daughter's wedding.

MF. Fardoe said the bill for $60 was later paid for by a cheque from the Gardens and that the word "wedding" on the original invoice was blanked out and the words "airport service" substituted in its place.

Another witness, Howard Wise, a partner in Jack Wise Plumbing and Heating of Toronto, testified that work totalling $1,497 done on Ballard's Georgian Bay cottage and his Toronto home in 1965 was also paid by cheques issued by the Gardens.

The work on the cottage, Mr. Wise said, was done on instructions from Jack Gordon, chief engineer for the Gardens.

If convicted on all charges, Ballard could be sentenced to up to 28 years in prison. He has pleaded not guilty and has elected trial before a judge without jury. Visiting county court Judge Harry Deyman of Peterborough is presiding.

Foyt Sidelined

HOUSTON (AP) — A. J. Foyt, former Indianapolis 500 champion, has undergone surgery to correct a broken ankle and will be out of racing at least two months.

He broke his ankle Sunday during a 100-mile race at Duquoin, Ill.

Mrs. Foyt said her husband came in for fuel and some of the fuel spilled on the hot tail pipe.

"He jumped out immediately and the car ran over his left ankle," she said.

Foyt also suffered first-and second-degree burns on his face, hands and legs but the burns weren't considered serious.

Betting Delay

ALBANY, N.Y. (CP-AP) — Gov. Nelson Rockefeller has signed legislation imposing a one-year moratorium on the approval of new off-track betting operations in New York State.

The governor's office announced Tuesday, however, that the new law exempts proposals by Nassau and Orange Counties and the city of Schenectady if those are approved by the New York Off-Track Pari-Mutuel Betting Commission.

No-hit Holoway Is On Again

Sonny Holoway's on-again, off-again no-hitter is definitely "on" again, thanks to some beautiful broken field maneuvering by the Industrial Softball League executive.

The action began last Wednesday with Holoway steaming down the sidelines, apparently en route to a 26-6, no-hit performance against Canadian Tire. However the Mead Johnson hurler was bothered from the side by what appeared to be a protest from Canadian Tire.

Cliff Hinesman, who had been pressed into emergency service with Quinte Hotel of the Commercial League earlier that week, had participated in Mead Johnson's 26-0 win. Officials ruled that because a player cannot perform in both leagues, Holoway had forfeited the no-hitter and Hinesman was penalized for illegal use.

HOWEVER, a league meeting last night it was discovered that as official protest had been lodged, Canadian Tire was forced to return possession of the win; Holoway's no-hitter was once again on the scoreboard and Hinesman was back on the Mead Johnson varsity team.

So, once again Sonny has his no-hitter — for this week at least.

Osborne Outguns Pair

Two heads weren't quite as good as one in Monday night's Industrial League game between Mead Johnson and UIC as Ken Osborne outduked two opposing pitchers for a 6-2 Mead win.

Osborne, mainstay in last year's Union Carbide championship team, fanned seven and walked only two in hurling the win.

He received hitting support in the form of three singles from Rick May, a single and double from Ray Finkle and a triple from Blaine Young.

Pete Hamilton started on the U.I.C. mound giving up eight hits and four runs before giving way to Gary MacMurray in the fifth. The pair fanned four and walked five.

Bernie Colquhoun stroked a double and triple for UIC.

Waite Tykes Heavy Hitters

They say he the smallest players but they still wield some mighty bats.

The bats were in heavy use Monday night in a Belleville Minor Softball tyke game as Ofb Waite Trailer Sales cleaned Malcolm Brothers 22-12.

"Smith-power" Defeats Czech

PARIS (AP) — Stan Smith powered his way into the quarter-finals of the French Open tennis tournament Tuesday, and Billie Jean King swept into the women's semi-finals.

Smith, the top ranked U.S. player, eliminated Frantisek Pala of Czechoslovakia, 6-4, 6-0, 4-3, while Mrs. King made short work of Virginia Wade of Britain, 6-1, 6-3.

Mrs. King meeted No. 3 seed Helga Masthoff of West Germany who defeated Kia Ehlinghaus of West Germany, 6-3, 8-6, in another quarter-final match Tuesday.

In the final quarter-finals, Smith will face Andres Gimeno, 34-year-old Spaniard who made a late rally Tuesday and outlasted Clark Graebner of the U.S. 5-7, 6-3, 6-4, 6-1.

In other fifth-round matches, Adriano Panatta of Italy defeated Roy Moore of South Africa, 6-4, 1-12, 6-3.

In the quarter-finals, Panatta will meet Metreveli. The final two men's quarter-final matches will be played Wednesday, pitting Harald Solomon of the U.S. against Manuel Orantes of Spain, and defending champion Jan Kodes of Czechoslovakia against Patrick Proisy of France.

No-hit Holoway Is On Again

Sonny Holoway's on-again, off-again no-hitter is definitely "on" again, thanks to some beautiful broken field manoeuvring by the Industrial Softball League executive.

The action began last Wednesday with Holoway steaming down the sideline, apparently en route to a 26-6 no-hit performance against Canadian Tire. However the Mead Johnson burier was belted from the side by what appeared to be a protest from Canadian Tire.

Cliff Hineman, who had been pressed into emergency service with Quinte Hotel of the Commercial League earlier that week, had participated in Mead Johnson's 26-6 win. Officials ruled that because a player cannot perform in both leagues, Holoway had fumbled the no-hitter and Hineman was penalized for illegal motion.

HOWEVER, at a league meeting last night it was discovered that an official protest had been lodged. Canadian Tire was forced to return possession of the win; Holoway's no-hitter was once again on the scoreboard and Hineman was back on the Mead Johnson varsity team.

So, once again Sonny has his no-hitter — for this week at least.

Osborne Outguns Pair

Two heads weren't quite as good as one in Monday night's Industrial League game between Mead Johnson and UIC as Ken Osborne outdueled two opposing pitchers for a 6-2 Mead win.

Osborne, mainstay in last year's Union Carbide championship team, fanned seven and walked only two in hurling the win.

He received hitting support in the form of three singles from Rick May, a single and double from Ray Finkle and a triple from Blaine Young.

Pete Hamilton started on the U.I.C. mound giving up eight hits and four runs before giving way to Gary MacMurray in the fifth. The pair fanned four and walked five.

Bernie Coughlan stroked a double and triple for UIC.

Waite Tykes Heavy Hitters

They may be the smallest players but they still wield some mighty bats.

The bats were in heavy use Monday night in a Belleville Minor Softball tyke game as Gib Waite Trailer Sales clouted Malcolm Brothers 22-12.

Doug Haley pounded a double and homer and Phil Hird three singles for the winners. Greg Denard and Rodger Malcolm produced the Malcolm Brothers power with a triple and double.

Scuttles Giants

Robinson Gets Rivalry Gist

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Los Angeles Dodgers against San Francisco Giants? To Frank Robinson, it's just another ball game. But he's got other incentives.

"I haven't been around here long enough to get any specific feeling over the Dodgers-Giants rivalry," the Los Angeles right fielder said Tuesday night after leading the Dodgers to a 5-3 victory over the Giants. "These games haven't got the adrenalin flowing.

FRANK ROBINSON

"But this was a very important game," Robinson added. "It got us into first."

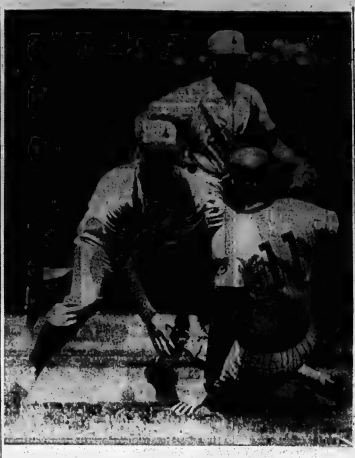
More properly, Robinson got the Dodgers into first with his bat and glove. In the top of the eighth inning, he followed Willie Davis' leadoff single with a tie-breaking home run.

Then, in the bottom of the inning, with the Giants threatening to score—and stumbling all over themselves in the futile attempt—he gunned down a San Francisco runner at the plate to preserve the Dodger victory.

In the rest of the National League's weather-wrecked schedule, New York Mets beat Philadelphia Phillies 7-0 and Cincinnati Reds defeated Houston Astros 9-5. Rain postponed the San Diego-at-Atlanta and Pittsburgh-at-Montreal games and cold weather knocked out St. Louis' contest against Cubs in Chicago.

"It's always nice to get into first place," manager Walter Alston said after his Dodgers slipped past Houston to take a one-half game lead over the Astros in the National League West.

"But like I tell the kids," the Los Angeles skipper added, "it's a lot easier to get to the majors than it is to stay here."



Then, turning to Robinson, he said:

"He helps you in so many ways that aren't shown in the statistics. He gives us the power we need and you really have to admire his competitive spirit. He's the kind of guy who'll find some way to beat you."

Robinson also drove in a run with a sacrifice fly as the Dodgers built a 3-0 lead, only to see it evaporate by the seventh inning as Dave Kingman belted his 12th home run and Bobby Bonds knocked in two runs with a single and a fly ball.

The Mets' John Matlack, who has now lost his last 11 year, chalked up victory No. 6 by limiting the Phillies to just three harmless singles.

Rusty Staub got more than half of his four hits for New York, driving in four runs with two doubles and two singles.

Cause for Protest

Don Kessinger (11) of Chicago Cubs slides into second base as Ron Hunt of Montreal Expos applies tag Friday at Chicago. Kessinger was entitled to base because pitch was ball four, but when umpire Billy Williams called him out, Kessinger stepped off base and was tagged out by Hunt. Cubs played rest of game under protest, but won, 5-3. (AP Wirephoto)

One-Hitter in Debut

Crandall Tickled Pink

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Del Crandall will remember his major league managerial debut for a long time—and Skip Lockwood will never forget Dave Bristol.

"I certainly should be able to remember a one hitter for a long time," Crandall said Tuesday night after taking over as skipper of Milwaukee Brewers and watching Lockwood tame New York Yankees 2-1 with Rusty Torres' sixth-inning single the Yankees' only hit.

Lockwood, who hurled a six-hit shutout against Detroit Tigers last Thursday, said he felt badly when Bristol was fired as manager three days later.

"You never say a manager is your friend," Lockwood said, "but when you lose some one who's taught you a lot you feel the loss."

Elsewhere in the American League, boston Red Sox trounced Baltimore Orioles 6-3, Texas Rangers nipped Oakland Athletics 3-2, Minnesota Twins edged Kansas City Royals 3-2 and California Angels whipped Chicago White Sox 6-0. Detroit and Cleveland were rained out. Only 4,175 fans saw Crandall's managerial debut in 44-degree weather with gusts up to 28 miles an hour. It was warm inside the Brewers' clubhouse, though.

"I'm very, very pleased and happy about it," Crandall said. "It's just a beginning, but it's a win and that's what's important."

The Brewers tallied in the second, third and eighth innings on run-scoring singles by Ellie Rodriguez, George Scott and Mike Ferraro. That was more than enough for Lockwood, even though the 25-year old right-hander struggled with his control, losing his shutout in the sixth when Torres singled following two walks.

Boston's Ray Culp throttled Baltimore on three hits and Carlton Fisk and Tommy Harper homered off Mike Cuellar as the Red Sox ended the Orioles' four-game winning streak and dropped them into a first-place tie with Detroit in the AL East.

The Sox took advantage of an error by Brooks Robinson on a potential double play ball in the second inning to score their first three runs. Culp squeezed home the first one and Luis Aparicio singled for two more.

Texas' Rich Hand allowed Oakland only three hits in 9 1-3 innings but needed a strong relief job by Horacio Pina to preserve his first victory of the season. Dave Duncan homered for the Athletics—his 10th—and Ted Ford for the Rangers, who got the winning run off Ken Holtzman in the seventh on a single by Ken Suarez, a sacrifice, pitch runout Dave Nelson's steal of third and Toby Harrah's sacrifice fly.

Harrelson Short Of Golfing Goal

ATLANTA (AP) — "I'll make it, I'll make it yet."

A wry smile cracked the craggy face of Ken Harrelson, but the cries held the hungry glint of a hunting hawk.

"I'm going to be the first player to make $100,000 a year in one sport, shift over to another sport and make $100,000 a year there," he said.

KEN HARRELSON

He's just a little over $99,000 short.

Harrelson has been considerably less than spectacular since he abandoned an eight-year baseball career as an out-fielder first baseman with Boston Red Sox and Cleveland Indians to try and conquer the demanding world of tournament golf.

He once led the American League in runs batted in, hit 35 home runs with Boston one season, and, at one time, had a $100,000 annual salary.

His biggest cheque in golf has been just over $600.

He failed to make it through the Tournament Players Division school last fall, picking up in disgust before completing the testing grind that enables young players to compete on the lucrative pro tour.

He's played in two major four events this year—and failed to qualify for the final two rounds in both the Doral-Eastern and the Atlanta Classic.

"I've had a lot of invitations to play," Harrelson said. "But since I didn't get through the school, I don't have a players' card.

"If you don't have the card, you can play in only three events.

"I've played in two. The other one will probably be Cleveland."

The 32-year-old Harrelson, still whipped-lean as he was when he was dubbed The Hawk as he roamed the major league outfields, admits he "wasn't ready when I first tried to come out."

"I still need more work," he conceded.

Questions And Answers

By The Ontario Motor League

QUESTION: Can you let us know of a good way of getting to Manitoulin Island by car?

ANSWER: The most interesting way is by the Bruce Trail and the ferry from Tobermory to South Baymouth, taking in some of the points of interest along the way.

We suggest taking Hwy. 401 to Whitby, then north on No. 12 to Orillia where you may visit the Stephen Leacock Memorial Home on Old Brewery Bay. There the famous Canadian humorist lived and worked. The Champlain Monument situated in Couchiching Beach Park at Orillia is considered to be one of the finest bronzes on the continent. Also, near Orillia are the archeological diggings at the site of the Huron Indian village of Cahiague, visited by Champlain in 1615.

From Orillia continue on No. 12 through Washaubenene and Port McNichol to Midland. Here you can become steeped in Huronia's past history. At Little Lake Park there is a full-scale, palisaded Huron Indian Village which depicts living conditions of the 17th Century and earlier. At Midland's outskirts is the Martyr's Shrine, Canada's national shrine to the Jesuit missionaries killed in the 1640s. Opposite the Shrine is the site of Sainte-Marie-among-the-Hurons, a 1-acre re-creation of the Jesuit mission that stood there from 1639 to 1648. Reconstruction of the site followed extensive excavating and research. Within the palisade are the first artificial waterway discovered in North America, an Indian Mission Chapel, Ontario's first permanent Christian cemetery, Huron longhouses, an Algonquin keeper, carpenter and blacksmith shops, drying and storing racks for meat and fish, Indian shelters and many other interesting examples of habitation of the 17th century.

Close to the Martyrs' Shrine is the Wye Marsh Wildlife Centre, offering hourly shows, guided outdoor walks, live animals and interpretation of wildlife.

Also from Midland, there are boat tours of the 30,000 Islands of Georgian Bay. These tours operate daily at 2 p.m. from the end of June to Labor Day. Fares are $6.50 for the 5-hour trip, $2.50 for children under 12.

Out of Midland take Hwy. 27 to Elmvale and 92 through Wasaga Beach and on to Collingwood where you can visit the Scenic Caves and the Blue Mountain Pottery.

Drive west on Hwy. 26 through Meaford to Owen Sound, with its Tom Thomson Memorial Art Gallery, and west from there to Hwy. 6, the Bruce Trail where you head north to Wiarton. Here is the Hermit's Cave and Spirit Rock, legendary scene of an Indian maiden's suicide.

Continue on up the Bruce Trail to Tobermory, with its beautiful two harbors, known as the Big Tub and the Little Tub. From Tobermory there is a car ferry service to South Baymouth on Manitoulin Island. The ferry takes you past the famous Flower Pot Islands in the course of its pleasant three-hour trip. There are five trips daily from June 23 through Sept. 7. For the balance of the months of June and September, there are two trips daily, each way.

An alternative route home could by by Hwy. 68 through Espanola, to Sudbury, 69 to Foote's Bay and 103 to Waubaushene.

BOOKS AND THE TEENAGE READER: A Guide for Teachers, Librarians and Parents by Robert Carlsen

Mr. Carlsen believes the key to encouraging reading is the recognition that every young person is an individual with interests and problems of his own. In this book he provides specific and practical answers for every kind of adolescent reading problem, from the teenager whose interest in reading is just beginning to the one who is preparing for college. These annotated lists of available and recommended books related to each specific chapter subject are an invaluable help to the teen-ager and to the adult who is encouraging or advising him.

MYSTERIES FROM FORGOTTEN WORLDS by Charles Berlitz

Making extensive use of the latest archaeological discoveries, Mr. Berlitz demonstrates that an advanced civilization existed in the Americas thousands of years before Columbus, and that this civilization was enriched by visitors from both Europe and the Far East. Further, he presents a strong argument for the existence of the legendary lost Atlantis, a large island empire in the Atlantic to the west of Europe whose remnants survive today in the Azores and the Canary Islands.

JUGOSLAVIA by John Alexander

This is the first comprehensive survey in English of the prehistory and early history of Jugoslavia. Ranging from the Paleolithic to the Roman conquest, Dr. Alexander takes full account of the extensive excavations in Jugoslavia during the past decade. After describing the coming of the first farmers in the Early Neolithic and their spread through Northern Jugoslavia, the author discusses the Bronze Age, the Iron Age, trade with Greece, and finally the encroachment of Rome.

IF MEN WERE ANGELS by Milton Mayer

In these four long essays the writer's classical background in a half dozen "subjects" — philosophy, psychology, history, politics, theology and law — combines with his long experience as a journalist to produce an incisive interpretation of contemporary society. In these treatises, marked by an irrepressible irony a man of letters asks the questions that are worth asking and asks them with the penetrating prose that puts him in the small company of essayists whose timelessness saves them from early oblivion.

BOXING by Maurice Golesworthy

Here is the latest edition of the book which has already provided so many boxing enthusiasts with the answers to helped settle all arguments about records. This book provides hours of absorbing reading as well as being a reference book for years to come. The book also includes a pen picture of every boxer who ever won a World or a British title. That means over 400 different boxers are recorded in alphabetical order.

Though a different type of training, these youngsters also put on a very smart and efficient display of marching and training demonstrations. A surprise to most was a platoon of girl cadets who certainly will make the boys look to their laurels in the future. This also drew a big crowd.

The president hopes for a good turnout of members for the Drumhead Service next Sunday to be held at the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment Memorial. All veterans are invited to join in. A wreath will be laid to honor the memory of Lt. Col John MacRae, author of the immortal poem In Flanders Fields. Parade will form up on armory floor at 2 p.m. Medals and Berets please.

Deadline For Works Extended

OTTAWA (CP) — Another extension for completion of work — and thus for forgiveness of part of a federal loan — has been tacked on to the federal government's special winter works program.

Finance Minister John Turner said in the Commons Tuesday the deadline for completion of works authorized under the $160 million program had been extended to June 30 from May 31. It previously had been extended to the end of May from the end of March.

Ottawa put up the $160 million last fall as a counter to winter unemployment. Amounts were assigned to each province under a formula based on the labor force and unemployment rates. Municipalities applied to the provinces for a slice of the allotment.

For approved projects, the federal government agreed to forgive 75 per cent of on-site labor costs against the federal loan money as long as work was completed by the target date.

Parents Support Strapping

ANGUS, Ont. (CP) — Parents of about 200 students at Our Lady of Grace separate school voted Tuesday night to keep their children out of school until former principal Philip Pilon is reinstated.

Mr. Pilon was demoted two weeks ago by the Simcoe County Roman Catholic school board after nine students were strapped for not completing a school assignment.

Of 110 parents at Tuesday night's meeting, 77 voted to keep the children out of school, 33 voted against the action and 20 remained neutral.

The vote would keep about 200 of the 250 students out of school.

The board had labelled Mr. Pilon's actions "excessive" and superintendent Frank MacDonald said he would be assigned to a teaching position elsewhere in the county. This would mean a drop in salary.

Mr. Pilon, who now is on a two-week "holiday", must sign a contract for the other teaching duties by today, final day for all teachers in the county to sign contracts.

Canada Urged To Seek Closer Ties to Europe

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada should seek a closer association with Europe, the Senate foreign affairs committee was told Tuesday.

Professor Charles Pentland, an associate professor of political science at Queen's University, said that until now Europe in its moves toward integration "doesn't seem to have taken Canada into consideration."

But the fault is at least partly Canada's, he said. The Canadian government had not tried to make Europe aware of Canada.

"It is to our advantage to make European aware of us as an economic entity separate from the United States," said Prof. Pentland, a specialist on developments in West European political integration.

Girl Killed

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A teen-age girl died Tuesday after being wounded by gunfire that police said probably resulted from a gang feud.

5 to Be Tried

WINDSOR (CP) — Five Windsor residents including a 17-year-old girl were committed to trial Tuesday on charges of non-capital murder in connection with the Jan. 29 death of Leonard Craig, 23, of RR3, Maidstone. Maidstone is about 15 miles southwest of Windsor.

Judge Gordon Stewart ruled that there was not sufficient evidence presented to send to trial three of the eight persons originally charged with the murder.

Committed were: William Hulko, 28, Michael White, 22, Patrick Lewis, 25, Arthur Hill, 27, and Frances Rich 17.

Kirkland Lake Volunteers Take a Break from Firefighting

Blaze Ravages Forest

KIRKLAND LAKE, Ont. (CP) — With an abnormally dry spring in Northern Ontario forest fires erupted in greater numbers than usual, and proved harder to put out. More than 130 forest fires were burning in the province Monday, before rain and snow quenched them.

One of the largest, at Doon Township, 45 miles southwest of Kirkland Lake, raged for a week over a 4,000 acre area.

About 1,500 men, 28 helicopters and 20 airplanes were involved in firefighting across the province, the ministry of natural resources reports. The province's fleet of firefighting aircraft, stretched beyond its capabilities, were bolstered by aircraft from other provinces.

District Fires Are Now All Out

TWEED (Special) — Burning permits in the Tweed forest district, cancelled last week because of "tinder dry" conditions in the north, are being issued again.

The burning permits began to be issued this morning following Tuesday's rain that dropped .49 inches of moisture over the area.

All fires in the district are now out.

The ministry of natural resources reported today that 29 fires burned over a total of 214.5 acres between April 1 and May 31 of this year. The blazes were confined to small brush, grass and stumps.

During the same period in 1971, there were 28 fires in the Tweed district, covering 69 acres.

With wet weather also cancelling the emergency in the province's northern forests, ministry of resources personnel drafted in from other areas — including the Tweed forestry district — are returning and strength of fire protection services is being returned to normal.

Reinforcements sent to the north halved the district's fire protection manpower.

Today, forests protection officer Bert White, at Tweed, said the fire hazard rating was almost back to normal.

"I would not shoot this morning," he said — a distrasting comment with last weekend, when the undermanned service faced three scorching days which filled outdoor recreation areas with campers and sportsmen.

Farmers' Profit Share Steadily Shrinking

By MARGARET HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — Larry Matheson, Prince Edward agricultural representative for the Ontario department of agriculture and foods, Monday reminded Picton Kiwanians of the role of marketing in relation to the farmer.

"Marketing is the performance of all business activities involved in the flow of goods and services from the point of initial agricultural production until they are in the hands of the ultimate consumer," he said.

Mr. Matheson said approximately one of every three persons derives his living from agriculture through primary production, the supplying of agriculture with inputs or the marketing of agricultural products in many different forms.

Figures in Canada and the United States show that residents are "very fortunate" in the proportion of their disposable incomes used for foods.

A gradual decline in percentage figures from 1929 through 1964 has been accompanied by a swift raise in incomes for the same period.

Mr. Matheson said food expenditure as a percentage of income has decreased from 23 per cent to 18 per cent in the interval described.

A table showing the market baskets of farm foods and the farmer's share of the food dollar from 1915 to 1969 emphasizes the farmer's share of the consumer's dollar has shrunk from 47 per cent to 38 per cent.

Mr. Matheson referred to the farmer's increased productivity and said U. S. secretary of agriculture Buzz stated in a recent radio broadcast that one farmer today can grow enough produce to feed 58 persons.

By the end of the century it is expected this figure will rise to 75 to 80 persons, in contrast with the "four to five which could be fed by one farmer at the turn of this century.

The agriculture representative commented this production increase is largely attributable to growing efficiency among farmers.

"Of course there has been the technological change that has enabled them to do it," he said. Better products have been produced the marketing share for is increased dramatically. I think we all realize just why the marketing share has increased in some instances and the importance of different segments of the service industries that service this food," he said.

He added examination of competition shows the farm sector is perhaps less close to "perfect competition in marketing than other sectors of the economy.

The major components making up this wide price spread a few number of sellers. "They sell their technology; there is no difference between the product and they do not control enough of the market individually to be able to withhold their produce and affect the market," observed Mr. Matheson.

He remarked, "because of this setup farmers in the past have tried to do something about it to maintain a larger share of the consumer's food dollar and especially to maintain a steady income. As we all realize, farm prices fluctuate and the "middle men" seem to take out about the same amount whether the farmer gets a high price or a low price and many different things have been attempted to achieve a more steady and stable income," he commented.

The organization of co-operatives was one of the first attempts to combat this situation but did not attain full success.

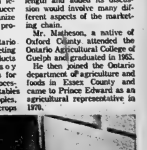
Co-operatives "worked well in their time" for some groups but those outside them who were not paying benefitted as much as those who had joined.

Mr. Matheson said the government has been instrumental in introducing certain legislation for some producer groups wishing to organize together to market their produce.

He referred to the Ontario Farm Products Marketing Board, under which products such as winter wheat, soy beans, seed corn, grapes for processing, berries for processing, asparagus and vegetables for processing and apples, white beans, greenhouse crops and the Hog, Tender Fruit and Turkey Boards are organized.

He said these local boards are either negotiating or agency boards.

Mr. Matheson described both schemes for marketing produce and observed that certain farm products are not handled through any marketing boards.



The sale of milk in Ontario is handled under the Milk Act and this is quite similar in a sense to those commodities marketed under the Farm Products Marketing Board.

The speaker concluded, "We have talked about marketing farm products from the farmer's point of view. After they leave the farm and get into other channels, there are many different avenues that different products take."

He suggested this topic could be covered only at great length and added its discussion would involve many different aspects of the marketing chain.

Mr. Matheson, a native of Oxford County, attended the Ontario Agricultural College of Guelph and graduated in 1965.

He then joined the Ontario department of agriculture and foods in Essex County and came to Prince Edward as an agricultural representative in 1970.

Dairy Princess Competition To Be At Quinte Exhibition

The locale for staging the dairy princess competitions for Hastings and Prince Edward counties has gone full circle.

A number of years ago the dairy princesses for the two Quinte area counties were chosen at the Belleville Fair, but the feeling was the fair date was too close to that of the Canadian National Exhibition where annually the Ontario dairy princess is chosen.

So the date for the local competitions was advanced to June and the event was staged on the farmers' market behind Belleville's city hall and in the past years at Zwicky Island.

This year the competition will return to the Quinte Exhibition. The event to be held in connection with official opening ceremonies on the evening of Aug. 8 in front of the grandstand.

Fermer Ontario Dairy Princess, and this year's Canadian Dairy Princess, Miss Dianne Gunning of Tweed, will officially open the Exhibition.

Miss Nancy Brown, this year's Ontario Dairy Princess will be in attendance at the exhibition and will do the commentary during the milking procedure.

Single rural girls in Hastings or Prince Edward county between the ages of 17 to 26 and with dairy farm experience are eligible to compete in the dairy princess competitions.

Valuable prizes are awarded to the winner and runner-up with the winners going on to compete at the CNE for the Ontario crown.

The CNE winner again receives many prizes, plus a trip to Great Britain and the use of a car while she is employed by the Ontario Milk Marketing Board for the next year.

OHC to Survey Trenton

TRENTON (Staff) — An Ontario Housing program that will give geared - to - income rents to the needy was accepted by council here Monday for introduction in the town.

By the program, OHC would lease single family dwellings and duplexes, renting these to low income families. Through cost-sharing arrangements by which the town directly foots only 7½ percent of the bill rents to the tenants will be reduced to levels mutually ageable to the families concerned.

Ontario Housing Corporation has announced a survey of Trenton to determine the number of properties that can be leased for this program.

Aim of the rent supplement program is to provide good quality housing at a reasonable cost.

The government of Canada will pay 50 per cent of the program, that of Ontario 43½ per cent while Trenton directly will pay the remainder.

David Doubts He'll Run

City councillor Enos David says he may retire from municipal affairs this year.

Ald. David said Monday he doubts "very much" if he will seek re-election to council this year.

He was first elected in 1933 and served one term, retiring temporarily until 1962 when he stood again and has been successively elected since.

"I think I've possibly put in enough time," said Ald. David. "I enjoy the work and I think this has been a good council. But I think there comes a time when younger men should be taking over."

Chief Suggests Parking Police

Enforcement of parking regulations may take a new style turn in Belleville.

Proposals for reorganizing enforcement will be discussed at a meeting the city's Traffic and Light Committee hopes to convene with police commissioners and Parking Authority members.

Core of proposals, made by Police Chief Douglas Crosbie, is that police constables, who back up Parking Authority control officers, should bow out, and concentrate on police work.

Their replacements could be equipped with three-wheeled motorcycles, and at least one should work night shifts — from a radio equipped vehicle.

The committee agreed with Chief Crosbie that a meeting with the commissioners and authority was needed before decisions could be reached.

Highway Link Ruling Sought by Committee

City council is being asked to strongly protest any removal of Coleman Street as a highway link.

The Traffic and Light Committee, agreeing with city engineer Wilbur Purcell, Monday decided the protest be made to the "highest authority" in provincial government.

The move follows negotiations with the Dept. of Transportation and Communications on redesignation of several city streets as highway links.

It's caused by the planned Pinnacle Street extension across the Moira River, which will have a major effect on traffic patterns. Both city hall departments and provincial officials have agreed to most changes — except the Coleman Street route, which links Highways 2 and 14 to northbound highways and the Macdonald - Cartier Freeway.

Now, Mr. Purcell apparently has a definite answer from the province, and the committee agrees.

PACE on the Go

The paper recycling project, under experimental conditions in Park Dale Village, got under way this morning with PACE chairman Doug Sword (right) in the arch of the Quinte Sanitation collection truck, on loan for the day. With the first load of paper is Bob Boudreau, another member of the PACE team. Paper will later be weighed and taken to Trenton for processing.

Show Enjoyable

NEW YORK (AP) — Opry land, U.S.A., an NBC special Tuesday night, was not as country-style as the title of the musical hour suggested. Actually, it is the name of a new amusement complex near Nashville, Tenn.

The centre now joins the Disneyland, Cypress Gardens and Marineland which have lauded television shows on the premises and thus entered the consciousness of the vacation-minded.

The "c'mon down" message was not shouted, however. The and backgrounds were permitted to speak for themselves—the replica of the Mississippi riverboat, the old Southern plantation house, the village-type bandstand. In front of them was an assortment of musical performers—Johnny Cash, Tennessee Ernie Ford, the Carter Family, Roy Acuff and some roaring singing groups.

Last some viewers found it all too rural, they balanced off the country style of Minnie Pearl with the more urbane comedy of Danny Thomas who has suddenly sprouted silvery sideburns and imported Leslie Uggams and Carol Lawrence to add more city-slicker notes.

Aspiring Actress

Eve Crawford, who's just beginning her career as an actress, has found that she can support herself after less than a year in the business. Since graduating from the University of Alberta with a bachelor of fine arts degree last May, she has appeared on CBC television, done a play on radio and acted in a workshop production in Toronto. (CP Photo)

Big Little Impressions

Support Said Inadequate

SASKATOON (CP) — The director of a Tweedle children's theatre recently criticized senior levels of government for not giving enough financial support to professional theatre for young people.

Susan Rubes of the Young Peoples' Theatre also criticized the federal government's criteria for supporting children's theatre groups through federal programs, the Local Initiatives Program and Opportunities For Youth.

"We need federal and provincial assistance," said Mrs. Rubes, a former actress in New York and Hollywood. "Grants must be given to encourage professional companies. . . . It's impossible to ask good people to exist in absolute poverty."

Speaking during a panel discussion at the Theatre Canada festival, Mrs. Rubes said money now is given on a "haruni-scarum" basis to professional groups.

While Ottawa looks at a group's ability before giving money under grant programs like the Canada Council, Mrs. Rubes said there's a different basis used when money is given through L.I.P. and O.F.Y. to assist amateur groups who will present children's theatre.

"Whether it's good, bad or indifferent is not the question."

She said, these groups are damaging the quality of production built up by professional troupes.

"They're doing a great deal of damage to people who work to bring professional quality, and they're winning in getting money over professional groups."

A spokesman for the Dalhousie Musical and Dramatic Society of Halifax criticized festival programming.

"If this is the best programming Theatre Canada can do, then we will stay in Halifax," director Ray Pierce said after his company presented Bury the Dead, a commentary on the futility of war in which six dead soldiers refuse to be buried.

Speaking at a conference of artistes—formerly adjudicators—Pierce said entertainers when the week-long event was the Dominion Drama Festival—Mr. Pierce said auditorium lighting crews were co-operative but inadequate in the task of achieving proper ligating effects.

A performance by the Del Geslosie Compania of St. Catharines, Ont., at the event earned the five-member troupe a standing ovation from an audience that filled less than half the 2,500-seat auditorium.

Their two hours of madcap improvisations based on 16th-century-style theatre brought them rounds of applause.

When the applause died down, director Warren Hartman stunned the crowd by announcing they had just seen the last scheduled performance by the group.

"It's just a matter of finances," Mr. Hartman said. "We've been living hand to mouth and it's proved impossible for public relations firm in Niagara Falls, Mr. Hartman said that since then, it's been a matter of passing the hat to survive.

The company was not able to obtain federal backing through the Opportunities For Youth their first year of operations by program.

Multi-national Firms Said Best Job-makers

TORONTO (CP) — A General Motors executive defended multi-national corporations Tuesday and said nationalists would like to use them as scapegoats for unemployment.

David Collier, of New York treasurer of General Motors Corp. Ltd., told the Ontario Institute of Management Consultants that nationalism supports severe trade restrictions on certain products that could indirectly foster a depression.

"The multi-national corporation offers us the best possible opportunity to promote the world's economic and social development and to use the world's resources most efficiently and effectively."

Mr. Collier said nationalism can be desirable culturally "but in economics and industry, nationalism can be bad medicine for the consumer as well as for the businessman."

"By transcending national boundaries, multi national corporations are a source of hope to the world in solving continuing problems as hunger, poverty and energy shortages."

Police Probe Asked Of Sales by Firm

TORONTO (CP) — Liberal MPP Donald Deacon said Tuesday he will demand that the solicitor general order a peace investigation into possible bribery by department of municipal affairs with Cambrian Stationers Ltd.

The member for York Centre said in an interview he is not satisfied with explanations given by municipal affairs officials to the legislature's public accounts committee.

"It's impossible for the committee to ever really get to the root of this spending," he said, adding that police have the powers and facilities for the necessary type of investigation.

Mr. Deacon said evidence presented to the committee April 3 by Lloyd Henderson were placed with Cambrian during 1969-71 in which no tenders were called or prices from other firms asked.

He said that, unlike the committee, the police can delve into the background of persons involved in the deals as well as go "right into the private files" of the company.

During the committee sessions William G. Ritchie, executive director of municipal affairs' finance and administration branch, said the department today would handle its purchasing "far differently" than it did with Cambrian.

Michael Cassidy (NDP—Ottawa Centre) asked:

"Did your executive agreement trigger and say: 'My God, what are we doing with Cambrian? This is really going to get us into trouble'?"

Mr. Ritchie replied he did express his concern at the time to Assistant Provincial Auditor William Grenon.

"We knew it was going to get us into trouble as soon as I looked at the documents for public accounts that year," he recalled.

Salvation Army Man 8A at 72

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Since the end of his active service in the Salvation Army, Lieutenant-Colonel James Clinton Ecott has spent his time catching up on his formal education.

The 72-year-old man's efforts culminated Tuesday in his graduation from Huron College with a bachelor of arts degree in English literature and history.

"I think I've done it largely for my own satisfaction and pleasure and increased knowledge," he said after the convocation ceremony.

"This is perhaps something of a repressed thing in my life. It was something I always wished I could have done."

Lt.-Col. Ecott came to Canada from England and first went to school in St. Catharines until Grade 10.

He joined the Salvation Army in 1919, then was stationed in China, London, Ont., and Guelph.

He entered Huron College at the University of Western Ontario three years ago. His daughter graduated from university 19 years ago.

No Extension Will Be Granted For Study of French Language

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Robert Bourassa said Tuesday there will be no extension beyond Dec. 31 for a five-man commission studying the status of the French language in Quebec.

His statement that it would be dissolved, regardless of whether it had finished its work, came a few hours before published reports that the commission is hopelessly divided on recommendations aimed at promoting the use of French in the province.

The commission, headed by Jean-Louis Gendron, was established in December, 1968. It was originally scheduled to hand in a preliminary report by 1970 but successive delays have been granted.

The Montreal Gazette says the commission is split three to two over how to strengthen French as the working language in Quebec.

It quotes a Quebec City source as saying that Mr. Gendron and commissioners Madeleine Doyer-Ferland and Edward McWhinney favor bold, legislated measures to promote French. Nicolas Melanson-Matte and Aimee Gagne oppose them, preferring milder "persuasive" measures on the language question.

Premier Bourassa, while describing the language question as delicate and difficult, said in his statement: "There comes a time when it is necessary to make recommendations and I have no intention of prolonging the mandate of the Gendron commission."

Government legislation on language has been delayed pending a report from the commission.

City Birds Are Studied

TORONTO (CP) — The city slickers of the bird world—Canada geese and ducks that nest inside the city limits—are being investigated by biologist Allan Waino.

Intrigued by the successful adaptation of the wild birds to city living, Mr. Waino has asked citizens to help him locate their nests.

The most successful of the waterfowl are probably the Canada geese. An estimated 1,000 birds have settled along the waterfront and another 1,000 have spread up the Humber and Don Valley. Most are believed to be descendants of six geese which the parks department placed on Toronto Island in 1961.

Although the southern limits of the geese's breeding grounds is normally closer to James Bay than Toronto, the birds have flourished. They also have given up their migratory habits and spend the winter munching on the ton of corn the city provides for them every two weeks.

Jews Safe In Quebec

MONTREAL (CP) — If Quebec separatism is a threat to Canadian Jews, it is because they are of the middle-class and not because they are Jewish, Saul Hayes, executive vice-president of the Canadian Jewish Congress, said Tuesday.

The Jewish position in Quebec is not insecure, he said, although "French-Canadians describe with the Jewish community because of the fact that its children have been educated in English schools."

Looking at the possibility of a separate Quebec, he said that if the middle class remains the Jews will stay. If the middle class is eliminated, they will leave.

Mr. Hayes was speaking to the 74th annual meeting of the National Conference of Jewish Communal Service. Most of the delegates are from the United States.

Of some 289,000 Jews in Canada, 130,000 live in Quebec, he said. To date "there has not been the slightest tinge of anti-Semitism" in the Quebec nationalist movement.

Hijacker Kills Self

SAO PAULO, Brazil (Reuter) — A hijacker killed himself Tuesday after losing a battle with police in an attempt to hold for ransom a Brazilian airliner with 98 persons on board.

An air ministry communique early today said the Lockheed Electra turboprop of Varig Airlines, on a regular flight to Curitiba and Porto Alegre in southern Brazil, was hijacked near Curitiba Tuesday and the pilot forced to return to Congonhas airport here.

They followed more than seven hours of haggling between the hijacker, using the plane's radio, and airport security men in the control tower.

Late Tuesday night, 88 of the 89 passengers were allowed to leave the plane, alone with five of the seven crew members.

After the passengers had left the plane, the hijacker was told it would not be taking off because of engine trouble.

He was subsequently overpowered by the three remaining hostages who locked him in the lavatory. Then they jumped to safety out of the rear cabin windows because of the hijacker's threat to blow up the aircraft with high explosives.

Lewis Says Security Distorted

TORONTO (CP) — New Democratic Party Leader David Lewis Tuesday said the proposed new federal family income security plan is a complete distortion of the principle William Grenon, and will lead to tension in Canadian communities.

Because payments will be graded according to income, Mr. Lewis said, anyone who gets an allowance cheque will be able to calculate incomes of families receiving money.

"It is this type of information that soon leads to tension in communities," Mr. Lewis said. "Those who do not receive benefits because they earn a few dollars more than their neighbors will bitterly resent those who do benefit, especially when they realize they pay a little bit more tax than their neighbor.

"Those who receive the benefits will be unnecessarily humiliated by the fact that their neighbor who earns a few dollars more, does not receive them."

Mill May Open

TEMISCAMING, Que. (CP) — More than 800 employees of Canadian International Paper Co. Ltd., who face the loss of their jobs Wednesday when the company mill is scheduled to close, have been told the mill may open again in September under new management.

How to Speak In Water Tower

STRATFORD (CP) — The interior of a water tower is no place to try carrying on a conversation.

But if you must, take the advice of David Graham and Harold Benner who inspect the interiors of about 30 water towers a year for Horton Steel Works Ltd. of Fort Erie, Ont.

"You do it slowly so the echo doesn't interfere with the initial spoken message," Mr. Graham said Tuesday.

A fast-spoken sentence is lost before it gets halfway around the interior of a tank, he said.

"We've learned to speak very slowly and never shout."

The two men climbed to the top of the 150-foot Stratford Water tower Tuesday, carrying their equipment, which includes a rubber dinghy, then lowered their combination rope-metal ladder down into the tank.

The dinghy has to be inflated inside the tank because hatches on most water towers are not large enough for inflated boats.

Americans Spending Less Visiting Canada

OTTAWA (CP) — Travel expenditures in Canada by U.S. residents declined 12.5 per cent in the first three months of 1972 from a year earlier, Statistics Canada reported Tuesday.

American spending in this country declined to $91 million from $104 million in January, February and March, 1971.

Canadian spending in the U.S. rose to $210 million from $218 million, increasing the travel deficit for the quarter to $119 million from $114 million.

Overseas travellers spent $21 million in Canada in the first quarter of this year, up significantly from $15 million last year. Canadian travellers overseas spent about the same as a year ago, $85 million. The deficit was thus reduced to $74 million from $99 million last year.

Combining U.S. and overseas figures, the deficit grew in the first quarter of this year to $203 million from $194 million last year. In the same period of 1970, the deficit was $294 million.

CMHC Makes Loans For Sewage Facilities

Included are five loans, totalling $6,389,188, to the Ontario environment department for five separate projects.

Opening lead — king of spades.

The secret of good play is the ability to read how the unseen cards are divided. Once you know the location of the missing cards, your task is far easier to accomplish.

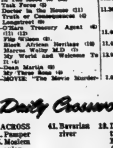
If you are a defender, your knowledge of declarer's hand will come first and foremost from the bidding. He is bound to have described his hand to at least some extent, and any added information you require will ordinarily come from what your partner's play — or from declarer's choice of plays.

Let's suppose you're East and partner leads the king of spades, which wins, followed by the ten, which South wins with the ace.

Right at this point, if you stop to think about the matter, you can predict the outcome. You should pretty much know declarer's hand, and you should also know that he will eventually go down one — no more, no less.

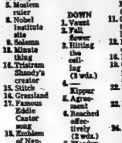
It is not difficult to pinpoint South's values. He has shown up with nothing in spades but the ace, and he is also sure to have the ace of clubs, if his two bids are to be believed. There is nothing else left for him to have.

So when declarer now leads a diamond and chooses the jack, you should win it with the king and return the king of clubs!



This play renders declarer helpless. Whatever he does, he finishes with only eight tricks — assuming you defend the hand properly thereafter.

But if you failed to pay attention to the bidding, or the significance of your partner's king of spades lead followed by the ten, you might not make the key play of the king of clubs at the crucial moment. You might return a low club, or some other card, in which case declarer would make at least nine tricks.



Tomorrow: A dream hand.

Stanfield Offered Security Report

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau said Tuesday he offered to show Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield the complete report of the royal commission on security and "I think that's as far as we can go" in disclosing its contents.

He was replying in Commons questions about statements by former Liberal Paul Hellyer, who said during the weekend Canadians would be shocked if they knew the true extent of Communist activities. Mr. Hellyer was in the cabinet when the 1969 royal commission report was received.

An abbreviated version was made public. Mr. Trudeau Tuesday told David MacDonald (PC—Egmont) this version was approved by the commissioners.

Mr. MacDonald had asked the prime minister whether he will consider forming a committee of privy councillors, from both sides of the house, to look into Mr. Hellyer's charges and to decide what action should be taken.

The prime minister said members of the House might want to consider some of Mr. Hellyer's allegations but Hellyer said, are apparently based on something he got from cabinet, privileged and secret papers.

Later Eldon Woolliams asked whether Mr. Hellyer still held cabinet secrecy. Mr. Trudeau said he couldn't answer because

Benefit $63

OTTAWA (CP) — The average person receiving unemployment insurance last winter received $63 weekly. The year before the average was $55.

This was one of the first benefits of Parliament's overhaul of the Unemployment Insurance Commission Act last year, Manpower Minister Bryce Mackasey told the Commons manpower committee Tuesday.

Food Costs

OTTAWA (CP) — Grace MacInnis tried again Tuesday night—she said it was the fourth attempt—to get the government to investigate high food costs and profits of supermarkets.

In the first quarter of this year, Safeway profits were up 40 per cent, Westons 50 per cent and Dominion Stores 200 per cent.

Barnett Danson, parliamentary secretary to Prime Minister Trudeau, replied that the investigators under the Combines Act are watching the situation but there is no evidence of any violations.

OTTAWA (CP) — A charge has been laid against Toronto radio station CFRB for breaking provisions of the Broadcasting Act against partisan political comment on the eve of elections.

Heads Program

OTTAWA (CP) — Robin Farr, 46, long associated with university publishing organizations, has been appointed head of a new Canada Council program of assistance for publishers, it was announced today.

The council program will provide about $1 million annually in direct grants to Canadian controlled publishing companies for publication of more quality works.

New Apple

MOSCOW (Reuter) — Orchards in northern Russia are growing violet-colored apples which taste like pineapples. The Soviet news agency Tass said the trees have been found resistant to the cold and highly productive.

It wouldn't be proper under the rules, "and I don't know exactly what the Honorable Member for Trinity said."

Mr. MacDonald suggested a committee of privy councillors would "clear the air, once and for all."

Waterloo to End

WATERLOO (CP) — The Eastern Canada synod of the Lutheran Church in America agreed in principle Tuesday to Waterloo Lutheran University's request to end its ties with the church as a means of obtaining more financial aid from the Ontario government.

However, the synod called for assurances that the "continuance and integrity" of Waterloo Lutheran Seminary, which is attached to the university.

Earlier, the university's board of governors had asked the province to increase its grants, it was told that the university first would have to sever all church ties, drop Lutheran from its name and appoint a new board fully representative of the community.

Bridge in Use

PETAWAWA, Ont. (CP) — A Bailey bridge over the Petawawa River crossed about noon Tuesday, 24 days after the old bridge was closed. Military engineers, who began work on the Bailey bridge after flood waters eroded the foundations of the old bridge, continued working on a second span. The bridges are on Highway 17, about 16 miles north of Pembroke.

More Officers

OTTAWA (CP) — Immigration Minister Bryce Mackasey said Tuesday that his department will hire an additional 66 special inquiry officers to help clean up a backlog of more than 9,000 appeals from would-be immigrants to Canada.

Most of the officers will be stationed in Toronto and they will be armed with powers of discretion not now possessed by inquiry officers.

The discretion would permit the officers to review cases of rejected immigrants and give them landed status on humanitarian or compassionate grounds, Mr. Mackasey told the Commons immigration committee.

Sarnia Entry

PORT HURON, Mich. (AP) — Arthur Bremer, accused of shooting Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, spent a night in a Port Huron, Mich., motel three days before he was seen at an appearance by President Nixon in Ottawa, authoritative sources said Tuesday.

The revelation appears to clear the mystery of where Bremer entered Canada. Port Huron is on the Ontario border, linked to Sarnia by an international bridge.

Plans Scrapped

KINGSTON (CP) — Plans for Marina City, a $30-million waterfront development here, have been scrapped, the developer said Tuesday.

In a telephone interview from his Ottawa office, William Terron said the decision not to proceed was caused by difficulty in obtaining required land.

Frank McFarlane, 24, was remanded in custody for sentencing June 13 after he changed his plea to guilty half way through his preliminary hearing before Judge John McCormick.

Purge Hampers Goals: Watkins

SUDBURY (CP) — The New Democratic Party cannot afford to make inroads on the Canadian political stage if it carries out a proposed move to purge the Waffle faction, says Melville Watkins.

The Ontario NDP will hold a council meeting June 24-25 at which a resolution seeking the Waffle's expulsion will be voted on.

"The Waffle was not even a major issue among the riding associations until Steven Lewis made his speech," Mr. Watkins said, referring to the Ontario leader's backing of the executive committee decision to seek expulsion.

Lord's Name Invoked In Vain

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Bringing the Lord's name into his trial didn't save a Baptist minister from conviction on a liquor charge in provincial court Tuesday.

"God is looking at you, young man," Rev. Henry DeWilliam Jackson of Detroit told a city policeman who testified against him during his trial on a charge of having liquor in a place other than his residence.

"And the court is looking at you," retorted Provincial Judge Lloyd Henriksen, who fined him $15.

Mr. Jackson was charged after police found him at the wheel of a car on a city street with a can of beer in his hand and mall liquor and wine on the front seat.

The minister told the court he was transferring the liquor to a trash can after it had been left behind by a hitch-hiker, but the policeman whom he chastised in court testified he smelled liquor on his breath.

Ontario Steps Up Tourist Promotion

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — John White, minister of tourism and industry, announced Tuesday night that negotiations between Ontario and New York state representatives are being held in hopes of initiating a joint tourist promotion program.

Mr. White made the announcement at a news conference sponsored by the local Chamber of Commerce.

He said the feasibility of establishing a network of tourist offices in Canada and the United States is being discussed as well as tour packages encompassing both sides of the border.

Niagara Falls would be the centre point of the promotion campaign, aimed at regaining the tourist trade that has been lost since 1967.

In 1967, he said, Ontario held 55 per cent of the total Canadian tourist business, but since then that figure dropped to 39 per cent.

Twenty overseas offices offering information on tourism and trade in Ontario will also be established and a delegation will be sent to other countries to study how best to trade their tourist operations a success.

An attempt is also being made to institute package tours with Air Canada which would attract tourists to Ontario.

Mr. White said Air Canada could be urging Europeans to visit Canada and Canadians to visit other parts of their country instead of constantly enticing Canadians to foreign countries.

'Vulture' On the Loose

LONDON (CP) — Some where in this city of 220,000, Vulture is on the loose.

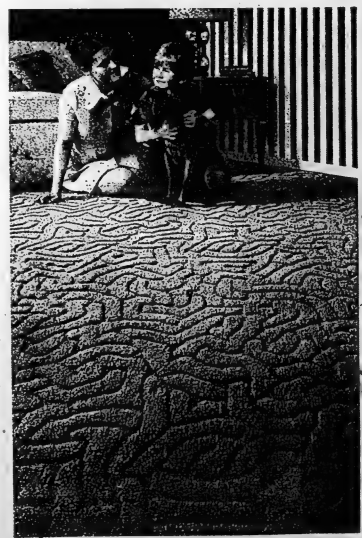
He'll be easy to spot.

Vulture has an orange face, a grey crest and white wings and is about the size of a pigeon.

And he'll probably be muttering "hell" to himself.

The South American cockatiel was last seen Saturday sunning himself in his cage in the backyard of his owner, Ruth Knox.

"He must have let himself out of his cage," Rev. H. D. Knox, the girl's father, said, "They're pretty ingenious, one of the most intelligent birds."



In spite of the bird's name, the Knox family says Vulture is shy and fairly gentle.

Oh yes. Along the bird's limited vocabulary.

Miss Knox was teaching him to say "hello," but Vulture had mastered only the first syllable.

Militia Forces to Get More Pay, Better Work

OTTAWA (CP) — Improved pay, better equipment and more challenging work are in prospect for Canada's reserve armed force, the defence department said Tuesday.

Proposals to halt the rate of attrition in the reserves, which has left them far below authorized strength in recent years, were outlined to the Commons defence committee by Maj.-Gen. E. H. Adamson, deputy chief of operations and reserves at defence headquarters.

In addition to providing better equipment, the defence department hopes to outfit the reserves in the common green uniform of the regular armed forces by the end of next year, Gen. Adamson said. The strength of militia or army reserve is 18,666—nearly 4,000 below the 19,988 projected by former defence minister Leo Cadieux in a statement two years ago.

When Mr. Cadieux made the statement, the militia numbered 21,380 men. The naval and air reserves were to remain approximately stable at 2,300 and 900 men respectively.

However, naval reserve strength now stands at 2,100 and the average strength of the air reserves this year is 736.

Some defence critics have expressed disquiet at the greater than-expected drop in reserve ranks. Increasingly regarded as having a role to play in protecting internal security.

Some reserve units, both air and ground, were used in supporting roles in the final stages of the Quebec hijack crisis.

"We must provide the reserves with a greater challenge, more pay, more and better equipment and more realistic force training assistance," Gen. Adamson told the committee.

The current basic pay for a private is $8 a day, though it takes him two nights of drill at an armory to qualify for a day's pay.

Noting that the militia is far short below authorized strength than the other two branches, Gen. Adamson remarked: "Perhaps the fact that the sailors have ships and the airmen have aircraft adds a bit of glamor which is not present in the land forces."

However, an increased flow of recruits, jeeps and radio sets to the militia now is under way.
